ANOTHER BERRA

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Dale Berra, 18-year-old son of manager Yogi Berra of baseball's New York Mets, made his professional debut Saturday with Niagara Falls Pirates and had two singles in four bats in his club's season opener against Batavia Trojans. Playing at third base, Berra made the game's outstanding defensive play when he made a diving catch of a ground ball and threw out the runner at first.

SEEING IS BELIEVING

How do you believe something you can't actually look at—like the audience for your advertising?

You know that some people out there buy and read our paper—but how many, where do they live, where do they shop for their copies, and how much are they willing to pay?

Best way we know of to "see" a circulation audience (and be sure it exists) is through the facts and figures of the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

No problem to look over our circulation audience—just ask to see a copy of our latest ABC audit report.

Mahaffey and Graham

Two Longshots Meet in Playoff

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — A pair of longshots, Lee Graham and John Mahaffey, meet in an 18-hole playoff today for the $40,000 prize in the United States open golf championship.

Graham, a four veteran of 33, was the only person among the 23,145 on the Medinah Club premises Sunday who didn't know he had a chance to win outright by parring the final hole.

He dumped his approach shot into a large and ugly bogey.

Mahaffey, 27, had finished 45 minutes earlier and had cooled to the club house to buy a candy bar and check on the slim reservations out of town.

He had to be searched out and informed that his 287 score, three over par, had tied the late-finishing Graham for first place and that he should be on the first tee today promptly at 1:30 p.m. CDT (12:30 p.m. EDT).

Mahaffey shot a final-round 71 that he thought might net him about 10th money and Graham had a 72.

All of them were wondering how they managed to let this Open slip from their hands.

"There will be 20 guys leaving here who will say, 'If I had played halfway decently would have won,'" Nicklaus said.

"This was the easiest open to win I've ever seen," the 1974 Open winner said. "Everybody was just throwing it away. It's unbelievable.

"We tend to choke in the Open, but it was a tremendous experience for most of us," said Irwin. "The greens were getting brown and dying from suffocation. Some fairways were mowed, others weren't. The noise was terrible and the gallery at times seemed completely disinterested.

"I think everybody—because of the bad early weather and conditions—went into the tournament with a bad frame of mind."

One of the most shell-shocked competitors must have been Frank Beard, the 36-year-old former leading money winner, who had just snapped his game out of a prolonged slump to jump into a three-stroke lead after three rounds.

He saw his game flounder to a 78 after firing a 67 on Saturday. He failed to make a single birdie. He took consecutive bogeys at the sixth, seventh and eighth holes and saw his hopes fade with bogeys at the 16th and 17th.

Beard was the only man under par—three under at 216—when the final round began over the 7,023-yard, par-71 Medinah course, battered by early week thundershowers.

Watson, the halfway leader, and Fitzsimons were at par 213, followed by Crenshaw, Oosterhuis and Graham at 214.

The winner was expected to come from these leaders. Mahaffey was six back at 218, as was Trevino. Nicklaus trailed by seven at 217, but Weiskopf, at 220, and Miller, at 223, had shot themselves out of it.

As Beard's fortunes deteriorated and no one rushed to seize the advantage, the cry went up from the pushing and shoving gallery:

"Here comes Nicklaus."

Nicklaus turned in 34, two under par, and found himself just one shot off the lead as he moved to the 11th hole. At that stage, Beard, Crenshaw, Graham and Fitzsimons shared first at one over.

Nicklaus parred through until the 16th when he ran into consecutive bogeys on the last three holes. That was the end of the grand slam bid for the reigning Masters champion.

"The 16th killed Jack," Palmer, who played with his longtime rival, said afterward. "Until that point, I thought Jack was going to win it."

No. 17 was also the nemesis for Graham. He took a double bogey where a par would have won him the tournament.

MARCEL DIONNE

Dundee Has Fight In the Bag

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Trainer Angelo Dundee said Sunday Muhammad Ali won his fight with Joe Bugner when he stopped off an airplane here about two weeks ago.

"When there were 25,000 people at the airport, we won the fight," said Dundee. "That got him enthused."

Another 10,000 people showed up Sunday to watch the heavyweight champion launch his final week of training for the Bugner fight July 1.

They cheered when Ali punched the speed bag and skipped rope. They roared when he walked around the stuffy indoor arena like the winner of a race taking a victory lap.

And they laughed when the champion kept telling them what he was going to do to Bugner. "It will be a treat you must not miss," he said.

"Nine is fine," said Dundee, repeating his prediction that Ali would win in nine rounds. "My guy's got him completely psyched. He's trying to act like Ali. Ali has reached him."

Guessing Game Is Over

DETROIT (AP) — Marcel Dionne will sign with Los Angeles Kings, who will compensate Detroit Red Wings with two players and a draft choice, according to Barton Miller of Mutual Radio in Los Angeles.

Dionne, whose National Hockey League contract with Detroit expires next June, will join the Kings in exchange for Dan Maloney, Terry Harper and a second round draft pick, Miller said Sunday.

In response to Miller's report, a Red Wing spokesman said Saturday: "Those were some of the names that have been kicked around all week long (at the NHL meeting in Montreal)."

"LA very definitely is the team but the Wings can't do anything until Dionne has signed and the Wings are notified of it," the spokesman said. "If and when Dionne signs a contract, assuming it will be with LA, the NHL will notify the Detroit club and then a player deal can be executed."

The spokesman said Red Wings coach Alex Delvecchio told him he expected a settlement on the Dionne question "the first of the week."

Dionne, a 25-year-old centre, was the league's third-leading scorer last season with 121 points on 47 goals and 74 assists. His assist and point totals are team records.

He spent only 14 minutes in the penalty box and last week received the Lady Byng Trophy as the player best combining sportsmanship with ability.

Dionne, who was the Wings' captain, said he didn't like flying in Detroit. He turned down a lucrative offer.

Harper, a 35-year-old defenceman, scored five goals and 21 assists for 26 points last season. He had 120 penalty minutes.

Maloney, a left-winger, was the third leading scorer for the Kings. He had 27 goals and 39 assists for 66 points (and totaled 165 minutes in penalties.

Earlier reports had the Wings acquiring Harper, Maloney, centre John Widing and defenceman Sheldon Kannegiesser from the Kings for Dionne.

Kindred Turns His Anger Into Quebec Open Title

LUCERNE, Que. (CP) — John Kindred said Sunday he had to get angry at himself to win the Quebec open golf championship and $2,800 top money prize.

A former junior hockey player from Peterborough, Ont., Kindred caught fire after learning that Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., "was running away with the tourney."

Kindred finished with a six-string 68, six under par, and a 54-hole total 206, 11 under.

Norman faded in the back stretch and David Wren of Capetown, South Africa, came on with a 66 for a tourney score of 206.

San Hemenuik of Dauphin, Man., also scorched 66 Sunday for a final score of 207 and third-place money.

Phil Gosselin of Montreal took a special purse for finishing tons among Quebec pros. He finished the 54 holes in 210.

"I've got to get back to work," said Kindred who is general manager of a private golf club for men only in Sarasota, Fla. But he plans to be full time on the Canadian tour next year.

Kindred said he was determined to win and to do it he had to throw off the attitude that because he was a club professional with a steady income, he knew he was going to eat steak for supper regardless.

Runner-up Wren said he joined the Canadian tour because the British economy troubles has cut out some tournaments there.

Even before Sunday's play he figured he had met expenses but adding the $2,850 second place money put icing on the cake for him.

Burton Finally Shows; Argos Lose Zubkewych

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — Defensive tackle Elmer Burton finally showed up at Toronto Argonauts' training camp Saturday but in time to see the ambulances leaving.

Burton, a promising prospect from University of Indiana, claimed that a crash diet which put him in hospital for three weeks kept him from reporting two weeks ago when the Argo rookies started working out.

Burton could be a welcome addition to the Canadian Football League club's defensive squad which has had trouble finding enough people to fight for the available jobs. The defensive line, in particular, suffered with the loss last week of all-star tackle Jim Stillwagon with a knee injury.

However, in Saturday's scrimmages, it was the offence that suffered. Centre Mertis Zubkewych, guard John Trainor, running back Ernie Carnegie and split end Bob Bell were helped off the field.

Zubkewych is gone for the season with two broken bones in his lower left leg while Carnegie's right knee injury could keep him out for a while.

Trainor suffered a dislocated elbow that may keep him out of action two or three weeks. Bell was knocked unconscious but recovered and trainer Mert Prophet said there was no injury.

It pays to be Civic-minded.

Some people talk about economy in terms of price. Others talk gas mileage. But we think a true economy car should have both. The Honda Civic is a result of that thinking.

According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Honda Civic got 49.2 miles per gallon in the highway test cycle. As for price, we think it's the best value on four wheels. But don't take our word for it. The experts have already expressed it better than we ever could.

"...the Civic is the perfect antidote to the gasoline shortage and runaway prices, the two most pressing problems with which we have to deal..." (Road Test).

The Honda Civic is a lot of car at any price. It has as much room inside as some mid-size cars. The Civic has front-wheel drive for better road hugging stability. It has a McPherson strut independent suspension on all four wheels, something that's quite rare on a small, economy car.

The Civic has an aluminum block, overhead cam engine. Power-assisted front disc brakes. Reclining bucket seats. Door-to-door carpeting, front and back. A rear window defroster. Flow-through ventilation with individual outlets. And much, much more. All, incredibly, at standard equipment. In a car that comes to you for under $3,000 and gives you such amazing gas mileage.

It's no wonder the Civic is the only car ever to be awarded the "Car of the Year" in Japan, three years in a row.

Tomahawks Take Over in Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Long Island Tomahawks moved into third place in the National Lacrosse League standings on Sunday night—and they did it the hard way.

The Tomahawks belted first-place Montreal Quebecois 26-14 at the Forum in Montreal, while Maryland Arrows edged Philadelphia Wings 11-9 at Landover, Md. The Arrows also improved their position, moving into a tie from Montreal.

Blair Campbell and Vic Gemsrour led the meagre offence at the Arrows received, scoring with two goals apiece. Jim Lynch and Jim Wasson scored three each for the Wings before 7,206 fans.

Montreal and Maryland both have 28 points in the standings, with the Tomahawks closing in at 24, one more than Philadelphia.

International Track Meet

Canadians Win Seven

FRANKFURT, West Germany (Reuter) — A 25-member Canadian contingent won seven events at an international invitation track and field meet Friday.

Outstanding Canadian performances were turned in by 20-year-old Jan Seale of Toronto, who won the 400 metres in 47.3 seconds, and by Joyce Yakubovich of Victoria, winner of the women's 200 and 400 metres.

Miss Yakubowich was followed home in the 400 metres by team-mate Rachelle Campbell of Guelph, Ont., as 17 one of the Canadian group's young hopefuls. Rachele clocked a creditable 52.9 seconds earlier this week in Stuttgart but was three-tenths of a second slower Friday behind her more experienced compatriot.

The men's 100 metres was virtually an all-Canadian event with Bob Murzin of Paris, Ont., winning in 10.4 seconds and three of his fellow countrymen vying for second place one-tenth of a second behind.

Against stronger competition in the men's 3,000 metres, a West German strong point, Canadian John Sharpe from Mississauga, both of Toronto, did well to finish fifth and seventh respectively.

Games for Physically Handicapped

Nine Gold Medals for Brouse

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Bill Brouse, 22, of Toronto won two gold medals Saturday for a total of nine to finish as top man in the Ontario Games for the Physically Handicapped which ended Saturday.

Brouse won the 50-metre breast stroke in swimming and the 400-metre track event Saturday to finish on top of gold medal standings.

His main rival of more than 100 competitors during the three-day competition was Bob Simpson in the wheelchair, class-three category. But Simpson, 31, of Dundas, Ont., managed just one win Saturday to finish with six gold medals.

Sharon Long of Hamilton was the top women competitor, finishing with six gold medals.

Simpson set records in both the class three 1,500-metre and 400 metre races.

Halliday, competing in class one, set records in both weight lifting and discus. He bested 300 pounds in the bench press and tossed the discus 16 feet, eight inches.

Brouse also set a national record with a time of 7:16.8 minutes in the 1,500-metre class two race while Long eclipsed the existing class one-B women's club throw with a toss of 37 feet, nine inches.

The remaining two Canadian records went to Ed Batt of St. Catharines, Ont., with a throw of 28 feet, three inches in class one-A javelin and Chris Blodart of Toronto who won the class two 50-metre backstroke in 58.1 seconds.

Winners of wheelchair events qualify for the Canadian Wheelchair Games which open Tuesday in Montreal.

Kickbacks Plentiful In Travel Industry

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says research in Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and United States cities shows cover-up and under-the-table dealings are part of the travel industry.

The newspaper says the research uncovered a web of kickbacks, camouflaged business deals, payoffs, rooney laundering and the use of phoney forms and bogus medical certificates to pad or de-pad lists when passengers who did not show up threatened to end lowfare deals.

Discounts and commissions that break rules set by the International Air Transport Association, the carriers' own self-policing and tariff-fixing group, are as common it is said every airline breaks them.

RCMP in Toronto and fraud department police in Montreal are investigating some deals, as are Cra[illegible]x officials, the newspaper says.

NEW YORK (AP) — Schyler Chapin, 18, confirmed Sunday he has been dismissed as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera and his title retired.

The action was taken at a meeting of the company's executive committee last week. Chapin also had been a two-year contract, at a salary of $100,000, to raise money for the opera.

There're having a meeting of the board on Thursday where I presume all this reorganization will be presented.

Recession and inflation have given the biggest problems. Private donations have been down, costs up and many contems, such as the number of salaried persons in the orchestra, are fixed.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's pop show of 1975, featuring Elton John and the American Beach Boys, drew nearly 100,000 fans, including many celebrities, to Wembley Stadium on Saturday.

John, whose latest album—Captain Fantastic and the Brown Dirt Cowboy—has topped three American charts, donated his entire fee of more than $100,000 to charity.

Others cheering the proceedings included Beatles Ringo Starr and Paul McCartney, tennis star Billie Jean King—for whom John wrote the song Philadelphia—actress Candice Bergen and singer David Cassidy.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Director Sam Peckinpah, known for his violent movies, has been ordered to appear in court June 27, allegedly for slugging an airline official in the mouth.

Police said Peckinpah was arrested Friday night for investigation of battery at Los Angeles International Airport.

The film director was not available Saturday to give his side of the incident. Airport authorities said followed a Continental Airlines pilot's refusal to take off while Peckinpah and a friend, MGM property manager Richard Vlaciglia, 49, remained on board.

Authorities said the two had been drinking while sitting out a delay in takeoff of the Hawaii-bound flight and disembarked quietly. But when passenger agent Steve Jackson, 28, said they couldn't get their baggage off the plane before it left for Hawaii, Peckinpah hit him.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Wayne Rogers, Alan Alda's partner John on the M-A-S-H television series, has filed a $3-million defamation of character suit against one of the show's producers.

Rogers alleged in the suit filed for Court action Thursday that Gene Reynolds "caused false and defamatory statements ... to numerous members of the press and others in the entertainment industry."

The actor said the producer cialized inadequate notice had been given of Rogers' decision to leave the Trapper role. In fact, Rogers said he gave notice several times during back to last January.

The suit asserts Rogers suffered damage through alleged assertions on his reliability and from reported comments that the departure set back the production schedule for neat fall.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Actress fiction writer Rod Serling will undergo open heart surgery next week, a spokesman for Strong Memorial Hospital says. Doctors described the 50-year-old writer's condition as "very satisfactory."

Serling suffered a heart attack two months ago and was admitted to Thoughtes County Hospital in Ithaca before being transferred here a week ago.

For Tuesday, June 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're more optimistic than practical about something you want to achieve now. Come down to earth or miles the brass ring.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Generosity is a virtue but you could overdo it today by impulsively favoring the wrong people. Later you'll see your zeal was misplaced.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your worst enemy today could be a well-meaning friend who's try to let you in on a deal of grossly exaggerated value.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have a tendency to view things as you'd like them to be. Your near-colored outlook will fool only you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A labor-saving method you'd consider today will only make more work for you. Use proven routines.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you want to play a long shot today, go it alone. Friends will be upset if you talk them into backing a loser.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't hold back just to keep peace in the family today. What you consider to be for the sake of expediency will be taken seriously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're a good salesman today but don't sell something unless you've tried it, and know that it works.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unconcern for your resources leads you to act extravagantly. You could end the day with a pain in the backbook.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Sometimes we can bluff and our bravado will get us by. But, today, you better have the cards if you call the pot.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're a bit too easygoing today. You don't have that better moustrap. Don't expect the world to beat a path to your door.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you have a little surplus—cash! Bragging to a friend may result in the loss of the surplus or the pal.

Diabetes May Affect Nerves

By G. C. Thosleson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosleson: I have an elderly aunt (in her mid-70s) who has mild diabetes, a healed ulcer, and diverticulosis.

Now she has been having some throat trouble. Barium x-rays showed nothing. She has trouble swallowing, and says it feels like a soft lump clinging to the inside of her throat.

The doctor says there is nothing he can do and that she has to live with it. The family is quite concerned. She is up and around every day and eat a light well-rounded meal.

The doctor's "live with it" seems quite harsh, don't you think? Do you have any information that would be helpful — C.A.M.

It can sound harsh, but sometimes — usually in cases such as these — it is all the doctor can say until something more explicit develops.

With the combination of ailments, past and present (diabetes, ulcer, diverticulosis), hers is a difficult problem to evaluate easily. It does sound as though there could be some neurological disturbance affecting her swallowing mechanism.

Mild diabetes can cause this. So can a "little stroke." The barium swallow x-ray should have revealed the presence of any real lump. It would be more difficult to determine the cause of any neurological problem.

If your aunt does have what is called "diabetic neuritis," it would reveal itself in other findings. There might be an eye muscle weakness, for example, or a tingling of the extremities, and perhaps a lessening of tendon reflex revealed in the knee-jerk tests.

Careful control of diabetes is essential, and don't let the term "mild diabetes" fool your aunt into complacency. Persons with mild diabetes can have severe problems, as I mentioned earlier, as readily as can those with more severe conditions.

Dear Dr. Thosleson: About two years ago I had a very bad sunburn on my legs. They swelled up especially at the ankles. I had no medical treatment.

Now, even though there is no redness or swelling, I still get this burning feeling, especially around the ankles. Do you think this is caused by the sunburn two years ago? — B.K.R.

Severe sunburn, especially one severe enough to have caused the swelling you describe, can cause tissue damage. Severe sunburn can be dangerous in many ways. For example, hair follicles and sweat glands could become involved. In such cases infection may, but not necessarily, accompany it.

Although two years is a rather long time for symptoms to persist, it is quite possible your present discomfort is traceable to your earlier sunburn episode, since you did not have such symptoms before that time.

You should see your doctor, or a dermatologist, if possible.

Dear Dr. Thosleson: I am in my early 50s and enjoy sex with my husband about once a month. Within the past three years, just before I reach a climax I get a sudden, violent headache. Can you give me any explanation?—Mrs. N. L.

The post-orgasmic headache is not uncommon in either men or women. As in any headache the basic cause usually involves a dilation of the blood vessels in the head area. Excitement, an increase in blood pressure or nervous tension, which accompany sexual intercourse, can be a factor.

Why don't you speak to your doctor about it? He may help you by prescribing a mild tranquilizer for one prior to sexual intercourse. Or one of the vasoconstricting drugs (such as ergotamine) can be helpful in counteracting the dilation problem. This type of headache is often found in persons who have difficulty in attaining orgasm.

Freedom and Change Tells Pearson Story

By PAT USSHER
The Canadian Press

Canada's role in international affairs is the theme of most of the essays in Freedom and Change, a series of 12 studies in honor of Lester B. Pearson, the late Canadian secretary of state for external affairs and prime minister.

Eleven of the contributors are professors, one is a federal civil servant and one a diplomat. One essay is written by two authors.

In addition there is a sketch of Prof. Pearson in his capacity as a teacher at the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs at Carleton University, Ottawa; an introductory essay by Earl Waldheim, Secretary-General of the United Nations; an address by Barbara Ward, professor of international economic development, Columbia University, New York; and Pearson's address in London School in 1972 on the occasion of the presentation to him of the Victor Gollancz Humanity Award.

SUMS UP

"Today we can measure the universe and split the atom," he said. "In the world of science and technology we show the most amazing courage and imagination. But in the world of social and political behavior, in controlling the human instincts and institutions that make for conflict and war, we are no primitive at our tribal ancestors 10,000 years ago. The real enemy of man and his world remains man with his fears, his pride, his prejudice and often his stupidity."

He concluded with these words: "Our age is holds both the promise of a far better life for all men and the threat of no life at all for mankind. Which is it to be?

"We can remove the threat and we can realize the promise, but only if we have the will, the resolve, as we have the capacity to bring our social and political concepts and institutions into line with the compulsions and the opportunities of technological and scientific change.

"This is the vital, the supreme challenge that faces us."

The essays cover a wide-ranging field. For instance, Alstair Buchan deals with concepts of peacekeeping. E. L. M. Burns writes on Bearson and the Gaza Strip, Escott Reid on Canada and the Formation of the North Atlantic Alliance, 1948-49, and Gerard Curzon on GATT (the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) and the golden age of trade co-operation.

The volume is edited by Michael G. Fry, professor of history and associate director of the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs.

Freedom and Change, edited by Michael G. Fry; 258 pages; $12.95; McClelland and Stewart.

To Improve Links

LONDON (CP) — During the next five years, Britain's post office will spend $375 million on improving international telecommunications links. Telex links between Britain and the rest of the world will increase to 20,000 from 7,000.

Barns Empty

LONDON (CP) — Many farmers say their empty barns are the result of one of the worst springs on record. Gerald Pow, vice-chairman of the Somerset National Farmers Union, said this year was one of the worst for farming and will affect market prices next year.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "A good system is better than a poor one. What ever system you play will be reasonably effective if you and your partner understand the language of bids."

Jim: "The first important bid to learn is the sign-off. The best sign-off is the pass. When you pass, the message is clear. It says that you have gone as far as or maybe even further than you want to go."

Oswald: "North's pass of his partner's two-heart bid is an example of a pass. He has six spades and just one heart. Yet, he expects his ace and king of spades will produce two tricks that wants as trump and can't be sure that his partner's hearts will do as well at spades."

Jim: "If North decides to rebid to two spades he is taking a chance. The chance is that South will bid again."

Oswald: "Either two hearts or two spades makes. Any higher contract goes down with a dismal thud. In some systems the rebid to two spades might be proper. In no system should there be any further bid."

Jogged Away

WIVENHOE, England (CP) — Fitness enthusiast Alexander Eden watched television with his wife, Jean, and then kissed her before going for his usual 10-minute jog. He has not returned home since then and his wife said that she hopes he is alive and running but will come back for their 25th anniversary.

Greenwich Marine Museum Mecca for Model Builders

LONDON (CP) — For builders of ship models the centre of the world lies near Longitude Zero at Greenwich an hour's boat ride down the Thames from Westminster.

Just a few minutes walk away from the Cutty Sark is the fabulous Maritime Museum the world's greatest receptacle of antique ship models plans information and artifacts.

The average tourist needs at least two days to see the museum properly. Visiting ship modellers have been known to overstay their vacations in London by weeks and museum attendants are careful to ensure that none become so oblivious of time as to risk being accidentally locked in overnight.

There are many ship models in museums around the world. But those at Greenwich are contemporary. And so are plans of ships going back to the time of the first Queen Elizabeth.

A huge collection of ship's draughts unique in the world may be studied by anyone who makes an appointment. Copies are available at reasonable cost.

The draughts or plans are used by other museums throughout the world for building models.

But the models at Greenwich some close to 400 years old show what the ships of centuries ago really were like. The best models were those constructed by Admiralty craftsmen. And it was on the models that Admiralty based decisions on whether to build the full-size ship.

The 963-ton clipper her 196-year-old hull of Burma teak on iron frames exhibiting the same grace that fascinated onlookers when she was launched from a yard in Dumbarton Scotland now sits in a permanent drydock.

Her first eight voyages were in the tea trade racing home from China on passages of between 107 and 123 days.

Later in the Australian wool trade under Capt. Richard Woodget she reached top performance passing other windjammers and many steamers with equal ease. One of her most notable passages was in 1887 when she made it to England from Australia in 69 days.

She later passed into Portuguese ownership but was purchased by an Englishman in 1922 and by 1951, with the help of the Duke of Edinburgh, was safe from oblivion and was being restored for posterity.

More than 5.5 million persons have visited her since she was officially opened as a permanent exhibit in 1957. About one third of visitors are children.

The name comes from Robert Burns' poem Tam O'Shanter, which tells how Tam, while riding home on his mare after a few drinks, came upon a group of witches dancing.

Nannie was the youngest witch and wore a dress that barely covered the essentials. Tam enthralled by the sight, called out: "Weel done, Cutty Sark."

Nannie chased him and as he reached a bridge, grabbed the mare's tail and pulled it out. But witches cannot cross running water so Tam got away once the bridge across the River Doon.

Sniffing Out Stolen Goods Million-Dollar Operation

OTTAWA (CP)—He really look like James Bond — in fact, he is in his early 50s and getting bald—but their professions are similar. They both involve spying and the use of elaborate surveillance equipment.

Charles Roney is the sleuth president of Universal Investigations Service Ltd.—a business that reports sniffing out $1.2 million in stolen goods last year and averaging 15 on-site arrests a month.

Situated in Ottawa's Byward market where farmer-producers sell their harvests to bargain-seeking consumers, Mr. Roney's buzzing, bleeping nerve centre monitors security in homes and businesses throughout Ottawa.

The setting is not unlike a scene from a Bond-type movie. You trudge up a long, dark, creaking stairwell—smothered by a blend of fish, cabbage, and onion odors—and step into an immaculate, computer-filled, light-flashing room.

Closed-circuit television cameras record your every step, and a hefty combination lock protects a door leading to an upper floor.

By the time a customer has carefully selected a pound of tomatoes on the sidewalk outside, several crimes may have been detected by cameras inside.

It's been 30 years since Mr. Roney decided Ottawa needed an efficient private surveillance service. He began with a shop-lifter-spotting business and nourished its growth to a million-dollar operation employing 200 persons.

About 1,200 businesses and several hundred private homes, he says, are wired into Universal's alarm system. Some are situated as far as 20 miles away from headquarters.

The installation of silent alarms, electronic eyes and heat detectors costs home-owners up to $2,500, says Mr. Roney. After the installations they pay between $40 and $60 a month for 24-hour surveillance at the central alarm station.

If an alarm is tripped, a buzzer sounds in the alarm centre. If the alarm is sounded at other than specified opening and closing times of a business, one of a fleet of 40 radio-equipped cars is dispatched to the scene and police are notified.

Mr. Roney says he feels such business can only grow.

"Entire communities will eventually be under private investigation," he said. "An awful lot of people are asking for intruder alarms and panic buttons."

Turner Says Budgets Are Social Documents

OTTAWA (CP) — There were only five hours to go before the budget would be remanufactured at the printers and Finance Minister John Turner should have been going into the throes of his final fidgets.

He was pacing his magnificent West Block office but he wasn't the budget that bothered him.

"I am worried about what's happening in the market," he was talking about Ottawa's old Byward Market where many of his constituents come to sell their produce.

"The police are ticketing every parking violation, and this means that for many people their food bills go up by $5 a week. The market is a special place. I hope we can straighten out this situation."

The 45-year-old finance minister, unusually flashy in a three-piece light grey suit, was moving about his office in sporadic spurts, his light blue eyes flashing with enthusiasm as he sipped at coffee, chomped at his cigar or talked about a hockey school for his son.

"I have a great staff in the department," he said after completing a telephone call from a aide.

"Man for man we have the best department in Ottawa. And when I go to international conferences, because of the advice I get, I am as well equipped as any man around the table."

John Napier Turner, finance minister for 3½ years and now to present his fifth budget, still doesn't seem to recognize the tradition that his portfolio has been a burying ground for many ambitious politicians.

If there is any danger of his loitering on a political plank, he gives the appearance of an accomplished walker to the end to announce the bargain of a century.

"The decisions have been made, and once that's done I don't fret about them," he said, when he finally got back to the budget. "It's a difficult and fascinating exercise, but once a decision has been made, you can't worry about whether it was the right one."

Although budget day is the most important of the year for this trim 190-pound minister, he seems in advance he would not sweat out the weekend — either than on the tennis courts.

"Every budget has its own peculiar problems," he says. In 1972 for instance, we were facing an election, and in May last year we were facing a minority Parliament—there is always something different.

"This time we have a recession on one hand and inflation on the other. Each is sensitive to a different solution. Then there is the energy problem.

"Like everyone else, we underestimated the depth of the U.S. recession."

"A budget is not just a financial document. It's much broader than that. It's even a social document reflecting the mood of the country. You must anticipate, not just respond."

Mr. Turner frequently gives the impression he is about to say something he shouldn't—other MPs have noticed this, too — but it seldom happens. Just when you think some tip will be forthcoming about the budget, he'll be nicely talking about a new fire hall in the nearby village of Vars.

What isn't generally known about this minister is that his most effective campaigning is done in small villages and farms. His riding includes a farming area east of Ottawa.

He has built a remarkable rapport with farmers—even if he does wear a vest all the time.

And with a budget a few weeks away, he still managed to make his rounds to local pubs in these outlying communities.

Blind Baby 'Sees' With Sonar Device

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A blind baby blows with now cash "we" his favorite toy and take it to his hands, and he delights in playing sightless peek-a-boo with his mother.

Eight - month - old Dennis Daughters "sees" much as a bat does, by broadcasting silent sounds that return as audible echoes, which tell him where things are.

Dennis is apparently the first blind baby to experiment with an echo-sounding or sonar device, says Dr. Leon Rosen, a Scottish psychologist who conceived the project.

Dr. Rosen enlisted the aid of Telesensory Systems Inc. (TSI) in Palo Alto which supplied the equipment free of charge.

A beam of ultrasound is broadcast to and from a transducer system, about the size of a half-dollar and weighing only 1¼ ounces, in the middle of a headband on the baby's forehead.

Objects hit by the beam return echoes, which are translated into audible sounds, conducted through plastic tubes to the baby's ears. The sounds are a repeated series of pleasant little whistles, quite subdued so the baby can also hear everything else around him.

—The distance of an object, through pitch of the sound. The closer the object is, the lower the pitch.

—Direction, because an object to the right of centre produces a louder sound if something is found to the right of the left.

—Size, by the intensity of the echo when he is looking directly at it. By moving his head slightly, he can define the edges of it, where echoes diminish.

Dennis likes to stand on his mother's knee, receiving a strong signal when he looks directly at her. He's learned he can "turn her off" by looking to one side, then "turn her on" again by looking directly at her—his peek-a-boo game.

Dennis, son of Dr. Dennis Daughters, a physician, and Melody Daughters, a nurse, was blinded by retrolental fibrosis, an eye disease brought on by the extra oxygen needed to keep him alive soon after his premature birth. A twin died.

"It was so devastating to know he was blind," Mrs. Daughters said. But when the device was first put on him, his face lighted up. It was like a light going on in his head. He knew there was something out there.

"Suddenly everything is right. My baby is so full I don't know how to begin to tell about it.

Jane Fonda Suggests Legal Prostitution

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda proposed at the Second Annual Hooker's Convention that prostitution be legalized or that laws against it be enforced equally against prostitutes and their clients.

Ms. Fonda, the designation she prefers, told about 200 persons that the unfairness of the laws was evident in Hollywood where customers, who included "heads of studios, executives and politicians," were seldom charged though prostitutes entering to them were arrested.

Feminist Flo Kennedy said: "What right does the government, which can't provide full employment, have to limit this very pleasant—or at least workable—way to make a living?"

Other speakers urged that prostitution be legalized because it is victimless, harmless and socially beneficial.

The one-day convention was sponsored by Coyote, its president, a former prostitute named Margo St. James, said the organization was named for one of nature's most prolific creatures, and also was an acronym. Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics.

"I've been a hooker since 1969 and I've been a school teacher, a college student, an office manager and a craftswoman," said one. "I'm going to continue to do all these things—except be a school teacher. I don't want to be a school teacher because I don't like institutions."

Another said she enjoys her work and the money she makes at it. "I mean, as long as I'm getting something for it . . . I have no gripes," she said. "And I love it."

INTEREST PAID

TORONTO (CP) — The largest expense item for Canada's chartered banks is the interest paid on deposits. In 1974, this interest was 63 per cent of the banks' total interest.

Lang Proposes Changes In Law Governing Rape

OTTAWA (CP) Justice Minister Otto Lang said Saturday he will propose an amendment to the Criminal Code allowing the courts to convict a rapist on the word of his victim.

He told delegates at the first national conference of Rape Crisis Centres this and other amendments to the Criminal Code will be presented to Parliament before it recesses for the summer and will be law, he hopes, before the end of the year.

As the law stands, if there is no corroborative evidence, the judge must tell the jury it is unsafe to convict an accused rapist.

"The present law says in effect the word of the rape victim has less value than the word of the accused, in a sense the victim is on trial," Mr. Lang told delegates.

Another problem with this law, he said, if a judge incorrectly instruct the jury, the accused may call for a new trial, and the rape victim is put through another ordeal.

In a question period after Mr. Lang's speech, several women in the audience praised the amendment, but criticized other rape-related amendments the minister proposed last May.

Their main complaint was the laws still treat rape as a sexual assault, thus a thing of shame, while the women felt it should be treated as a personal assault.

Mr. Lang said such a radical change in the law would take a long time. "We have to discuss these things with the provinces, because after all, they are the ones who must administer the laws."

Complaints also arose over the words "previously chaste character" which apply to the rape victim in present laws. Several women felt this attitude was "a hangover from our Victorian past" and said it should be dropped from the Criminal Code right away.

The justice minister said he would look into it.

Mr. Lang praised the work of rape crisis centres, and said their sympathy and advice in a difficult situation' was helping more women to report rapes.

Gasoline Tax Added To Oil Price Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Most gasoline prices will rise by about 15 cents a gallon to help pay for a rapidly increasing national fuel bill, Finance Minister John Turner said Monday in a federal budget which contained no major policy changes.

Some short-term programs, such as a $60-million allotment for student jobs this summer, were coupled with intentions to renegotiate with the provinces terms of costly hospitalization and medical care programs.

Changes in unemployment insurance, including higher pressions, also were forecast, but the main immediate impact will be in fuel costs.

A 15-cents-a-gallon federal tax on gasoline for personal use is effective today. There will be a further increase of five cents a gallon by mid-August. Heating oil and natural gas prices will be up this winter because of budget changes.

Mr. Turner said there was no reason to change policies set in the last budget, tabled Nov. 18.

He said in his speech that attempts to further stimulate the economy would not work because trading partners are in recession and cannot buy more Canadian goods.

The finance minister said the need for government restraint was the lesson he had learned in an unsuccessful attempt to convince business and labor to adopt voluntary controls.

He said the government has chopped $1 billion for the current fiscal year from original estimates of $28.75 billion. The new budget forecast is $28.9 billion. Cost for social insurance programs had gone up while revenue was less than expected because of recession.

Revenue, projected at $25,775 billion, means the government expects to go into debt at the rate of about $9 million a day in this fiscal year.

Other key budget points:

—The price of domestic crude oil, to be raised July 1 to $8 a barrel from $6.50, will mean increases of about five cents a gallon for all users of gasoline and heating fuel.

—Natural gas prices, will be increased Nov. 1 by 43 cents a thousand cubic feet in major central Canadian markets, adding about $65 to the average annual gas-heating bill of $365.

—Formal notice was served of intentions to re-negotiate with the provinces terms of hospital insurance programs. Mr. Turner complained of a lack of national standards and cost planning and said revised procedures and standards will be tied to new terms.

—Limits are to be placed on contributions under the Medical Care Act. The increase in contributions for both medical care and hospitalization programs was almost 20 per cent last year. Mr. Turner said Total cost of the plans this year will be more than $6 billion. The ceilings on growth of federal contributions begin in the next fiscal year, starting next April 1—when it will be 13 per cent. Maximum increase in 1977-78 will be 10% per cent and in each year thereafter 6% per cent.

—The government soon will be introducing legislation to change the unemployment insurance system, Mr. Turner said. Higher benefits for low-income people are to be cut from 75 per cent of regular income to 66 2-3 per cent—the maximum for higher income categories. The new rules will require people who quit or are fired with cause to wait six weeks instead of three to qualify for benefits. Premiums for employer and employee will rise by unspecified amounts.

—Corporations and small businessmen, including farmers and fishermen, will be able to deduct from income tax $5 of every $100 of the value of purchases of new buildings, machinery and equipment.

—About 350,000 high-income people will have personal income taxes increased this year by a maximum $250 starting at a level of $25,365.

—The Ontario tax share from natural resource companies will be reduced under a complex formula dividing taxes between federal and provincial governments.

—Mr. Turner said the government will spend $150 million on job programs. Most are replays of existing ones, including a summer program for students, more job training money, and renewal of the Local Initiatives Program (LIP). Officials estimated the direct employment programs will provide the equivalent of one year's work for 65,000 to 70,000 persons.

—Mr. Turner said the 1975-76 budget for Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. will rise to $1.3 billion from $1 billion.

Finance department officials said more information on government spending restraint will have to come from the finance minister and president, Jean Chretien, now in Tokyo discussing issues with Japan.

Mr. Turner told a news conference that he expects the growth of the public service would be held to 3.1 per cent this year — down from a previous target of 4.1 per cent — some departments will get more.

There would be no cuts in the budgets of the armed forces, manpower and the solicitor-general.

Restraint on spending will mean tough bargaining for Mr. Chretien, who negotiates with civil service unions, and Mr. Turner said the government accepts the principle of bargaining process, which includes the right to strike.

"The resulting inconvenience to the public will have to be accepted."

Mr. Turner's budget also increases the limit for duty-free gifts from abroad to $10 from $10, reduces federal tax on wine, and increases transportation tax on air fares between Canada and the U.S. to eight per cent from five and on flights to other countries to $10 from $5.

Consumers' President Is Pleased

OTTAWA (CP) — James O'Grady, president of the Consumers' Association of Canada, said today government plans to increase Nov. 1 by 43 cents a thousand cubic feet in major central Canadian markets, adding about $65 to the average annual gas-heating bill of $365.

—Formal notice was served of intentions to re-negotiate with the provinces terms of hospital insurance programs. Mr. Turner complained of a lack of national standards and cost planning and said revised procedures and standards will be tied to new terms.

—Limits are to be placed on contributions under the Medical Care Act.

Mr. Blakeney told a news conference.

He objected to what he termed a lack of federal consultation on the resource-tax issue, the new excise tax on gasoline and planned reduction in the federal share of health spending.

Ontario, NDP leader Stephen Lewis termed the federal budget senseless and better-skelter, saying it could have been written as easily in the United States Treasury as in Canada.

Premier Davis was unavailable for comment.

An aide to the premier said he would probably not make a statement for the next couple of days.

Lougheed Happy, Others Are Not

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reaction by provincial leaders to Finance Minister John Turner's revised federal budget Monday ranged from approval by Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed to inadequate, disappointing, incredible and, at times, puzzling, by Manitoba Premier Sterling Lyon, Progressive Conservative leader Sidney Spivak.

Premier Lougheed lauded the budget for bringing stability to the province's important petroleum industry.

He said the petroleum industry now has a sense of stability and security.

The budget will increase tensions between the federal government and the provinces," Mr. Blakeney told a news conference.

Oil Prices Seen as Election Issue

Ellis and Hees Both Think Davis Will Go to People Now

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Monday night's federal budget could precipitate a provincial election in Ontario, Jack Ellis, a Liberal candidate, believes.

He pinned his belief on the increases in fuel prices contained in Finance Minister John Turner's budget.

"With those kind of increases, I would find it difficult to believe that Mr. Davis would not go to the country as soon as possible," said Mr. Ellis.

It was among his first reactions in a telephone interview with The Intelligencer from Ottawa after Mr. Turner had outlined his budget.

"I can't believe William Davis won't be forced into a campaign," said Mr. Ellis. "He has been very firmly opposed — and I agree with him — to these increases. I can't believe this is not going to force him into an election — maybe even a summer election."

George Hees, MP Prince Edward — Hastings, agreed the budget may have given an election issue to Mr. Davis.

"It's the Liberals who have increased the price of gasoline . . . and will increase the price of gas and heating oil."

He believed Mr. Davis might call a fall campaign and "with this (the budget) he has no reason not to go".

"It's a good budget. It wasn't a very positive budget in any way."

Irate Amin Rebuffed

NAIROBI (AP) — The British government has rejected Ugandan President Idi Amin's latest demands along with his charge that Britain is threatening to invade Uganda because of the death sentence he has given British lecturer Denis Hills.

"Alert the army! Alert the air force! Tell Libya to send in a bomb squadron!" the former heavyweight boxing champion shouted to his aides after a furious interview Monday with Lt.-Gen. Sir Charles Blair, his former commanding officer and a special envoy sent by Queen Elizabeth to ask for clemency for Hills.

Amin told newsmen in Kampala, the Ugandan capital, that Blair had threatened to send in British troops from neighboring Kenya if Hills was executed.

"He should know that Africans no longer wash the bottoms and the feet of Europeans," the president declared. "The British should beg me. It is not for me to beg the British. . . . I am not afraid. I am not worried at all."

The British High Commission in Nairobi said Amin's talk of a British invasion was nonsense. The defence ministry in London said: "We have no troops in Kenya and there are no plans to send any there."

Gas Price Increase Not Immediate Here

By CASH MAHAFFY

Price of a gallon of regular gasoline in Belleville as most people were driving to work was the same as it was yesterday — with a few exceptions.

Reaction of dealers surveyed by Finance Minister John Turner's budget announcement last night that the excise tax on gasoline for passenger cars would be increased by 10 cents a gallon was "We haven't heard anything official yet."

Lowest price quoted in the city this morning was 62.9 cents a gallon for regular. Highest — by one dealer who had added the 10-cent increase — was 78.9 cents.

In Trenton, most service stations surveyed had not increased the price this morning. Several station managers said they were waiting for authorization from their head offices.

Chuck Corrigan, Quinte area representative for Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., said today, the 35 stations in the Belleville-Trenton area have not been instructed to jack up prices. However, he said, the go ahead to do so may come from head office any time.

A Texaco manager said he understood that the price increase took effect at the manufacturer's level and he did not expect to raise prices until he received another load of gas.

Brampton Rifleman 'Beautiful' Drug-taker

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Michael Slobodian's mother described her 16-year-old son to a coroner's jury Monday as a beautiful boy who would do anything to help another person.

The inquest is investigating a five-minute shooting rampage by Slobodian May 22 at Brampton Centennial high school in which teacher Margaret Wright, 25, and student John Slinger, 17, were slain and 13 others injured. The youth then killed himself.

This previously undisclosed part of the suicide note he left at home also was read in court: "I am not insane, but strictly fed up with life."

Mrs. Peter Slobodian described her son as "a very beautiful boy."

He was "a bit seditive" and "would go out of his way to do anything for anybody, and not expect anything in return."

"I have to believe that God and Michael are the only ones to know why this had to happen."

Steve Kipfer, 18, Slobodian's best friend, said the youth took THC the Saturday before the Wednesday incident. He described THC as "an upper," a slang name for amphetamine.

Mr. Kipfer and the youth's mother and sister said Slobodian two years ago had used drugs, including marijuana. The sister and mother said Slobodian took some LSD two years ago.

Iyer's refusal to grant a full, unconditional stay of the sentence imposed by trial judge John Sinha was a partial setback for Mrs. Gandhi. It was expected to spur opposition demands for her resignation during the processing of her appeal, which is expected to take at least two months.

Harbor-front Project Clears Another Hurdle

The request has been in i i m b o for three weeks since Lamplighter Realty first explained why it needed the change before launching into the project. Its first contract for site-story unit had proved uneconomic. The solution was to add three more floors and increase the apartment units to 104. But the starting point of change was amendment of the original development agreement reached two years ago for a project that was seen as a major step toward possible rehabilitation of the city's waterfront.

To be on the safe side council passed 'the proposal along for close scrutiny by city hall committees. This sent Lamplighter's lawyer, Wolfram Tausendfreund between both council's traffic and subordinate planning committees, both of whom sought various assurances on parking, traffic flow and the availability of a proper site plan.

The final assurance arrived at city hall Monday in time for council's consideration — from Police Chief Douglas Crosbie who had worried about access for emergency vehicles and whether the parking ramps would support heavy fire trucks.

Council gave agreement in principle to the new concept but insisted a proper site plan be available before a building permit is issued.

Mr. Tausendfreund said that is all Lamplighter sought at this stage. A detailed site plan he said, would take "several weeks."

When the request was first introduced council was told at that time that Lamplighter had intentions of eventually selling the project to an unnamed Toronto developer.

Firemen Get 18 Per Cent Hike in 1974 Salaries

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton firemen have been given a 17-per-cent pay rise retroactive to Jan. 1, 1974. The boost will see a first-class fireman's pay cheque jump by just under $1,600.

The one-year, across-the-board increase was revealed Monday with release of an award by an arbitration board that met in mid-February to hear a dispute over 1974 wages between the town and firemen.

Eleven members of Local 1229 of the International Association of Fire Fighters and town officials have been wading for two months for the award. Arbitration board awards are normally handed down 60 days after the hearing.

News of the increase met with no surprise from town treasurer Brian Fagan Monday. He said he had expected the award to be in the neighborhood of 18 per cent.

But it's "probably a little higher than council expected," Mr. Fagan said.

The award means the salary of a first-class fireman, considered the bench-mark wage, will rise from $10,485 in 1973 to $12,388 in 1974.

It is lower than the $12,303 earned by a first-class constable in Trenton's police department but higher than the $12,162 received by a first-class fireman in Belleville in 1974.

Settlement of the 1974 dispute allows the town to begin negotiations over the 1975 contract.

Mr. Fagan said Monday he expects talks to start within several weeks. Both firemen and town officials have been waiting for the award to begin new negotiations.

The treasurer said the award translates into a lump sum $25,000 expenditure for the town, $5,000 more than had been set aside in the budget.

Extra costs include marginal improvements in fringe benefits.

The award was the sole contentious issue remaining by the time the two sides went to arbitration. At the hearing, the town offered 12½ per cent to firemen who countered with a demand for a 34 per cent wage increase.

Their demand was higher than the approximate 18 per cent that firemen wanted during talks with the town. At that time, the town negotiating committee offered 14½ per cent but the figure was cut by council to 13½. Firemen then called for arbitration.

Two Charged In Thefts

OUTLET — Two Belleville men were charged Monday night with five counts of possession of stolen property following thefts from campsites at Outlet Provincial Park.

Charged are Blaine Allan Hines, 20, of RR 1, Belleville, and Brian David Mahaffy, 18, 11 Isabel St., Belleville.

A spokesman at the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said six camp sites were entered and items, including sleeping bags, a radio, food, liquor and beer taken. The missing property was recovered by police.

Mahaffy was also charged with causing a disturbance by use of obscene language. Hines was also charged with causing a disturbance and indecent exposure. He was later charged with wilful damage after a mattress was torn up in the OPP lock-up here.

Older Cars to Get Compulsory Checks

PICTON — Approximately 100 motorists "by special invitation" this week will visit the Market Square for automobile checks organized by the ministry of transportation and communications.

Test equipment was set up Monday for the safety inspections that will continue until noon on Friday.

A ministry spokesman observed in former years drivers who were reluctant to take the tests just "headed for the hills" when safety checks were in period.

Alerted by the sight of testing equipment on the Market Square they were able to keep older cars and trucks off the streets until the inspectors completed checks here.

This year police were alerted about one week before the arrival date of the equipment and more than 100 motorists will bring in their vehicles for compulsory inspections.

The spokesman observed there may be as many as 200 voluntary inspections during the safety check period.

He said owners of newer model cars often are eager to have their vehicles checked to avoid the inconvenience of being stopped in future for an inspection when travelling.

He said the test primarily focus on inspection of steering linkage, brakes, exhaust pipes and a search for holes in floor pans.

Meeting to Decide Use Of Historic Proctor House

FRANKFORD — A consensus over just one of the historic Proctor House in Brighton by the Save Our Heritage Organization (SOHO) and the conservation authority could emerge from a meeting of the two groups in Frankford today.

The building is being looked upon by SOHO as a museum-cum-cultural centre while the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority has been revising its structure it owns as potential office space.

Authority offices now are housed in Frankford municipal offices but officials say space to meet their requirements is rapidly decreasing.

Tonight's meeting could lead to an arrangement by which SOHO and the authority agree to share the Proctor House.

SOHO chairman Gordon Tobey said Monday he is optimistic a deal can be worked out: "I'm sure it'll be acceptable unless I've misread some members of their group (LTRCA).

"We feel we're making a generous offer," he said. Proposals outlining the sharing arrangement have been drafted and are ready to place before tonight's meeting with the authority executive.

SOHO now leases the hill-top house from the authority and since 1971 has spent $60,000 in Local Initiative Program (LIP) money in restoring the building. Mr. Tobey estimated that over three years, another $67,000 in funds from SOHO members has been put into various work, ranging from engineering drawings to upkeep.

Tonight's meeting is one in a series that authority chairman Bill Carter said Monday was geared to explore the relationship between the two groups.

An authority spokesman has earlier said the talks would be of a delicate nature. Another spokesman claimed SOHO hasn't been able to fulfill the terms of its lease and has thereby brought on the ire of authority members.

Mr. Tobey said prior to signing the lease in August, 1971, and before SOHO began restoration work on the building, the authority had planned to raze the house.

He could not account for what he acknowledged as friction between the two groups, but he speculated that the notoriety of the building by the small SOHO group of about 200 people could be "some embarrassment to them."

Now, he said recently, he "highly welcomes" a closer relationship with the authority and hopes shared accommodation can be worked out.

He emphasized SOHO's vital interest in preservation of the century-old building and said "historic sites are few and far between while offices are a dime a dozen."

12-year-old Poet Wins Trip for Recent Piece

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

PICTON — "I have to be inspired and get in the right mood," says Yvonne Wynen, a 12-year-old accomplished poet whose work has appeared in the local biweekly newspaper, since November.

Yvonne was the recipient of a special award last week in a poetry competition sponsored by the Prince Edward Region Conservative Authority (PERCA). Dealing with conservation, her submission earned her a $10 olympic coin and a special bus tour with this year's winners of PERCA's poster contest.

Yvonne said she became interested in poetry at the age of nine when she was required to write a poem as a class project at St. Gregory's School where she attends. The poem was to relate to a conservation-oriented film shown earlier and it was through this initial exposure to conservation that she became interested in nature as a primary subject for her poetry.

Followers of her literary work remark on her rare ability to express her thoughts and feelings so vividly.

"I am constantly trying to improve my vocabulary by any means possible. I keep my eye open for particularly descriptive words I try never to use the same word twice in any of my poems.

"She loves to read," comment her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wynen of R.R. 4, Picton, "and occasionally we have to take a book away from her to give her a rest."

Yvonne says she prefers doing prose to other forms of poetry because "there is no need to worry about rhyming, and you can just let yourself go."

Grammatically above average as a student, Yvonne expects to pursue poetry, but only as a sideline, she emphasizes. She expects to specialize in zoology and mammalogy.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and greatly relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And, most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates new tissue formation. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

What is image rejection?
"Image" means a tuners undesirable reception of the same signal at two or more points on the dial, of which only one is the true station signal. This is caused by interaction of the oscillator frequency and the RF frequency. Image rejection is the tuner's ability to suppress this frequency. Bigger values are better, they pay off as less problems in areas with many FM stations broadcasting.

Growing Canadian Oil Deficit and a Market Surrounded by Uncertainties

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Apart from the obvious fact that our traditional and reassuring export-import balance is gone, the present and future of the Canadian energy market are surrounded by uncertainties:

—Will the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries increase the world price of crude oil, and by how much?

—Or is the recently mentioned cartel bluffing, and will it cut its prices in order to discourage oil consuming countries from developing their own energy supplies?

—How much of an additional increase energy prices can be absorbed by a Canadian economy that is mired in the longest recession since the 1930s?

—Can the normal rate of discovery of replacement oil and gas reserves be maintained by oil companies receiving only a negligible share of price increases?

—If not, how much longer can Canada live off its known reserves of hydrocarbons?

It's doubtful that anyone in Canada has the answers to these questions.

But that didn't prevent Energy Minister Donald Macdonald from proclaiming an unspecified increase in the domestic price of crude oil effective July 1; and a further boost in the price of natural gas to take effect Nov. 1.

It appears that he may have felt forced into that decision by the initiative of provincial governments, the oil-producing one and the consuming provinces) by our growing deficit in the oil trade.

To conserve crude oil for our selves, Ottawa last year ordered producers to cut their exports. In the first five months of 1975, shipments of crude oil to the United States fell to an average of 555,000 barrels a day, or 36 per cent less than last year's export figure of 868,000.

Imports of highpriced OPEC oil into Eastern Canada are therefore exceeding our exports from Western Canada by some 300,000 barrels a day.

At the five year ago, OPEC oil was selling on the world market for 80 cents a barrel—about six or eight times its cost of production.

Since then, the cartel has increased its selling price over and over, although the production cost is still only pennies.

The current price is $14.46 (U.S.) and OPEC is threatening to raise it to well over $11 on Oct. 1.

The domestic price of Canadian crude oil rose to $6.55 last year, with the governments in Ottawa and the producing provinces taking the lion's share of it. The federal government uses its share to offset the high cost of importing OPEC oil into Eastern Canada.

The effect on the typical household in Ontario has been to boost home-heating and gasoline expenses by an average of 95 cents a day over 1973 levels.

As for the companies that find, develop, produce and distribute oil and its products, their take has gone up by about eight cents a barrel.

Unless there is a price cut by OPEC, which is unlikely, Canada must intensify its development of new sources of energy supply—and soon.

Whether we like it or not, the oil industry is the only means to that end.

'Tis a high risk business. It takes plenty of money. But there isn't any other way.

Depression Era Jobs

To quote once again from Barry Broadfoot's fascinating "Ten Lost Years," there is a chapter where a man desperate for a job during those Depression times, with a wife and three youngsters, and a nice house, goes for an interview.

The job being offered was selling insurance — as the man points out, a poor way to make a living in 1933 — unless you were very good — but a job nonetheless. At the end of an initial phone conversation with the office manager, the latter said: "Oh, I forgot, have you been through university?"

"Yes," came the reply — and what was a little white lie or two in those days of living by your wits. On the form at the interview the next day he wrote, University of Manitoba, having taken the precaution, after the phone conversation, of going out to the campus so he would know the layout at least if asked. But nobody checked up — and he turned out to be a very good salesman.

It would be interesting to know how many good people flunked out then, for lack of that important piece of paper. Nowadays too, you don't go far without some form of higher education.

We have our universities here, community colleges, and business colleges. In Britain there is the burgeoning Open University which The Manchester Guardian wrote about recently.

Established with a view to bringing university education to a much wider student body than before, and utilizing computers, radio and television, it has proved a great success. According to The Guardian, an average of nearly three hours of lectures go out daily on national television and even more on radio. Cost to the student is only £25 (or about $70) a year for a full credit course, the rest being met by government subsidy. Academics rate the standards extremely high — reportedly a deterrent to some, but against that there are successes such as the railway signalman who completed a math course and a courier who passed in English literature.

As the man said, of those days back in 1933, as recounted in Broadfoot's book: "Have you been through university? Yes. Good, you're hired."

When Minds Go Flip

It's called The Stockholm Syndrome." A sort of going flip in the mind and doing a Jekyll-and-Hyde as it were and becoming a very different person.

That's how Truman Capote says he heard it described: the situation for instance in which Patty Hearst found herself and how her personality and allegiances changed.

The same too, at least temporarily, with the woman hostage in British Columbia who without acknowledging actual intimacy said she had a "positive relationship" with one of three convicts holding her and others prisoner.

But then, there can be sympathy with her rationale in that desperate situation: "... I guess, I was given preferential treatment which at the time didn't make me feel too good but as far as I was concerned . . . I was playing cards for my life and I had to play the game the best way I could."

And why the Stockholm Syndrome?" As explained by Truman Capote, this theme from a bank robbery in the Swedish capital in which a woman hostage underwent some sort of mental transformation and either became friendly with or married one of her captors.

Patty Hearst reportedly had such a relationship with one of her captors who was later killed in a police shootout.

In substance, it is a form of brainwashing, the taking over of the psyche — weaker personalities being especially susceptible to such influences — by new and compelling ideas.

Maybe this talk of a recession in Canada is just propaganda. Canada's department stores report that April sales were up 12.4 per cent from April one year ago. Statistics Canada, which supplied that information, also reports that average weekly earnings rose to $195.54 from March and that there were only 793,000 unemployed in April compared to 840,000 in March.

Indeed the Fishing Port is also the Caribbean terminal for at least one of the huge fishing fleets based on the Russian Baltic which cruise off Canadian coasts, sweeping the seas clean, literally of fish in their wake.

This means that Russia and her economic allies with major sea coasts, Poland, East Germany to a lesser degree Bulgaria, and now to a greater one, Cuba, have joined the Russians with their factory trawler-centred fishing fleet in the North Atlantic.

All this deep-sea fishing means the Canadian fisherman, especially the very hard pressured inshore operators, end up with less fish or none at all.

You can eat cod for example much of mackerel to be caught and processed in the proposed Cuban operation which we will largely feed, will go on Cuban dinner tables. But the same is true of the huge Russian catches.

We are not big fish eaters and we should be. Rather we mean about the high cost of food which has become a very expensive food to grow, given the cost of feed grains when our oceans are filled with, we fear, much less expensive but equally high protein foods.

Very few of us have ever heard of ICNAF and don't want to hear about it. But it is the major international fisheries monitoring group, the international Conference of North Atlantic Fisheries, where Canada states her case and should be threatening to police coastal shelf waters.

In our tradition of multilateral diplomacy we put the emphasis a 40 per cent cutback in fishing to the other members at ICNAF's latest meeting in Edinburgh and we hope they

By JOHN D. HARBRON

It was part of the city dump in the days before Fidel, but will be the site probably by 1980 of this hemisphere's largest fish processing plant.

The vast new processing plant will not sit in isolation, but will be part of the already-integrated "Fishing Port," that section of Havana harbor allocated as the centre of a growing Cuban deep-sea fishing industry.

What should interest Canadians, especially those trying to make a living from our troubled fishing industries, is that we will disburse about $40 million to help design the plant and further as major seed capital supply.

That's exactly half the amount of money allocated by the federal department of fisheries to our Atlantic fishing industries which will not have a plant of the size or complexity of the proposed giant Cuban installation.

The Cuban fisheries ministry is one of the most militant in Castro's revolutionary regime. It is integrated closely to Soviet mass fishing methods.

Communists Make Gains in Italy

The Christian Science Monitor

The task of governing Italy can only have been made more difficult by the strong Communist gains in this week's local elections.

The Communists' 6 per cent gain and the Christian Democrats' loss of 3 per cent in the total national balloting mean that the margin between Italy's strongest political parties is a scant 2 per cent. Such shifts in ballot power might not seem significant to observers from other democratic countries. But in Italy, where relative party strengths have varied only minutely since the Italian Government was formed after World War II, they are taken as portentous.

Whether the regional election results will lead to the participation of the Communists in the national Parliament remains problematic.

The Communists have been pushed hard to achieve such an "historic compromise". In one of the ironies typical of Italian politics, they sympathized with the church's position in last year's important national referendum on divorce. They have sought to win respectability through efficient administration of the many city, town, and other governments they control. And, to avoid a potentially serious backlash from the authoritarian steps of Portugal's leftist regime, Italy's Communists disapproved of the line being taken by their Portuguese counterparts.

The Italian Communists benefited from several factors. The party's backing has long and more of a protest than ideological nature. Waves of kidnappings and violence, the national economic austerity program made necessary by the energy crisis, plus the chronic dissatisfaction with health care, housing and the tax structure — all this made an electoral dip at the ruling Christian Democrats seem likely. And the Roman Catholic hierarchy for the first time failed to explicitly advise voting for the Christian Democrats, but instead declared citizens should vote according to their consciences.

The Communists will insist more intently that the "historic compromise" be made. Another formal election might soon be called.

But Italian politics to date have shown a remarkable capacity to absorb shocks, like last year's divorce vote and this week's Communist advances without much change. A crisis provokes much comment but the same familiar leaders emerge after the dust settles.

Italy's Western democratic friends, concerned about the weakening southern flank of NATO as well as Italy's vitality as a trade and cultural partner, hope its political resourcefulness will minimize the risks of the startling Communist gains.

Gerald Baldwin Champions Parliamentary Democracy

By F. W. GROVER

OTTAWA — Ged Baldwin doesn't look like a crusader. And when he speaks he doesn't sound like one.

There is no thundering oratory when the veteran Tory MP for Peace River gets up to speak. He is mild-mannered, quiet-spoken, usually smiling and often witty. His attacks on the government are never thrusts of ridicule usually delivered so pleasantly that it takes the Liberals a few seconds to realize they are being skewered.

Baldwin's perpetual fight is to preserve parliamentary democracy; not to protect it from outside attack, but to protect it from its own elected members who through ignorance or arrogance, frustration or enthusiasm would sacrifice their rights on the altar of efficiency.

This Baldwin's sharpest speeches are often points of House rules and procedures and seldom rate very extensive coverage in the press. News editors know from readers' letters that require five paragraphs of explanation to boil up one paragraph of news.

His bills dealt with the Liberal government was in that category. The motion presented in the Commons was long and in the proper parliamentary jargon, its essence is argues that everyone, including public servants, has the right to appear before a parliamentary committee when called and that the minister did not have the right to forbid any of his employees to testify before a committee.

It is contended that King Charles II had to bend over backwards to get his head and Freddie Richard Nixon lost his job by contending that they had rights that exceeded those of the powers of the elected representatives of the people.

Here is some typical Baldwin argument:

It is all very well, apparently, for committees to call witnesses from the streets outside this House. Presidents and vice presidents, presidents of unions and any witness can be called and is compellable. But if he happens to be a member of the civil service, then according to the principle asserted initially by the minister, he is not allowed to repeated by his more or less distinguished colleagues, he need not and cannot be called because he is a member of a class set apart. Thus, the divine right of executive privilege is alive and well and flourishing in government today.

So the battle was joined on what was involved in a responsible government with Baldwin arguing the supremacy of the total elected parliament and his Liberal opponents contending with the view that the responsibility was vested in the ministers of the Crown.

There was no possibility that Mr. Baldwin's motion would be passed, or even voted on. Government backbenchers just talked it out — kept the debate rolling until the clock ended for the motion expired.

Ged Baldwin hasn't won many such battles although he did succeed in getting parliament to establish a joint Senate-Commons committee to study regulations and instruments of government. And he might get some action on his bill to open up more information to the public if the Parliamentary Press Gallery can ever make up its mind to attack the government secrecy at the top level instead of the minor leagues to hide the occasional information officer.

Most battles are lost chiefly because the losers realize the permanent most moderate to deal with these modern times is well rooted in the younger members of his own party as well as in the government benches. One thing that still rankles with him is the readiness with which all parties accepted the new committee system which took government spending estimates out of the House of Commons. The opposition can no longer chide the government payroll as a means of forcing compliance of the cabinet.

This will probably be Baldwin's last term in Parliament. He was elected in the Diefenbaker sweep in 1957 and has been re-elected every time since. He will be 71 by the time the next election is called and will have served in the Commons for 20 years.

Then it will be up to someone else to champion the rights of the individual elected MPs against the opposition benches and those ornaments of the treasury benches who sit opposite."

That Elusive Postal Code

Sudbury Star

Over the years it's been a recurrent item in The Star's Ombudsman's Not newspaper feature, or if we haven't seen it there it's discussed elsewhere — the item about the letter addressed to "The Mayor, Ontario" or "Old Hornpback, Montana" that somehow escapes the confusion of the address being anything but perfect.

But no more, perhaps. We are not sure what efforts in other postmen have been making to track down such characters who have obviously been given sufficiently well because of their fame in one field or another to make them local celebs, but they won't be doing it in the future.

In fact, they won't even try to deliver Mr. Santa Claus, The 1234 Elm Street. Why? No postal code, that's why. The government's new Postmaster-General Eryce Mackasey, will put a stop to that. He has the relatively new postal code mandatory, if it becomes necessary to get people to use it. At least that's what he said in a speech in Edmonton. Outside the House he said such legislation is likely.

Let's hope it is. There will be less mail going astray before everyone gets to using the postal code. But there's anything wrong with it. There's no question that when it's spelled out it speeds the delivery of mail service and saves money.

The Revolutionary Cuban Fishery Complex should go away from ICNAF and unilaterally declare we will police the continental shelf as far out as 200 miles.

The Peruvians have done it for years to protect the spawning grounds of the anchovy, until recently that country's major source of foreign earnings.

In 1970 we made such unilateral statements about Arctic sovereignty and for environmental safety which affect very few Canadians what little fishing we now have and none of our commercial fisheries.

Why can't Ottawa do this again where it counts, in unilateral fishing industries from the ravages of the Russian mass operations?

No Pay or Price Freeze

But Turner Puts Curbs On Government Outlay

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner has spurned any radical shifts in budget policies or attempts at direct intervention in the economy prices to combat economic ills.

Instead, he has stuck to his theme in his budget speech Monday night, "I have decided to stay on course, to continue the course I set seven months ago—a course aimed at moderate expansion of the economy.

And he rejected any program of direct or indirect controls over pay rates that he says threaten to set off a new bout of inflation by adding to production costs.

He has also abandoned attempts at winning agreement to voluntary restraints, for the time being.

The finance minister's main budget initiative is to have people reduce government spending by $1 billion. Turner says it is the wise insight have been. He says he hopes that money will serve as an example to others.

Mr. Turner told a news conference following his 90-minute speech that he has made the offer attempts to establish a program of voluntary pay and price restraint over nine months of vain effort—unless business and labor do it first.

In fact, he conceded he has run through and rejected the options he outlined publicly last month — compulsory controls, voluntary restraint and additional tax-and-spending measures to reduce demand.

He said the special anti-inflation secretariat set up earlier this year, without a program of voluntary restraints, will be retained in view of a delayed response from business and labor.

Recent reports indicated the secretariat had been cut to the bone and would be virtually inoperational.

The government had considered statutory controls but Mr. Turner said they have been rejected, not as a matter of principle but because 80 cents of every $1 would be lost if there is widespread public support for such a plan.

"As I have said before, I believe that a tax cut is the direct controls only when there is a public consideration of the need for such action," he said.

He said the point has not been reached.

Mr. Turner said earlier this year that if he no voluntary program of price and wage moderation is reached, there would be no option but to bring in mandatory controls of a severely restrictive budget.

But Monday he rejected both options

Instead, he said the government flatly rejects a restrictive policy "of deliberately creating, by severe measures of fiscal and monetary restraint, an ever level of unemployment is required to bring labor to an about halt."

There are already more than 700,000 jobless and the unemployment rate in May was 7.1 per cent of the labor force.

The government would use its tax and spending powers to set the climate for restraint and is prepared to get tough with civil servants if necessary, he said.

Salary budgets were being trimmed and the rate of increase reduced in public-service hiring.

Mr. Turner emphasized pay increases that are "unwarranted by any reasonable standard" will not be granted. This might lead to public strife, he said, and the resulting inconvenience to the public will have to be accepted.

By holding back the rate of increase in hiring for civil service jobs, the government will save between $30 and $60 million a year, finance department officials estimated.

Mr. Turner now is proposing legislative amendments to hold down the cost to the government of hospital and medical care insurance. They are financed about 50 per cent by the federal government and will cost about $6 billion this year. Costs of these programs are outstripping personal income rises, he said.

The government wants the provinces to take on more of the costs for these programs.

As well, proposed changes to the Unemployment Insurance Act will take benefits from older off jobless benefits and raise the waiting period for benefits at six weeks from three for those who quit jobs or are fired, others.

Finance department officials indicated these changes could save around 100 million a year but they refused to specify details of the anticipated savings. Unemployment insurance benefit payments are expected to exceed $3.75 billion in the fiscal year ending next March 31, up from $2.3 billion in the last year.

Labor and C of C Agree They Don't Like Budget

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Finance Minister John Turner's federal budget with its $1-billion cut in spending drew praise from the business-labor sectors of the economy Monday night.

"The (spending) policy he proposes will have a tremendous impact on people," said Don Sinclair, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Sam Hughes, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, called the budget disappointing. "We are very disappointed, while also criticizing the government for not dealing with inflation.

J. T. Blair, vice-president of the Canadian Real Estate Association, said he wouldn't be surprised if the budget helped elector Barney Danson resigned for what wasn't in the budget.

"If anything, the budget is backward in regard to housing. It increases the cost of heating fuel, and increased gasoline costs will affect commuters."

Jack McAvity, president of the Canadian Export Association, called the budget "co-ordinated," saying the government gave no indication of coming to grips with rising wages.

Austerity Program Comes Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — A $1 billion federal austerity program designed to set an example of economic restraint was criticized by opposition parties Monday as a new burden for ordinary taxpayers and a treacherous assault on the provincial governments.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield and Tommy Douglas, parliamentary leader of the New Democratic Party, said the spending cuts announced by Finance Minister John Turner in his budget will have little, if any, effect in controlling inflation.

The whole austerity program is simply "an exercise in cosmetics," Mr. Stanfield said. Even with $1 billion slashed from federal spending, the government is adding more than $1 billion to its debt.

Further measures to curtail federal participation in provincial-run hospital and medical care attacked of "treachery the likes of which I have never seen before," he said.

Mr. Broadbent announced the program as "typically Liberal" response which shifts the emphasis from government to private spending.

"The government is merely transferring money from public spending to private consumption gives-away," he said.

Both leaders spoke to reporters outside the Commons after Mr. Turner said the austerity program will reduce spending rates in almost every government department, change lighter controls on the growth of the public service and attempt to restrict federal-provincial health care costs.

The measures were painful and would cause "distress and disappointment" but they are necessary if Canada is to continue to alter private industry and labor the way in exercising restraint, Mr. Turner said.

He also admitted that the reductions will bring a hardening of federal attitudes towards civil servants and might result in more civil service strikes.

Specifically, the budget called for $830 million in cuts from spending on Crown corporations and on programs within most departments. Another $50 to $60 million would be saved by scaling down by about one per cent—equal to about 2,000 jobs, the rate of growth in the 700,000-member civil service workforce this year.

Manufacturers' Head Pleased But Banker Upset by Budget

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Finance Minister John Turner's federal budget Monday night reacted from disappointment to no immediate relief.

No comment was the immediate reaction from most automakers and oil companies to the federal proposal for a 15-cent-a-gallon increase in the price of gasoline.

Refinery companies also declined immediate comment, saying they needed more time to study the complicated budget, including to increase in a corporate fuel oil price.

"Disappointing . . . we are not impressed," said Mr. Hughes, who also criticized the government for not dealing with inflation.

He said the extra $250 million for housing is not sufficient but the chamber is grateful the government did not choose any form of controls.

Greg Dykes, a spokesman for the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association, said:

"We would like to have the opportunity to read the minister's budget speech and the reasons for the arrangements before commenting on the gasoline price increase."

"Until we've had an opportunity to study the budget in detail I'm afraid we can't offer any useful comment."

Jim McAvity, president of the Canadian Export Association, said the government gave no indication of coming to grips with the problem of rising wages.

High wages were a major problem for exporters now. The price of gasoline was going to hurt low-income people who have to take their cars to work, he said.

Mr. McAvity said the government was "stingy" in allowing only a five-per-cent tax credit for new building and machinery investment.

He agreed with medical and unemployment insurance reductions, but expressed disappointment that the budget did not indicate what would be done about income from foreign sources.

Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough and Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell both refused comment, saying any statements would have to come from Premier William Davis in the legislature today.

The Ontario government has harshly criticized any proposed contained pledges to restrain the growth of federal spending, but made no radical policy switches. Wage and price restraints were rejected. (CP Photo)

No Radical Policy Shifts

Finance Minister John Turner delivered a budget Monday in Ottawa that

Questions About Budget Answered

OTTAWA (CP) — Questions you might be asking about Monday's federal budget:

Q—What's it going to cost me?

A—Ten cents a gallon more on auto gasoline today and on other five cents a gallon by August. The 15-cent increase is a special excise tax on gasoline "in proportion" to the other five cents results from $1.50-a-barrel crude oil price increase price to 8 effective July 1. Government has asked industry not to pass this to consumers until present supplies are used up—about six weeks.

The average material using regular gasoline will pay $108 more a year.

Q—Will it cost more to use the bus?

A—It probably will be cheaper, although bus companies having trouble with fuel by the five-cent increase July 1. The 15-cent increase will not apply to commercial users or to government vehicles — federal, provincial or municipal.

Q—What about home heating?

A—Heating oil will be up five cents a gallon as a result of the July 1 rise in crude prices.

If you use natural gas, it's going to cost more to heat your home and office. The wholesale price at Toronto for Alberta gas will rise to $1.25 for 1,000 cubic feet from the current 82 cents, effective Nov. 1. Minister of energy Donald Macdonald said.

The budget exempts all home heating equipment and fuel from five-per-cent consumption or sales tax in order to cut down on use of fuel.

Q—What about income taxes?

A—Up, but "only if you're making $25,365 or more a year," Finance Minister John Turner announced $250 in 1975.

Q—Doesn't there any decreases in taxes?

A—Yes. November's special excise tax on wine is dropped, saving about 25 cents a bottle (if provincial liquor stores pass it along.)

Q—What about wages?

A—Finance Minister John Turner says wages and salaries have been rising faster than those in the U.S., where a recession already has cut into Canadian exports — a sensitive and bolstering product. He asks for moderation in wage increases in coming months.

Q—What's he going to do about jobs?

A—He's putting a $1-billion brake on federal spending that he says has created "painful" effects, including another year of public service wage increases, and will try to check the slowdown in health, unemployment insurance and other programs.

Q—Health?

A—Hospital and medical care insurance costs to the federal government will total about 36 billion this year, a rise of nearly 20 per cent. He'll put a 15-per-cent ceiling on medical care increases in 1976-77, 10.5 the next year, and 8.5 after that. He has also given the provinces the legally-required five years' notice of plans to amend the hospital insurance act. The message to hospitals and the medical profession is to introduce less costly alternatives.

Q—What about unemployment insurance?

A—Premiums for you and your employer will go up and benefits will be tightened. If you're fired for misconduct or quit without good reason, or were take a suitable job, you'll have to wait six weeks, instead of three, to claim benefits.

Those over 65 will be able to claim unemployment insurance, except for a three-week lump sum, but won't have to pay premiums at age 65 if they continue to work.

Q—Jobs are scarce. Is he doing anything about that?

A—$265 million will be added to the Local Initiatives Program (LIP) in the next two years, bringing the total to $1.5 billion. $25 million will be industrial training and $25 million for occupational training in educational institutions, $60 million for student summer jobs in 1976 and $25 million on federal projects in seven-township-area.

Q—How?

A—He says he is going to try to reduce housing and rental costs with new incentives, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. CMHC grants for owner-occupied housing will be doubled to $1,200 and for rented accommodation will go to $900 from $600. CMHC will be given another $200 million to stimulate lending to limited dividend rental projects, buyers of homes under the Assisted Home Ownership Program and to profit and other non-profit agencies.

UIC Costs Up, Benefits Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Employees and employers will have to pay a larger share of unemployment insurance benefit costs beginning in 1976, Finance Minister John Turner said in Monday's budget.

Mr. Turner said the cost of unemployment benefits for the year begun last April 1 is expected to exceed $3.75 billion, up from the $2.3 billion spent last year.

Employee-employer contributions are expected to pay $2 billion but the remainder—$1.75 billion—would have to come from the general treasury.

The government will introduce legislation basing employee-employer contributions on the unemployment rate in the last eight years, Mr. Turner said. This is one federal move to impose restraint on its spending.

Other amendments will penalize persons who quit jobs without just cause, refuse suitable work or are fired for misconduct, forcing them to wait six weeks before obtaining benefits, compared with the present three-week "disqualification" period.

Another change would halt unemployment insurance payments at age 65, when old age pensions start. But persons 65 or older who continue working would pay jobless insurance premiums, as they now do.

The amount of higher premiums remains to be spelled out but contributions from workers and employers until now have covered the cost of the program up to the four-per-cent jobless level. If the unemployment-rate rises above four per cent as it now is, the government must provide the additional funds.

"This will mean some increase in premiums," said Mr. Turner.

Employees now pay premiums of $1.40 for every $100 of weekly insurable earnings to a maximum of $2.80 a week. The employer share is $1.96 for every $100 of weekly earnings to a maximum of $2.80 a week.

This year, the government expects the worst unemployment ever in 35 years. In May, the jobless rate was 7.1 per cent and many experts are predicting higher rates this year.

The financing formula changes affect only the jobless benefits and be included with unemployment in the Unemployment Insurance Act, he said.

The longer disqualification period for persons who are fired from, quit or refuse work "will create a greater incentive to remain at work or to search more actively for a job," Mr. Turner said.

The other change also would reduce the special benefit rate for low-income jobless-benefit claimants, from 75 per cent to 66 2-3 per cent from the present rate.

Housing Outlay Raised

OTTAWA (CP) — An extra $125 million in 1975 for housing in the market, most of it through federally-subsidized home ownership and rental programs, was announced in Monday night's budget speech by Finance Minister John Turner.

The money—about a nine-per-cent increase over the current federal housing budget of $1.4 billion—will be matched by provincial and other non-profit housing agencies.

The new measures include a temporary lowering of mortgage ceilings for new, privately-financed homes, but only modified home ownership and rental programs.

However, in a budget with a theme of austerity, there were no promises to help existing homeowners or persons buying homes in the normal housing market.

Commenting generally on the housing situation, Mr. Turner said residential construction "has been the major domestic source of weakness in the economy."

Recent figures show a drop to 47,193 housing starts in urban areas in the first five months of 1975 from 71,681 in the corresponding period last year.

$40 Million More

OTTAWA (CP) — A tax break worth $40 million to petroleum exploration activity by petroleum and natural gas companies takes effect next Jan. 1, putting at least $40 million more into the hands of back in the industry's hands.

In his budget speech Monday night, Finance Minister John Turner said he will put a series of changes in resource taxation, including a new 25-per-cent allowance for exploration costs that can be deducted from production income to tax calculations.

Turner Sticks To Criticism Of High Wages

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner stuck firm Monday on his position that Canada's high wage settlements may price Canadian goods out of export markets.

Mr. Turner said earlier he said labor-cost increases per unit of output have risen only moderately higher here than in the United States, where inflation has declined less.

He said that when the U.S. pulls out of its recession, it is likely to have a greater improvement in productivity.

Auditor Gets More

OTTAWA (CP) — The auditor of federal government spending will only announced cutbacks to a general policy of restraint in government spending outlined in the new budget Monday night.

In fact, the number of senior people in the auditor-general's office is to be more than tripled.

Soak Rich

OTTAWA (CP) — An income tax surcharge of up to $250 was announced Monday for the top income per cent—or about 200,000—of Canada's 11 million taxpayers.

The increase, announced by Finance Minister John Turner in his budget speech, starts at $1,000 for those with $25,365 in persons and $27,174 for a married taxpayer with two children under age 18.

More to Be Spent To Create Jobs

people for an entire year, federal officials estimated.

$450 million allocated directly to create jobs, $150 million to be spent in the current fiscal year and the remainder during 1976-77—more on a strict schedule of previous spending levels for existing programs.

The provision of $265 million to the Local Initiatives Program will create work projects for the next two winters will mean a potential increase of almost 30 per cent from the amount spent last winter.

Compulsory French Courses Are Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — There is no need for compulsory teaching of two languages in Ontario schools, Education Minister Thomas Wells said in the legislature Monday.

Mr. Wells was commenting on remarks by Keith Spicer, the federal government's language commissioner.

"English is compulsory in the schools of Ontario," Mr. Wells said. "As to whether I think French should be compulsory in the schools of Ontario, my answer to that is no, I don't think it should be."

No Resuscitation Policy Ethical

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Medical Association has upheld a doctor's ethical right to rule against resuscitation of a terminally-ill patient against the advice of its board of directors.

The CMA general council, the organization's 225-member parliamentary body, defeated Monday a motion by the board of directors to strike out a resolution, endorsed at the convention last year, which says it is ethically acceptable for attending doctors to place a "no-resuscitation order" on a patient's order sheet in cases where death is imminent and inevitable.

The board warned that doctors who put the resolution into effect risk legal action.

Legal consultation indicates there is doubt as to the position of a physician who acts in accordance with the resolution, the board said in its report to the CMA annual convention.

The board said the ethical stance already has been taken in another, less specific, resolution, which says doctors should respect the right of a patient to die in dignity and should not resort to extraordinary measures to prolong life.

Few delegates accepted the board's reasoning, although Dr. N. F. Brown of Ottawa, representing the Canadian Medical Protective Association which administers the profession's malpractice insurance program, said he could foresee major problems as a result of the resolution.

Medical conditions can change rapidly, he said, so "is proper to write such an order at an indeterminate time in advance?"

Dr. Brown suggested that instead of making its stand so specific, the CMA should work out the criteria for making non-resuscitation orders, which might include consultation with other doctors and a patient's family.

Dr. J. E. Moriarty of Calgary, chairma of the CMA's council on community health, said, however, that "As a physician, I am perfectly capable of recognizing when medical intervention will not make any difference."

Dr. Chris Varvis, an Edmonton cardio-vascular specialist, member of the CMA's board of directors, said the profession should not let legal considerations determine medical ethics.

Lewis Wants Stored Oil Sold at Old Prices

TORONTO (CP) — Oil companies should not be allowed to increase their prices in Ontario until they've depleted inventories, Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, said in the legislature Monday.

Mr. Lewis said last week his researchers have determined there will be 50 million barrels of oil stockpiled in Ontario by July 1 that were extracted, refined and processed at $6.50 a barrel.

If a price increase is unaccompanied by a lengthy changeover period, he said, companies would reap a windfall profit by selling stockpiled oil at new prices.

Must Educate Disabled Now

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for Bess Brunelle, Ontario community and social services minister, said Monday the province will have to carry out a court decision making it liable for the education of children with learning disabilities.

He was commenting on a recent ruling of the Ontario Supreme Court which overthrew a 1973 departmental decision denying financial assistance for special training for David Bru , 15, of Kitchener.

Robert Ketton, executive assistant to the minister, said it will cost "a considerable amount" to fall in line with the court decision, though he did not think it would run into the millions of dollars.

Violets Bloom Year Round

By ROSS HAWTHORNE
Staff Reporter

Unusual is the house plant that will bloom under household conditions. Even more unusual is a house plant that will bloom continually throughout the year, proper is the same temperature and humidity ranges that you enjoy, provide you with a wide variety of colors, styles and flowers and foliage, and is so easy to propagate that two plants can become several hundred in less than a year. (My wife, Maureen, did just that.)

You see, she's an African Violet fancier, a grower of the delightful house plant whose true name is Saintpaulia. No, they are not a violet, but they were first discovered in Northeast Tanganyika in Africa in 1892.

Now there are hundreds of fanciers just like her right here in Belleville. And if you want to see their handiwork, be sure and visit the Belleville Garden Club's Rose, African Violet and House Plant Show at Centennial Secondary School, Saturday, June 28 from 2:30 to 9 p.m. and Sunday, June 29, 1 to 5 p.m.

Perhaps you'll become interested and if you do, you'll find that the myth that the African Violet is hard to grow is purely that. Actually, they are quite simple to grow and propagate. But similar to any other creative activity — painting, sculpture, sewing or cooking — it takes time, effort and practice to grow them well.

But growing African Violets, bringing them to flower and propagating them does not depend on secret knowledge or the hypothetical "green thumb". All that is involved is an understanding of the violet's basic and simple cultural needs. Which are: light, temperature, ventilation, watering, feeding and — our secret (!) soil mix.

No, the African Violet is not shy of light, except full sun. In winter, a south window. In spring, summer or fall, an east or west window. But never a north window. Not if you want them to bloom. But best of all, grow your violets under two 48" fluorescent fixtures, high in red rays, 14 to 15 hours a day.

The violet likes the temperatures you do — 72 to 75 degrees during the day and night temperatures in the low 60s. Avoid excesses such as the 90s or 50s. They like fresh air, but don't like direct drafts any more than you do.

They do like water, but again not in excess. Nor too hot nor too cold. Never allow the soil to become soggy, but keep it evenly moist. When the soil surface begins to feel dry to the touch — it's time to water. About twice a week is usual, but never, never with water from the tap. Let it stand until it assumes room temperature. Otherwise it will cause leaf spotting and buds will not set. Water sometimes from the top and sometimes by setting the plant in water so that the pot is half immersed. When watering from the top, use a long-spouted watering can and avoid wetting the leaves and crown.

We feed with a fertilizer with a 15-45-15 formula, diluted half strength, about once a month.

And now our secret soil mix. Mix 6 cups of sterilized soil, 6 cups of medium vermiculite, 6 cups of crushed charcoal and a teaspoon of powdered fungicide. Mix separately: 6 cups of fine peat, 6 cups of perlite and a tablespoon of powdered limestone. Wet with the aforementioned fertilizer solution and mix well. Then mix both batches thoroughly and store in a clean plastic bag.

That's all there is to it, except getting started. And since they'll be selling plants at the Belleville Garden Club Show, I can't think of a better time and place.

Bargains Galore At Flea Market

BANCROFT — Campers from far and wide, arrived at Spurr Beach Campground, 3 miles south of Bancroft on Saturday for the first annual Swap and Sell.

If you needed a kitchen tent, gas stove, sleeping bags or paper plates, they could be found on the tables set up for the sale.

An idea originated by Bev and Ted Wallis, who operate the campgrounds, the sale was geared to let campers try and update equipment.

According to the campers who participated in the event, some good bargains were there for the taking.

Mr. Wallis said later the swap and sell will become a yearly activity on the grounds.

Flight of Mercy

LONDON (CP) — Two sisters, Audrey Taffe 48, and Vera Jenner 53, planned to fly to Florida to try to save the life of their brother Charles Cantor, 51. They each volunteered one of their kidneys for transplant in an attempt to save him from total kidney failure.

A New Twist

The first annual campers swap and sell was held during the weekend at Spurr Beach Camp grounds. Here local residents Rick MacIver examines an item on sale. The event gave campers a chance to improve on their equipment.

Playing it Cool

The cool, clear water of Paudash Lake attracted residents from the Bancroft area this weekend. The lake provided an ideal retreat from the sticky 30 degree weather.

Beaches Fill Quickly When Weather Hot

BANCROFT — When the mercury hit 30 degrees celsius in Bancroft and North Hastings Sunday, the traditional exodus to area lakes and beaches got under way.

The North Hastings area is noted for its numerous lakes and the availability of cool clear water.

The Paudash Beach park is operated by the Ministry of Natural Resources and is open, free to the public.

On Sunday, several hundred people made use of the facilities provided by the province and . . . did it ever feel good!

Auction Popular

BANCROFT — One sure fired way to make money during this season of the year is to hold an auction.

The Bancroft flying club's annual auction to raise funds for the operation of the club and the flying strip was held on Saturday and pigged to a full house.

In items that ranged from airplane wheels and children's toys through to an automatic washer and a dune buggy, auctioneer Ray Leary managed to clear out a full hanger'ed goods for sale.

Items for the sale were donated to the club or sold on consignment.

Auction Draws Crowd

The Bancroft Flying Club held its annual auction Saturday in the club hanger. Here auctioneer Ray Leary asks for bids on one of the many items up for grabs.

Today's Child

By Helen Allen

JOHN

You may guess from the serious look John wears for the photographer, this this 10-year-old is a bit shy with strangers. But John is a friendly even-tempered fellow who becomes talkative and outgoing as soon as the strangeness wears off.

Handsome, slightly built, healthy John has big dark-blue eyes brown wavy hair and fair skin. He is Irish in descent.

Average in ability John is finishing grade four. He gets on well with his classmates but since his foster home is some distance from school and he has to catch the bus, he doesn't stay for after-school games.

John likes swimming and riding a mini-bike. Living in the country he has both opportunity and space for safe riding.

For this youngster one of the attractions about a rural life is the animals. There are dogs, chickens and rabbits at his foster home. John likes them all and is conscientious when entrusted with responsibility for them. You'd think he might aim at being a farmer or a veterinarian but he says he wants to be a policeman.

John isn't the kind of child who likes every minute of his day programmed. He does best in a casual atmosphere where the few rules are understood and firmly enforced.

John needs loving relaxed parents who enjoy sharing activities with their children. He should be the youngest in the household.

To inquire about adopting John please write to Today's Child Ministry of Community and Social Services Box 200 Station K Toronto M4P 3E2. In your letter please tell something of your present family and your way of life.

Kiwanis Debate Women's Year

It was a lively ladies night at the Quinte Kiwanis Monday.

Kiwanis For 'Men Only'

An informal survey of the wives of members at the Quinte Kiwanis was taken, Monday, about the recent vote to exclude women as active members.

One woman said she did not want any part of a men's club, while another said women have enough of their own clubs.

Another, whose husband has been a member for four years said, "It should be up to the individual. There should be no restrictions."

One wife said she would "go along with the majority."

When asked if any belonged to service clubs, they all answered they didn't belong.

Members and their wives were treated to an informative lecture on International Women's Year by two speakers from the federal government.

The two women, Sharon Mintz and Anne Belrose, field workers for the Privy Council Secretariat, then opened the floor to questions and the fun began.

Initially, the men in the audience were taking the road during the informal session, posing questions to the two women about women's rights, womens libbers and just what the program broad.

The two speakers said IWY was not instigating a battle of the sexes but was just attempting to change attitudes about and improve the status of women in Canada.

Canada already had laws guaranteeing equal status for women, they said and it was now just a process of getting parents, men and women, to start acting them out.

Arguments citing the Bible, animal behavior and the current role and acceptance of the role by woman, were presented to substantiate the men's claims for holding the status-quo.

One woman in the audience said it was not a battle of sexes but rather of generations.

The final words of the meeting, which ran an hour longer than scheduled, were by the wife of a member.

Commenting on whether or not a housewife's job was important, she said:

"Any job is important when someone makes you feel it is important."

Women Are People

Federal speaker for International Womens Year addressing the weekly meeting of the Quinte Kiwanis Monday. The lecture produced some lively discussion from both sides of the lecture, with all participating agreeing the talk was beneficial.

As a Writers' Union Member, Atwood Helps New Writers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Margaret Atwood has spent 10 years making her way to one of the top rankings in Canadian literature. Now she has chosen to help younger writers along that road.

Miss Atwood, 35, is working in the Writers' Union of Canada with members from as far as Pierre Berton and Farley Mowat to help new talent become established.

The union is concerned with working out a minimum compensation for writers of fiction and non-fiction.

Miss Atwood said an established writer can command higher terms.

"Some publishers start the author's royalties at anything from five to eight per cent, to 10 per cent across-the-board without a contract," she said. "But a young writer may be offered two per cent."

Success and recognition for Margaret Atwood came with the publication of her book, The Edible Woman, 1969; Power Politics, 1971; Surfacing and Survival—A Thematic Guide to Canadian Literature.

In addition, she has written fiction and features for magazines, studied English, attended graduate school at Harvard University, taught Victorian and American English at St. George Williams University in Montreal, and travelled in Europe.

She said money ranks low on her scale of values. Her earnings some years are more than $18,000 and she adds she feels happy as long as she has enough money to devote her time to writing.

"Success came as a surprise and dramatically changed my life," Miss Atwood said. "I have to make a constant effort to get time and privacy."

Those luxuries are based on her 70-acre farm in Alliston, Ont., where she lives with a menagerie of animals when she isn't working with the writers' union or travelling on promotion tours.

Margaret Atwood has spent about 10 years gaining acclaim and finally moved her way to one of the top positions in Canadian literature. Now she is working with the Writer's Union of Canada with members such as Pierre Berton and Farley Mowat to help new talent become established. The union is concerned with working out a minimum compensation for writers of fiction and non-fiction.

Typist Turns Mechanic

She began last July almost by accident. Working as a clerk-typist above a garage at Hewitt Equipment Ltd., about 40 miles from Montreal, she would often ask advice from the mechanics about repairs for her car.

Word got around that she was fixing her car herself and it was suggested she try a one-year Caterpillar diesel mechanic course.

"It was hard when I first began and it took some of the men quite long time to accept me, but it is much better now," she says.

Miss Fry had no formal mechanical training before the course. And she had another disadvantage — she is learning to speak French because many of the instructors spoke little English.

Despite these difficulties she will receive her diploma some time in October. "When I heard I had passed I started to cry I was so happy."

The course consists of four days a week practical work in the garage and one day in the classroom. "It's heavy work, and although I'm quite strong for a girl, I'm the type who help lift heavy things. My instructors take me to lift other my share of the work, but what could I do?"

Miss Fry's training began on components, progressed to engines and finished with diesel machinery such as tractors, road graders and bulldozers. She can run almost any piece of equipment Hewitt has, "the easiest part."

The new earns $3.30 a hour, but when she graduates her pay jumps to $4.05 a hour.

She said most people expected her to go back to office work after she finished the course.

There's lots of office openings for people with my experience and I've spent a year learning this stuff and I want to use it."

First Women's Bank Opens in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — After three years of trying to raise capital and meet state requirements, the First Women's Bank says it will be certified soon and will begin full operation in the fall.

The bank bills itself as the first commercial bank to be non-discriminatory in hiring, promotion and credit policies and first to place special emphasis on meeting the financial needs of women.

"Some people thought we'd never get off the ground," said Madelite McWhinney, the bank's president. "But the bank has generated so much enthusiasm people are already sending in deposits. It was definitely an idea whose time had come."

Bank officers say it will be a full service bank that will make special efforts to create career opportunities for women. They also say they plan to advance credit and loans to women who are having trouble getting financial help from other established banks.

Although Congress has passed the Equal Credit Opportunity Act which bans sex discrimination in credit, Miss McWhinney said many banks don't want to bother with women as customers and consider them poor risks.

"It's an attitude that takes a long time to change. Many banks have failed to catch up with the fact that women are good customers, that they have the jobs and the money to invest. Opening our bank is a step in letting women know that their needs will be met."

The First Women's Bank will be open to men and women. There are five men on the board of directors along with president Betty Friedan, designer Pauline Trigere and advertising executive Jane Trahey.

Miss McWhinney said an important part of the bank's business will be counselling and reference. She said she hopes to have a library of financial and consumer information and eventually hold seminars on money management and investment.

Miss McWhinney, who is married but prefers to use her maiden name for business, came to the Women's Bank after 30 years with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York where she was its highest-ranking female officer.

She said that the bank has 7,000 shareholders who have bought shares at $15 a share to help raise the $3 million necessary for capitalization.

The bank's temporary, cluttered offices are in a windowless basement. It plans eventually to move into permanent, above-ground offices.

"People ask me if it is their bank," said Miss McWhinney. "They ask up and down from out of town to see how we're doing. Now we can tell them it really will be open soon."

Heads Centre

OTTAWA (CP) — Dorothy Sotz, a volunteer for nearly six years at the Ottawa Distress Centre, has been named executive director of the organization. She is a former assistant editor of The Canadian Nurse, magazine of the Canadian Nurses' Association.

Good Old Tasteless White Bread — The Aristocracy Popularized It

OTTAWA (CP) — Good old tasteless white bread. You can thank your ancestors, lower-class ancestors for the stuff in its countless neat rows on supermarket shelves—bland fodder for the masses.

White bread, which today uses super-refined flour with numerous chemical additives to prolong shelf life, originally was developed for an aristocracy that didn't want to taint its lips on common loaves.

True to form, the lower classes decided they'd like it too and put pressure on the bakers. It's still what they want. Is by far the best seller, if not the best buy from a nutrition viewpoint.

The agriculture department's food advisory service suggests that you try making your own, saying persuasively that "bread-making is not only fun, but it's rewarding too."

The dough sighs and bubbles, seemingly with contentment, as fingers mould it toward a 375-degree climax in the oven. Then there's the intense satisfaction of watching people nearly inhaling the still-warm slices, their chins dripping melted butter.

That's if it works. But it also needs to care, patience and a little practice.

Home-made bread isn't cheap, thanks to the escalating cost of ingredients. You'll find it costs slightly less than good commercial bread, but may cost more than home-made bread good available in most supermarkets. Your reward is the enjoyment of making it yourself.

The agriculture department offers two recipes, both for white bread basically the same as commercial bread but without the additives. The other is for whole-wheat bread, that dark, chewy and almost nutty-flavored stuff that's more nutritious and much tastier than its pale relative.

The whole-wheat recipe for two loaves calls for:

1 teaspoon of sugar
½ cup of lukewarm water
1 package of active dry yeast
1½ cups of hot milk
¼ cup of molasses
1 tablespoon of salt
½ cup of shortening
5- to 5½ cups of whole-wheat flour

Dissolve one teaspoon sugar in water and sprinkle yeast over top. Let stand 10 minutes. Combine next four ingredients, stirring occasionally until molasses melts and cool to lukewarm. Add yeast mixture. Add enough flour to three cups flour. Work in remaining flour to form stiff dough.

Turn onto board and knead until smooth and elastic (eight to 10 minutes). Shape into ball and place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Let rise rising, cover and let stand in warm place (85 degrees fahrenheit or 29 Celsius) until double in bulk (about 1½ hours). Punch down, divide in halves, cover and let rest 10 minutes.

A helpful hint: keep some of the flour called for in the recipe to dust your hands when kneading the bread. This keeps the moist dough from sticking to your skin.

Once the dough has "rested" for the 10 minutes, shape it into two elongated loaves and place in greased bread pans, measuring nine inches by five inches.

Brush the tops of the loaves with melted fat and cover them with a clean dish towel—not one with the fuzzy finish—and let them stand in a warm place until they double in bulk again. This should take about 90 minutes.

When that's done, slap them into the oven and bake them for 30 to 40 minutes at 375 degrees fahrenheit.

By the way, have a peek or two while they're baking. Bread's tougher than cakes or meringues and won't collapse if you open the oven door momentarily.

When the bread looks done, wait a little while before you take it out. This will give the bread time to cool slightly. "Besides that will likely will get your saliva glands off to a good start before you tuck into the fresh bread, a food that goes back thousands of years.

The Hebrews, Egyptians and Chinese first made flat cakes of flour-and-water dough. This was baked without leaven, the sour wheat paste that fermented and made the cakes rise.

The discovery is generally credited to the ancient Egyptians, who used left-over dough that had gone sour. This was mixed with grape juice, kneaded in with fresh flour and dried in the sun.

Leavened bread spread quickly, but did not supplant the old unleavened cakes, the only bread known to Roman soldiers. In the Middle Ages, they were called "trenchers," which were used as plates and dishes and either eaten after the meal or tossed to the poor.

Incidentally, that's the origin of the word "trencherman," used to describe someone who eats heartily, but manages to stop short of glutony.

Polygamy 'African Women's Curse'

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — "Polygamy is the shame and the curse of African women," says High Court Justice Annie Jiagge, a leader in the crusade for women's rights.

Mrs. Jiagge is often seen rising up behalf of "sisters everywhere" at United Nations conferences on human rights, is the only woman on Ghana's seven-member Court of Appeal, the highest court in the land.

She made her indictment of Africa's widespread polygamous marriages in an interview before heading off to Europe and the United States for speeches and meetings relating to International Women's Year.

Asian Moslems content themselves with four wives, but in Africa they have so many, they use them as carpeta," she said. "At today's prices, I don't know how any man can afford more than one."

Justice Jiagge conceded that Ghanaian women, who have enjoyed equal pay and job opportunities since the former Gold Coast attained Commonwealth status in 1957, are among the most liberated in Africa, if not the world. They own 90 per cent of small businesses and most of the fishing boats and operate a growing number of agricultural co-operatives.

The Akan tribe in Ashanti country, which takes in nearly half of the country's nine million population, is a matrilineal society whose property and titles descend through the female line.

"A friend of mine in New York wrote recently that she had been turned down for a bank loan because she did not have a husband," Mrs. Jiagge said.

In Ghana, that bank would be in deep trouble with the law. Here loans are easily available to women owning roadside stalls and banding together in a small farm co-operative. You can see the changes in the people. They dress better and eat better. They're pulling down the mud huts and putting up real houses."

Mrs. Jiagge lamented that Ghanaian women's most lingering problem is "lack of knowledge of their legal rights, especially in country areas where illiteracy is common." She wants the government to install television sets in the marketplaces and broadcast special women's programs.

Trained in law at the London School of Economics and Lincoln's Inn, the former criminal lawyer has a reputation for being a tough judge with a low tolerance for long-winded lawyers.

"She may look kittenish under that court wig but she can really sock it to you," said an Accra court reporter who recalled her icy demeanor in disposing of two black students from Detroit who ran afoul of the authorities at Ghana University and expected special consideration on a plea of African brotherhood.

As for long-winded lawyers, she sighed, "African love of rhetoric and the handicap of a weak case induce some of them to go on and on to express a client. We have ways of dealing with that, too. When they see the judges have stopped taking notes and begun a serious study of the ceiling, they get the message."

Doris Clark

Grandmother Needs Assistance Now

Dear Doris: I read the letter from "Worried Grandaughter", who thinks her grandmother, of 94 ought to be in a nursing home.

If the son, who has a heart condition, is having trouble keeping the apartment clean, perhaps it is time that relatives started lending a hand.

Once they put it cleaned up they could take turns in keeping it tidy. Surely the bachelor uncle, if well approached, would not mind having a visiting nurse come in every two or three days, and if some money is needed family members could chip in.

Remember, flowers on her coffin will not help her in any way. She needs you all now.

I used to have a wonderful grandmother. She is no longer here for me to look after and write to and I miss her. Enjoy yours. — D.M.

Dear D.M.: Thank you for your message. I hope "Worried Granddaughter" is reading us thanks to you.

Confidential to rdecief: Do you think your mother might have had better rapport with your son were he was in his early teens? Confidence then could have meant trust in-you now.

At that age, bring away from home if bound to help your son become more mature and is probably the best solution for the moment. Don't forget that young people are likely to appreciate their parents more from a distance and deserve a chance to spread their wings.

Just let your son know that you will always love him and be ready to lend an ear when he comes to you with you with a problem he can't solve. Then he will see home as a haven in the world.

Confidential To "An Anxious Tiner": Thanks for thanks for forwarding the Green Mountain Justice. It has now been sent along to the first addressee.

Ann Landers

Reader Lets Ignorant Woman Know That Men Determine Child's Sex

Dear Ann Landers: I'm no gynecologist but I am amazed that there are still people around in this day and age who don't understand the basic facts of life.

I refer to the woman who was looking for having her left ovary removed (if you approved) so that she could be sure of producing a baby girl.

I have no college degree and I'm not particularly well read but I am amused to discover that a person who lives in the latter part of the 20th century and can read and write does not know that the male sperm determines the sex of the child at the moment of conception.

I suppose now, when the dodo reads this, she will write and ask you if it is all right to have her husband's left testicle cut off. I hope she at least has the good sense to write to you first. Mrs. M.

Dear Mrs. M.: That makes two of us. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband works for his father and uncle. The uncle owns the house we all live in. It has a tenant, who is very old, and not my idea of an ideal place to live. My husband and I and our two young children, ages 4 and 6 have a small apartment that consists of five rooms. There are other relatives in this house — grandparents and another sister and her husband.

The problem is this: Almost everyone leaves the house the children can wander in and out of the other apartments as often as they.

I never saw such a family of pitchers. Worse yet, they all leave their pills out, on the kitchen table, bedstands and dressers. It worries me sick that my children will one day mistake them for candy.

I have asked all the relatives to please put their pills locked up but they say it isn't convenient — that they must keep the pills in sight or they will forget to take them.

Dear Can't Sleep: Go to a drugstore and buy several "child-proof" pill containers. Give them to your frequent pill-popping relatives and show them how they work. Ask them to please transfer their pills into these containers — so you can get a night's sleep.

Improvement Expected In Canadian Economy

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian economy may reach the low point of the current business cycle in the fourth quarter of 1975 and begin improving soon afterwards, the senior economist of the Royal Bank of Canada said Monday.

J. Ross Peters told the Canadian Association of Equipment Distributors that the country's gross national product (GNP) is expected to rise about five per cent next year, compared with little growth this year.

"In 1976, the upturn should be led by revivals in consumer outlays and housing with government still a strong factor," he said. "The weaker sectors next year will continue to be inventories and net exports."

U.S. Retains Option Of Using Nuclear Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Monday the United States retains "an option" of using strategic nuclear weapons in Korea.

Speaking in response to questions, Nessen said the option provides the U.S. with "a capability for flexibility in its response" to any hostile forces.

The White House spokesman insisted there was nothing new about this and said: "It's a matter that has been addressed in public statements and documents for three or four years."

Asked whether President Ford would renounce first use of nuclear weapons, Nessen said he was not prepared to get into such details.

On Friday, Defence Secretary James Schlesinger said the United States "cannot foreclose any options" including the use of nuclear weapons in the defence of South Korea against any invasion from the North.

400 Million People Lack Adequate Food

ROME (AP) — A United Nations report presented at the first meeting of the World Food Council Monday said that there are 400 million starving or seriously malnourished people on the earth.

"If there is to be peace in the world, there must be enough food to alleviate hunger everywhere," John Hannah of the United States, director of the council, told the 36-nation group.

Education Board Rejects Principals' Claim of Right to Strike

By RON CARROW
Staff Reporter

The Hastings County Board of Education Monday night endorsed a section of a proposed provincial education legislation which would prevent principals and vice-principals from striking with teachers.

Despite protests from area principals who claim federations the board instructed Eric Bunnacom, director of education, to inform the Ontario Public School Trustees Association (OPSTA) of its decision.

The controversial legislation, which has received its second reading in the legislature and if passed would make school board - teacher negotiations, says principals and vice-principals are essential employees and are not permitted to take part in a strike vote or strike. However, the legislation does allow them to remain members of their federation.

Stirling trustee Donald Williams, who said he sees the legislation as a good compromise, added he just sees that there would be any breakdowns between the relation that exists between principals and their teachers.

Most principals, and all federations, have argued that the principal is the principal teacher and not necessarily the principal administrator. Principals are concerned the legislation would alienate them from their teachers.

Trenton trustee John Forbes said he could not conceive of any principal anything other than management. "The board hires these people to manage the schools," he added.

Belleville trustee Richard Williams said he could see no purpose in keeping principals in the school at the time of a strike anyway. Mr. Williams along with trustees Robert Ord and John Forbes failed to endorse the legislation.

Belleville trustee Robert Ord, who said he disagrees with the intention of the entire act, said he didn't think either teachers or principals should have the right to strike. He referred to education as an "essential service". Mr. Ord said the government did "the expedient thing in bringing down the legislation".

Mr. Forbes, after hearing that the principals want to retain the same rights as the teachers, said the principals "want to have the cake and eat it too". Mr. Ord told his fellow trustees the government should have made a decision one way or the other rather than trying to reach a compromise.

The board's vice-chairman Miriam Graham said delegates to the recent OPSTA conference at London were split on the issue and many wanted it take a black and white position. Mrs. Graham, who favored the legislation, said some wanted to exclude principals from their federations.

Belleville trustee Ed Paquet argued the real issue is the new legislation involved the prospect of use of teachers to negotiate any working conditions.

"This board should take a stand on what it is and what is not negotiable at the table," said Mr. Paquet who also said the principal issue was not of prime importance.

Council Defers Action On Downtown Control

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City council Monday night temporarily shelved a motion from an immediate decision on a proposed amendment to the controlling development in the city's downtown preferred area.

Council agreed to send the ordinance back for further legal clarification after some of its implications were questioned by city councillor Paul Russell.

Ald. Russell said he was concerned because the proposed measure — which would see city council adjudicate the proposed development in the city's key commercial core — was not clear on the rights of an owner who sought to restore property inadvertently damaged, lost by fire, or other incidents beyond his control.

The bylaw's definition says such a case could put a merchant "out of business permanently" when merely trying to replace what he had lost.

The bylaw should only apply in new development not to effect urban renewal, said the alderman.

Ald Arthur Keegan said he wondered if there should not have been more input into the bylaw from local realtors and builders, while discovering what similar measures other municipalities had contemplated.

Ald. Joe Cox noted the bylaw had been sent back by city council's Subordinate Planning and Advisory Committee (SPAC) which included a representative of downtown businessmen.

Along with the bylaw SPAC also suggested that the city's urban renewal study, completed some years ago, should also be reviewed for relevance along with the bylaw. If appropriate it should be accorded "some status" as a development plan.

Mayor Robin Jeffery agreed it was "absolutely essential that we update the feeling" on the renewal study in tandem with the bylaw.

(SPAC) also stressed development of procedures to approve applications for development under the bylaw — originally prompted by the city's industrial commission.

But such decision "must always" remain with council, Mayor Robin Jeffery said.

The commission's only interest was to have some scheme of systematic controls available as indications to potential developers why they should locate in the area because of the type of controls in existence.

The area involved is bounded by Coleman and Pinnacle streets, reaching from East Dundas to the Upper Bridge.

The bylaw would give council powers covering all future new development and the right to require developers to meet certain standards including future maintenance.

A similar measure is in effect for subdivision development.

Two-year-old In Hospital

Hospital spokesman said today the condition of Rosemary Waters, 2, of 87 Frost St., is stable. She sustained head injuries in the fall.

Work Stoppage

Germans Pick Up Tab

That $1,000 city council requisitioned to reciprocate the civic welcome given Belleville's guests on their recent friendship flight to Lahr, their West German municipal twin?

Well, Lahr's local government without much of it when it came time to settle accounts, Mayor Jeffery revealed in city council Monday.

The Lahr officials — who had staged two official receptions for the Bellevillians — helped by organizing the Belleville reception in their own municipal quarters.

When city manager Wilbur Purcell tried to square expenses, all his Lahr counterparts would accept was $500, said the mayor.

Bus Service Reduced During Summer Test

In an attempt to cut costs of its deficit-ridden services, Belleville Transit Commission (BTC) has proposed a trial reduction in services:

Transit Commission chairman Marylea Burtt said in a telephone interview today "We'll be closing down the bus operation each evening at 8:45 p.m. — two hours earlier than usual."

Mrs. Burtt said she does not know what the total savings will be as a result of the action and that "a number of details surrounding the summer hours will be discussed at a commission meeting tonight."

The move will mean a cutback in employees' hours but we haven't exactly figured it out yet," she said.

City council agreed with the test Monday night.

It was one suggestion produced by regular meetings now held by the BTC with its employees every two months, Mayor Robin Jeffrey said.

Frank Morrell, city treasurer, said a recent study had turned up "significant information" giving "firm indication" that the BTC's buses are "not being used in the evening".

Bus Shelters Ready

Belleville Transit Commission has completed construction of three new bus shelters at various points in the city for commuter convenience.

The three shelters were erected by transit commission staff and all are placed on raised cement slabs. All are of the same type placed on Front St. by the Downtown Board of Management.

The shelters are located at the intersections of Haig and Bridge Sts., West and McFarland Ave. and Dundas and Avondale Rd.

A spokesman for the commission said shelters are being placed at the busiest locations. Other shelters have been planned. Six more shelters have been approved for construction next year.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance during the last 24 hours ending 8 a.m. today.

2:14 p.m., June 23—Firemen were called to Green's Auto Wreckers where torch cutting operations apparently set a car on fire.

3:27 p.m., June 23 — Firemen were called to Sidney Ins., West Moira St., for an overheated compressor motor.

Council Briefs

Meeks Cools Off

He told city council Monday night he will make a motion at its next meeting that August be declared Sports Shirt Month.

Sports shirts should also be "acceptable dress" at official functions during the month, he said.

City council Monday night approved the report of city manager Wilbur Purcell for leasing the Lehigand Inland dock in Victoria Park from the Belleville Harbor Commission and sub-leasing its operation to the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

Annual rental by the yacht club is $100.

Subject to approval of the commission the sub-lease also allows the club to install a light concrete deck on the dock.

Parking Bylaw Passed

Prohibition of unauthorized parking — except for loading a city merchant and businessman — officially became illegal Monday night.

City council approved a bylaw suggested earlier by Police Chief Douglas Crosbie to city hall's traffic committee, laying out the authorized procedure for ticketing and prosecution.

Swimming Ban Extended

The ban on swimming in Belleville's harbor area has been broadened.

Monday night city council prohibited swimming from the boat launching ramp near the Wharf St. Debating Club.

Three weeks ago it moved to bar swimming from all city facilities in Victoria Park, flanked by the harbor and the Moira River. Meantime, council agreed with its Harbor Improvement Committee and committee — because of the bans — a designated swimming site be found close by.

Volunteers Get Insurance

The city's Harbor Improvement Area committee started with a tradition of volunteer help for its projects — thus reducing expenses to the city treasury.

But Monday night it successfully asked that such volunteers be covered by accident insurance.

The premium, explained committee chairman Ald. Stu Meeks, was $125 for 25 volunteers — $5 for each additional volunteer.

Houses to Come Down

City council Monday passed three bylaws to demolish — or remove — three houses earlier declared unfit for human habitation.

It followed action by the Hasting-Prince Edward Counties Health Unit under the Public Health Act. The houses are at 65, 66 and 74 Frank St.

Tenders Rejected

City council found Monday night all three tenders submitted for the painting contract were not suitable.

Tow bids — Ashley & Leland ($7,786) and Jl. Schmoll Reconstruction ($12,650) were way above the budget estimate of $3,800.

A third bidder — Hubert Lawrence — had submitted a tender for only $500.

But city hall officials had not acquired further information from him.

The project will be turned over to city hall maintenance staff for "further action" within budget estimates.

City Offers $2,000 To Keep EMO Afloat

Belleville Monday night became the latest municipality willing to stave off shutdown of the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization.

QEMO's executive — headed by Mayor Robin Jeffrey — suggested the organization could be salvaged until the years's end if member municipalities could contributed more funds — almost $7,000 in total.

Trenton and Picton already has agreed to the sharing.

Monday Belleville city council moved to add $2,000 to the total, while waiving another $1,000 in rental charges for QEMO's offices in Ben Bleecker Auditorium.

Bargain-hunters

More than 20 people were lined-up in front of the Liquor Control Board on Station Street Monday, most waiting to see the bargains on various brands. The expected decreases were only on two brands at the store. Jim Matthews, manager of the store said "We had several brands but they were sold at the regular prices over the weekend."

Gun Control Legislation Gains Approval Of City Council

Belleville city council has called for tighter controls on gun sales in Ontario.

The move came Monday night as council agreed with a resolution of Ald. Arthur Keegan who said action on firearms "was needed before the province "became an armed camp."

Under present laws it's easier to buy a "lethal weapon than a bottle of whiskey, he claimed.

His proposal evoked strong protest from fellow councillor Stu Meeks who warned that the only answer to gun violence is the strict enforcement of current laws against criminals.

But, Ald. Keegan said, he feared the situation was compounded by a faltering economy that induced increased violent robbery.

His resolution, supported by Ald. Jean Smith, asked council to express its concern to the Ontario government over the "loose way" firearms are sold in the province.

It suggested legislation for a "serious problem" by controls of gun sales and registration of all firearms in the province.

Ald. Keegan said the need for such legislation is "quite evident" with the "increase in fatalities caused by firearms" in the hands of irresponsible people.

He said he was not opposed to sports clubs or hunters. But he failed to see why anyone should object to having all weapons registered.

"If registration of firearms would reduce the slaughter of innocent people they I suggest that all holders of guns be so licensed before shells can be purchased," he said.

Present federal gun control legislation proposed last year had not moved beyond the Senate, he claimed and a "great deal of lobbying" could be caused by such a resolution as he proposed.

Nonetheless, he asked council to show its concern that Ontario must take a "fearless stand" to control sale of firearms for "the good of all people and to give the lives of innocent people if we can."

Ald. Meeks said he would see such a motion would control gun violence.

"It doesn't matter whether you're a responsible person or not, if someone irresponsible gets hold of a weapon they can cause harm," he said.

For instance, it would not aid a responsible person who has a member of his family "run amok."

Criminals would also still be able to steal guns.

Falls Off Car, Youth Injured

A 20-year-old Trenton man remains in satisfactory condition at Kingston General Hospital today following an accident Monday in which he fell off the hood of a car.

Listed in satisfactory condition with head injuries is Peter Perry, of RR1, Trenton. City police said he and another youth were sitting on the hood of a car, driven by David Ashford, 19, of RR7, Brighton.

Police said the car was westbound on Station St. and turned onto Emily St. when the incident occurred. Police have laid a charge of careless driving.

In a Job-scarce Season, This Student Hires Others

By CASH MAHAFFEY
Staff Reporter

During a summer when many high school and college students say there just isn't a job to be had, and others are working courtesy of government grants, Bill Bonler is an exception.

Bill, 22, is going into final year of the Landscape Technology course at Ryerson in Toronto next fall and he hasn't had to reduce the number of hours he has been allowed to work.

Not only that, he provides employment for as many as six other students.

Five years ago Bill, with some help from his father, Ryner, started a firm called Green Thumb Landscaping. They took on outdoor chores around houses and industries in the Belleville-Trenton area such as grass cutting, hedge trimming and general maintenance. The firm prospered to the point that contracts had to be turned down.

This year, with two years of specialized learning under his belt, Bill incorporated Bonler H. Bonler, Landscaping. He uses the landscape designing and his student-employees bring the designs to life.

"I'm out of the maintenance business now," says Bill. His aim is to put his knowledge of plants, carpentry, masonry and a variety of other skills to work in transforming whatever surroundings he is commissioned to work on.

On Monday, Bill and crew were finishing up a job at 21 George St. that transformed an ordinary city back yard into a beautiful oasis.

The right to strike. He referred to education as an "essential service". Mr. Ord said the government did "the expedient thing in bringing down the legislation".

Mr. Forbes, after hearing that the principals want to retain the same rights as the teachers, said the principals "want to have the cake and eat it too". Mr. Ord told his fellow trustees the government should have made a decision one way or the other rather than trying to reach a compromise.

The board's vice-chairman Miriam Graham said delegates to the recent OPSTA conference at London were split on the issue and many wanted it take a black and white position. Mrs. Graham, who favored the legislation, said some wanted to exclude principals from their federations.

Belleville trustee Ed Paquet argued the real issue is the new legislation involved the prospect of use of teachers to negotiate any working conditions.

"This board should take a stand on what it is and what is not negotiable at the table," said Mr. Paquet who also said the principal issue was not of prime importance.

Finishing Touch

From the boss through to the lowliest employee, one Quinte business keeps students gainfully employed all through the summer. William R. Bonter Landscaping employs up to six students on landscape design and contracting jobs. The "boss", Bill Boner, right, has been n the summer landscaping business since 1970, always with fellow-student employees. A student of Landscape Technology at Ryerson, Bill helps erect final section of screen fence on a residential job. With him on the job are Ryerson classmate Steve Bolton, left, and brother David, a BCI student.

Rick Graham of Howard and Robert Printing dodges the tag of Augur Men's Wear catcher Bob McAlpine and scores. Graham came in from third on an infield hit. Howard and Robert went on to win the Monday night Quinte Fastball League game 8-3.

New Faces on Quinte Fastball League Mound

It was a night of first in Quinte Fastball League play Monday. Of the four starting pitchers to compete in this doubleheader, three were making their first starts of the season.

In the second game Howard and Robert bounced back from a dozen of losses in do-or-die Augur 8-3. In the first game Devolin Motors over Roraback Real Estate 7-5.

Bob Richardson pitched his first complete game of the season for H and R, giving up just five hits and four walks, while gaining two strikeouts.

The loss went to Darryl Kramp, making his first start of the season. He had to be relieved in the top of the second by Bob Swan.

The punch in the Howard and Robert batting order came from Dave Skelton with three singles and a triple, while Rod Ridley ran out an inside the park homerun and also singled.

The win move Howard and Robert into a tie with Devolin for second place.

Hellenic Loses, Olympics Split

In recent Premier Soccer League action Kingston Italo defeated Quinte Hellenics 6-2 and the Belleville Olympics and Kingston Portuguese played to a 2-2 tie.

In the other Premier game, the Olympics got off to a fast start, when Charlie Nestorovski kicked a low drive into the Portuguese net during the first minute of play.

A few minutes later the Kingston team tied it up with a free kick from Peter Laudo hitting the crossbar and going by the Belleville goalie.

Laudo scored again, even though his team was a man short, to give the Portuguese a one-goal lead.

The Belleville team never gave up though, and with five minutes to play Zdravko Fundic slammed a goal into the opposition net.

ETCHEBARREN SOLD BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Andy Etchebarren of Baltimore Orioles has been sold to California Angels for more than the $20,000 waiver price, the American League team said Sunday. A spokesman said the sale was made primarily because Etchebarren, who has spent his 15-year professional career with the Baltimore organization, threatened to retire if he was not moved to his native California. Etchebarren started as the Orioles' No. 1 catcher but was injured twice in the first week and lost the starting role to Dave Duncan.

Expos Beat Themselves

Burris Earns Seventh Win

MONTREAL (CP) — Ray Burris held the Expos to three hits in 7 innings and Chicago Cubs blanked Montreal 6-0 in a National League baseball game Monday night.

RAY BURRIS -

"I felt really strong right through," said Burris who suffered seven losses this, five in the last three innings to record his seventh win in 13 decisions this year.

He denied he was tiring in the late innings, attributing the late hits to the fact his control was not perfect than early in the contest.

He walked Pepe Mangual leadoff of the game but did not walk another batter, striking out six and he retired his second, third and third complete game of the season.

Burris also got three doubles to drive home the Expos had runners aboard.

The Cubs took a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning on a wild pitch and a passed ball. Jose Morales led off with a double and Andy Thornton moved him to third with a single. Morales came home on a wild pitch by Expos starter Fred Scherman and, after Bob Spearing walked and Manny Trillo bit into a double play, Steve Swisher was walked intentionally.

Burris struck out but reached first as Barry Foote let a passed ball get by him, with Thornton racing across third plate.

That, as it turned out, was all the scoring the Cubs really needed, but they added a pair of runs in each of the seventh and eighth innings.

Spearing scored as Mangual got Trillo's hit skip past him for an error and, after Swisher stole second, Burris delivered Trillo with his second single of the game in the seventh.

Thornton pushed Bill Madlock across and Spearing scored Thornton with a triple in the eighth to produce the final Cubs run.

The Expos did not mount a threat against all eight bullpen committed four errors in the field as they suffered only their fourth loss in 14 games.

Singer, Medich Solve Problems

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitchers Doc Medich and Bill Singer tried different ways of breaking out of a slump. Both worked but Singer still ended up a loser.

Medich, 6-9, thinks he fooled himself during his own little game tailspin earlier this year. The losing streak it had one tightened me a little bit," he said after pitching a six-hitter against Baltimore to help New York Yankees beat the Orioles 6-1 Monday night.

Singer, 6-8, thinks he found himself. "Looking at old scrapbooks with my wife, the past three days, just to put myself back in the right frame of mind."

It might have helped his frame of mind but it didn't improve his record. He pitched 11 innings of one-hit ball for California before being hitted, then Texas beat the Angels 1-0 in 13 innings.

In other American League baseball games, Oakland A's edged Minnesota Twins 5-2, Cleveland Indians defeated Boston Red Sox 11-3 and Milwaukee Brewers defeated Detroit Tigers 8-4.

"I tried to keep my spirits up during my long losing streak," Medich said. "I had a bad approach to the game for a couple of starts, but then I sat down and thought about it. The fact that we were winning, even though I wasn't pitching well, lifted me up emotionally."

Thurman Munson had three hits and three runs batted in for New York, two coming on a homer in a decisive three-run third inning.

Singer pitched 3 2-3 innings in his last two starts and was bombarded for 13 runs on 11 hits.

But against the Rangers—who had chased him with six runs in two-thirds of an inning only last Friday, he was brilliant. He allowed Jim Spencer's looping double in the second inning, then was unshakable before giving way to Don Kirkwood at the start of the 7th. He had gone 27 batters without giving up a hit. In other words, he'd pitched nine innings of no-hit ball.

Kirkwood struck out the side in the 12th inning. In the 13th, though, Roy Smalley hit into a force play but reached second when Orlando Ramirez threw the ball away trying for a double play. Then Cesar Tovar singled for the Rangers' third hit and the winning run.

Oakland's Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson drove in two runs each to pace the A's past Minnesota and widen their West Division lead to five games over idle Kansas City. Bando's seventh-inning homer broke a 2-2 tie and gave unbeaten reliever Paul Lindblad his sixth victory.

Frank Duffy drove in five runs with a homer and two doubles to carry Cleveland past the Red Sox. Player-manager Frank Robinson chipped in with a homer and three runs batted in.

Godfrey Still Trying

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto Chairman Paul Godfrey said Monday he will continue his bid for a major-league baseball franchise by attending the leagues' summer meetings July 15-18 in Milwaukee.

Godfrey said he was not disturbed by recent criticism from one alderman that he was spending public money in pursuit of the franchise.

"When you consider we're spending $15 million to get a stadium ready for baseball we're spending a very small amount in seeking a tenant for it."

Jackson Climbs In All-star Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson of Oakland A's, last week fourth among outfielders in balloting for baseball's American League all-star team, was one of three new leaders in figures released Monday by the baseball commissioner's office.

REGGIE JACKSON

Jackson had 500,681 votes to team-mate Joe Rudi's 357,248, who is ahead of Jeff Burroughs of Texas Rangers and Bobby Bonds of New York.

The other new favorites were Oakland's Gene Tenace at first base and Buddy Bell of Cleveland at third.

Tenace drew 414,686 ballots to lead the second of Mike Hargrove of Texas and Baltimore's Lee May, last week's leader.

Rod Carew continues his lead at second base with 1,055,050 to 224,526 for Kansas City's Cookie Rojas. Munson moves ahead of Oakland's Ray Fosse, and Bert Campaneris still is ahead of Milwaukee's Robin Yount.

Voting continues through July 6. The all-star game will be played July 15 in Milwaukee.

Looking at It from Different Angle a Good Angle for Bench

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Variety, they say, is the spice of life. It may also be the key to a runs-batted-in title for Johnny Bench this season.

The Cincinnati star drove in four more runs Monday night, raising his 1975 total to 61 in the 79 games the Reds have played. He hit his 12th home run and sent home another with a double in leading Cincinnati's 8-4 triumph over Atlanta Braves.

In other National League baseball action, Chicago Cubs blanked Montreal Expos 6-0, St. Louis Cardinals swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 1-0 and 6-0, Houston Astros beat Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5, Philadelphia Phillies defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5 and San Diego Padres beat San Francisco Giants 7-6.

"If I can play somewhere else besides catcher about once every 10 days, I do a lot better," said the 27-year-old Bench, top in the league in RBIs and one away from the home run lead.

"It gets awfully heavy behind the plate and I need a rest occasionally. I had caught two weeks straight until tonight and a little weary.

"So he took it easy against the Braves, making the most of his time in left and taking one pity on rookie Atlanta starter Jamie Easterly who had his first major-league decision.

Mike Lum homered for Atlanta in the second inning, giving the Braves their only lead of the contest. Then Bill Plummer hit his first homer of the season, a two-run shot, and another run crossed on a ground-out before Bench hit his double for a 4-1 lead.

Bob Apt's Fairly's first-inning single for St. Louis scored Lou Brock with the run that was the first game against the Mets, then pinch-hitter Ted Simmons hit a grand slam in the eighth inning to win the nightcap.

In blanking New York twice, the Cards extended to 32 in innings the Mets' non-scoring streak and handed them their 10th and seventh consecutive defeats.

Ollie Brown drove in three runs with a two-run double and a tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning, helping Philadelphia end Pittsburgh's five-game winning streak. The Phillies blew a 3-0 lead and trailed 5-3 before rallying to win.

Bob Watson's three-run homer in the second inning capped a six-run Houston uprising and the Astros held off the Dodgers. Watson's blast scored Roger Metzger and Cesar Cedeno in front of him. Each had preceded Watson with run-scoring singles.

JOHNNY BENCH

Expos' Carter Crowned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rookie outfielder Gary Carter of Montreal Expos was named Monday as player of the week by baseball's National League after hitting .500 and batting in nine runs over a seven-day period.

Carter was the third rookie to be named since 1972, when the weekly awards began. He was hotted in a three-game series with New York, getting two game-winning hits and tying the other game with a ninth-inning single.

National League president Chub Feeney chose Carter over other candidates, including Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell, who hit .524 with three homers and nine RBIs, and Chicago's Jerry Morales, who hit .567 and had three homers and nine RBIs.

30 BEAUTIFUL ACRES
About a 20 minute drive North of Belleville — in a lovely natural setting, far from the hustle and bustle of City life. There is a creek running through the green acres and a spring fed pond. The land is cleared and covered and rises up to a wooded bluff at the rear. Priced at $22,900.

DOING WHAT COMES NATURALLY
In a charming bungalow set on a large city lot on which there is also a concrete block building which can be used for a workshop, for welding, for a garage mechanic — or rent it out and help pay for your mortgage! Priced at $24,900.

I'M CONSERVATIVE AND PROUD OF IT
I live in Belleville's old, established East end, and we entertain a lot, so we need a home with plenty of room. For example, my dining room is 14' x 15' and the family room has a fireplace (that's most inviting on a crisp evening. Four bedrooms, all large, two bathrooms and we call it a full verandah but a sunporch as well. Priced at $61,900.

53 OPEN ACRES
On the 4th Concession of Sidney — with all the growth in the city, this will be part of our suburbs soon — in fact it is right now! A good investment and the vendor will take back a mortgage. Priced at $72,000.

2 - ACRE BUILDING LOT
Call tonight for details on this 2-acre lot right on Highway 62 just a few miles north of Belleville. There is more than 700 feet of frontage right on the highway which makes this an excellent building lot for an executive type home.

300 FEET FRONTAGE
The North side of Big Island. This is a beautiful building lot with more than a full acre of land overlooking the Bay of Quinte. This lot is located right in the midst of several new executive type homes and is ideally suited for your country estate.

LUXURY DUPLEX
Drop in tonight to discuss the details on this gracious 2-storey brick home located on the West Hill. The main floor features large living room, kitchen, 3-piece bath plus 2 bedrooms. The upper floor is a self-contained 2-bedroom apartment. Also included is an above-ground swimming pool.

FOR THE BUDGET MINDED
Would you believe a two-bedroom bungalow on a large lot in the city for under $18,000? We have one! Drop in or call tonight and we will be happy to show it to you.

Sun Can Cause Skin Outbreak

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you give me some kind of information concerning a skin disease called lupus?

I have been to a skin specialist, and was told this was what I have. I use a skin cream that helps a lot, but it never goes away completely. I've heard that it is incurable. I've had it for about five years, and have been told the sun has a lot to do with it. I break out on my face.

From your description, this sounds like discoid lupus erythematosus. If so, it must be distinguished from the other type of lupus systemic lupus erythematosus, in which skin lesions are incidental symptoms of a more serious disorder.

The cause of the first type, which you appear to have, is not known, except that sunlight often prompts the initial appearance of the lesions. It is most common in women in their 30s and the lesions, as you are quite aware by now can persist or recur over many years.

The characteristic symptoms are round, patchy, scaly spots, and the face is a common site for them. It can be confused with rosacea, seborrheic dermatitis, or to rash reactions from drugs.

Although your symptoms can resemble those of the more serious lupus I mentioned, this can rather easily be ruled out by a specialist, which apparently has been done in your case.

It is important for you to avoid sunlight as much as possible, or to obtain a sun-screening lotion. Steroid creams can be helpful. The tendency of the lesions to recur might gradually decrease with time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you possibly comment on my blood pressure reading? It is 180 over 70. Isn't it odd to have such a high systolic reading, and such a good diastolic one?

—Mrs. L.W.

This is not unusual. The elevated systolic (contraction phase, the first number quoted) figure would probably go down if you lost a little weight. One cannot take a single reading at face value. Others taken later could be lower depending on a variety of factors.

Dr. Donald E. Wood, chairman of the American Medical Association committee on hypertension (high blood pressure), is urging doctors to be particularly watchful in hypertension.

He urges doctors to take blood pressures on different days and in various positions — lying, sitting and standing. It is important, he adds, that it be established whether the hypertension is primary (with no known cause) or secondary to related to some physical condition.

The AMA estimates that more than 22 million Americans alone have high blood pressure, which is a factor in 60,000 deaths a year, and a cause of 1.5 million heart attacks annually. Half of all Americans with the problem are not aware of it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I get such terrific pain in the toes on both of my feet. I can't walk barefoot across a floor.

A foot specialist told me they were nerve tumors, and that I should wear metatarsal bars in my shoes. These don't seem to help. Do you think surgery on my toes would help to get rid of the pain? —Mrs. A.N.

This is called Morton's neuroma. The cause often is family bestowed, namely the high heels that women (more recently men) wear which exert abnormal stress on the metatarsal portion of the foot — the ball of the foot — and produce pressure on the nerves, as suggested by your foot specialist.

Conservative treatment is to adjust the arch support with bars, such as those you mention. These are inserted into the soles to relieve pressure.

Since this has not been effective, you might be a candidate for surgical removal of the tumors, something you would be wise to investigate.

Hobbyist Builds Electric Auto

FORT McMURRAY, Alta. (CP) — The effect is still startling when Andre Soucy slides into his 1968 cream-colored Vauxhall Viva and flicks a couple of aluminum switches, along a metal strip under the dashboard.

As the switches are engaged, the heavy whine from under the hood sounds like several dozen industrial vacuum cleaners being turned on simultaneously.

Ms. Soucy steps on the accelerator, a solenoid engages and Fort McMurray's only electric car eases into the street.

He has spent more than 250 hours on the conversion since last October and the hardest part was finding the materials.

He found two five-horsepower electric motors in a meat packing plant designed to power the control surfaces of the ill-fated Avro Arrow aircraft and purchased at a fraction of their original 300 dollars.

The motors are 3rd by 600 pounds of lead-acid batteries stuffed into the engine and trunk compartments. Mr. Soucy said the motors are noisier than he would have liked as they gulp at 8,000 revolutions a minute.

But Mr. Soucy has learned to live with their growling because the electric motors provide almost the same acceleration the Viva had when powered by a conventional internal combustion engine.

The car is used as a runabout in town with a top speed of 35 miles an hour. At faster speed, the drain on the batteries is too great. It it covers 25 miles a day, an overnight recharging takes about half the power used by a block heater.

He still is studying the economics of the vehicle, where batteries cost $400 and are said to be good for 1,000 charges.

Mr. Soucy calculated that each charge should carry him 50 miles and, if this proves true, it would run more cheaply than a gasoline-powered vehicle.

But it was not the economics that decided him to build the vehicle. He said he is a compulsive hobbyist who can't sit still for 10 minutes without losing her nerve and doing to do with his hands.

And he had been dreaming about an electric car for 10 years.

It was only when he arrived in this oil-sands boom town from the southern part of Edmonton three years ago that he found enough money to indulge his dream.

At the age of 13, he mated a gasoline-powered motor to a six-volt battery and a starter from a Model T Ford to produce his first electrically-powered transportation.

As a teen-ager at the Belmonski Institute of Technology in the early 1960s, he was buying 1923 Chevrolets for $10 apiece and having them in good running shape.

House Saved

BEWL VALLEY, England (CP) — A 500-year-old house has been saved from being flooded because Hubert and Alice Beale persuaded the government of its historical importance. They won a 15-year battle to have their home moved brick by brick by the Southern Water Authority.

Irrespective of system some players will insist on playing the hand come hell or high water. They will not respect partner's sign-off bids.

When you are playing with someone of that type you have only one defense against trouble. You must pass before you get too high.

We can't really blame South too much for his repeated spade bids. He did have a seven-card suit and they don't show up every day.

At the same time he might have seen signs of approaching trouble and quit at two diamonds. Not that there is anything inspiring about a two-diamond contract, but North might even have made it.

Then, when North jumped to three notrump, South might have passed. The contract would probably be three down, but no one had doubled North.

Still, South went on to four spades and when this got around to East there was a double. South might have gotten out for down two but somehow or other he landed three in the soup to give the opponents a nice, unearned 800 points.

Collector Bus Nut

He has collected more than 4,000 photographs of buses as well as stacks of bus schedules, magazines and books on buses.

Mr. Bateson, a dispatcher for Voyageur-Colonial Ltd. in Toronto, was in the city recently as driver of a British double-decker bus carrying passengers from downtown to a nearby store opening.

The double-decker bus is owned by Uncle Bobby of the CTV television network and Mr. Bateson says he drives it at events whenever he is able.

Dressed in his grey and blue driver's uniform cap and badge, he says: "The only thing I haven't got is a real bus. This is the nearest I come."

He says he travels around on buses during his off-duty hours, "learning from all the systems, seeing how the different people operate and making comparisons. . . . I collect anything to do with buses, photographs, timetables, books, magazines.

As a result of his hobby, Mr. Bateson says that just by looking at the licence number of a British bus "I can tell them all about the rest of the bus."

He says he would like to start a campaign to get Canadian transit authorities to use the buses.

"There's nothing much I really can do at the moment. Maybe if I win a million in the Olympic Lottery, I can bring some over and demonstrate them. The thing would snowball."

In the two years he has been in Canada, he says he has found 50 old British buses in places such as Ottawa, Charlottetown, Vancouver, Victoria and Winnipeg.

Jimmy Connors

WIMBLEDON (AP) — The All-England Club, bowing to popular demand, has allowed one of the country's biggest firms of bookmakers to set up a tent to take bets on horses during the Wimbledon tournament.

Betting is legal in Britain and the betting shop is vying to popularity with the bars and the strawberries and cream line.

But no matter how popular the betting shop may be, the players have been banned from using it.

Of the matches that could be finished, Jimmy Connors had to fight hard to beat British youngster John Lloyd 6-3, 6-1, 6-1; third-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden beat Venezuelan Jorge Andrew, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4; and Ossy Parun of New Zealand beat Australian Neale Fraser 6-3, 6-3, 6-7.

It wouldn't be Wimbledon without an upset, and the first one this year came from Ray Ruffels, a veteran Australian player. He beat Vitas Gerulaitis of the U.S. 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

Two other seeds—Arthur Ashe and Argentinian Guillermo Vilas—both managed to get on court and their matches had to be called because of bad light. Ashe had taken the first set from Bob Hewitt of South Africa 7-5, while Vilas was trailing up on Jeff Simpson of New Zealand.

Mahaffey Second Best — Again

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — Lou Graham, in an unflappable manner that marked him as one of the steadiest performers in this year's unsteady U.S. open golf championship, shot a par 71 over the Medinah course Monday to win an 18-hole playoff from John Mahaffey.

Mahaffey, 27, was never ahead and trailed by as many as three strokes in fashioning a 71. In defeat, Mahaffey could barely contain the anguish he felt after finishing second for the seventh time in the last 11½ years.

For Graham, a 37-year-old Tennessean, it was only the third victory in 11 years of the plugging on the tour.

The key, Graham said, was his putt on the 395-yard eighth for par. He was in the fringe 75 feet away and left himself a tricky eight-footer.

"It lipped the hole then came in the right door, and that was it—I figured I was on my way."

And on the 18th, when his two-iron went into the trees, he said he heard a TV man say if the ball hadn't hit a spectator it would have gone out offbounds.

"I then said to myself, 'This golf tournament belongs to Lou Graham.'" Later, as official who was there said the ball did not hit a spectator.

By then it didn't matter.

"I threw it away on the greens," said Mahaffey. "No birdies. I didn't putt.

"The greens were slower than I anticipated. I should have changed putters. I couldn't get the ball to the hole. I was only past it five times, and each time it had a chance to go in but didn't."

The $40,000 first prize increased Graham's winnings for the year to $86,071. Mahaffey's $20,000 cheque ran his earnings to $131,005 for sixth place on the list.

Mahaffey, who used 37 putts, bogeyed the second hole by three-putting and lost a stroke. Graham overshot the third for a bogey as his opponent parred to draw even. Then Graham birdied the next two holes with eight-and six-foot putts and Mahaffey never caught up.

Crowley Wins 800 Metre Run

DAGNAES, Denmark (AP) — Maureen Crowley of Vancouver won a deal with two other Canadians to win the 800-metre run Monday in an invitational track and field meet.

She ran the distance in two minutes, 4.8 seconds to beat Joan Wenzel of Waterloo, Ont., second in 2:05.6, and Debbie Mitchell of Toronto, third in 2:06.5.

Miss Wenzell's time was the best of her career. Anne-Marie Davies of Winnipeg was second and Donna Valaitis of Mount Brydges, Ont., fifth in the race.

Other Canadian winners Monday were high jumper John Biben of Burnaby, B.C., Ian Sax of Toronto in the 3,000-metre run and Ann Bryan of Mississauga, Ont., in the long jump.

Beers defeated European champion Jesper Toerring of Denmark, clearing seven feet, one inch, an inch more than Toerring. Dean Baack of Vancouver was third with a jump of 6-8¾.

Sax took 7:59.2 to win the 3,000 metres. Runner-up Ulrik Hutmacher of West Germany and third-place finisher Gert Karling of Denmark had identical times of 7:59.6.

John Sharpe of Toronto was fourth in 8:01.6, Tom Howard of Vancouver fifth in 8:06.3 and Bill Marcotte of Toronto seventh in 8:22.4.

John Craig of Toronto finished third in the 1,500 metres behind European silver medal-winner Tom Hansen of Denmark and Hans Kuiper of the Netherlands. Hansen finished in 3:41.7, Craig in 3:44.2.

Toppazzini to Coach

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Joe Drago, an executive member of Sudbury Wolves, announced Monday that Stu Duncan was out and Jerry Toppazzini was in as coach of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A league team.

"It was the feeling of the directors of the hockey club that because of some internal problems we required a change in coaches," he said.

Toppazzini is a veteran of the National Hockey League, having played 10 years with Boston Bruins, plus another two years split between Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings.

The Copper Cliff native signed a one-year contract to take over the reins of the Sudbury club, succeeding Duncan, who led Wolves to a fifth-place finish during the 1978-79 season and into the semi-finals against Toronto Marlboros after defeating Ottawa 67s in quarter-final play.

Last season Toppazzini was a scout for the NHL Los Angeles Kings, handling scouting assignments in both the World Hockey Association and United States college ranks.

REDUCE ROSTER

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League reduced its roster to 58 players Monday with the release of eight imports and two Canadians. Released were second-year defensive back Jeff Kolberg; quarterback Kelly Cochrane; rookie defensive backs Steve Williams and Bob Jasper; running back George Palmer; wide receiver Willie Jones and offensive tackle Ron Kortenmyer. The Canadians were place-kicker Dave Parkes and tight end Jerry Fraser, both formerly with University of Manitoba Bisons.

L'Enjoeur the Horse to Beat

Three Rated Strong Contenders

TORONTO (CP) — It's one of those years when a better has trouble picking a winner.

At least 14 horses are expected to be in Saturday's 126th running of the Queen's Plate at Toronto's Woodbine thoroughbred race track but only three—Classawitz, L'Enjoeur and Greek Answer—are mentioned as the strongest contenders.

L'Enjoeur, owned by a syndicate controlled by his breeder, J. Louis Levesque of Montreal, is the horse to beat but the three-year-old colt—Canada's top horse of the year in 1974—has been hot and cold this year.

He's one of the reasons why the 1¼-mile race, which will gross $148,200 if 14 start, is considered to be wide open.

Front-running Greek Answer, owned by Preston Gilbride of Toronto, is a serious mark at the distance although he was the second division of the Queen's Plate Trial Stakes last Saturday by a 1½ lengths over Upper Shelf. The distance was 1 1-16 miles and Greek Answer won in one minute, 44.3 seconds.

However, the son of Northern Answer who has won four of eight starts this year for $71,600 isn't expected to get away on top without a serious challenge in the Plate.

In the trial, Greek Answer, as expected, took the early lead but didn't quite go the distance and was beaten six strides. Ridden by Mickey Rainwater from Toronto, the Maryland circuit colt, Greek Answer was never more than three lengths in front at any time.

Classawitz's last win at 1 1-16 miles was June 15 after he fought off a challenge from English-bred One Pound Stone to draw away to a seven-length margin. In that race, Brilliant Sandy, runner-up in Queen's Plate probable—finished fifth.

Classawitz and L'Enjoeur don't run in the trials.

One horse to watch will be Hagelin, winner of the first division of the trials last Saturday Bar Favor, Fly The Ensign and Belonger.

"I like our chances but I don't think we'll run as the favorite," said Sammy Douglas of Stouffville, Ont., where Mystery Time went to the front and won the $15,000-added Toronto Cup Handicap on June 14.

In that race, 1 1-16 miles on the turf, Big Destiny and Across The Channel finished second and third respectively while L'Enjoeur was fourth.

"L'Enjoeur on the breeding is terrific," Douglas said. "Greek Answer has proven himself and Classawitz is a great horse."

L'Enjoeur, a son of Buckpasser, won eight of 15 races last year for $288,995 and will be ridden by Sandy Hawley of Minnesinga, Ont., Canada's champion jockey since 1969.

Hawley has been riding in California but returned here Monday and will compete at Woodbine. He'll return to Hollywood Park in Inglewood, Calif., and stay there until July 31.

He rides at Fort Erie, Ont., in the summer and go to Woodbine in the fall.

Aeros To Be Sold?

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston realtor George Bolin, heading a group of minority stockholders, says that arrangements have been completed to purchase the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association from Houston Aeros from majority owner Irvin Kaplan for $4.1 million.

At the same time, Bolin's group said veteran player Gordie Howe would become president and coach Bill Dineen would assume the additional duties of vice-president and general manager.

The deal came after months of negotiations with Kaplan, who earlier this month filed for reorganization under the bankruptcy statutes. Total sale price includes $1.1 million in Aeros stock and $3 million in debts.

"The past is over, it is finished," Bolin said. "The only thing we're going to do now is to try to continue the winning ways of this club."

Actual consumidation of the sale took place Monday, at the end of a 10-day waiting period imposed on Kaplan by the federal bankruptcy referee, Bolin said.

Bolin said Bob Kellie will be vice-president in charge of administration and Houston native Jack Stanfield will become assistant general manager and assistant coach.

Raimey Back In Retirement

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — Veteran defensive back Dave Raimey retreaded back into retirement Monday after his weight left knee failed to stand up to workouts at Toronto Argonauts' training camp.

Raimey, who had surgery on the knee last year, returned to the Canadian Football League club a week ago because he felt he wasn't yet ready to resume training.

Last Friday he finally showed up at training camp but after three days of workouts found the knee would not stand up to the work.

He said Monday night that he will continue to exercise the knee and may rejoin the Argos later in the season.

"I don't know at this point whether it will come around. It's extremely tender. I might end up back at camp, but I think it's more likely that I would go back somewhere further along the road, maybe in mid-season if the team has an injury and can use me."

Meanwhile, the Argos announced four other departures from training camp. Three players cut from the roster were cornerbacks Al Butler and Don McDowell and wide receiver Jim Davis.

Butler arrived in camp Saturday after spending three weeks in hospital recovering from the effects of a crash diet to prune his 325 pounds down to 265. Argo doctors said he was not sufficiently recovered to play.

AGGRESSIVE WINS

GROSSE POINTE, Mich. (AP) — Defending champion Aggressive II won the second race Monday in the Two Top Aggressive, owned by Frank Pike and David Gamble of Grosse Pointe, is tied for the lead in the five-race series with Vendetta, owned by Mexican Ernesto Antimon. Tom Tobin and Art de Ferry. Each has 13½ points. Ricochet, from Detroit, is third in the competition with 13 points.

VETERAN TRADED

MIAMI (AP) — Miami tight end Mary Fleming, the only National Football League player to ever pick a Super Bowl, was traded Monday to Washington for Redskins Dolphin center Don Shula said. In return for Fleming, the Dolphins obtained from the Redskins a draft choice and the rights to Charlie Harraway, a running back who played for Birmingham of the World Football League last year, Shula said in a news release.

CHOOSE WEBSTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Denver Nuggets, last season's West Division champions in the American Basketball Association, took seven-foot Marvin Webster of Morgan State as the No. 1 pick in Monday's draft of college and high school players. The Nuggets were awarded the first pick in the draft—a bonus selection—as a ruling by the league after Denver ceded the draft rights of Marvin Barnes to Spirits of St. Louis last year.

SKATING SITE CHOSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1976 world figure skating championship will be held in Ottawa March 6 to 12, the Canadian Figure Skating Association announced Monday. Association president Stanley Allen said the bid to hold the event at the 9,200 seat Civic Centre was chosen over Denmark and Germany. Allen estimated there will be about 120 contestants attending from 31 countries.

World championships have been held in Canada twice before—in Vancouver and Calgary. The event is expected to cost about $300,000.

INSOLO WINS

COQUITLAM, B.C. (CP) — Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills, Calif., led from start to finish to win the $10,000 Export A 100 stock car race at the Westwood racing circuit Sunday. Insolo, fastest qualifier in his 1974 Chevelle, set a National Association of Stock Car Racing lap record of 27.2 miles an hour on the second lap of the 75 mile race. Hershel McGriff of Bridle Veil, Ore., finished 15 seconds behind. Ron Eaton of Tacoma, Wash., dropped out on the ninth lap, allowing Roy Haslam of Victoria to take third spot, which he held to the finish. Insolo won $1,500.

110 Die at New York

Lightning Seen Cause of Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials are investigating the possibility that lightning struck a jetliner attempting to land, causing it to crash in flames near a crowded highway, authorities said. Eight persons aboard the flight from New Orleans died.

Fourteen survivors were in hospital.

Firemen said early today 108 bodies had been found in the marshy area at the edge of Kennedy International Airport where the Eastern Airlines Boeing 727 plane, nonstop flight 66 from New Orleans, crashed late Tuesday afternoon. Two other persons died at a hospital.

There still was confusion today on the number of persons aboard the jet. A spokesman for the airline said there were 118 passengers and seven crew members, a total of 125.

But the hospital said 16 persons had been admitted and 14 still were alive. Added to the 108 bodies counted by firemen at the crash scene, this would make a total of 124 aboard.

It was one of the worst airplane disasters in United States history. In 1960, 134 persons were killed when a United Airlines DC-8 and a Trans World Airlines Super-Constellation collided in the air over New York City. The worst one-plane crash in the U.S. killed 111 persons when an Alaska Airlines 727 crashed near Juneau in 1971.

The survivors of Tuesday's crash included two small girls. Most of the survivors were badly burned.

The victims included an Episcopal bishop, a professional basketball player and a group of Norwegian merchant seamen.

George Van Epps, National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) area supervisor, said there was no record of an emergency radio message from the pilot, Captain John Kleven of New York City.

Van Epps said flight and engine recorders had been recovered and were being sent to Washington for study. He said the investigation will consider eyewitness reports that lightning had hit the plane.

A Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) investigator at the scene was asked if his name not be used said "weather definitely was a factor."

However, Isabel Burgess, a member of the NTSB investigating team said she doubted that lightning had anything to do with the crash. She said she had investigated all the previous crashes directly attributed to lighting.

Paul Moran, a Nassau county policeman, said he was driving home when he saw a lightning bolt hit the plane.

"It lifted to the right and went about 20 more yards, then hit the ground," he said.

Moran said he ran to the plane and pulled out two survivors, but he did not see any others who appeared to be alive.

Other motorists on nearby Rockaway Boulevard also said lightning appeared to hit the plane just before it burst into flames.

Ouebec Woman Abducted

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Police said today a woman from a prominent Sherbrooke area family has been kidnapped and is being held hostage for a "large amount of money."

The Quebec Provincial Police said the kidnappers have warned that if the victim's name is made public she would be killed immediately.

They said the kidnapping took place Tuesday. They did not know how many kidnappers were involved or the amount of money that was being demanded.

Guerrilla Now Ruler

LOURENCO MARQUES (AP) — Samora Machel, bearded leader of the 10-year guerrilla war that ended Portuguese rule in East Africa, was sworn in today as the first president of the new People's Republic of Mozambique.

Machel, 41, was cheered wildly by about 10,000 persons outside the Lourenco Marques city hall as he was sworn in as Mozambique's first African president after nearly 500 years of Portuguese colonial domination.

Out of the Ashes

This is an artist's concept of the proposed restoration of the fire-gutted St. Thomas' Anglican Church. The initial design, created by Sankey Associates Architects of Toronto, was approved in principle by St. Thomas' congregation Tuesday. Its final adoption will hinge on the church's building committee's level of success in paring non-essential features to cut about $200,000 from the projected $895,000 rebuilding cost.

Hope to Pare Cost Estimate

Congregation of St. Thomas Favors Plan Retaining Style

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The congregation of St. Thomas' Anglican Church approved in principle here Tuesday an architect's design for restoration of the 100-year-old sanctuary which will retain its exterior heritage at a preliminary cost figure of $895,000, including furnishings.

In giving its approval by a 140-14 vote, the congregation stipulated that the building committee must lop off non-essential features in an effort to decrease the cost to $650,000 — a figure the church can easily afford.

The committee was also instructed to return to the congregation in about three weeks to report on its findings and recommend whether to proceed with or scrap the initial design.

St. Thomas' was destroyed by fire early on April 20, and the Ontario Fire Marshal's office here has determined arson was involved. However, no one has been arrested and the investigation continues.

A quantity of communion silverware stolen by break-and-enter thieves shortly before the blaze has not been recovered.

Only the walls and tower withstood the blaze but the firm of Sankey Associates Architects of Toronto has pointed out the upper portions of the nave walls have to be replaced due to decay caused by heat.

F. and M Developers of Kingston, the contract managing firm hired by the church vestry council, has estimated it will take about eight months to reconstruct the structure which is designed in Greek revival. The church was insured for $527,000.

The initial design calls for a new and expanded basement, liturgical changes in the nave and a floating corrugated metal roof, supported by pillars which will eliminate stress on the unstable walls. The roof and walls will be joined by clear glazing to produce a dramatic lighting effect within the nave.

The vestry council learned at its last meeting prospects are slim for any financial aid from the Ontario Heritage Foundation and determined the church could raise between $100,000 — $200,000 on its own.

"There's a lot of woodshedding that has to be done," noted Harold Crawford, building committee chairman.

"We're moving too quickly," he cautioned. "We're not in any for a week to look at these budget figures."

Canon Peter Tett commented any congregational vote on any design must carry a 75 per cent majority. "We don't want to split the congregation down the middle," he said.

Man Cuts Off Hand As Art Show Exhibit

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Sydney Opera House has refused to let a severed hand be shown at a national art show at the house but an art dealer says he has bought the hand and will display it for two weeks.

Ivan Durrant, an artist, said he paid a 24-year-old, left-handed medical student $121 last Sunday for the student's right hand. Art dealer Clive Evatt said he paid Durrant $600 to obtain the hand on behalf of a collector.

Durrant, who recently dumped the carcass of a cow on the steps of the National Gallery in Melbourne to protest eating of meat, said "the student came to me and said he wanted to amputate his hand as a protest in favor of his right to do as he wishes, even if it harms him.

"He claimed it was hypocritical of me to kill the cow if I wouldn't condone his cutting off his hand. So I told him: 'If you are going to do it, I'd like to use the hand for my own things if you don't mind.'"

He said he was present for the amputation, done by someone who was not a qualified medical practitioner.

Durrant, an exponent of the new Realism movement, said exhibit of the hand would be "shock therapy."

"Once people see an amputated hand, they'll know what a real amputated hand is. Then when they see Vietnam on television with their hands blown off, the real horror will come home to them."

Hastings Cottage Developments Shrivel up to Eight New Projects

By BARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Fewer cottages and homes have been built in Hastings County this year, and new building has taken a dip.

In fact the number of cottage building permits is down "drastically", Carl Bateman, Hastings County treasurer-administrator told county council Tuesday.

The number of residential permits issued also has dropped "considerably" he said.

Since January only eight cottage permits were issued, at a value of $130,000. This compared with 68, with $1,187,80 value, for the same period in 1974.

But, coincidentally the number of cottage additions rose sharply — to 113 and $775,232, compared to 76 and $314,165 in the first five months last year.

Some 156 residential permits were issued, valued at almost $4,528,000 compared to 290 and nearly $4,753,500 in early 1974.

Total permits — including institutional and industrial — dropped from 432 and $10,507,000 to 321 and $6,048,000.

He said he knew of a couple of realtors having "lots of problems" over development.

The provincial government, he said, while claiming people won't invest in development, are holding it back. Without such delays the county should have realized an additional $100,000 by now.

But, cautioned Tom Barton, Madoc village reeve, "I don't think we should let the developers run wild just to get tax money."

Girl, 6, Missing At Malton

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Peel regional police issued an appeal today for information on the whereabouts of Lillian Dawson, 6, of nearby Malton, who failed to return home from school Monday.

Police said the child was picked up at home Monday afternoon by school bus and taken to Our Lady of the Airways separate school where she attends kindergarten.

Her friends said that when she got off the bus she was spoken to by a man who placed his hand on her shoulder and walked with her down a public way, police said.

Investigations are under way to establish the identity of the man who is believed to be known to the child, police said.

Quebec Doctors Differ

Doctors Want Sole Right to Decide If Any Abortion Should Be Performed

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) left no doubt Tuesday it is unhappy that its individual doctor-members cannot authorize abortions themselves.

Delegates to the CMA's 108th annual convention decisively reaffirmed a resolution, originally passed four years ago, recommending that individual doctors be granted the right to authorize abortions.

The Criminal Code now states that only hospitals can authorize abortions and must do so by clearing each application through a committee made up of not fewer than three resident doctors. Doctors on the committee cannot vote on their own applications.

The CMA resolution called for removal from the Code of any reference to hospital abortion committees—a roundabout way of saying individual doctors should be allowed to decide for themselves.

The association's chief complaint with current legislation is that it gives hospitals the option of choosing to form abortion committees—in effect, the option of choosing to perform abortions.

Regional disparities arising from the committee requirement deny women in many parts of the country a right that is taken for granted in other areas, the CMA said.

The CMA resolution would not prevent hospitals from forming committees to screen abortion applications but it would also give doctors the right to use their own judgment in authorizing the operation.

Since first passed, the resolution has generated heavy criticism from within and outside the association that it does not represent the view of the majority of its 17,000 members.

In spite of confirmation, all but a handful of the association's 225-member general council rose in a standing vote to endorse the resolution.

Most of the opposition came from the council's 18-member Quebec delegation which voted solidly against.

Dr. Jean-Paul Couture, president of the Quebec Medical Association, argued that the resolution supports what amounts to abortion on demand.

Another Quebec delegate said that if a doctor refuses to authorize an abortion, a woman will simply have to shop around for one who will.

Dr. Betty Stephenson, CMA president, replied that doctors will consider abortion as just one solution for many in a particular medical problem.

County Officials Reject Direct Control of Fair Use

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County council has rejected a bid by the Prince Edward Agricultural Society for regulation of buildings and all future activities at the fairgrounds.

North Marysburg reeve Ken Hicks, council's appointee to the fairboard, told councillors Tuesday the agricultural society wants its grounds committee chairman Charles Culmer empowered to regulate activities at the fairgrounds.

He explained this move was suggested to simplify approvals for use of facilities there by various organizations. When Mr. Culmer is contacted by organizations seeking use of the grounds he is unable to grant permission or set a date until after consultation with council's property and supply committee.

"We think it will make a more satisfactory fairground," reeve Hicks informed council.

He observed the arena commission would be required to consult Mr. Culmer in regard to all events planned.

Reeve Richardson, newly elected chairman of the arena commission, said he would prefer a co-ordinating group.

He added, "I feel this motion would just make it more complicated".

Prince Edward County clerk Thomas Walker told council the motion to transfer authority to Mr. Culmer "is more far reaching than you realize".

The clerk explained an "air tight" agreement would be needed to protect the county from liability should anyone be injured while using the facilities at the fairgrounds.

Reeve Richardson suggested council's property and supply committee meet with members of the fairboard and the arena commission to examine the situation.

A motion to permit Mr. Culmer to regulate buildings and activities at the fairgrounds was defeated in a vote of council.

Reeve Hicks observed there could be better public relations between the county and the agricultural society.

"Things are not as good as they should be," he remarked.

STOL Test Thursday

TRENTON — Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey and Trenton Mayor Bob Patrick will leave CFB Trenton along with other municipal officials on a flight to Toronto Thursday to tour the De Havilland Aircraft Co. plant.

The flight in a twin-engine Otter will give municipal officials the opportunity to see at first hand the company's new DHC-7 short take-off and landing (STOL) aircraft.

A spokesman at CFB Trenton said Tuesday the aircraft will leave Trenton early Thursday, fly to Toronto Island Airport and then to Downsview where the De Havilland plant is located.

Joint Use of Home Draws Little Flak

FRANKFORD — Save Our Heritage Organization (SOHO) suggested Tuesday the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority spend $30,000 for installation of wiring and plumbing in the Proctor House in Brighton as one element in a proposal for joint use of the century-old building.

The suggestion arose during discussion over use of the Proctor House by the two groups. Tuesday, SOHO chairman Gordon Tobey presented a proposal to the authority executive that would lead to use of the house as a museum-cultural centre and offices.

Discussions centred on the available space in the two-storey building (32,500 square feet) and are still in the early stages.

Mr. Tobey proposed his group occupy 2,000 square feet of floor space in the front of the building. The authority would use remaining space for offices.

Cost for installation of electro-mechanical services was estimated at $30,000 by executive members who met the SOHO proposal favorably. It had been anticipated some friction would arise during the meeting.

However, proposals for joint use were met with little criticism, although some authority members questioned a possible shortage of floor space for office use.

The authority now plans to review the SOHO proposal and discuss in detail its space needs.

Water System Repairs Take Different Route

PICTON — Prince Edward County council Tuesday refused to grant the Picton Public Utilities Commission an easement between Shire Hall and the old registry office for improvements to the town's waterworks. Instead, an easement on the east side of a parking lot adjacent to Shire Hall was approved.

Public Utilities chairman Christopher Lockyer told councillors Picton is "in dire need" of updating its water works system and the proposed easement would provide the cheapest of the possible routes.

He observed by taking a route down Main Street traffic would be disrupted during the peak of the tourist season. If the project let at Shire Hall were created this change in plans would cost the PUC a considerable amount.

A representative of the PUC's consulting firm described the route between Shire Hall and the old registry office, vacated this spring, as "not an easy one, but a possible one."

He said studies showed some rock between the buildings but added jack hammers could be used to eliminate the need for blasting.

The consultant added that if the PUC were to cross the parking lot cost of the improvements project would increase from $3,000 to $5,000.

Total cost of the project now is $254,000.

Picton reeve Larry Richardson observed the PUC delegation should have approached council earlier since plans for improvements to the town's water works have been in progress for many months.

He suggested council should not delay a decision on the question of an easement if the PUC project is to begin on schedule.

Several councillors expressed concern regarding approval of an easement between the old registry office and Shire Hall as it could conflict with future expansion.

Also if this route were used the entrance to the Social Services offices would be blocked for a time and damage to the sidewalk there possibly could result from construction work.

Roof Leaks

PICTON — Wellington reeve Robert Boyce has cautioned Prince Edward County councillors against "stepping over $5 bills to pick up quarters" as rain drips into tin cans at the County Centre.

Reeve Boyce informed council roller skaters at the arena this summer are dodging about 20 cans on the rink surface each time it rains, because of the leaky roof at the County Centre. He urged temporary repairs until complete maintenance work can be done.

Chairman of the arena commission and reeve of Picton, Larry Richardson, stressed there is an awareness of the problem. A discussion of it is anticipated during an upcoming finance committee meeting.

He observed the arena manager has been on the roof and feels a complete roof restructure is not necessary to stop the leaks.

Reeve Richardson added that the project of repairing the roof could cost far less than the originally estimated $125,000.

"There is a sound but rusty metal roof," he said.

Sophisburg reeve George Foster commented the Prince Edward Agricultural Society owns the building, and it is their responsibility to report roof leaks and request a grant for repairs instead of waiting for council's property and supply committee to act.

"I don't think the property and supply committee should investigate a building we don't own," he remarked.

Road to Recovery

Johnson Street, a connecting link with the town of Picton, is on the road to recovery following a campaign by town reeve Larry Richardson. For several months he has emphasized the hungry condition of the road to council and on Monday county workers arrived on the scene to make some repairs.

Authority Says No To Land Purchase

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

FRANKFORD — Trenton will not get $100,000 from money now alleted for the town greenbelt project to buy what one Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority member labelled an exceptionally priced "swamp" in southwest Trenton.

Authority executive members decided Tuesday to deny the request made by Trenton council in a closed meeting with the group last week.

The move was taken upon the recommendation of the authority's conservation areas board, whose members recently visited the 15-acre tract, roughly southwest of Parkview Heights.

Board chairman Paul Tripp labelled the land Tuesday a swamp and called its price exorbitant.

He said his board did not want to divert any money from the 1975 budget because it felt the project should be continued. "Finished up and cleaned up."

Mr. Tripp said the tract, abutting Hanna Park, was considered to be a municipal responsibility and not one in which a regional body, such as the authority, should become involved with.

Authority refusal to okay the diversion of money will mean the entire $117,000 in its 1975 budget will go towards either acquisition or development of the greenbelt, a strip of land on the west bank of the Trent River.

This year, Trenton is contributing just over $55,000 towards work on the $1.5-million project, extending roughly from the Dundas St. bridge to Le Can Island.

However, informed sources, both inside and outside town hall, have repeatedly indicated the money was intended for purchase of the 18 acres.

Earlier this year, Trenton council called for an indefinite freeze on land purchases in the southern half of the greenbelt and thus signalled a reassessment of the entire project.

At that time, Mayor Patrick said the town wanted to review the future of the project in light of possible involvement in land purchases by the Canada - Ontario - Rideau - Trent-Severn committee.

Cuba . . . and the Third World

Is P.M. Obscuring from Public Debate Facts of Foreign Policy and Aid Funds

By F.W. GROVER

OTTAWA When the economy starts to tighten up, the first place most people look for cutting down is on foreign aid. It is a natural, almost reaction of self-preservation.

The latest demand for an investigation into the activities of C.I.D.A. (the Canadian International Development Agency) is just the latest of a recurring series of demands for inquiries into how much of the dollar goes to aid the underdeveloped countries.Charges that aid funds are wasted or misspent come from some quarter almost every day of the week.

If, indeed, CIDA officials did connive to hide from the public just how much aid money was going to Cuba, then an investigation of the agency is in order.If, on the other hand, the critics just want to lambaste foreign aid policy in general, then CIDA should be left alone to do its work and debate can take place elsewhere.

One of the complaints of the critics is that the best place for such a debate is the House of Commons, is too seldom used for that purpose. Foreign policy has become the private domain of the prime minister's office. Positions on international relations are not stated and debated in the Commons. They come out of press briefings. Pierre Trudeau's Liberals, when Pierre Trudeau is phoning one of his overseas forays.

External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen has little to say in Parliament. Which is too bad, because he says it so much better than Mr. Trudeau. His recent address to the Ottawa Chapter of the Canadian Institute for International Affairs is a good example.

Without referring specifically to the calls for an investigation of the conduct of CIDA's affairs, Mr. MacEachen set out to put the Third World into perspective for Canadians.

Canadians have greeted, with varying degrees of fear, misunderstanding and criticism, the demands of the have-not nations for a more prominent role in the family of nations. They are not content to be merely babes with their mouths open to receive food. A few, admittedly, have welcomed the change.

Mr. MacEachen sees it this way: "What has changed recently is that, while remaining a moral imperative, international co-operation in the field of development has become a political necessity. The persistence of acute economic disparities in the world, the lack of effective and viable progress to reduce them, now appear to obviously, in my view, as a threat to international stability and a recurrent source of tensions and conflicts."

The whole question of Canada's commercial relations with the Third World is under review. Mr. MacEachen realizes that Canada can not just turn over whole areas of trade to the developing nations. Canadian farmers and manufacturers need export markets as well.

Adjustments in trade policy to benefit the Third World can only be made successfully in co-operation with the United States, Europe and Japan. Otherwise Canada would be giving up trade opportunities only to see them snapped up by her competitors in the developed world.

But that doesn't keep Mr. MacEachen from predicting a new world economic order with handouts of food and money being replaced by a total world expansion of agriculture and industry that would benefit the developed nations as much as the under-developed.

"Economic interdependence is a reality from which there is no escape," he said.

Development assistance will still be necessary, he believes, just as within Canada equalization payments are necessary to establish a basic minimum standard of living.

At the same time Mr. MacEachen warned the Third World that reaching the goal will be easier if they set aside their slogans and political issues and deal practically with the economic problems.

It is too early to assess the impact of Mr. MacEachen's efforts on the critics of CIDA. He may have inoculated the critics by showing how far short of the ideal the development efforts of CIDA fall.

Jamaicans' Fine Job

Reference has been made here to the fine job being done by the Jamaicans who come here to harvest Ontario's fruit crops.

Indeed the word is that they do a better job than those among our own people.

This has been borne out locally. The mother of a teenager who has been picking strawberries says her daughter is full of praise for the Caribbean workers.

They are cheerful people who sing while they are on the job and far from being in the category of unloved slave labor. In fact are conversant with events here and apparently happy to be working in this country.

We hear of Jamaica itself, or the capital city of Kingston at least, battling a serious crime wave, but like situations in our own orbit, or in other parts of the world, this is something that may well come across to us out of proportion.

The visiting workers are far from that world, in spirit as much as anything else, and, as has been pointed out, project only an image that is to be admired.

Why Not An Ethnic Festival?

It seems a long time since we have had an event here such as the local Centennial celebrations of 1967, or the Belleville Week a year or two later when the Mayors of sister cities in the United States came to town.

Of course the city's own Centennial is only three years off, but that should not mean we let up on community initiatives in the interim.

The thought of an Ethnic Festival for instance is appealing. Imagine . . . all those whirling dancers and colorful costumes, say at Zwick's Island.

Other cities, such as Brantford, have this sort of presentation. Why not Belleville?

Church Area Parking

An Ann Street resident has complained to the city's traffic committee about parking problems on the narrow little residential thoroughfare.

An even greater bottleneck is becoming evident each Sunday along Church Street from Bridge to Victoria when parishioners of the various churches in the vicinity are permitted to block up the east side of the roadway.

There should never be any parking on that section of Church Street for any reason on any day. There just isn't enough room for two cars to pass safely with one laneway taken up by parked vehicles.

And who knows what would happen if fire trucks had to slam their way through the restricted passage some Sunday morning.

St. Michael's Church is the only one in the neighborhood that provides adequate parking facilities. Other church-goers can use the county building parking lot, but there still is an overflow of cars left out on the street.

Most public buildings — hotels are perhaps the prime example are required to provide a minimum number of parking places.

Similar regulations may have to be applied to some churches, particularly if they have available land at their sites.

Coming Up Roses

The city's flower gardens look their best just now. And well they might. Next weekend, moreover, the Garden Club's Rose and African Violet Show, along with a House Plant Show, will lend further interest to the summer scene.

"Melody of Flowers" is the club's theme and the brochure for the event indicates a wide choice of entries, as well as interest among all ages. There are classes for instance in the Junior Division for youngsters aged 6 to 9 and 10 to 16.

Harry Lambourne is chairman of this Rose festival and African Violet show and the venue is Centennial secondary school. At a time when the world is too much with us in far disteasteful ways, the Garden Club's annual initiative provides something well worth enjoying. It's not far to the Palmer Road location and it's a two-day event.

'TURN ON THE TAPS GENTLEMEN AND LET'S GET STARTED!'

Toynbee on the Economy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In his fascinating novel "Surviving the Future," world-renowned historian Arnold Toynbee foresees four facets of life. With typical logic and lucidity he concentrates on the cause of strain on our economy with this irrefutable expression of opinion.

"Since the close of the Second World War, mankind's income has been redistributed progressively in the more advanced countries. The workers in professions that are essential for the maintenance of our environment and for the more elevated pleasures of modern life have been able to extract larger and larger shares by authorizing, 'on' or merely threatening to sabotage, the functioning of the economy."

The increase in their salaries, on which they have the power to insist, produces inflation and the rise of prices, and this reduces the real income of the old and the incapacitated, who are living on savings and on pensions.

After all, everyone who does not die prematurely may be incapacitated during his lifetime either by sickness or by accident, and he is doomed to have to live on after having retired from working if he lives longer than the present average expectation of length of physical life.

Non-workers cannot enforce an increase in their incomes by striking. Thus the section of the community which cannot strike effectively is being robbed by the section that can. This fleecing of the helpless section of the community seems to me to be anti-social, and it is not a matter of controversy that it is also short-sighted and improvident.

Inflation is not an inevitable economic malady. It is produced by the scramble for shares of the cake among those members of the community who have the power to exert pressure in order to raise their salaries.

SHORT-END.

Lab Trip Comes Under Fire

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

It was gratifying to learn that the wine and cheese quizzers enjoyed themselves at Lake.

Having subsidized themselves for the trip with a $1,000 of the taxpayers money it would be unthinkable for them not to have enjoyed themselves.

It would appear they had plenty left for "parks" on the other side, as they only took with them 30 lbs. of cheese from this area at a cost of $30 dollars — 75 lbs. was allowed. So $975 should have satisfied plenty of thirsts.

How exciting to learn that the good people of Lake are going to visit us in the Fall of next year — that should be good for a $2,000 touch.

We ought not to stop at Europe for these "friendship" trips. What about nipping over to Honolulu? We could swap our corn for their pineapple in the name of friendship?. Or perhaps a flip to Aurcie and an exchange of beaver for their kangaroos. It's a limitless horizon.

In the meantime, perhaps someone will tell our hard-pressed senior citizens, our less affluent citizens, those on mother's allowance, those on the city's unemployment insurance, and, for that matter, just about every other taxpayer in the city of Belleville, how this piece of generous exhilaration did anything for those in the foregoing categories.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY.

Editor's note: Mayor Jeffery Hubbard tell us the city of Lake accepted only $200 from Belleville and it cost the German community much more than that. For Belleville there was the cost as well of the plaque marking the first friendship flight, the cheese and the maple syrup presented to Camden was hard hoited Belleville students and to senior citizens of Lake. The total cost of just under $700. She said the trip was of "tremendous value", and spoke of the goodwill generated between the two communities.

Facilities at CN Station

On Thursday June 12, I arrived in Belleville by train. I had a visited the station washroom and never in all my travels across Canada have I seen a more filthy, dirty washroom. I also noted that there was a pay toilet. When I complained the young man at the counter they informed me that they had had several complaints of this nature and that you ignored them. I am sending a copy of this letter to the local paper in hopes that the citizens of Belleville will now allow this condition to continue and they will insist that the toilet facilities provided at the coin box is removed from the toilet.

RUTH SPENCE
Executive Director,
YMCA Vancouver, N.W.T.

Editor's note: A check with City of Belleville and Hastings and Prince Edward health authorities indicates the matter is neither within their jurisdiction nor covered by any of their ordinances. Rather, it is a responsibility of the CN which itself is a federal government operation.

Pennies to Fight Inflation

Indianapolis News

Pennies are in short supply, and the reason — according to U.S. Mint officials — is that people are hoarding them as a possible inflation hedge.

Officials say 20 billion pennies have been minted in the last 15 year, but that 30 billion of them are now being held back from circulation, in apparent expectation of a jump in the price of copper content.

In addition to the tedium of such an enterprise, there's more bad news for penny pinchers; the mint has mulcked copper price trends. Instead of increasing, people are now selling it back to the mint at a price of 1.5 cents per pound to close to 50 cents.

So it's time to put all those pennies back into circulation. Holding them back only disrupts the money market and inconvenences businesses and consumers alike.

Argentina Torn by Inflation, Terrorism, and Inefficiency

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Argentina is Canada's opposite number at the other end of the Western Hemisphere. Like Canada it is rich in farmland, its population is becoming more and more urban. Both nations have strong polar interest.

Much of Canada's national territory lies in the Arctic. The Argentines are on the other hand, by claim to huge portions of the Antarctic where they police it variously with army and navy units.

Racially the countries are parallel with Spanish as the predominant language in Argentina compared to English here, but both countries containing other large and influential ethnic communities.

The famous and recently-dead General Juan Domingo Peron was brought social revolution of a kind to his country in the late 40s and early 50s, was of Italian origin.

But with these palaces greographic and sociological observations. The comparison between the two countries ends.

Modern Argentina ruled by the military but dominated Senora Isabel Peron, widow and third wife of the dead general, is in chaos split by political, trade union and historic dispolite.

A very rich nation which can move than support itself and sell large surpluses of its farm and industrial products abroad, Argentina eiks along from year to year.

Inflation has reached about 80 per cent. Wage agreements are all inept, hiking workers' wages. Then printing paper money to cover the resultant inflation.

Not that workers shouldn't share in whatever wealth the country generates. But African tina is plagued with the prevway philosophy established by Peron during his first and unendlich regime, 1946-1955.

The very large and disruptive trade union organizations are strongly Peronist, though split now between so-called conservatives who look back to the said days, (for them), of first Peronism and the leftists who want Argentina to become more of a socialist state.

Expressions of intense political differences not only inside the ruling Peronist movement but among the many enemies, are now shown in open and persistent terrorism.

Body counts are made daily throughout Argentina as left and right wing terrorists kidnap and kill not only Argentines, but executives of foreign-owned companies.

The largest ransom demanded and paid for in the recent world history of organized terrorism was a huge $15 million paid for a million dollar rank Xerson Corporation official kidnapped in Argentina.

President Peron (that is the living Isabel Peron), seems to be powerless to stop internal violence. Her movement like the trade unions it supported, is fiercely split.

The old-line Peronists have lulled into a conservative lethargy after methods which could be called neo-fascist. The younger Peronists were forced by her to edit their open links with leftwing urban guerillas.

He is Mr. Lopez Rega, minister of social welfare, always the key ministry in give-away Peronist governments. He is the tensely distrusted by non-Peronists and many around Senora Peron.

Argentina's problems at this point, seem insoluble.

Cost of Sidney Facelift Splits Street Residents

A civic dispute which had its roots in an attempt to save trees appears to have branched toward resolution.

City council this week moved to resolve the battle between a group of Sidney St. homeowners as to who should pay what for sidewalks outside their homes.

The result seems likely to affect city policy on local improvement charges on sidewalks where land is acquired.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey moved that council now give notice it is "agreeable" that where such costs are related to sidewalk construction they be charged to the city's general rate.

City manager Wilbur Fonvill later said the next move is likely for him to bring in a report and an amending resolution on such city council policy.

The lingering issue is tied to widening and reconstruction of Sidney between College and Tracey streets.

In a move to save shade trees on the west side council shifted its plans for a sidewalk behind the trees.

This meant more property acquisition and the cost of that acquirement was added on to local improvement charges. This pushed up such costs to $19.97 a foot — compared to $8.91 on the other side of the road, protested the westsiders.

They replied by demanding not only property acquisition costs be not included in local improvements, but that reconstruction of Sidney as a four-lane street be paid for completely from the general rate.

In the meantime, householders on the east side sent in a supporting petition. They complained the street reconstruction was adding $16.58 a foot to their tax levies — resulting in increases between $1,000-$2,000. They also asked for some relief by spreading more of the cost around all taxpayers who will benefit from the street residening.

However, Mayor Jeffrey revealed, she had discussed the situation with the west-side residents.

The result, was a new petition, replacing the old protest.

The new request asked that sidewalk land acquisition on the west side of Sidney be paid by the general rate.

At first Mayor Jeffrey's resolution also was tied to a provision that one bedood westsider sell property to the city at the last price offered.

But Ald. Paul Russell said such a move would be a "kind of blackmail" and might prompt dissatisfaction between other householders with the property owner in question since the issue now finally seemed near to being resolved.

Other aldermen agreed and the mayor — who protested her intention was to settle a property issue — withdrew the disputed part of her resolution.

Meantime, council agreed to deny the request of householders on the east-side of Sidney for easement on their street-widening local improvement charges.

School Produces First Grads of Full Course

BANCROFT — The first group of students to complete the full two-year program at North Hastings Senior Elementary School here graduated from Grade 8 Tuesday night and are eagerly awaiting the next step in the educational ladder.

The students, who come from all parts of North Hastings started at the school in September of 1973, when the doors were opened for the first time.

According to school principal Layton Shouldice, "special awards are also presented to the parents who have been involved in the communications builders committee".

The parents on the committee have been asked to help with the school activities in order to "establish meaningful opportunities for parents and teachers to grow in their understanding of each other's roles in the education of the youth of our community".

In a celebration, which lasted all day, the students of the school also received awards for academic achievement, sports and inter-school activities.

Award Presented

At the graduation exercises held at North Hastings Senior Elementary School in Bancroft, Tuesday, the English award was presented to student Stephen Gerbel by Vice-principal Eldin Lott. Other awards were presented to students for their achievements in mathematics and art.

JOHN WIGGETT

Coast to Coast Bikers

Trev and Joyce Deeley on their Harley Davidson are on their way across Canada — a trip they will complete July 5, if all goes well. Travelling with them as far as Toronto are Guy and Betty Duhaeme. The group left Saint John, N.B., June 20. Mr. Deeley is president of the company that has sole distribution rights for Harley Davidson in Canada.

Trail Exec Wants New Blood at Helm

While still awaiting provincial government action on Ontario outdoor trails, the Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail still is in the forefront of such projects, its president, Jim Staveley, said this week.

Mr. Staveley, who has headed the QHRT board of directors since it was founded three years ago, Monday indicated his desire to retire from the position.

Grant Harvey, secretary-treasurer who has administered the volunteer group which supervises the 250-mile multi-purpose recreation trail, also has indicated he wants to step down in "favor of new blood.

"We're certainly in the forefront of providing year-round recreation in this area on a volunteer basis," Mr. Staveley told a QHRT directors' meeting Monday at which he and Mr. Harvey indicated their desire to leave office.

"I suppose we're ahead of our time . . . but what we all want to know is when the Ontario government is going to act on its official trails policy."

Such a policy was announced in the legislature last November.

"I think we've done a good job as a volunteer board," said Mr. Staveley, recalling the QHRT struggles in its past three formative years. "It's been an uphill fight, but we've something going for us now."

The directors decided to hold an annual meeting Sept. 20 — possibly at Campkinn camping grounds near Moira Lake, south of Madoc. At that time a new slate of officers will be proposed.

Mr. Staveley, Mr. Harvey and Ron Powell, outdoor education teacher at Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, were named to a nomination committee to present new candidates for office.

Veteran Biker Makes Foxboro Stop on Tour

Trev Deeley has made enough money to last him a couple of lifetimes.

Through a lifelong involvement with motorcycles he has passed a personal worth of more than $2 million and now has decided to see the country in which he has made his living using for transportation the motorcycle that continues to bring him an income.

Mr. Deeley and his wife, Joyce, along with his business partner Don James and his wife, Ruth, reached Belleville Tuesday — one of many stops along the group's 4,000-mile trek across Canada. Travelling with the two couples is Guy and Betty Duhaeme. They will travel only as far as Toronto.

The group set off from Saint John, N.B. June 20 and since have averaged about 200 miles a day. The six were entertained in Foxboro Tuesday afternoon by Gerry Dafoe of Gerry's Motorcycle Shop.

"I've been a biker all my life," said 55-year-old Deeley. "It's time I really saw the country."

Mr. Deeley's family has been selling motorcycles in Vancouver since 1915. It was Mr. Deeley who had the first franchise to sell Honda products.

Later he won the franchise for Yamaha and currently has the Canadian distributorship for Harley Davidson.

"We expect to reach Vancouver July 5 to tie in with a promotion campaign," he said. "We'll make it."

Expropriation Needed

Expropriation is needed of several properties on Hastings County roads now under reconstruction.

They are County roads 4 — near Glen Miller — and 14, at Deseronto.

Property acquisition on these routes have "come to an impasse" and expropriation is needed, Gordon Wilman, Sidney Township reeve and the county roads and bridges committee chairman told council Tuesday.

Holidays start sooner. When you start with us.

Joan Fielden, Dominion's Home Economist Consultant

"Barbecues. The word has many meanings. Like food cooked over an open fire, over coals, in a pit, on a spit or in front of a fire. But for most of us, a barbecue simply means an enjoyable outdoor get together with the family or friends. Everyone eagerly waiting for the steaks, hamburgers or hot dogs to be given that final turn to doneness. And the table set with potato chips, potato salad, mustard, relish and all your other favourite fixings that make a barbecue a delicious, meaty family affair, especially during holiday time. You can make your barbecue meats tastier, more moist and more flavourful by marinating or brushing them with a sauce during cooking. So try the following barbecue sauce. It's easy to make and will give your meat that added barbecue flavour."

Easy to Make Barbecue Sauce

1 cup tomato juice
1 cup consomme
1 tablespoon meat sauce
tarragon
cloves
1 tablespoon freshly ground pepper
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
2 tablespoons onion juice
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 clove garlic, grated
½ cup sherry
parsley

1. Heat tomato juice, consomme and meat sauce with a sprig of tarragon, a sprig of thyme and two or three whole cloves.
2. Just before boiling, add other seasonings. Then add sherry and allow sauce to heat for a minute or two longer before serving.

Adventurer's Vacation Was Nightmare at Times

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — In the Congo the locals thought that Jack Joyce, 31, of Toronto, was a mercenary.

It was touch-and-go whether he survived.

The incident was one of four in which he has been nearly killed while roaming the wilder parts of the world.

Another was in Afghanistan where the group he was with was attacked while camping. Their vehicle's tires were slashed and as they made their escape on flat tires the raiders shot at them.

"I shook after that one," Joyce admits.

Joyce would be the last one to describe himself as an adventurer, but he fills the role perfectly.

Since leaving University of Western Ontario in London in 1969 with degrees in political science, urban studies and town planning, he has visited countries so far off the tourist routes most holiday-makers never give them a thought.

"Asia was so cheap I had a few dollars left and I saw no purpose in returning to Canada right away," he said. "So I went through Europe with paying passengers in my combi."

Then came another milestone.

"In Morocco I saw a weather-beaten sign which said: 'Dakar (Senegal) 2,800 kilometres. I started thinking about a trip down the west coast of Africa. The idea was to take three months getting to Cape Town, then by boat to South America, two months there, and then back up to Canada."

His plans didn't work out. His journal of 400 pages—a great tale of adventure—explains why he took a year just getting to Rhodesia.

"My timetable was upset by revolts, epidemics and multitudenous other things," he said.

By his count in areas of Africa where he was at the time there were six civil wars and eight cholera epidemics.

"No one I know of has gone through Africa the way I did," he says. "From what I hear my route over the desert hasn't been used since."

By the time he reached Kenya he was out of money.

"I tried for four months to get a job in Kenya," he says. "Then I finally caught on. I was told I would not get a job because I was white. Apartheid is much more prevalent north of Rhodesia."

He moved on and white friends suggested he should move to Rhodesia to get work.

For a man who had been the student representative on the policy committee of the Ontario Liberal Party the idea was "purely and simply ludicrous."

But travel to Rhodesia he did.

In Salisbury he approached the ministry of local government for work. There was no job available, but they said they'd make one. But, Joyce was told, they couldn't pay him the money his qualifications were worth. They suggested he try South Africa.

One week in Johannesburg and he was on his way back to Rhodesia for that government job. That was 3½ years ago.

A year ago he left government and joined University of Rhodesia's political science department as lecturer in local government. At the end of his 2½ years with the ministry he had reached a position as senior research officer. As regional planner he had drawn up the first town-planning maps in the country.

Now Joyce has second thoughts on Rhodesia.

"I look at Rhodesia extremely differently after the experience of living here," he says.

"What we were told presupposes a set of cultural values comparable to Canada," he said. "But you can't compare the Africans with the North American Negroes—the Negroes are black Americans, the culture is different.

"Canada also hasn't a culturally divisive society where the bulk of people are living a completely different life style. The change is startling here, but it is only starting now."

"There is no point of comparison between the average African and the average white. They have nothing in common. But it doesn't mean that the average white doesn't respect and try to work with blacks.

"If a white supervisor is in charge, it is because of his skills and technical knowledge. If a black can do the job he would just as likely be the supervisor.

"Blacks already run the country. You only have to look at the post offices, the banks, hotels, factories and farms. Nothing can happen without the skills of the blacks.

"It's a symbiosis, with the blacks getting the technical knowledge from the whites and the whites depending on the blacks for output. As long as we continue to co-operate with each other, fine and dandy."

Joyce says he would like to see southern and central Africa operate as an economically unified area with Rhodesia, South Africa, Angola, Zambia, Botswana, Malawi and Mocambique joining in.

"They could use the technical skills of the white man and the innate knowledge and skills of the black so that both could develop. Rhodesia could never have developed as far as it has without this co-operation between the races."

Professor Appointed

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Cédric Grant, University of Waterloo associate professor of political science, has been appointed ambassador for Guyana. A native of Guyana, Dr. Grant will be posted in Africa, in charge of the Guyanese mission in Zambia.

Declaring War on U.S. Profitable to Indians

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (AP) — Most Kootenai Indians say that declaring war on the United States last Sept. 20 has been the only good thing to happen to their band since 1855, when their ancestral land was signed away without their presence at the treaty of Hellgate, Mont.

The 67-member tribe has found its only adversaries to be government agencies fighting back with money instead of bullets.

Projects began as a result of the bloodless war include a road to a new 17.5-acre reserve, a tribal housing program, a water and sewage system and a comprehensive planning program. Total cost is about $475,000.

Money and assistance poured from the government because the Kootenais, concerned that their band might cease to exist, acted on a "war" as the best vehicle for seeking aid. There was no violence in the war, just spectacular publicity.

The tribe without a treaty went on a war-path paved with dimes eight months ago. Toll points were established on both sides of this logging community of 2,800 and motorists were asked to pay a dime for crossing the Kootenais' claimed ancestral land.

Gov. Cecil Andrus ordered about 70 troopers—more than a third of the Idaho state police force—to converge on the town. There were no arrests. Four days and about 15,000 dimes later, most of the troopers had left.

"The state police came with Mace and sawed-off shotguns," said the Kootenai's leader, tribal chairman Amy rice. "The closest thing we had to a weapon in our tribal office was a flyswatter."

But state police said at the time their presence was necessary to protect the Indians from nosey outsiders.

The tribal office is almost as busy these days as at the height of the confrontation with state police; government officials come in increasing numbers to offer fiscal peace pipes.

"Now we're getting some place," said Mrs. Trice, immersed in a stack of government that she calls "white tape."

"We're still at war. We'll remain at war until our demands are met."

"Where Your Dollar Buys More"

They Revitalized Old House

TORONTO (CP) —When Austin and Mary Uiska bought their house it contained 11 rooms, six of them bedrooms. After Austin designed and rebuilt the interior, and Mary did the decorating, the old-fashioned rooming-house atmosphere was gone.

They designed the whole house around the light in the stairwell. Toe stairs group from the front hall to the second floor and then wind up to the third, with a skylight letting light pour down the central core, right onto the dining room table.

The stairs have been carpeted in white shag and the free standing staircase from the second to the third floor is carpeted on both sides, top and bottom.

Two small bathrooms on the second floor were converted into one five-piece room, and completely lined with natural slate and a dark print wallpaper.

More slate is used down stairs in the hall, living and dining room areas. Furnishings in the main floor area are beige, yellow and white with glass and chrome tables.

Some of Mary Uiska's style of decorating is emphasized with different colors of paint. In the master bedroom, a headboard is a panel above the bed which is painted in light brown and bordered in dark brown. There's more decorating by paint in the kitchen.

The kitchen is divided into two areas — one for work and one for sitting — by a central serving and chopping area.

Living Room

Simple, elegant mood of the living room was achieved with white fur rugs on natural slate flooring beige canvas upholstery fabric are lighting and green plants. Designed and rebuilt by Austin Uiska, the home is located in downtown Toronto.

Old House

Old house shows contemporary face to the world since it was remodelled by architect Austin Uiska. Located in downtown Toronto, it contained 11 rooms, six of them bedrooms, before being designed and rebuilt by owners.

Decorating with Paint

Fantasy Ladies, emerging from the fireplace of the remodelled kitchen in the downtown Toronto home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Uiska, introduces bright green into the color scheme. The room, which is located at the front of the house, is divided into two areas by a serving island, at which Mary Uiska and daughter Erin, 5, are shown. New glass doors make the room bright and airy.

Ann Landers

Police Chief Outlines 12 Rules To Keep Kids Safe from Crime

Dear Ann Landers: You have, in the past, printed some very useful suggestions and guidelines sent in by readers. As superintendent of the Allegheny County Police, I would like to share with you some literature put out by the Boys and Girls Crime Prevention Corps. We hope young people everywhere will profit from these rules:

1. Keep out of wooded areas, empty lots and empty buildings.

2. Do not talk with strangers or get into a car driven by a person you don't know.

3. Never thumb riders.

4. Don't permit anyone you don't know to touch or handle you.

5. Turn down any offer by a stranger who asks you to tell things or pass things out.

6. Do not take candy or money from strangers.

7. Keep away from strangers who get friendly in a movie, park, swimming pool or other public place.

8. Never eat anything or puff on anything given to you by a stranger.

1. Scream as loud as you can. Keep screaming. Don't stop.

2. Jerk free and run as fast as you can.

3. Run to the nearest house or building and tell the first person you see what happened.

4. Call the police and your parents. Remain there until someone comes for you.

5. Try to remember the description of the person who bothered you. — Robert G. Kroner, Pittsburgh.

Dear Friend: Thanks for the expert advice. I hope parents everywhere will go over your suggestions with their children and reemphasize the importance of each one. It could mean the difference between life and death.

Dear Ann: I've heard of married men who lie and say they are single. But what about a single man who lies and says he is married?

I've been seeing Dick for six months. He has promised to marry me as soon as he is able to get a divorce. I learned to day that he isn't married.

What do you make of it? I'm — Zonked

Dear Z: Wake up and smell the coffee, honey. He's a bar — out for whatever he can get. And if, after you read this, he gets anything more than a Methodist handshake and a swift farewell you have oatmeal where your brains belong.

Dear Ann Landers: I need help with a problem concerning my intimate life. I'm 24, female and have trouble with men. To be honest with you, Ann, I can't stand them. When it comes to sex, even turn me off — completely. I haven't expressed my feelings to anyone because I'm sure they'd think I was a lesbian. I have never had sexual relations with anyone, although I am strongly attracted to certain women I know.

Could this be a passing phase? Is it possible that I can somehow learn to like men? Believe me, I've tried and they leave me cold. What do you make of this? My future depends on your answer. — Very Anonymous

Dear V.A.: If you are 24, "can't stand men" and are "strongly attracted" to certain women you know, I can tell you it's no passing phase."

I urge you to get counselling. You need a great deal more help than I can give you in a single letter. That help is tied in with the answers to many questions a counselor would ask. Get moving.

Doris Clark

Nothing Gained by Nursing Grudges

Scarlet O'Hara in "Gone With The Wind" was wont to say, when a problem loomed too large for immediate solution:

"I'll think about that tomorrow!"

We needn't be tossed about by every ill-wind of thought that blows through our minds. We can learn to reject our thoughts. The pattern of our thinking (and of our personalities) is determined by what we allow to stay in our minds — and what we deliberately put there.

There's nothing gained by dwelling on a mishap, nursing a grudge or harboring regrets of any kind. You need every thinking minute for the enrichment of your mind and the widening of your horizons. If today's at perfect, you can make it better — with thought.

Dear Doris: I'm 36 and I still rock my bed. When I am asleep something in my mind or maybe my dreams, makes me get up on four limbs and rock back and forth — my bed, and when I do realize what I'm doing I get mad and lie back down-again and drift off to sleep.

This bothers me. I'm scared I'll do this when I get married and what will my husband think of me then? — Nervous

Dear Nervous: Variations of your difficulty are well known to psychiatric social workers. Some people sleep-walk, sleep-talk, or rock "a" roll. Such behavior suggests unresolved anxieties.

Infants need to be cuddled and rocked gently to help them develop feelings of contentment. Sometimes young children rock themselves to sleep. What you are doing seems to be a more advanced form of this.

Do you suppose there are emotional stresses that you are not dealing with during your waking hours?

I suggest you have a thorough physical examination and talk honestly with your doctor about what, in your life, may be bothering you. Another thing — get physical exercise, lots of fresh air and a good balanced diet. Then before you retire take a warm soothing bath and learn to do some gentle relaxing exercises. Hatha Yoga breathing and relaxing exercises can help enormously.

Then stop chasing yourself in a circle by worrying about the rocking.

Confidential to disappointed mother: Your friend is suffering from the "empty nest" syndrome. With children gone, she still wants to keep a hand in.

Life is change, and the kindest thing she can do is keep out of her girl's quarrels with her man. Help her to see that this is her daughter's life now; and that she must count on her to act the grown-up manager that she has in her to act.

Then have her find a new career for herself, something she can enjoy giving a major part of her time to.

Dear Doris: I write in desperation. How can I put in words my problem? I'll try.

A while ago my husband was unfaithful to me; I forgave his affair but since then our relationship has deteriorated. He takes out his resentment on me and our two teens, vowing never to let me handle his money again. He even buys the groceries. I can't have charge accounts.

He criticizes the actions of our boys and girl; otherwise pays no attention to them; never gives them a thing.

He drinks, sleeps, eats, in the basement. He resents it when I go out with a girl friend, which happens about once a month.

This way of life is taking its toll of all of us. I think he is thoroughly unreasonable.

Unhappy

Dear Unhappy: Unreasonable is putting it mildly. His makes me think more about incipient mental illness. Your doctor may have some clues.

And whatever is eaten him, I'd say it is deeper than the one moral slip, needing the personal examination of a person trained in human behavior — a social worker or psychiatrist. Make an appointment yourself, at your family agency, first, to talk it all over.

Criminals Invading Drug Scene

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's juvenile court judges painted a gloomy picture of the Canadian drug scene in which they say is being increasingly infiltrated by organized crime.

In a brief presented to more than 200 delegates at the annual conference of the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police, the association's committee on drug abuse said illicit use of all drugs is increasing.

"The problem is not helped, the brief said, by courts which treat cases involving possession of cannabis in the same way as those involving alcohol.

Nurses Bitter

HALIFAX (CP) — Nurses in eight Cape Breton hospitals will go back to work today, bitter that the government is seeing sending patients to mainland hospitals in an effort to break the nurses' strike which began June 12, a spokesman for the provincial nurses staff association said Tuesday.

Theresa Kennedy, association president, told reporters the 380 nurses met in individual groups at the eight hospitals Tuesday morning and decided to return to work—but not because they accepted Tuesday's government wage offer.

"They felt they had no bargaining power," she said. "Their patients have separated from their families they felt they didn't stand much chance in the public eye."

Bail Denied

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A provincial court judge denied bail Tuesday to Alexandre Jubasz, 38, of Toronto, charged with bank robbery, kidnapping, auto theft and possession of a stolen car in connection with a $12,782 bank robbery in nearby Norwood last Friday.

He was remanded in custody to June 30.

Leslie Gagne, 18, also of Toronto, is to appear Wednesday on the same charges in connection with the robbery of the Royal Bank of Canada branch.

Novel Remedy

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The area Roman Catholic separate school board gave its approval Monday to a suggestion that those convicted of wilful damage in separate schools be sentenced to a term with the school janitor. The Frontenac, Lennox and Addington County board approved the suggestion by family court officials because of concern about increasing destruction of school property.

Shriners Gather

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Streight of New Westminster, B.C., president of the Shriners, arrived here this week for an advance guard for the 85,000 Shriners who will arrive this weekend, and expressed that the old hijinks are drying out.

He said the object of the fun-loving group is entertainment, not embarrassing anyone.

Boy Killed

TORONTO (CP) — The body of Kenneth John Werth, 17, Toronto was found in a park Tuesday with two bullet holes in his head. Police say the youth apparently staggered down an embankment into the park after being shot. An autopsy showed he had been shot once in the back of the head and once in the front.

May Oppose Davis

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member of the Ontario legislature for the Toronto riding of High Park, says he is considering seeking the NDP nomination to oppose Premier William Davis in the new Brampton riding in a provincial election expected this fall. He said Tuesday his decision depends on whether provincial NDP leader Stephen Lewis will promise him the justice minister try if the NDP forms the next government, whether the riding association wants him and whether he thinks he has a chance to win.

Phoney Quotes

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two Kingston car dealers using form letters bearing phoney quotations from the Criminal Code to force payment of back debts were warned Monday to stop the practice. Police Chief Roland Smith said both dealers agreed to stop sending the forms and he is satisfied they had no intent to misuse the code. However, Crown Attorney John Sampson described the letters as "an obvious intent to intimidate people."

No Defence Witnesses At Harbor Fraud Trial

HAMILTON (CP) — No defence witnesses will be called at the Hamilton harbor developer fraud trial Tuesday, lawyers for former harbor commissioner Kenneth Elliott and businessman Reginald Fisher said Tuesday.

Defence counsel Malcolm Robb and Ray Harris both told the Ontario Supreme Court they plan to call no evidence for the defence, relying instead on the evidence authorities had called to be delivered next week.

Mr. Justice Thomas Callon told the seven women and five men of the jury—the final arguments by the Crown and defence will take at least a day.

The judge also said his own charge will take the better portion of a day.

Legal matters are to be argued in the absence of the jury for the rest of this week, with the jury scheduled to return Monday morning.

Hydro Power Rates to Double

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro expects demand to grow during the next three years despite announcements of increases in the price of electricity, an Ontario Energy Board hearing was told Tuesday.

The board is hearing Hydro's application for a record 30-percent rate increase next year in municipal utilities and large industrial consumers—the first of three annual increases that would double power rates by 1978.

Public Hearings

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission into the concentration of corporate power announced Tuesday it will hold public hearings at several cities starting in November.

The commission, now inviting briefs, said a detailed schedule for public hearings would be announced later.

Cut Feared

TORONTO (CP) — A move by Ontario's health ministry to cut the budgets of psychiatric hospitals by three per cent is a disaster, Jan Dukszta (NDP—Toronto Parkdale) said Tuesday.

"It will affect badly, and in some cases fatally, the quality of psychiatric services in Ontario," Mr. Dukszta, a psychiatrist by profession, said in a news release.

Meeting Closed

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald (NDP—York South) complained in the legislature Tuesday that a meeting with representatives from Ontario and Manitoulin Island was closed to opposition critics.

He said the meeting, called by the agriculture ministry to discuss "the emergency in the cow-calf sector of the industry," was announced publicly last week in Smith Falls.

Want to Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 2,000 refugees who were brought to United States territory from the head of Vietnam want to return to their homelands, says the head of the government's refugee-aid agency, Julia Vadala Taft said Tuesday that the repatriation process will come under the jurisdiction of the United Nations high commissioner for refugees.

No Evidence Seen Gunman Insane

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Two psychiatrists told an inquest into the May 18 shooting at Centennial Secondary School Tuesday they found no evidence Michael Slobodian was mentally deranged, but that he was just a teenager who needed to be counseled and liked.

Slobodian, who shot and killed fellow student John Slinger, 17, and Margaret Wright, 35, an English teacher, before killing himself. Thirteen other students also were wounded.

Dr. Gordon E. Warme, chief of child and adolescent behavior at the Clarke Institute in Toronto, and Dr. John Atchenson, another institute psychiatrist, described the killings as "modern murders" which defy explanation.

Dr. Warme said Slobodian "was a responsible boy who came from a cohesive background."

He said Slobodian had not previously demonstrated any type of mental illness which could have been recognized.

Both doctors said the youth did have symptoms which could be indicated as underlying mental problem, but said excessive significance should not be attached to these.

Some of the symptoms were unsatisfactory school attendance, forging of signatures and preoccupation with high academic achievement and concern about his weight, complaints demonstrated in absentee notes.

Mr. Justice Thomas Callon told the seven women and five men of the jury—the final arguments by the Crown and defence will take at least a day.

The judge also said his own charge will take the better portion of a day.

Legal matters are to be argued in the absence of the jury for the rest of this week, with the jury scheduled to return Monday morning.

is a social custom that is allowable and which we challenge government to alter."

Slobodian used two rifles—a 22-calibre, and a .444-calibre for the shooting.

Both psychiatrists said later in an interview that Slobodian planned the shootings.

They said Slobodian showed a friend how to handle a rifle the night before the shooting. This was a "dress rehearsal," they said.

Pat Slinger, mother of John Slinger, asked the coroner's jury to recommend gun control and psychological screening of students.

"I feel our open society has changed greatly, and with the change in needs, laws should be changed," she said.

Mrs. Slinger said psychological screening should be started at schools "so perhaps at some future time a child could be helped."

"We can't prevent these things happening, but perhaps we can lower the chances," she said.

Mrs. Slinger, herself a mature student at the school, testified how she saw her first aid training in the halls, the injured while unknown to her her own son lay dying in the boy's washroom at the school.

"I feel perhaps some good has come of this (incident)," she told the jury. "I hope so. I'm proud of how the community acted. You wouldn't threaten it would happen in that school."

He said a forensic study showed no drugs or alcohol in Slobodian's system and no evidence of a brain tumor. He said Slobodian died of a bullet to the brain which blew away most of his face.

Sgt. Jim Wingate on Peel regional police testified that Peter Slobodian, the dead youth's father, bought Michael a 22-calibre rifle in October, 1973, two weeks before his 13th birthday. He said the .444-calibre rifle was bought March 1 to be used for moose hunting.

Sgt. Wingate said Slobodian took a department of lands and forests hunter's safety training course in July, 1973, and wrote a series of examinations on gun handling and use. He said Slobodian scored 38 out of 40 in the exams.

Teachers May Seek Pay For Voluntary Services

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario teachers are being forced to seek pay for services they now volunteer, Lorne Forster, president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF), told a committee of the legislature Tuesday.

Proposed legislation establishing rules for collective bargaining between boards of education and teachers would forbid teachers as a group from withdrawing volunteer services or implementing a work-to-rule tactics during the life of a collective agreement.

Mr. Forster told the committee teachers should be allowed to work to rule at any time.

But the proposed legislation places new obligations on teachers volunteering extra-curricular services, these services would have to be considered part of their normal teaching duties.

Mr. Forster's plea was not well received by some committee members. Committee chairman Glen Hodgson (PC—Victoria-Haliburton) said it was regrettable Mr. Forster made the statement he did.

"If that's not sabre-rattling, I don't know what is," added Education Minister Thomas Wells.

Plot Against Castro Said Lone Mafia Link

WASHINGTON (AP) — An alleged plot in Chicago to assassinate Fidel Castro in the early 1960s was the lone instance in which the Senate intelligence committee has found evidence of collusion between the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the underworld, said Senator John Tower.

Tower, a Republican from Texas, commented Tuesday after three hours of closed-door testimony by underworld figure John Rosselli about his role in the alleged plot which authoritative sources have described as an aborted attempt to poison Castro.

Today, the committee is to hear from William Harvey, a former CIA official who also has been linked to Castro assassination plans.

Committee Chairman Frank Church (Democrat, Idaho) said Rosselli's account of the alleged plot against Castro did not differ substantially from various news reports of the scheme.

Rosselli "filled us in with much greater detail and in much more complete understanding of the exact nature of the relationship between the CIA and the underworld and the chronology of events," Church said.

Rosselli identified the CIA officials he dealt with but with the exception of Harvey used the names of nongovernment persons because he said he was for fear that it might endanger their lives. Church said. The exception was San Giancana, the recently murdered Chicago gangster chief who also has been described as a participant in the plot.

Tower said Giancana was "a prominent figure but "our evidence leads us to believe Rosselli was a peripheral figure."

Harvey, now a lawyer in Indianapolis, Ind., also has refused all comment since his name surfaced in connection with anti-Castro plots.

Harvey's role in the affair remains unclear with sources disagreeing over whether he was involved in the original attempt to poison Castro.

However, several sources have said that after the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, Harvey was placed in charge of developing plans for deposing Castro by any means. These plans included everything from murder to bribery and involved several meetings with Rosselli, these sources say.

Peaceful Holiday Observed

MONTREAL (CP) — About 250,000 Quebecois participated in final activities of St. Jean Baptiste celebrations Tuesday, winding up a holiday weekend called the most successful and peaceful celebration in seven years.

An estimated 1.5 million people joined in the five-day event, honoring the patron saint of Quebec, top Mount-Royal in the centre of the city.

No major arrests were reported by police over the holiday, traditionally marred by outbreaks of violence and strong nationalist overtones.

About 60 Montreal Urban Community police were on duty on the mountain. They were there to support the organizing committee's force of 200 security men, a police spokesman said.

Gas Tax Only Applies to New Stock

Motorists who paid 10 cents a gallon more for their gasoline Tuesday, were probably not paying the additional tax, announced in Monday's federal budget. They were just paying too much for their gas.

Unless they were selling gas on consignment from oil companies, dealers should not have added the 10-cent increase. According to the city's excise tax office, the tax is added to the transaction between the oil company and the dealer, and then passed on to the consumer — at the discretion of the dealer or his parent oil company.

Therefore, gasoline already in dealers' tanks is not affected by the new tax and only gas sold by oil companies to dealers after June 24 is subject to the tax.

So, if your service station man raised the price, he was wrong, unless the gas he sold still belonged to the oil company. Or, because of confusion surrounding announcement of the new tax, he may have been mistaken.

County Council Rejects Restructuring Study

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Study of restructuring of county government — a lingering issue in Hastings County Council politics today remains at an impasse.

Tuesday county council deciively turned down separate proposals differing — possibly calling for scrutiny of the county system.

Just how light the deadlock is was graphically illustrated council when it received the report of its municipal reform committee.

The eight-member committee, council found, had split right down the middle on a proposal to study restructuring.

The proposal would have involved the county with Trenton and Belleville — at their own expense significantly without provincial aid — in hiring a consultant to study local government throughout Hastings.

Council turned down his move on a 10-18 vote, despite the reeve's plea that a study is needed if only to define the future problems facing the county.

Reeve Casey warned his township — as part of the county — could be facing "huge assessments" by neighboring Belleville.

"I'm not convinced that restructuring is desirable at all," he said. "But I think these are some of the things the study is going to tell us."

He won support from Gordon Wilson, reeve of neighboring Sidney Township, who said a study would "tell us what to expect." Both Belleville and Trenton are "just reaching out" for both southern townships and annexations could mean much loss of county assessment.

Reeve George Lynn, of Deseronto, said council should be concerned. Not only did

Resolution Termed "Garbage"

Hastings County council Tuesday refused support for a resolution that would have made welfare recipients work for their allowances.

The reaction came after the suggestion — from Durham Regional government — was called a "piece of garbage" by one councillor.

The resolution suggested amendments to senior government laws that would allow employable welfare recipients to contribute — where possible, and if needed — service for the money they received.

The projects would involve work not normally done by a municipality and the recipient would be paid local union rates.

But, Hastings social services committee did not accept the suggestion, said Carl Bateman, county treasurer-administrator.

"It seems to me," said Reeve Barabara Allen of Tweed, "they have a lot to learn (in Durham)." She moved that council merely file "that particular bit of garbage".

Floor Hockey Champs

Transportation Problem Hampers Program for Handicapped Youth

The result was a suggestion from a city councillor that the city's recreation department consider taking such a program next year.

The proposal came from Ald. Wally Dever, member of the recreation - arena committee and principal of William R. Kirk School for retarded students.

Ald. Dever related this story: A little of young Belleville's villians is currently preparing SIMIH — a summer recreation program for mentally handicapped youngsters, centred on his school and funded by a $1,200 Opportunities for The Belleville Transit Commission (BTC), under the terms of its city franchise is the only carrier permitted to make passenger pickups in the city.

Barbara McQuarrie, 17, one of the project organizers, said studies with the BTC revealed it would cost $50 a day to have a regulation bus do the rounds with the young passengers.

"It sure did come as a shock," she said.

Marylea Burtt, BTC chairman, says the commission has to charge a minimum two-hour hiring service. A driver on spare time now gets the same pay as full-time help.

But, she said, if the project's transport is volunteered the BTC is not involved.

Another member of the young trio, 17-year-old Nancy Brennan, said the group is paying operational costs for vehicles — it's gas and upkeep.

"But they don't realize the owner is not getting any profit out of it."

At the committee meeting recreation director Clifford Belch said his department also was having bus transportation problems with its program for retarded adults.

One solution was offered by Paul Russell, parks board chairman: That committee members take the issue to Mayor Robin Jeffrey for advertisement today.

Upkeep Expensive

Costs to local governments for maintaining delinquent juveniles in homes can become onerous, Hastings County council was told Tuesday.

The daily rate of such costs can run around $30 a day and it could be "quite serious if a municipality has the liability" said Mr. Bateman.

Council concurred with a resolution from Simcoe County that provincial subsidies be sought to ease such costs.

Transit Loss $55,000 For First Four Months

For the first four months of 1975, Belleville's Transit Commission has a net operating loss of $55,000.

The commission's operating loss is covered equally by the municipality and the province by way of two 50-per-cent subsidies.

Commission chairman Marylea Burtt said an operating loss of approximately $180,000 is anticipated for the year.

However, the commission is moving into the busiest passenger period "where the heaviest losses will be taken," said Mrs. Burtt. "We usually do best in the first four months and last four months of the year."

General manager Lewis McMullin said an overall one-per-cent decrease in riders could be attributed to the commission strike in April and increased fares.

In a move to both reduce the deficit and cater to the decrease in passengers, the commission Tuesday formally approved reduced summer service hours.

The new hours to take effect June 30 will mean no bus service in the city after 9.45 p.m.

The scheme won city council approval Monday.

Mrs. Burtt said: "The cut was carefully considered for now on a trial basis and that the idea will be re-assessed in the fall."

Charter Rates Up

Belleville Transit Commission has increased its school bus charter rate service by 34 per cent — the result of increasing operating costs. The move came at a commission meeting Tuesday.

For one-way trips, the rate to the school board increases from $18 to $21 and $34 to $38 for a round trip.

Last year, the commission did great charter business of approximately $45,000 of which eight per cent was profit.

"We don't need the charter business if we're not making a little bit of money on it," said commission chairman Marylea Burtt.

Rollins Would Resign Over Government Issue

Clarke Rollins says the day his Conservative government amalgamates Hastings County — without its consent — into a regional government, it is day he will quit the legislature.

He made the statement Tuesday in Hastings County council — the strongest declaration yet from a politician who is a declared foe of imposed regional government for the county.

Mr. Rollins, MPP Hastings since 1959, indicated he was prompted by recent charges the Conservative government, if re-elected, will regionalize all Ontario.

Mr. Rollins said he had been assured special officials from there would be no regional government unless such was requested by Hastings.

Road Workers Win $1.10-an-hour Boost

Striking Hastings County road workers won themselves a $1.10 hourly increase in two stages it was revealed Tuesday.

The men staged a seven-week — the first in the county's 125-year history which ended last Saturday — asking pay hikes that totalled $1.75.

Details of the settlement became public for the first time when Hastings County council received the report of its personnel committee.

The 25 workers also sought a lower minimum on hours worked before they drew overtime — from 45 hours to 40 hours. The new agreement reduces the minimum to 50 hours.

The increases — on a one-year contract — will come with 80 cents starting immediately and another 30 cents Oct. 1.

The total raises a laborer's wages from $3.07 to $4.17. The top category, mechanic, goes from $3.87 to $4.97 by October.

Other benefits: 100 per cent premiums and medicare, life insurance, an extra statutory holiday and three days instead of 15.

Sprackett Joins BGH Board

Hastings County council has named a new member to the Belleville General Hospital board of governors to succeed the late Harleigh Hamilton.

He is Ross Sprackett, Tudor and Cashel Township Reeve.

Damage Extensive

There was $400 damage to the car driven by Daniel Andrews of RR3, Tweed, who was alone.

Connie Armstrong of Madoc, driver, and three occupants were in the other car. It received $800 damage.

Cyclist Thrown From Bike

MADOC — A 34-year-old Hamilton man is in satisfactory condition at Belleville General Hospital today after he was thrown from his motorcycle at 11.35 a.m. Tuesday, on Highway 7 two miles west of here.

There was $700 damage to the motorcycle.

New Church May Have Plaza, Floating Roof

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

A courtyard, a plaza, a floating roof and several liturgical changes will highlight a new St. Thomas' Anglican Church if the congregation approves an initial design for the gutted 139-year-old edifice.

Rudy Javosky of Sankey Associates Architects in Toronto described the proposed rebirth to a gathering of church members at the parish hall here Tuesday.

Mr. Javosky explained his firm attempted to retain the heritage of the church through the restoration of the existing structure while combining it with modernistic concepts in church construction which still allows for an historical appearance.

He said the courtyard will be located on the south side facing East Bridge St. (well-lit at night) and will be the only exterior access to the basement. Its staircase will be barred by a gate which when locked, in addition to the high walls, will deter intruders.

Mr. Javosky said the plaza will stretch from the west end at the main church entrance and will incorporate a widened, gradually-sloping, cement stairway from street level on Church St. to replace the present, steep, 14-foot climb.

The proposed floating, metal corrugated roof will sit on four pillars erected inside the present walls which will be connected to the roof by metal lieons and a perimeter of clear glazing to produce a dramatic lighting effect within the nave.

Mr. Javosky pointed out the north and south walls cannot support any stress and will remain free-standing essentially.

Inside the nave, the baptismal font will be relocated from the back of the pews to the front of the altar will be moved from the east wall closer to the congregation along with the pulpit and lectern to bring the congregation more to the focal point of services.

The choir will be united. (It was split into two groups previously) and will sit in the northeast corner while directly opposite will be the organ, Mr. Javosky outlined.

Mr. Javosky said the basement will be expanded by lowering its floor and will accommodate a kindergarten, nursery and meeting room — the walls of which will be removable to form a hall — washrooms, storage and service areas.

Tape Deck Missing

Police said Rex Ralston reported the instrument missing from his car, along with a tachometer — while it was parked behind his apartment at 119 West Bridge St.

Mobility for Elderly

Ted Branton, chairman of Belleville Yardmen, hands over keys of a passenger van for transporting elderly folk at Hastings Manor, county home for the aged, to Hastings County Warden William McCrea. Ernie Belanger (left) Yardmen's secretary, and Glenna Meyers, Sidney Township's deputy reeve and head of county homes for the aged committee participated in ceremonies Tuesday outside county building.

Proposed Phoenix

Like a phoenix from the ashes, St. Thomas' Anglican Church will rise from its present firegutted state to a form not unlike the model viewed here by two members of the congregation during a Tuesday meeting at the parish hall. The congregation approved an initial design in principle as submitted by a Toronto architectural firm.

EMO Future Clouded as County Turns Down Funding Request

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A last-ditch stand may have become an earlier-than-expected grave for the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization (QEMO).

The indication that QEMO may now be in its last weeks — despite an eleventh-hour salvage operation — came Tuesday at Hastings County council.

Council rejected a proposal that it join other QEMO member municipalities in paying extra funds to keep the organization afloat until the end of the year.

Meanline, Prince Edward County council Tuesday night voted to approve only $302 to QEMO "and that no further funds be approved for this purpose."

If had been asked for $953 as its share of funds needed to keep the service going to Dec. 31.

The rescue operation was predicated on the fact that participating local governments — Belleville, Trenton, Hastings and Prince Edward counties — would share $7,000 to keep QEMO going to the year's end.

Trenton and Picton already have paid their dues and Monday, Belleville city council voted $2,000 to the fool — plus rent-free quarters.

Hastings share was set at $2,868.

The council's normal share of QEMO expenses — before the federal and provincial governments withdrew support and precipitated the shutdown situation — was just under $1,000.

But councillors balked at the additional requisition and passed a resolution not to provide the organization with any more funds than had been budgeted.

The first turndown for the rescue operation, it could mean QEMO now will wind down by Aug. 1 after 13 years in operation.

Beyond that date it would be impossible to operate — even with planned staff reductions — since that was the deadline set by the QEMO executive.

"We decided that if one municipality wasn't interested we had to make a decision," said Mayor Robin Jeffrey, QEMO executive chairman Monday night.

Another meeting now will be held to decide immediate future action, she said.

But Angus Duffy, QEMO coordinator who organized the service, said it would "kill" the organization by the end of July if one municipality refused to join the fund.

Hopes were that the salvage fund would keep QEMO operable until the year's end when new directions were expected from senior governments.

Indians' Dropout Rate Drops in Dryden Area

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — A co-ordinated approach to the problems of Indian students has brought about a fall in the rate of native high school dropouts in the big Dryden education district of northwestern Ontario, once three or four times as high as the non-Indian rate.

Wilfred Pague, superintendent of education for the district, attributes the change to growing awareness by provincial teachers of Indian problems, backed by steps by the board of education to ease the high school life.

He also credits closer ties with Indian leaders and co-operation from the federal Indian and northern affairs department with helping to bridge the cultural gap between Indian and non-Indian students.

Through meetings with band leaders and workshops conducted by experts in cross-cultural education in which non-educationists and teachers participate, the superintendent is trying to develop a community approach which stresses native values.

Since many students leave homes in isolated Indian communities to study in the Dryden area, separation from their own people at an impressionable age is a contributing cause of early dropout.

Indian affairs provides education money up to Grade 8 for natives living in reserves in the Far North. The Dryden board accepts high school— and certain elementary grade—students from these communities.

To ease the transition from one society to another, a special orientation class was started last September at Queen Elizabeth high school in Sioux Lookout, 50 miles north of here but part of the Dryden provincial school system.

The decrease in the Dryden dropout rate is confirmed by John Connor, Indian affairs assistant superintendent of education for a district which transfers students into the Dryden system from 18 remote communities situated in a 150,000-square-mile area stretching north from Sioux Lookout to Hudson Bay and 150 miles west to the Manitoba border.

He believes greater involvement by native people in education is encouraging students to stay longer in school. Almost half the northern district's education personnel are natives.

The Dryden board has only five native teacher aides who are employed in schools that have the highest concentrations of Indian students. It lacks full-time educational counsellors to advise parents and work with Indian bands.

The Dryden board has accepted a proposal to introduce a "head-start" program for four-year-old children from the Eagle Lake reserve and surrounding area.

A factor in retaining students in school has been the development by Indian affairs of continuation education in remote Indian communities in the northern district. Three of these now offer post-elementary education to Grade 10, while two affiliated private schools, under auspices of the Mennonite religious sect, have classes beyond Grade 8.

At a recent seminar, teachers from the isolated areas joined Sioux Lookout colleagues in a discussion on how to smooth the path for Indian students entering integrated schools.

Likely to develop from the meeting is a closer liaison between the feeder schools in the remote areas and the Dryden system, designed to cushion the cultural shock Indian students experience on entering high school.

While encouraged by the progress made to date, Mr. Pague says the problems of native people are basically the problems of poverty and bad social and economic conditions.

But he is convinced that equal educational opportunity in the Dryden system is an attainable goal for Indians.

"If we wait until things are perfect," he says, "we'll never get the job done."

Moose May Become Farm Animals

WINNIPEG (CP) — Moose may be in use someday as domesticated animals despite a frustrating tendency toward laziness, says a zoology professor at University of Manitoba.

William Prulit says the moose is a prime candidate to join cattle, pigs and sheep on the list of domesticated animals bred for meat and milk.

And he says the possibility of ranchers riding mooseback tending herds of moose in the forests of Manitoba is entirely conceivable.

Dr. Prulit said the bush and swamp plants on which moose thrive make the northern regions ideally suited for moose ranching. Moose require little care, he said, and may even be harmed if too much care is given.

The provincial government has shown interest in Dr. Prulit's proposals, and civil servants are studying research on moose ranching prepared by scientists in the Soviet Union's Ural Mountains.

The Soviets, who have been studying moose activity for more than 25 years, have determined that moose are easily tamed if captured and domesticated at an early age.

Doll Hospital Busy

Lea and Robyn Sanders say business is so brisk at their licensed doll hospital near Vancouver that they work seven days a week.

Many of the dolls in the hospital are the victims of too much loving, although others have survived floods and house demolitions. The oldest doll repaired by the Sanders was about 115 years old. (CP Photo)

Increased Tourist Flow Expected This Season

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite nagging problems of inflation and recession, travel industry spokesmen are hoping for an increase in tourist traffic this year.

Ian Wallace, director of marketing for the Canadian government office of tourism, predicts that travel industry income will total $7 billion in 1975, a gain of about $1.4 billion.

The tourism office estimates that tourism in Canada, including both domestic and foreign tourists, was worth $5.6 billion last year.

Although the dollar value of the industry has increased in recent years, the actual number of United States tourists in Canada decreased in 1974 compared with 1973.

Preliminary figures collected by Statistics Canada show a total of 35.5 million visitors from the U.S. last year, down 5.4 per cent from 37.5 million visitors a year earlier.

The number spending more than 24 hours in Canada dropped to 14.2 million last year from 14.9 million in 1973.

The major reason for this decrease was the energy crisis, which discouraged Americans from using their cars, a tourism office researcher said.

But U.S. tourists increased their spending by 13.9 per cent to $1.3 billion from $1.16 billion in 1973, largely due to inflation, Statistics Canada says.

While the number of U.S. tourists declined in 1974, there was a 10.4-per-cent increase in the number of non-U.S. travellers visiting Canada. They rose from 1.1 million in 1973 to 1.22 million in 1974.

Great Britain provided the largest number of non-U.S. tourists—347,000. There were 131,000 from Germany, 78,100 from France, 77,500 from Japan and 62,000 from the Netherlands.

The total of 36.4 million tourists who visited Canada in 1974 was well below the record of 1967, when Expo 67 and other Centennial events attracted more than 40.5 million foreign visitors.

In travel to and from the United States last year Canada showed an over-all cash surplus of $123 million. More than 30 million Canadians visited the United States.

But because Canadians spent more money in countries other than the United States than non-U.S. residents spent here the total 1974 travel account ended up as a $265-million deficit for Canada.

Statistics Canada collects no figures on internal travel by Canadians but provincial tourism departments report evidence of more interprovincial travel last year compared with 1973.

The Ontario tourism ministry says that the travel industry in 1974 was worth more than $2 billion to the provincial economy, an increase of 18.6 per cent over 1973.

There were more than 11 million visitors to Ontario's provincial parks last year and parks officials this year hope to break the record of 13.6 million set in 1971. The addition of four new parks brings the total of such facilities to 120.

Quebec is expecting a tour ist year similar to 1974, says Robert Prevost, the province's deputy tourism minister. Last year the number of tourists to Quebec declined by 4.5 per cent to 4.3 million. The largest decrease was in tourists arriving by car. They were down 11 per cent to a little more than three million.

The province is continuing an advertising campaign stressing Newfoundland's unique characteristics and emphasizing the province's summer arts festival and regattas.

Nova Scotia expects a five-per-cent increase in the number of tourists from outside the Atlantic region and a ten-per-cent increase within the province.

"We will hold our American customers this year," a spokesman said. Mailed enquiries from the Toronto area are said to be up 330 per cent in the first four months of this year. Enquiries from Montreal are reported up 50 per cent in the same period.

Prince Edward Island had 632,000 tourists in 1974, more than five times its permanent population of 116,000, said Anne Angelini, director of marketing for the provincial tourism department is optimistic about 1975.

Until mid-March our reservations for this year were a long way behind last year," she said. "But since then, they have tripled and are tripled and early indications are that people are travelling in large numbers this year, particularly from New-bec."

New Brunswick hopes to attract tourists for longer stays this year. Provincial surveys show that most visitors come for sightseeing. The most popular attractions are beaches followed by national parks, museums and historic sites.

Manitoba showed only a slight increase in tourists last year. Ray Saurette, a researcher with the provincial tourism department, blames the energy crisis, poor weather and inflation.

"Inflation has done something to the tourist industry," he said. "There's no doubt about it. It's shortened the holiday season and travellers are moving more within their own province."

The Saskatchewan tourism department says inflation means more tourists from neighbouring provinces and states rather than farther away. Most visitors to Saskatchewan are seeing friends and relatives, although the department says efforts are being made to attract more conventions.

Alberta saw a decline in the number of 1974 visitors. Tourism department is encouraging Albertans to see their own province first with the theme "Let's Do It." Of 6.6 million tourists reported in Alberta last year, 4.7 million were Albertans.

The province is seeking Ontario visitors with a television, magazine and billboard advertising campaign. Other advertising is aimed at the U.S. and Saskatchewan markets.

The British Columbia travel department predicts a slight increase in traffic this season, with camping a major factor. Ed Norman, a department official, says one of every four vehicles on the road in summer is a camper or other recreational vehicle. Travellers using these vehicles spend as much as other tourists who stay in hotels and motels, he said.

Northern B.C. areas are particularly dependent on recreation vehicle traffic, he added.

Wine Fraud Principal Tells Tale

PARIS (Reuter) — The self confessed mastermind of the "Watergate" fraud trial has taken his court confession one step further with an autobiography that includes a barbed picture of Bordeaux's wine aristocracy.

The book, In Vino Veritas (in wine is truth), recounts the chequered career of winebroker Pierre Bert, who caused a sensation at last December's trial when he said the French wine trade was riddled with fraud.

Bert, who admitted his guilt, received a one-year jail sentence for his part in the fraud which involved the doctoring or relabelling of nearly three million litres of wine.

Nine of his co-defendants received suspended sentences and hefty fines. All appealed and are awaiting the court's final decision.

Bert's autobiography casts little new light on the elaborate wine fraud but does provide an interesting insight into the hierarchy that has ruled the world's wine capital since the 18th century.

This hierarchy included the Cruse cousins Lionel and Yvan, two of the nine defendants—who developed the export side of the venerable wine house founded 180 years ago by their Danish ancestors.

The Cruses' family business now has been leased out under temporary management to another Bordeaux firm.

At a recent appeal hearing the judge reckoned that Pierre Bert made approximately 4.5 million francs (about $1 million) from the fraud committed when wine prices were spiralling, gaddily upwards and speculators pouring into Bordeaux.

Bert claimed it was all done to defend the region's world-famous product from invading hordes.

He noted that 19 of Bordeaux' top-flight chateaux" were no longer authentically French."

He lists five in British hands, four belonging to Americans, four to Canadians, two to Germans, two to Belgians, one to a Spanish company and another to a Venezuelan.

"If we struggle to maintain the Cruse or Bert wine houses it's not through our hopes for profit," Bert said. "It's done so that the wine, which is life itself for us, does not fall into foreign hands."

Rhodesia Exports Frogs

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — The United Nations, which has imposed sanctions against white-ruled Rhodesia, may be hopping mad about Rhodesia's latest sanctions buster—he's exporting frogs.

Roger Ruvell is the man behind the novel scheme which sees thousands of Rhodesian frogs, finding their way into aquariums overseas.

The frogs are a common species, called platanna (Xenopus Laevis), found in pools and dams throughout the country.

Ruvell says the frogs are popular in some countries as novel pets.

He said on land the platanna is clumsy, but in water he can keep aquatic animal lovers amused for hours.

The frogs are kept in storage baths until transported. "The demand is good and I have a market which can take about 20,000 frogs a week," he said.

This figure is limited by supply. They are sent overseas in light wooden boxes with 500 frogs in each partition. The boxes are padded with muslin which keeps the frogs moist.

"I have carried out tests on the mortality rate of frogs kept like this," he said, "and provided they reach their destination within 48 hours none die."

The average time it takes to fly the frogs to their destination is 35 hours.

FLQ Leader

The Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ) will not be listed in the forthcoming edition of the Montreal city directory. "We act openly but we prefer to speak as little as possible about our activities," says Claude Langlois, 42, self-styled FLQ leader and psychoanalyst. His downtown clinic for psycho-cell therapy also operates as a liaison office for the FLQ. (FLQ Photo)

FLQ Leader Says PQ Is His Lawyer

MONTREAL (CP) — Avid readers of the Montreal city directory are in for a disappointment—the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ) will not be listed in the forthcoming edition.

It has something to do with the need for more discretion and his failing health, says Claude Langlois, 42, self-styled FLQ leader and psychoanalyst.

He says he had listed the movement in the last three editions.

"We act openly but we prefer to speak as little as possible about our activities," the self-spoken, grey-haired man said in an interview at the downtown clinic of his Canadian Society for Psycho-Cell Therapy. The clinic also serves for other psychoanalytic groups he operates and as a liaison office for the FLQ, he said.

Ultingedly bowls rising from the basement may unnerve the first-time visitor but it's only his Institute of Primal Scream Therapy hard at work, he explains.

Mr. Longtin said polyneuritis — a nerve disease—forced him to tone down his activities last year. He no longer practises psychoanalysis but still administers his clinic.

He described himself as "primarily an industrialist," the owner of a steel-plate plant in the suburbs.

KEP THE FLAME'

Police and some separatist figures snicker at his claims but Mr. Longtin said he and others like him are "keeping the flame" of the terrorist movement that flared in the 1960s and appeared to have fizzled about three years ago.

Echoing in part the definition of the FLQ given in 1971 by Pierre Vallieres, former theoretician of the movement, Mr. Longtin said it does not exist as a structured organization but rather as a "feeling" shared by an unspecified number of persons.

Vallieres had said that the letters F-L-Q were virtually the only link with the movement's adherents.

The front is "dormant" now, Mr. Longtin said.

"We believe in the original aims of the FLQ but it's not in our interest to perform acts of violence," he said.

"We believe in the Parti Quebecois (PQ), that it will bring independence. But if it happened one day that the PQ decided to become just another political party and to drop the cause of independence, we'd go into action . . . 2,000 FLQers could swing into action.

"The PQ is like my lawyer. He's discussing my case with the judge, who is the government. As long as my lawyer is working on it, I sit back. If he fails, I take things into my own hands."

"He takes himself seriously, we don't," a police spokesman said, though he conceded a file is kept on Mr. Longtin's activities.

Leader of the FLQ?

"He says so but I don't know about that," said Reggie Chartrand, an acquaintance and the leader of the Chevaliers de l'Independance (Knights of Independence) which claims 1,000 members.

Mr. Longtin said he took part in about 10 activities which "could be considered illegal and which the police know about."

He has avoided arrest because his poor health made him a worthless catch and because the federal government realized "it wasn't worth it to make political martyrs," he said.

He became an FLQ member 10 years ago after returning from a five-year stay in South America.

"That's where I became politicized" and where he was recognized as a psychoanalyst by the governor of the Brazilian state of Pernambuco, he said.

He had earlier studied veterinary science.

Mr. Longtin was a founding member of such groups as the Parti Realiste Ouvrier, the Parti Republicain du Quebec and the Milice de la Republique du Quebec, all "movement" now like the FLQ, he said.

He ran as the candidate of the Parti Realiste Ouvrier against Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau at the height of the 1970 October crisis caused by the FLQ's kidnapping of British diplomat James R. Cross and the kidnap-murder of then labor minister Pierre Laporte.

In the next two years, he ran unsuccessfully as candidate for the Parti Republicain in one provincial byelection, one federal byelection and the 1972 federal election, all in Chambly riding, formerly Mr. Laporte's constituency.

With "General" Andre Thibeau and "Colonel" Gerard (Colonel Joe) Chamberland, he founded the Milice Oct. 1, 1971. But Mr. Longtin and Colonel Joe were ousted by the general two months later for allegedly making racist remarks.

"That's all craziness," a police source said. "He's more a crackpot than anything else, if you want my opinion.

"But we [illegible] cause you never know . . ."

Caledon Hills Resident Escarpment Controller

CALEDON, Ont. — When G. L. Symmes was appointed to the Niagara Escarpment Commission earlier this year, he brought with him 24 years' experience with his own corner of the escarpment.

He spent most of that time raising beef, but he gave up farming about a year ago, and he now has other plans for his 200 acres of escarpment land in the Caledon Hills, 30 miles northwest of Toronto.

"What I'm planning to do with it now is convert it into a sort of combination of tree farm and wildlife habitat," he explained.

He plans to plant 36,000 trees on the land this year with the help of the provincial government's woodlot improvement scheme, adding spruce and other varieties to the predominantly maple and beech forest which already covers part of the property.

Mr. Symmes noted that a sizable parcel of land is needed for an effective wildlife sanctuary, "to give deer, birds, and other woodland dwellers room to find a home and breed.

He noted that one of the most important features of the escarpment, which stretches from Niagara Gorge to Tobermory on the Bruce Peninsula, like a backbone of southern Ontario,is its status as a largely unbroken stretch of woodland.

As a commission member, Mrr Symmes will have the task of helping design a master plan for the escarpment area aimed at preserving the escarpment's natural features in the face of rapid urban expansion in southern Ontario.

Mr. Symmes is no newcomer to conservation issues. Though raised in Toronto, he has been a lover of the countryside all his life.

His initial plans to follow his father into the legal profession were deflected by the outbreak of the Second World War, and after serving five years in Europe and North Africa he remained in the peacetime army until 1951.

It was then that he and his wife, Audrey, purchased their present holding and began farming.

TOOK ACTIVE part

In late 1969 Mr. Symmes' lifelong interest in conservation took a sharply active turn when it was disclosed that Ontario Hydro's proposed high-voltage corridor from Nanticoke to Pickering was going to cut a 740-foot-wide swath through the Symmes farm and numerous other rural holdings.

Mr. and Mrs. Symmes took a leading role in formation of the Coalition of Concerned Citizens, a group of residents from many different areas along the proposed route.

Unconscious Patients Said Extra Sensitive

HAMILTON (CP)—The practice of talking, joking and swearing around patients undergoing intensive care and surgery should cease as it can cause serious mental harm, says a Hamilton anesthetist.

In a seminar held for medical doctors at McMaster University, Dr. Paul Jacomello of the university's medical centre explained dianetics as a science of the mind which claims to alleviate psychosomatic illness.

"The original theory was that unconscious people were not aware of what was being said or done around them," he said. "Dianetics reverses this theory, maintaining that, in fact, it is at these times we should show the most care in what we say and do."

Dr. Jacomello said that sick and anesthetized patients become hypersuggestible as if in a hypnotic state and that words spoken at these times can take control over the person's behavior patterns as stimulus response mechanism.

He extended his warning to anyone looking after an injured or sick person.

"Keep the talking and noise down to a minimum," he said, "and you will be doing the person more of a favor than by offering the usual condolences and symplaty."

Yankees Take East Division Lead

The Catfish Swims to the Top

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim (Catfish) Hunter, who was supposed to pitch New York Yankees into first place, finally did it Tuesday night.

Hunter checked Baltimore on four hits—two in the first inning, two in the sixth—and the Yankees beat the Orioles 3-1 in a baseball-baseball duel.

Coupled with Boston's 8-6 loss to Cleveland Indians, the Yankees climbed into first place in the American League's East Division by one-half game, ending the Red Sox' month-long stay at the top.

In other American League action, Milwaukee Brewers swept a doubleheader from Detroit Tigers 5-0 and 4-2, Oakland A's edged Minnesota Twins 8-6, Kansas City Royals defeated California Angels 5-3 in 11 innings and Chicago White Sox beat Texas Rangers 7-5.

The only Baltimore run off Hunter was Ken Singleton's lead-off homer in the first inning. The Yankees tied it in the second on Graig Nettles' hit, a bit batsman and singles by Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss.

The game's big hit, a two-run homer in the sixth by Chris Chambliss off Jim Hendricks, who tagged Bill Lee for a finishing homer, connected off Dick Drago in the ninth. Charlie Spikes also homered for Cleveland.

Milwaukee's George Scott, who homered earlier, hit a tie-breaking two-run single to cap the two-run seventh inning in the nightcap as Bill Travers scattered eight hits for his first complete game in the majors. Jim Slaton fired a three-hitter for his second consecutive shutout and first straight victory in the opener.

Oakland took advantage of four walks and two wild pitches by Minnesota's Joe Decker in the first inning to score four runs. They got another in the sixth on a walk and Bill North's double and Gene Tenace hit his 13th homer in the seventh.

Hal McRae delivered a tie-breaking single for Kansas City in the 11th inning and John Mayberry added an insurance run with a sacrifice fly.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter fires one of his patented sliders in an American League contest against Baltimore. The Catfish gave up just four hits in leading the Yankees to a 4-1 win over the Orioles. The multi-million dollar pitcher put New York in first place in the AL's East Division with the victory, Tuesday night.

Mauling in Montreal

Expos' Hurlers Tagged for 15

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Cubs, by manager Jim Marshall's own admission, were expected to be rather docile teddy bears this season.

They looked more like big, bad bears Tuesday as they mauled Montreal Expos 13-6 in a National League baseball game, moving two games above .500 at 35-33.

"I'm very happy with our progress and very proud of this ball club," said Marshall after his young team pounded out 15 hits off four hapless Expos pitchers.

"I had nothing in mind for this year rather than to improve our record over last year, which wouldn't be very hard from 66-96."

The Cubs broke a 2-2 tie in the third inning, scoring six runs off starter Steve Warthen and Chuck Taylor. Bill Madlock hit a sacrifice fly, Jerry Morales, Manny Trillo and Tim Hosley had rub-scoring singles and Andy Thornton slammed a two-run double.

Warthen took the loss in his first major-league start, and is 2-2. He got the call from Expos boss Gene Mauch when Steve Renko came up with a sore shoulder.

Madlock's single and Morales' ground ball drove in two Cubs runs in the first inning and the Expos tied it in the second on Pepe Mangual's double and a hit batsman and singles by Graig Nettles and Chris Whitfield. They scored two in the fourth on singles by Tim Foli, Mangual, Chris Chambliss and Nettles and Whitfield's sacrifice fly.

The baseball fuse began when Terrel clipped Monzon with a pitch in the second inning. Hunter nicked Lloyd Hendricks in the bottom of the second and proved it on Bobby Grich in the sixth after a Torrez pitch came close to Munson in the top of the inning.

The rival managers were warned by umpire Nick Bremigan after Hunter nicked Grich and both benches emptied briefly in the eighth when Munson charged Torrez after grounding out. No punches were landed.

George Hendrick led Cleveland with two home runs, with second one was a two-out, three-run shot in the sixth inning. It came after Carl Yastrzemski, playing the outfield for the first time in almost a year, After their big inning, the Cubs continued to harass the Expos, scoring two runs in the fifth on another Bill Bonham triple to the right-field corner.

Three more Cubs scored home in the sixth on Trillo's hit and a two-run single by Hosley, who had three runs batted in to lead the point production.

Bailey, who had a baseo-loaded single produced two Montreal runs in the sixth. A throw-off error by left fielder Vic Harris and Gary Carter's double accounted for the final scoring in the eighth.

Martin Discloses Threat on Life

ANAHEIM (AP) — Texas Ranger manager Billy Martin says his life was threatened earlier this year and that he thinks increasing fan rowdyism might lead to someone being shot.

Martin's disclosure follows by a few days word that the lives of Oakland A's star's Reggie Jackson and Vida Blue had also been threatened in a letter.

It was the third threat against Jackson but he and Blue played in weekend games at Oakland with the A's dugout watched by FBI agents and special guards.

Martin said during spring training his wife opened a letter containing the death threat postmarked at the United Nations building in New York, and the material was turned over to the FBI.

The FBI provided Martin with protection when the Rangers made their first appearance at the Anaheim Angels baseball season in New York, he said.

After some boisterous fan activity during weekend games here with California Angels, Martin said: "I sincerely believe that somebody is going to end up getting shot on the field.

"The way they throw bottles and ice at you, and the things they call you, are unbelievable. The league has got to tighten up security. I'm of the opinion that anyone caught throwing things should be automatically fined and kicked out of the stadium.

Cosmos Need More Brazilians?

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — New York Cosmos' star Pele admitted Tuesday his team is still very weak, and he may suggest to management that more Brazilian players be hired.

In an interview with newspaper O Estado de Sao Paulo, Pele—who returned to Brazil last week to take his children to New York—said that depending on how the team does in future games, he may talk with general manager Clive Toye and Rafael de la Sierra, another Cosmos official, about bolstering the North American Soccer League club with more South American players.

Pele said he is very happy in New York, "because the officials of the Cosmos are showing their word on every topic that we discuss."

Asked whether he will rejoin the Brazilian all-star soccer selection in the World Cup of 1978, Pele said:

"It is true that the sports confederation wants to call me! It it does call me, and I'm still on good form, it will be my pleasure to rejoin the selection. But we better wait and see. After all, we're still three years away from the World Cup."

Pele, who signed a 54.5 million, 2½ year contract with the Cosmos, seemed confident that his team would qualify for the NASL finals.

Stadler to Coach Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Hale-Caledonia of the National Soccer League announced Tuesday the signing of Karl Stadler as coach, effective immediately.

While playing for his native Austria, Stadler participated in the European Nations' Tournament and played against such teams as Ajax of Holland, Manchester United, Liverpool and Everton of th English first division.

A car accident ended his playing career and he became coach of the Austrian national team. He also coached in Spain and Greece and most recently in Barbados where he coached the Barbados national team and the 1972 Olympic soccer squad.

Boudreau Signs With WHA's Saints

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota Fighting Saints announced Tuesday signing of centre Bruce Boudreau, who scored 145 points last year with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association's Major Junior A series.

The 20-year-old was the Saints' No. 1 choice in the World Hockey Association special draft. He also was selected in the third round of this year's National Hockey League draft by Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Saints said Boudreau had signed a multi-year contract. Terms were not disclosed, but it was believed to be a three-year contract for $250,000.

Boudreau played three seasons with the Marlboros and last year had 68 goals and 97 assists, breaking the league's 22-year-old scoring record.

He had been drafted by the Saints last year, but chose to stay with the Toronto club another season.

"It was a tough decision to leave the Toronto area but I feel I will be given a fair shot with the Saints and hope I'm capable to help them win the WHA championship," Boudreau said. Saints coach Harry Neale called Boudreau a potential sat

Philly Youngsters Tame Bucs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philadelphia Phillies threw a pair of 21-year-old pitchers to the lions but the lions turned out to be pussycats.

Larry Christenson and Tom Underwood, the Phils' top two draft choices three years ago, tamed the fearsome Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night as Philadelphia swept a double header 6-3 and 8-1 to pull to within two games of the first-place Bucs in the National League East.

Christenson, 5-1, allowed six hits and two runs through seven innings in the opener, while Underwood, 8-5, went the distance with a five-hitter in the nightcap.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati Reds blanked Atlanta Braves 3-0, New York Mets beat St. Louis Cardinals 5-1, Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Houston Astros 8-3, San Diego Padres swept a pair from San Francisco Giants 2-1 in 10 innings and 3-0 and Chicago Cubs beat Montreal Expos 13-6.

The Pirates swept into Philadelphia Monday night with victories in 12 of their last 13 games and a five-game lead over the Phils. But three consecutive losses have ended Pittsburgh hopes of a runaway, for the time being anyway.

Ollie Brown's tie-breaking double in the seventh was the big blow for the Phils in the opener, while Greg Luzinski drove in three runs with a pair of singles in the finale.

Luzinski's first single, a two-run hit, came off Bruce Kison in the first inning. Kison also surrendered four walks and left without getting anyone out, the second consecutive start he has failed to retire a batter.

Cincinnati's Joe Morgan accounted for all the scoring with a three-run homer in the third inning as the Reds won for the 10th time in 13 games. It was his 13th of the season. Pat Darcy, Fred Norman and Pedro Borbon combined on a six-hitter with Darcy, 2-4, getting the victory. Phil Niekro, 7-6, took the loss.

New York's Jerry Koosman posted his 100th major league victory with a five-hitter as the Mets snapped a seven-game losing streak and a 25-inning scoreless string. Koosman fanned seven in raising his record to 6-5. Dave Kingman hit a two-run homer for the Mets.

Doug Rau hurled a six-hitter, collected three hits and drove in two runs for Los Angeles against the Astros. Steve Garvey hit a three-run homer in the first and Ron Cey followed with a solo shot to put the Dodgers on top for good. Doug Rader hit two home runs for Houston.

San Diego's Randy Jones notched his 10th victory in the opener, scattering 11 hits over the 10 innings.

In the nightcap, Brent Strom fired a two-hitter for his second victory in three decisions. Willie McGivery homered and Mike Ivie contributed a run-scoring double for San Diego.

Retirement Plans Shock Promoter

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali's announced retirement plans have thrown into jeopardy a potential $11-million promotion for a rematch with Joe Frazier and promoter Don King isn't letting this one get away without a fight.

"It was a shocking statement," said King. "He had mentioned it to me on the phone, but I didn't think anything of it. I thought it was just some jive. But then I read it in the papers."

Ali has announced that his July 1 heavyweight championship defense against Joe Bugner in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, will be the champion's final fight.

"We worked so hard to put together an All-Frazier fight," said King. "Just when it looked like we had an agreement, this comes out of the clear, blue sky."

King said he talked with Frazier after Ali made his announcement.

"Joe was depressed," said the promoter. "He said, 'Get this guy to change his mind. Get him back.'

That is King's task as he sets out for Malaysia.

If Ali refuses to change his mind, King said he would promote an elimination tournament to find a successor as champion.

"It will be an event second to none . . . an event unparalleled in boxing history. We would hold fights all over the world, not only in America."

King did not mention any involvement of the World Boxing Association or World Boxing Council, the sport's two governing bodies, in his proposed tournament.

King said Ali would have a role in the elimination.

In Los Angeles, veteran boxing promoter Aileen Eaton says she has offered Ali a $1.5-million purse for a title defense against Ken Norton.

Mrs. Eaton said she had wired the offer to Ali and his manager, Herbert Muhammad, in Kuala Lumpur.

Ali has lost only two of 48 fights, one to Norton and one to Frazier.

Dwornik's Wrestling Future Filled with Sunshine

By ALAN TEBWORTH
Sports Writer

For John Dwornik, his sport may take him a long way before he's finished with it. The 20-year-old Frankford resident is a wrestler, and a good one at that. And that's not the kind of wrestling you see on television on a Saturday afternoon.

John is a wrestler of the true sporting type. The kind everyone gets just a taste of in high school physical education classes. The kind in which there is a mat and not a ring, and a true referee, not just another figure in the wide words of entertainment.

That type of wrestling takes time, practice, and good competition for one to succeed. John Dwornik is one of few who is ready to devote that much effort to the sport he enjoys.

As with all athletes on the higher levels, one must be in top shape if one wished to be of a competitive nature. However, something just as vital as conditioning, in a wrestler, is top notch coaching. It isn't often that an amateur athlete gets the opportunity to learn from the masters of his sport, but that once in a lifetime opportunity has arrived for Dwornik, in the form of an invitation to come to Thunder Bay to train and compete with the premier wrestlers in Canada for the next several months.

He will be joining the top wrestlers from across Canada at Lakehead University to workout and get the high calibre of competition needed to sharpen the skills of his sport.

JOHN DWORNIK

The Canadian National Team, which will compete in many tournaments leading up to the Olympics in Montreal next year, will be chosen mainly from the wrestlers at Thunder Bay. Thus, the chance that the Quinte area may be represented in Olympic Wrestling.

"How much of a chance? "Well, I'd have to pull up my socks quite a way", says Dwornik, "there's always hope." He feels 1980 would be a more likely date for an Olympic try, if one was to come forward.

But, for the young athlete, just the experience of having taken on the top performers in the country is enough for now. "It's a privilege just to say you've wrestled the Canadian Champion," adds John.

The experience will also be passed on to other members of the Quinte area. Dwornik was the wrestling coach at Crofton Secondary School this year, and has been offered the chance once again, by Pat Carty, a Physical Education teacher at the Palmer Road School.

Dwornik's coaching at Centennial came about after he had competed for Carty for five years. Under Carty's coaching Dwornik took Bay of Quinte titles in his 157-pound weight class twice, and competed in OOSSA competitions three times, advancing each time to all-Ontario. His best finish there was a fifth (in his last competition three years ago).

Since then, he has taken the Eastern Ontario title, and, following the Ontario Winter Games last December, he carted a bronze medal back to Frankford.

Carty, who watched Dwornik at CSS for his five years, is elated by John's opportunity. "It's always nice to see someone you've coached going on to bigger things, and in John's case, I'm sure he will do very well."

The experience in Thunder Bay will be a unique one. Wrestlers will combine their work or schooling with their training. For John, it means transferring his studies in Electronic Technician's course at Loyalist to Confederation College, in Thunder Bay.

The electronics course will be finished for Dwornik. Athlete of the Year at Centennial in 1972, in October. After that, his training with the top wrestlers will be in question. Whether he will try to find work there, to continue the training in his spare time for an Olympic try, he's not sure. "I guess I'll just play it by ear after that."

Whatever he does after that, the experience gained by the local wrestler will be valuable not only to him, but the entire wrestling community in the Quinte area.

John Dwornik pots himself through a daily regime of exercises and calisthenics to keep fit. The Frankford youth won't be alone, for the next little while anyway, in his wrestling training sessions. He has received a special invitation to workout with the best of his sport, in the country in Thunder Bay.

No Kerik, No Win

The final result was an 8-3 victory for Black Diamond, and Constellation's first loss of the year. Meanwhile, the Independents took advantage of their game 3-2 win over CNRA and moved four points ahead of the Internationals in the East Division.

Neil Goyer and Bob Reid shared the loss for Constellation, who still have a firm hold on first place in the East Division. The two combined to give up 14 hits, two walks and strikeout two batters.

Ralph Francis was a terror at the plate for Bakelite Monod, with three triples, while Gene Francis decided to keep it in the family with two singles. Terry Hiddleson and Myles MacDonald both powered homeruns to help lead the way.

Bob Reid managed three singles off Black Diamond. Steve Gatzum had two as the top batters for Constellation.

Greg Bellis and Ken Dalton combined to take the win for the Independents, giving up just four hits and five walks while striking out four.

Brian Plumb went all the way for the losers, giving up six hits, five walks and strikeouts.

Dafoe Pots Eight In Y's Men's Win

Don Dafoe was a one man scoring show in Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association action last week. He fired eight goals to lead the Y's Men to a 13-5 drubbing of Dairy Queen.

In the other novice contest, Pete Little and Jim Thompson split eight goals right down the middle to account for all Esso Car Wash scoring in an 8-5 win over Quinte Mall.

Jeff Buschman and Steve Friis proved that lacrosse isn't all scoring when they hooked up in a midget goaltender duel and their teams, A and D Esso and Local 183, battled to a 5-5 draw.

Greenville's Ken-Yen-Geh and Bob's Sports found themselves in much the same position in a bantam division play as the clubs tied 2-2. Jamie Hill and Jamie Forrester traded two goals each to keep their teams on equal terms.

Joe Belanger scored twice for Bud Gill Appliances in the other bantam match, but his effort was all for naught, as Cortlestone put together an all-round attack and defeated the Appliancemen 6-4.

Steve Holaski proved that scoring goals in lacrosse is just as easy for him as scoring them in hockey. In the winter months Holaski plays for the city's Ontario Minor Hockey Association club, but this summer he's with the Police Association Squad in the Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association's peewee division. The young sharpshooter tallied seven times as his club whomped the Dairy Queen 15-1.

Barry Dean was the man with the stick in the second peewee contest as he scored nine times for Ponderosa in their 13-1 victory over Woodland Cleaners.

EASY SHOTS — Again this year, the Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association will host teams from across the province and northern New York in their annual Bantam Invitational Tournament. Last season the local association undertook the event and it was a smashing success. To date, teams from Orillia, Nepean, Gloucester, Huntsville, Buffalo and Kingston have been confirmed. The competition takes place Saturday and Sunday, July 26th and 27th.

* * *

In the not-so-distant future, the local association in conjunction with the Ontario government and the Ontario Minor Lacrosse Association is sponsoring a lacrosse players clinic. The affair takes place July 2 from 12-3 p.m. at the Dick Ellis Rink. It is particularly designed to assist the development of players in the tyke, novice and peewee age groups.

Tucker Farm, Tweed Earn SPSL Victories

Tucker Farm supplies defeated Springbrook 8-2 and Tweed defeated Franklin 12-6 in Stirling and District Softball League play, Tuesday night.

Reid Morton and Glenn Acorn shared the loss for Springbrook, giving up 11 hits and three walks with four strikeouts.

Andy Hayward and Doug Nash led the way for Tucker Farm with a double and a single apiece and David Brankas tripled.

The second contest gave Tweed the win with three pitchers sharing the duties. Andy Faulkner, Don Potts and Tom St. Jules all threw in the contest.

The losers used two pitchers, Dave Langstaff and Paul Sharp. They gave up 13 hits and six walks with three strikeouts between them.

Dick Beare, Doug Potts, Roger Smith, St. Jules and Paul Rashotte all came up with two singles apiece to lead the Tweed attack.

For Franklin, Stan Dafoe was the big gun with a homer, a triple and a single, Jim Dafoe added two singles.

Tournament Honors

SPRINGBROOK (Special) — Belleville Broadloom took their second straight A Championship here in the weekend.

The locals began their drive to the title two weeks ago. The tourney was rained out on that weekend but after the final game had begun. The only available completion date was this past weekend.

Sue Fobert took the win for the locals, and in so doing also took the Tournament's Best Pitcher award. She gave up five hits, one walk and came through with one strikeout to win the game.

Tops at the plate for Belleville was Margie Scanlan with a double and a single, along with Mary-Anne Sills with three singles and Pam Smith and Janet Smith with two singles apiece.

Broadloom Closes in On Second

Belleville Broadloom moved closer to a tie with the Purinettes for second place in the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League on Tuesday evening, with a 10-2 win over Lakeside Oxygen.

The win went to Mary-Anne Sills, who gave up five hits, while walking eight and managing four strikeouts.

Norma McQuarrie took the loss for Lakeside, allowing 14 hits and four walks while getting three strikeouts.

Margie Scanlon and Norma May both pounded out three singles for the winning squad, while Sills helped herself with a double and a single and Janet Smith cracked a triple and a single.

Bonnie Goodfellow, Deb Ricketts, Sharon Best, Agnes Fluke and Nancy Sills all singled for the losing cause.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Duke University coach Rod Myers was elected president of the Golf Coaches Association of America Tuesday, succeeding Stan Wood, University of Southern California. Others elected were Bruce Fossum, Michigan State, first vice-president; Dr. Bill Hession, University of Miami (Fla.), second vice-president, and Dick Gordin, Ohio Wesleyan, secretary-treasurer.

ROCKITE DISABLED

ANAHEIM (AP) — First baseman Bruce Bochte was placed on the California Angels' disabled list Tuesday with a broken thumb bone. He is expected to be out of action for six weeks. Bochte hurt the thumb June 6 in an American League baseball game against Milwaukee Brewers.

Howard and Robert Regain First Place

Howard and Robert moved back into first place in the Quinte Fastball League Tuesday night by defeating Bardon Supplies 5-0.

In the second game of the doubleheader at Alemite Park the Ellis Juniors squeezed by an improving Rorabeck Real Estate 5-1.

Bob Richardson took his second win in as many nights for the Printers, giving up just two Bardon hits. Richardson pitched shutout ball out of necessity, as H and R didn't score their two runs until the top of the seventh.

Ken Demlite took the loss for Bardon, going six and one-third innings and giving up six hits along with four walks. Earl Foster pitched the top of the seventh in relief.

Wayne Woods and Ken Genereux led at the plate for H and R, both connecting for triples in the win. Dick Graham and Dave Skelton both had a pair of singles while Dwight Rathwell and Richardson came through with the other safeties.

The race for first place tightens now, as H and R leads by only half a game over Devotin Motors and Bardon Supply.

Paul Wilson was the winner for the Ellis Juniors, giving up three hits and two walks while coming through with eight strikeouts. The run scored on Wilson was in the sixth inning and was unearned, coming on two Ellis errors.

Gary Kleinsteuber pitched well for Rorabeck, giving up six hits, losing three walks and sending three Junior batters to the bench on third strikes.

Doug Jeffries turned in the best night at the plate for the Juniors, with a double and a single to account for one RBI. Bob Campbell, John Romano, Jake Elliot and John Sprackett also came through with singles.

Yardmen, Legion 99 Down Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Gary Stapley threw a no-hitter for Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund in Eastern Ontario Baseball Association play here Tuesday night.

Stapley sifted Peterborough bats and came up with a 13-0 victory.

Thirteen proved to be a lucky number for the local hurler as he struck out 13 batters en route to his win. He gave up only three walks and had Peterborough batters at his mercy for the six innings he pitched.

The loss was shared by Kevin Lefebvre, Ray Collins and Bob Murray, who combined to strike out eight batters and walk eight.

Stapley had a good night all around, as he went three for three at the plate, with a double and two singles, while Howie Coons pounded a home-run, a double and a single to aid the locals. Terry Pascue contributed a triple and a single while Gary Drake added two singles to the 17-hit BYBF attack.

Belleville did well Tuesday in Eastern Ontario Baseball Association play, as Legion 99 defeated Peterborough 14-6 in Trenton action.

The loss went to Jay Leslie, who walked eight Belleville batters and gave up 18 hits.

Among the top batters for Belleville were Mark Crawford with a double and two singles and Sean MacDonell, Marty Henderson, Rory Radford and Dale Dafoe with a pair of singles each.

INTRODUCING A NEW BEER

WHO'S GOING TO DRINK IT?

"With my heavy responsibilities I like a light beer...now and then."

Cool Spring is a new light beer brewed especially for the person who likes the refreshment of a beer but wants a lighter taste. Cool Spring contains less alcohol than other Canadian beers. (For example, most beers offer around 5% alcohol by volume; Cool Spring's content is 3.9%). It's been brewed for the person who enjoys a light beer, now and then. But who is that person? It could be the business executive out at his local. A couple relaxing at home. Or a guy who likes to balance a large sandwich with a light refreshment.

"What's a five letter word meaning...to illuminate?"

"My secret! I eat big but I drink light."

Choosing a beer is a personal thing. And there are just as many reasons to drink Cool Spring as there are people who enjoy it. But wherever or whenever, we think that Cool Spring has a unique lightness which will appeal to people who enjoy the refreshment of a light beer. Now and then.

Cool Spring by Labatt's. Maybe it's for you.

Hagelin Doubtful Starter

Clausewitz Drops Out Of Saturday's Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP) — One of the leading contenders for Saturday's Queen's Plate was scratched Tuesday while time is running out for another in the countdown to Canada's premier event for three-year-old thoroughbreds.

Clausewitz, undefeated in four races this year, was withdrawn Tuesday by trainer Roger Attfield because of chronically sore shins and a tendon strain that did not respond to treatment.

Hagelin, a winner of one division of the Plate Trial last weekend, was another questionable starter with a bruised heel. "It's a thing that is not serious," trainer Gil Rowntree said of Hagelin's bruise. "But it takes time and we don't have much."

Entries for Saturday's 1½ mile event will be made Thursday morning at Woodbine race track with the draw for post positions to follow.

Attfield, who trains Clausewitz for owners Charles Baker and Charles Rathgeb of Toronto, said the horse had been in training but he finally decided there was too much danger of a serious injury if he ran him in the Plate.

"By making this decision now he has a chance to come back as a real nice horse next year," said Attfield.

Hagelin, owned by Jack Stafford of Toronto who claimed the Plate trophy the last two years in a row, injured the ribs when he won the Plate Trial last Saturday.

Rowntree said he has been training the horse by swimming in a large pool instead of running him on the track. "It keeps his muscles toned up without aggravating the foot. If he's not 100 per cent he won't run in the Plate."

If Hagelin drops out, it would leave Preston Gilbride's Greek Answer and J. Louis Levesque's L'Enjoleur as the top contenders.

Greek Answer, a front-runner, won the other division of the Plate Trial at 1 1-16 miles but there is some question whether he could handle the Plate distance.

L'Enjoleur, to be ridden Saturday by Canadian champion jockey Sandy Hawley, won eight of 13 races as a two-year-old but has been inconsistent this year.

Frank Merrill, who trains Greek Answer, was in high spirits Tuesday.

"I think we're a cinch myself. The way he's coming up to the race," said Merrill. "What's in his corner? L'Enjoleur is still the best of the others."

Merrill also plans to enter Coup de Soleil in the Plate for Viscount Hardinge of Montreal. Coup de Soleil was fourth behind Hagelin in the Plate Trial.

Other likely entries include Mystery Time, Countryman, Upper Shelf, Dan's Commander, Near the High Sea, Brilliant Sunday, Trusted Friend, Rex Favor, Fly The Ensign and Bellmyer.

If 14 are entered, the Plate purse is expected to total about $140,000. Entries are restricted to Canadian-foaled three-year-olds.

Smith Eliminated

Bertram Pulls Off Wimbledon Upset

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — A month ago 22-year-old Byron Bertram of South Africa hadn't played tennis for nearly a year.

But in one hour's play Tuesday, he scored the upset of the 1975 Wimbledon championships by beating No. 7 seed Stan Smith of the United States 6-1, 6-2, 6-1 with an almost invincible flurry of accurate returns and volleys.

"It was the best I've ever played," said the tall, blonde South African, who failed to qualify for the tournament a year ago.

"I just played phenomenally well and Stan played very poorly."

But from the start Smith's big serve proved no problem to Bertram, who countered with accurate cross-court returns.

It took Bertram just 15 minutes to polish off the first set in which Smith took only a handful of points from his opponent's service.

Bertram's attack included powerful forehands, backhand passing shots, drop shots and lobs, as Smith fell further and further behind.

Bertram, who played World Team Tennis for Baltimore in 1974, told after the match how he was out of action from last September, to the beginning of May after an operation for torn muscles in his arm.

"But since I've been back I'm playing just great," said the unseeded South African, a former Wimaseuse junior champion and son of Max Bertram.

— Arthur Ashe, Marty Riessen and Roscoe Tanner led a high-powered American men's charge and Chris Evert successfully began defence of her women's title at the Wimbledon tennis championships Tuesday.

Ashe, the No. 6 seed who had won one set of his first-round match Monday night, completed a 7-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Bob Hewitt of South Africa.

Riessen, seeded 12th, easily reached the second round, beating Patrick Proisy of France 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, and Tanner, the No. 11 seed, outgunned fellow American Bob Lutz 8-6, 6-1, 8-6, 6-4.

Seventh-seeded Stan Smith of the U.S., the 1972 Wimbledon champion and No. 7 seed this year, was upset by Byron Bertram of South Africa 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

Miss Evert, the women's top seed, played almost casually in brushing aside Chris O'Neill of Australia 6-0, 6-2.

Second-seeded Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia beat Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-1, 6-4, and No. 3 seed Billie Jean King ousted Richenda Vietman of South Africa 6-1, 6-4.

COMPETE IN SHOW

MONTREAL (CP) — About 120 participants competed Tuesday in the first day of the Man and his World horse show on St. Helen's Island. Kim Burton of London, Ont., and Brigitte Mathers of Ste. Adele, Que., were favorites going into the afternoon, but top honors eventually went to Patricia Sifton of Winnipeg, who edged Mathers in a jump-off to win the Junior Jumper stakes. Mathers won the Hunter Classic and Burton the small Junior Working Hunter division. The show continues until Sunday.

CAN WIN $250

TORONTO (CP) — Amateur golfers in Canada will now be able to win a total of $250 in retail value of prizes before losing their amateur status, the Royal Canadian Golf Association said Tuesday. The RCGA executive committee approved the change, effective July 1, but stressed that prize money for amateur golfers in any amount is unacceptable and any attempt to win prize money still will be regarded as a violation of the definition of an amateur golfer.

RELEASE KOINIAN

EDMONTON (CP) — Former Canadian Football League all-star Craig Koinian was one of nine players released by Edmonton Eskimos Monday. Koinian was an all-Canada defensive end with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference in 1971. Also cut were defensive tackle Al Phillips, running back Archie Gibson and linebacker Mike Tilton all imports, along with wide receiver Curt Rush, defensive back Bruce Walter, offensive tackles John Latter and Warren Kiland and halfback Bob Osness, all Canadians.

PAYS IN GOLD

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — The owners of the first eight finishers in the $300,000 Monticello-New York OTB Classic, the richest harness race in history, will be paid in gold bars. A spokesman for Monticello Raceway said Tuesday that the track has arranged to purchase the gold bars from a New York bank to distribute as purse money for the July 27 race.

SCHEDULES HEARING

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Woonnam, commissioner of the North American Soccer League, has scheduled a hearing Thursday on the New York Cosmos' protest of its 3-1 double overtime loss to Boston Minutemen last week. New York superstar Pele was injured by fans who stormed the field.

SIGNS CONTRACT

NEW YORK (AP) — Goalie Doug Soetaert, the New York Rangers' second-round selection in the National Hockey League's amateur draft earlier this month, has signed a multi-year contract with the club, general manager Emile Francis said Tuesday. Soetaert played last season with Edmonton Oil Kings of the Western Canada Hockey League.

CHACON SUSPENDED

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Former featherweight champion Bobby Chacon has been suspended indefinitely and fined $2,500 for not being in condition when he lost his title to Ruben Olivares on Friday, the California State Athletic Commission said Tuesday. Chacon, who after struggling to make the 126-pound limit for the featherweight class, was stopped by Olivares in the second round of the World Boxing Council title fight.

JETS GET LESUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association announced Tuesday a three-year contract was signed by Bill Lesuk, a 28-year-old left winger with Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League last season. Jets also announced a two-year contract with centre Peter Sullivan, 24, who was Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League last season.

KORNIAN RELEASED

EDMONTON (CP) — Former Canadian Football League all-star Craig Koinian was one of nine players released Monday by Edmonton Eskimos. Also cut were defensive tackle Al Phillips, running back Archie Gibson and linebacker Mike Tilton, imports, along with wide receiver Curt Rush, defensive back Bruce Walter, offensive tackles John Latter and Warren Kiland and halfback Bob Osness.

MARRIN SIGNS AGAIN

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Toros have signed right winger Peter Marrin to a new four-year contract averaging $80,000 a year, the World Hockey Association team said Tuesday. Marrin, who signed with the Toros two seasons ago, spent much of his time with the club's minor league affiliate, Mohawk Valley Comets of the North American Hockey League.

Study Suggests 1,200-seat Centre For Cultural Events in Quinte Area

A preliminary study of the cultural needs in the Quinte counties has evolved this early concept of what might be a some-day district arts centre:

The projected cost: More than $-million.

The concept is the result of a study — launched late last year by the College and the Quinte Arts Council — to assess cultural needs in the four counties served by the college.

The study — funded by a $25,000 provincial government grant — is only a first step, and the outcome of its findings were revealed to Hastings County council Tuesday.

A second, architectural and engineering design study is necessary before any final official commitment is made to such a concept council was told by its property finance and promotional committee.

And before proceeding to that stage, the culture and recreation ministry would like some outstanding feeling. Hence the sounding of council and — other local governments — for an endorsement in principle.

But several councillors were reluctant to commit council even that far.

"If we endorse this report are we obligated to this project?" queried Reeve Ray Short of Sidney.

"Not as I can see," replied Warden William McCrae.

Reeve Felix Browne, of Bangor-Wicklow-McClure, said council was only being asked to endorse the concept.

James Pollock, Rawdon Township reeve, and committee chairman said his group was not prepared to recommend a commitment for any "future capital or operating costs".

"We do feel, however, that it's a very worthwhile endeavor and would be a benefit to the community."

The committee report recommended a council's endorsement in principle of the project.

But Reeve Ritchie Wells, Marmora - Lake Township, wondered if such endorsement would be a later invitation for funds-seeking from council.

Council finally adopted the report — but struck out its "endorsement in principle".

Orchestra To Visit

The Hamilton Philharmonic Orchestra will perform in Belleville next October 30, said a member of the Quinte Arts Council Tuesday.

Diana Aitken, addressing the audience at the annual meeting of the council, informed the group about the Hamilton performance to be held at Centennial Secondary School.

Belleville Gets Own Artist in Residence

Belleville will be the first community in Canada to have a performing artist-in-residence, said Diana Aitken, finance chairman at the annual meeting of the Quinte Arts Council Tuesday.

With funding from the Ontario Arts Council, as much as 50-per-cent of the estimated $5,000 total project cost, Project Sing will bring a male vocalist into the community for a five-month period.

During the period of residence, from January 5 until May 28, 1976, the artist will perform in and react to the community.

Not only will he grow as a performer, but it is hoped the community will become more perceptive and sensitive to the artist.

The project is also intended to provide an encouraging atmosphere for development of local talent.

The responsibilities of the artist will include recitals and concerts, to give informal performances and work with existing music groups.

The program is intended to be a three-part activity.

Should the first phase prove workable, phase two would be implemented, bringing two artists into the community in 1977 for longer than five months.

The objective for the third phase is to have an instrumental quartet live and work in the community for 10 months, coinciding with Belleville's centennial year.

Ballet Invite Rejected

The city's recreation-arena committee has turned down an invitation to appoint one of its members to the National Ballet Guild of Canada's Belleville board.

Both city councillors, George Zegouras, recreation chairman and Paul Russell, parks board chairman, Tuesday worried that such an appointment might set a precedent. It might mean members of both boards could wind up being invited to sit on many other community groups.

Opera Returning

The Canadian Opera Company is returning to Belleville as part of the inaugural program of artistet development.

Mary Shipton, program chairman, in a report to the Quinte Arts Council about the performing arts, said the group would be in Belleville April 6, 7, and 8.

D-Day Nears

PICTON — The Prince Edward museum committee has declared Saturday, June 28, "D-Day" as plans continue for the visit of Canada's former prime minister John Diefenbaker.

A speaker's platform will be erected on the lawn of Macaulay House and an indoor and outdoor public address system connected.

Master of ceremonies for Mr. Diefenbaker's visit to the County Museum will be Judge Wilfrid S. Lane of Picton.

Mr. Diefenbaker will officiate at dedication services for the museum's chanel area and a stained glass window donated by Picton's late mayor, H. J. McFarland.

Flies A Problem

Hastings County councillors agreed Tuesday the provincial government should refrain from introduce subsidies on supplies needed to combat a pesky cattle nuisance — the warble fly.

Spraying against such flies is "very necessary" because their bites often can destroy a cow hide, said Reeve Cecil Wood, of Madoc Township.

Doctor Rules Out Diet Cheating

By G. C. Thosteson, MD

Dear Doctor: My doctor has told me I have nonspherical sprue. I have never read anything about this, and I would appreciate any information you can give me.

What will happen if I cheat once in a while? How much damage can be done? —Mrs. G.M.S.

This is also called "celiac disease." It is an inherited disorder which stems form an intolerance of gluten, a protein found in all cereals except corn and rice. The intolerance leads to changes in the absorbing membrane of the small intestine, which in turn results in an inadequate absorption of food. In fact, it is sometimes referred to as a malabsorption disorder.

Because of the faulty absorption, there can be diarrhea and distension of the abdomen, and stools may become loose and strong-smelling. They are also found to be high in fat particles. Other symptoms are weakness, muscle-wasting and anemia — all related to the fact that the body is not absorbing sufficient protein. A definite diagnosis can be made from a biopsy of the small intestine membrane.

The cause is unknown. However, positive response to a gluten-free diet is usually quite prompt, often within two weeks for patients who adhere to it, which brings us back to your question about cheating.

Foods containing wheat, oats, rye and barley must be avoided. The diet is apt to become monotonous, but it must be followed closely for maximum results. A dietician should explain the diet explicitly to you to allow you to utilize. If you have not done so, enjoy as much variety as possible your diet to provide a list of allowed foods.

Cheating can be deceptively easy. You may escape repercussions and symptoms after one or even two cheating episodes, but more often this would cause a relapse.

The prospects for a return to health are excellent if you can learn to live with your diet. In addition, iron and vitamin supplements are usually needed to correct these deficiencies brought about by the malabsorption.

Cheating on a diet is sort of like cheating when balancing your checking account. Sooner or later an accounting will be forced upon you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: An eye doctor has informed my wife that she has a cataract and that she must have surgery. He told her that he might use the new ultrasonic vibration procedure for removing the cataract. What do you think of this procedure? — T.P.A.

Generally, surgeons use the procedure they feel most comfortable and familiar with and seems most suitable to each individual case. This explains the variety of methods currently being used for such procedures as cataract removal.

I would advise you to follow your surgeon's advice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My right testicle is twice as big as my left. It is not due to pain or any other discomfort. I am 19-years-old. Is this marked difference in size any cause for worry? — R.P.H.

The swelling may not be of that testicle proper, but an accumulation of fluid within the scrotal sac. In that case it would be called a "hydrocele," which is less serious than a tumor of the testicle. But a testicular tumor can produce a firm, painless swelling. Any testicle swelling should be investigated.

Opening lead — 4♠

By Oswald and James Jacoby

On the opposite end of the bidding spectrum from the sign-off is the game force. When a player makes a game-forcing bid, the partnership is committed to keep bidding until game is reached.

North's two-spade response to the opening heart bid was a game force. South's three-heart reply merely revealed that he held a rebiddable heart suit. It said nothing about how good his hand was.

In the language of bids of that particular partnership, North's jump to four spades conveyed the message that his game-forcing bid was based largely on a solid spade suit and not on too many high cards.

It also said: "Partner, if you have a poorish opening bid I am perfectly satisfied to stop at game."

The bid also solved all South's problems for him. He simply bid a Blackwood four notrump. then North showed the two missing aces, South counted to at least 13 top tricks. He bid the slam in notrump because no one could trump any opening lead.

The decision turned out to be a very wise one. East's five hearts would beat a heart grand slam. A heart lead by East would beat a spade grand slam.

A — Your partner has shown a minimum heart raise with the ace of spades. Just bid six hearts.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three spades your partner has jumped to four hearts over your three diamonds. What do you do now?

Slim Residents Refusing to Move

BOMBAY (CP)—All of us here are ready to go to prison if necessary. But we will not leave this place" said Sitaram Kamble a 45-year-old electrical mechanic.

Kamble lives in People's Colony a vast slum in the suburbs of Bombay with 70,000 people. Some of them work for the government's Atomic Energy Establishment.

Since the road to Trombay where the Canada-aided nuclear reactor is located passes through a part of the People's Colony the Indian government has been anxious to dismantle the slum by shifting its residents elsewhere.

But the more important reason for the government's anxiety is that it considers the slum a security risk."

Provincial Urban Development Minister P. K. Sawant told the legislature: "After the recent atomic test in the Rajasthan desert the federal authorities are anxious to tighten up security measures around the Trombay complex."

But the slum residents are refusing to move out though the government has offered them new sites for houses, free transportation and a little resettlement allowance.

They say they have been living in the area for the last 25 years and dismiss the security argument as "a clever ploy to throw us out."

All the major opposition political parties are backing the residents of People's Colony. They organized a 20,000 strong march through the streets of Bombay to protest the government's "inhumanity."

THE GOVERNMENT has drawn up plans to find new homes for about 200,000 slum residents in Bombay. But they all say they are just not moving.

According to a recent survey by Bhabha Desai a veteran reporter of Bombay Times more than 1.3 million people — one in every five citizens — live in Bombay's slums.

Officials of the ruling Congress Party say that opposition politicians are responsible for plotting the predicament of slum dwellers."

But the big question is whether the government will use force to shift the residents of People's Colony and other slums in the proposed new sites.

Who advised our government to locate the atomic reactor in a crowded city?" asked Bhaurao Shirodkar a Socialist party worker. "Now poor people are asked to pay for the government's mistake."

The government's dilemma is that it will lose several thousand precious votes in the next parliamentary poll if it tries to shift slum residents elsewhere.

But top officials of the department of atomic energy are said to be pressing the Bombay city government to dismantle People's Colony immediately for security reasons and in order to clear the expansion of the Trombay project at a later date.

Microwave Link Grows In Caribbean

LONDON (CP)—The first section of what will become the world's longest international island-hopping microwave communications link has been opened in the eastern Caribbean.

The completed northern section of the microwave system links Tortola in the British Virgin Islands with Antigua in the Netherlands Antilles island of Saba. This is said to be the most ambitious inter-Caribbean telecommunications link ever undertaken and represents a third of the complete 800-mile route that will eventually link Tortola from Tortola to Trinidad and Tobago.

The project has involved cable and wireless company, the Dutch West Indies authorities and Lands Radio Telegraphic Direct. Cable and Wireless has been responsible for the planning and construction of the Tortola-Saba-Antigua section and has also co-operated in the provision of the link between Saba and the island of St. Maarten with the Netherlands Antilles Authorities.

Retired Chinese General Niagara Short Order Cook

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A retired major-general from the Nationalist Chinese Air Force and his wife, a university graduate who operated a 200-child nursery in Taiwan, have become short-order cooks in a restaurant here.

Maj.-Gen. Tien Pi Wang and his wife owe Wang's Dinette. Why would they seek obscurity in Niagara Falls when they could live in comfort and prominence in Taiwan?

"Peace," Mr. Wang said. "I have had enough of war and Canada has never been a battleground.

"I don't want big-city life and the people here have been friendly and kind to us."

Mr. Wang was decorated more than 40 times for outstanding military service.

Born in a village in northern China, he helped his father on the family farm until he was 13 and then went to a larger centre to attend high school.

"I wasn't forced into military service but what else was there to do? I didn't want to stay on the farm . . . ."

He said his first solo flight came in 1936, after only five hours and 30 minutes instruction. He was then 24.

When Mr. Wang entered the active air force as a lieutenant, there was war with Japan. He flew fighter airplanes made in Russia, United States, Italy and Germany.

"We imported them all. We made none of our own."

In combat with Japanese fighters he was wounded and shot down three times. These are the only injuries he counts. He was wounded twice more and walked away from three forced landings.

He was decorated by his government for surviving three crashes. To his knowledge he is the only member of his air force to receive such a decoration.

Mr. Wang spoke only flestingly of his air battles. He shot down a Japanese fighter on his first flight, and later two bombers were credited to him.

His wife, not so reticent, said: "He was very brave. He knew no fear and when he was a leader his men knew this."

He was promoted by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to major, then colonel and finally to major-general.

When the Communist invasion of China took place and Chiang was driven south and east and finally across the Formosa Strait to Taiwan, Maj.-Gen. Wang was serving in northwest China.

He was ordered south in advance of the Communist troops. He delayed his own escape from the area to bring a wounded friend, a "very highly-placed" army officer, out with him.

"We got through the city and reached the airport. We took off 10 minutes before Communist forces seized the base," he said.

For two months he flew missions out of bases in the south and then when Communist troops marched on the area he joined his wife and other Nationalist forces in Taiwan.

"I was prepared to go back and fight. I wanted badly to fly against them but the general said no," Mr. Wang said.

Swimming Course Concentrates on Tiny Tots

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

Question: Are people naturally frightened by water and feel uncomfortable in it?

Answer: No.

Contrary to what a lot of people believe, babies are not taught fear of water or learn it from its parents or other adults.

The Belleville YMCA is trying to change the old feeling water orientation claims he hears as young as six months old and an adult feeling prevails at adult.

When a baby is born it has just left the watery environment of the womb and is quite used to liquid and relaxed, says Anne Leverton, course instructor.

"The younger you start them, the better," adds Mrs. Leverton, director of the YMCA's swimming program.

Chances are they still haven't forgotten fear of the water if they are young, she says.

The strange thing is, some of the parents come to the class with a fear of water they can't swim, and the babies can learn from them, says Mrs. Leverton, "So we recommend the accompanying adults take an instructional course to learn to swim."

"The main thing is to make a fun for the youngsters," says Mrs. Leverton. "Make it a game and they will want to come back the next time."

"Babies swim instinctively. If you drop them in the water they will hold their breath and start moving their hands and feet," she says.

Mrs. Leverton recommends continuing swimming programs year-round so the child doesn't forget.

Some parents are too pushy and this can make the child nervous, but this only happens when the youngster is more than 1½ years-old, not with infants, she says.

Mrs. Leverton does not actually instruct but rather helps the attending adult learn the proper technique to teach.

"The whole process is a matter of common sense," she says. "Anyone who teaches a child how to swim if they learn the proper methods."

The Belleville library has many free books on teaching parents of swimmers but it bet not many people are aware they are there," she said.

"Water-wings can be used to make the child feel more comfortable but the sooner it becomes independent of flotation accessories, including the adult, the better it is.

"Water-wings and flutter boards are dangerous outside supervised swimming," she says. "They give the child a false sense of security and they are useless as life preservers."

Learning safety in an inner tube, instead of teaching a child to swim, says Mrs. Leverton.

"Most provincial parks and pools don't allow the use of flutter boards and water-wings because they, can deflate or slip away from the child," she says.

"There are no waiting lists for future sessions, but if any parents are interested and are present when I teach, I would recommend they enroll in an adult swimming course before they bring their children," she says.

"Kids learn best from examples."

Council Bans Parking Around Downtown Site

City council Monday established parking around the downtown Century Place development — but also moved to soothe nearby merchants left irate by the move.

Council's traffic committee earlier suggested the ban because supports of businesses adjacent the big development at East Bridge and Front Streets reached over the adjacent sidewalk edge.

The move brought a petition from businessmen along the street because of the loss of parking space.

Last week, the traffic committee proposed a solution, that was council's agreement.

The rush-hour route ban on parking opposite the development is to be removed until the situation is reviewed in September.

Immigration Officials Unaware of Problem

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville immigration officials have never heard of a city man who, in a Globe and Mail column this week, claimed he has been the victim of immigration red tape.

Harold Speck, officer in charge at Belleville's immigration office, said Monday he was not aware of the incident and believes it to be the product of misunderstanding.

The unidentified man apparently wrote to columnist Scott Young claiming immigration officials would not grant him landed immigrant status until he proved his father was a Canadian citizen. This involved trying to find a birth certificate from 1883 — a task he said is impossible.

Mr. Speck said he wished the Belleville resident would come forth with his problem in hopes that immigration officials here could solve it.

The man said he was born in the United States to Canadian parents. He fought during the Second World War for Canada and even had a Canadian passport.

Mr. Speck said the man may have applied for citizenship papers in order to apply for a passport and was told by the secretary of state department he must be able to prove his citizenship, according to a new law passed in 1969.

Tenders Approved

Tenders for new installations and work at Memorial Arena were formally endorsed by city council this week.

They included:

Installation of a time clock — by Rotomatic Display Products, at $5,290 the "most suitable" tender submitted.

Canteen alterations, renovations — William Belch and Son, $10,210.

Boiler assembly — by D. Kelly, the lowest bid at $9,500.

Spada Tile (Belleville) won the contract for terrazzo flooring at Dick Ellis Rink and Ben Bleecker Auditorium for $2,000.

Street Opening Divides Residents in Edgehill Area

Householders on adjacent streets in an eastend suburb found themselves on opposite sides of a petition at this week's council meeting.

The road connecting the subdivision calls for opening up Edgehill, thus creating more bumper traffic flow from the Victoria...Ave. area. Edgehill homeowners claim.

Last week they petitioned the city traffic committee to leave Edgehill unopened and substitute a walkway for the extension opening.

Edgehill spokesman, Bruce Racicot, asked council Monday night to leave Edgehill a dead end for safer street, particularly for youngsters.

He complained Mrs. J. C. Parsons, of Bradley, property is their street frontage and damage because traffic on dead end Edgehill uses Bradley's Crescent as a turnaround. Opening up Edgehill would ease the problem.

But a councillor noted the subdivision was already under construction.

Ald. Arthur Keegan said the subdivision plan had been approved by the Ontario Municipal Board. Delays could be costly.

However, city manager Wilbur Purcell and city engineer Joe Angelo said they believed there would be no delays and the situation were immediately investigated by city hall officials.

The issue was referred to Mr. Purcell for a report.

City to Seek Provincial Aid For Hillcrest Sewer Costs

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Provincial government help will be sought to ease tax burdens of Hillcrest homebuyers hit by soaring city hall charges because of sewer installations.

That was city council's solution this week as angry owners from the northend turned out at city hall to plead against the high costs which have been a sequel to extending sewer services into their area.

The suggestion came from Ald. Joe Cox who proposed the city petition for provincial government funds which could be applied to lightening the burden of local improvement costs resulting in rocketing tax bills for Hillcrest home owners.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said the city and the Brooks-Hillcrest Ratepayers Association (HRA) presidents, could probably take the pleas personally to Queen's Park — possibly to the housing ministry — and seek support of their local MPP Correctional Services Minister Richard Potter.

The suggestion followed presentation of a petition appealed last Thursday by the HRA which warned that the high costs were prompting property owners to think of selling.

The problem dates back 16 years when Hillcrest was first annexed and city hall later slapped restricted zoning on the area. This prevented development and property sales, leaving owners, in a number of cases, with long frontages. Local improvements are rated on frontages and the result has caused "hardship for many" in the area — north of Byron — some serviced and receiving the big tax bills.

Some of these bills have almost tripled, said Mr. Brooks as he quoted statistics to back the HRA case.

One householder saw his taxes jump from $383 to $1,568 another to $1,300 from $350.

One man he said had created his entire basement for $225. But the bill for installing the lateral drain from his property to the sewer was $600.

Council chose an approach for seeking provincial funds over a second suggestion in the petition. This called on the Ontario Municipal Board to vary its approval of the original sewer services bylaw and help with subsidies or low-cost loans.

Several councillors felt the city couldn't approach the OMB to alter one of city hall's own ordinances.

Ald. Arthur Keegan suggested it best to investigate through housing ministry channels rather than ask the OMB to override council's decision.

Ald. Stu Meeks suggested Ontario Home Renewal Program (OHRP) — for which the city had qualified and already received $25,000 for a 1974 allotment with more expected this year — could be applied to Hillcrest problems.

City manager Wilbur Purcell said he had pondered OHRP as a partial solution. But the program requires demanded certain minimum building standards — although this is "very flexible."

Mayor Robin Jeffrey told Mr. Brooks she felt Ald. Cox's compromise solution in sounding out provincial handing sources was "the best attack."

Later, Mr. Brooks said he is satisfied with the city hall response "so far."

"But I don't want to see it a solution delayed and delayed," he added.

Townhouse Project Gets Council Okay

City council this week cleared an unexpected snag hit by the developer of a townhouse scheme in westend Belleville.

What happened was this. Toronto lawyer Lawrence Cohen explained on behalf of his client Jalaf Investments Limited.

When the proposal for building 16 units at Dunnett Blvd. and West Bridge was first aired some years ago, the original plans conformed with then existing zoning. Now a plan called for a 16-foot space between driveways.

The project was later bought by his client who now wants to develop it. In the interim, a new zoning bylaw — passed in 1973 — called for 25 feet between driveways. But by then, the curbs were in.

To conform with the new law would mean cutting back on the project and considerably affecting its viability, said Mr. Cohen. His client wishes to start construction immediately and since there are similar cases, he will shortly be asked for an exemption from the newer bylaw.

He asked for a resolution to "an urgent problem."

City manager Purcell suggested — since the curbs were installed "in good faith" — the bylaw could be amended to permit the project as it had been done before.

Ald. Cox pondered what would happen to agreements about parking and other features.

However, Ald. Paul Bussell noted that a building permit could not be issued until Mr. Brooks' request was met. He moved the request be granted.

Ski Trail Discussed

Proposal to create a major cross-country ski-trail circling three or four northern Hastings County townships has drawn favorable response for a number of politicians, including the Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail (QHRT) were told this week.

Among them is State Secretary Hugh Faulkner. Letters signalled support also have come from Jack Ellis, MPP for Grey, George Ifsen, MP Prince Edward-Hastings, Charles Rollins, MPP Hastings, and James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox.

Marmora village council has also passed a resolution supporting the project first proposed to Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier in early May.

The QHRT is proposing a series of ski-trail loops ranging through 30 miles of Marmora, Madoc, Tyendinaga, Carlow and Montreagle townships. The project would be based at a disused quarry off Highway 30, eight miles east of Bancroft.

Board to Study Need For Special Insurance

With a belief it could not happen here, the Hastings County Board of Education is going to take a second look at the addition of an errors and omissions clause to its existing insurance policy which would protect the board from alleged error or misleading statements.

Trustee Wilbur Donald Thrush asked the board to pay an extra $2,500 a year for this special insurance which would cover it from claims of damages arising from a "wrongful act."

Most trustees said they had difficulty in seeing why this type of action would be taken against the board.

Mr. Thrush said "the public seem increasingly critical of decisions made by public bodies and their officials. Actions in damages may be brought against them for appear frivolous, nevertheless, they can be very expensive to defend." Many other boards of education carry this policy.

Mr. Thrush said it could occur in the event of a teacher strike when a parent or a group of parents take legal action against a board of education for damages suffered by a student for the loss of education. However, he said there has never been a case like this in Canada to date.

Trustee Robert Orr, a Belleville lawyer, said the policy "makes trustees more aware of their responsibilities as elected officials" but he warned the board that such an insurance policy may provoke unnecessary action by some individuals. "This would invite law suits," he added.

Mr. Orr asked to have additional price considerations given to the insurance policy. The board referred the matter back to business administration for further study. The board will also invite a representation from the insurance company to come before the board.

Keep Kicking

YMCA swimming instructor Anne Leverton working with Julianne Gubb one of the children in her pre-school swimming classes. The six-week sessions are open to the public and information can be obtained by calling the YMCA.

Trustee Questions Role Of School in Job Choice

Belleville trustee Richard Williams says the board of education should not be channeling Grade 7 and 8 students into industrial arts and girls into home economics.

Mr. Williams questioned whether the board should be "re-emphasising stereotypes" by asking these narrow choices. He suggested that students, both boys and girls, could possibly take both courses.

Board superintendent Glen Watson said in some schools there has been experimenting with students taking both courses and some are obtaining success.

However, he said it is generally true that the system does encourage boys to take industrial arts and girls to take home economics.

Firemen Breaks Left Foot

NORTHBROOK — A 15-year-old Northbrook boy was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital with a fractured left foot and multiple bruises after he fell off a moving water tank truck, Monday night. Volunteer fireman Doug Buchanan, fell when the firemen were answering a call to put out a cottage fire which was hit by lightning.

Tenders Sought

DESERONTO — Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, says a modified tender will be called for construction of the 35 senior citizens housing units approved for this town a short time ago by the provincial government.

The tenders will be called June 30 and closing date will be Aug. 8.

New Yard Proceeding

Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, says "favorable consideration" has been given for a new transportation and communications ministry patrol yard near Tweed, the ministry's district staff has been working on development of the new site 1.5 miles south of Tweed, on Highway 37 and tenders are to be called for garage construction next week.

The contract will call for erection a four-bay prepainted metal garage.

Land Lease Approved

BAYSIDE — Sidney Township may yet get a fire hall in home in new fire truck if the Hastings County Board of Education has anything to do with it.

Board of education officials agreed this week to rent a parcel of land, about one-half acre, near here to the township for construction of a new fire hall. The board, in 1973, agreed to sell the land to the township but a covenant of the original deed has held up the transaction.

Business superintendent Ken Wormald advised the board that in the meantime the township has taken delivery on its new truck. There was provision in the deed to rent the land for 21 years.

Auctions: The Bargains Are There You Just Have to Look a Little Harder

By RON HUSER
Staff Reporter

Auctions, as sure a sign of summer as searing temperatures, are back for another year.

And with soaring prices many Quinte-area residents are attending the events in search of bargain-priced goods.

The bargains, most auctioneers agree, are still there. You may just have to look a little harder.

Vern Bunnett, of Bunnett's Auction Service, says "It's like all the rest. Prices are up and down."

Even though prices are going up, business is "better than ever" says Steve Barry, auctioneer at the Belleville Furniture and Auction Barn.

"There's a lot of good bargains. The quality is better because the manufacturers are not making the cheap furniture anymore," says Mr. Barry.

Tough by Harold King of Keswick, Mr. Barry has been an auctioneer for over 20 years.

Phillip Brooks, of Brooks Auction and Dip and Strip Service, said a person can definitely get a bargain at auctions.

"Over 90 per cent are bargains," says Mr. Brooks.

"We usually have four auctions on the average, a month, but I will not hold one if I don't have quality items," Mr. Brooks emphasized that auctions are a place, not only to buy but also to sell unwanted goods.

Robert Sullivan of Plainfield, who specializes in the auctioning of farm equipment, says, "An end of an era is at hand. Farms are bigger to be bigger and specialized," as a result, he continues, fewer farmers look for the bargains in machinery.

"What a farmer paid for machinery a few years ago, he'd pay the same price now at an auction, because of inflation," Mr. Sullivan says.

Having learned his trade from Carman Bunnett of Bunnett's Auction Service, Mr. Sullivan predicts more real estate will be sold in the future at auctions.

Most people who go to auctions, Mr. Sullivan comments, are young couples buying furniture for their household.

"On a good day, we have around 150 buyers." Mrs. Bunnett says.

Located in the Belleville district, Bunnett's Auction Service holds two auctions each week specializing in household items.

Bunnett's is a family business started when Carman Bunnett did the cries and later taught his son Harold, when Harold was 12.

"We have a lot of antiques which come from all over," says Mrs. Bunnett.

Families, though, usually pick out their finer pieces for themselves, Steve Barry says, but the cupboards and cartons still grows.

Is it possible to get a bargain at an auction?

It all depends on what you're looking for — and the market demand for it.

Going Once . . .

Throughout the Quinte area a lot of bargain-hunter travel miles to go to an auction. There are many auctions in the area, and at a recent sale at Bunnett's Auction Service, caller Harold Bunnett is taking bids for many household items, ranging from dishes to furniture.

Average Wage Changes

The average weekly wage of Canadian workers, expressed in terms of percentage change from the previous quarter converted to an annual rate, went up 16.1 per cent in the first quarter of 1975 over the last quarter of 1974. In the year ending March 31, 1975, the increase was 14.3 per cent, according to figures released May 26 by Statistics Canada. The government has proposed a ceiling of 10 per cent on wage increases over the next year, but labor has rejected the proposal. Consumer prices, expressed in the graph in the same percentage terms, rose 8.7 per cent in the first quarter of 1975 from the last quarter of 1974. (CP Newsmap)

IRELAND — Emily Hahn.

Through centuries of being conquered, fought over and exploited, Ireland has retained her individuality and charm. Miss Hahn takes her story from the remote past to the present day. She shows the Irish themselves to be entirely unique, tough, ill-used, witty and tragic. A fascinating history of the land in all it's aspects.

GREECE — THE UNCLOUDED EYE — Colin Simpson.

Colin Simpson presents Greece as it was and is, from the entangled myths of it's fabled past to the realities and truths of it's present. Greece is an enchanting land and the author, who twice explored the mainland and outlying islands, is a brilliant observer. In Greece there is sunshine on 300 days out of the 365 and the sea is Greece's gift to all with the sun. And, fortunately for a country so dependent on tourists, it is inhabited by people to whom hospitable attitudes come easily.

VACATIONLAND U.S.A. — National Geographic Society.

In Vacationland U.S.A., vacation adventures by the dozen whisk you to the reeling decks of a "down-East sloop", to the wildlife paradise of Okefenokee Swamp, to a pack-train winding into a Western wilderness. You bike through Massachusetts and discover the joys of living in a hostel. Special sections have a list of fairs, pageants, rodeos and winter carnivals — year-round calendar of fun in all 50 States.

THE LOIRE — Vivian Rowe.

The River Loire is the fourth longest in Western Europe and the longest in France. It is surrounded by beautiful countryside and peaceful forests, where orchards and fields of vegetables and vine-clad slopes make up a constantly changing pattern. The towns have character and charm, but it is the villages which are such a constant delight. A splendid book for anyone contemplating a motor-trip along the Loire.

Text by Mary Moss.

Geologists tell us that British Columbia came into being more than ten million years ago, before the Cambrian period. It is a province of incredible contrasts — rain forest to a hot desert. The pictures in this book unfold it's splendor and the text is informative and informative. The combined efforts of photographer and writer make the call of British Columbia irresistible.

BERMUDA — Terry Tucker

Geographically isolated, and tiny in size, this coral chip of England has become one of the most idyllic islands in the world, attracting over 400,000 visitors a year from Canada, America, Europe and elsewhere. The climate is ideal — there is practically no winter — and the serene pace of life on the islands brings visitors back again and again. Mrs. Tucker writes of the history, the murders, the hurricanes, the superstitions and witchcraft of the island.

Security is Stiff On Diamond Beach

ORANJEMUND, South Africa (Reuter) — Walk along a certain sandy beach to the south of the Skeleton Coast and there is a slim chance you will pick up a diamond or two.

As beaches go, Oranjemund is hard to reach, need several hundred miles of desert to the east and treacherous Atlantic currents to the west.

Even if you are lucky enough to scuff up a few diamonds, the odds are heavily against escaping with them.

For Oranjemund, a very private beach, is the site of the world's richest gem diamond mines and the security rivals Fort Knox.

Consolidated Diamond Mines of South West Africa, Ltd. (CDM), which owns Oranjemund, is sifting out the precious diamonds at a rate of more than 5,000 carats, or 2,000 stones, a day. They say the deposit will be exhausted in about 20 years.

CDM has developed beachcombing here to a highly sophisticated art. It usually picks up about $25,000 worth of diamonds each day.

Eighty-seven per cent are gem quality, fit for engagement rings or tiaras. The rest are lower-priced industrial diamonds.

CDM provides more than 4,000 Ovambo Tribesmen—the biggest tribe in South West Africa—and 400 Okavango with higher wages than most of them could earn elsewhere in the country.

It is tough work. The diamonds have been deposited over millions of years in gravel or welded into conglomerate now covered by sand. Sand up to 10 yards down need to be bulldozed or scraped away before the previous deposit is exposed.

Once the sand has been shifted, the diamond-bearing deposit is taken away for crushing and sorting by X-ray.

The final sorting is done by hand by women using trowels and tweezers. Back at the beach, the bedrock has been exposed.

But it is pitted, starred, and its deep gullies also harbor diamonds — occasionally the biggest ones. Teams of workers called lashing gangs scrape, chip and demolish any of the bedrock that is clean.

The temptation to pocket diamonds is always high. The lashing gangs often pick up loose diamonds, which at the end of their shift they are supposed to hand to the headman for logging and delivery to the security man at the hostel.

At one time the lashing gangs workers were paid a bonus for every diamond they found. But it soon discovered that they were spending too much time diamond-hunting, rather than clearing the material from the bedrock for diamond processing.

Worse still, if they found a big diamond they would try to fracture it and then plant bonuses on the pieces.

Smugglers' tricks are common. Steve Marais, a former British colonial policeman in Kenya, heads the security operation at Oranjemund. He has photographs of diamonds concealed inside shaving brushes, shoe-heels and suitcase handles.

All showed up under the X-ray controls which everyone leaving the mine area has to undergo. Some people try to fool the X-ray by sheathing the diamonds in lead, but the lead shows up black.

Boats have tried to approach the beach, only to be crushed by the breakers and tossed away by the fierce current sweeping up the coast. The numerous wrecks gave rise to the name Skeleton Coast.

PEI Producer Forecasts Trends of Potato Markets

By DENNIS HARPER

— In 1967 the Prince Edward Island potato industry was almost on its knees after suffering through six bad years which repeatedly forced producers to sell their crops for less than cost.

Agriculture department economists and marketing experts wondered what, if anything, could be done to lighten the load on the province's hard-pressed growers.

Although all the wondering produced little immediate relief, aid was on the horizon—more as a matter of happenstance than anyone's planned efforts.

It came in the form of rising consumer demand, poor crops among many of P.E.I.'s competitors, and some help from the major transporters, especially the CNR.

By 1968, and for parts of the next five years climaxing in 1973, good times had returned and for at least one grower a lesson had been learned.

"We had come out of the worst six continuous years in the history of the potato industry and everyone breathed a collective sigh of relief," recalled Hazelbrook potato grower Harry Fraser.

"But, it seemed to me the problem was that we still lacked good information on marketing trends and conditions and I could see the same thing happening again."

Since that time, Mr. Fraser has built a reputation as an accurate forecaster of the fortunes of the province's potato industry and his work, published weekly in Fraser's Potato Newsletter, is read all over North America.

The newsletter has no advertising, sells for $15 a year, and has 1,000 subscribers.

Among those subscribers are major banking and financial institutions as well as commodity dealers and producers.

It is, he admitted in an interview, a publication written by a producer for producers and it reflects that bias.

Included are details on prices, supply, consumer demand acreage, weather trends, yields, and a lot of jibes at transporters who "need to be woke up some times."

The credibility of the publication comes from two sources.

First, Mr. Fraser holds a degree in business administration from University of New Brunswick and has an extensive background in that province's agricultural industry.

"We get it from the Red River Valley, Alabama, Florida, Delaware, Alberta, Manitoba and the rest of the Maritime provinces as well as Ontario and Quebec through a network of friends and associates. I've developed them as I got into this," Mr. Fraser said. "I call them weekly and they're in touch with me just as often."

The benefit is that Island farmers know how their competitors are doing. The Islanders use that information to govern crop acreage and, of growing importance in the last five years, when they will move their crops from the warehouses to the markets.

"What we try to do is help them predict when the market has reached its richest point so they can unload at a time that'll give them maximum gain," he said. "Until a few years ago, they just sold their crops and then crossed their fingers."

Mr. Fraser said he agrees with the recent report of the Food Prices Review Board which recommended that detailed marketing information should be readily available to all Canadian farmers and he said it should be coming from marketing boards.

As a member of the P.E.I. Potato Marketing Board he is pressed with only limited response, for the board to take up the slack in providing information that he can't cover.

"We've been at them for 11 years—you'd never know it from the results we've had."

Federal agriculture department figures show Canada is growing about 275,000 acres of potatoes this year. Another 337,000 acres are grown in Idaho and 231,000 acres in the Red River Valley, chiefly in Minnesota and North Dakota. Maine growers have about 142,000 acres planted this year.

Citizens Determine Policy For B.C. Community Health Care

MASSET, B.C. (CP) — Residents of the remote Queen Charlotte Islands, off British Columbia's north central coast, are used to looking after themselves, and the fancy dreams of social planners in places like this often wither and die.

One dream—that of improved health care—hasn't. Ahead a year ago Dr. Richard Foulkes, head of the B.C. government's consultative health security project, unveiled his proposals for a new, province-wide health system.

Its core was to be a network of community health centres where doctors, social workers, nurses and other specialists would work as a team, and the local community would tell the team what to do.

The Queen Charlotte Islands were chosen as one of four areas where the idea would be tried out. The effect of the experiment on life there has been considerable, community members say.

In tiny Port Clements, a logging community in the middle of Graham Island, there is a new clinic, where once a visiting doctor examined patients on the school staff table. A nurse-practitioner—able to give emergency treatment, drugs and do minor surgery—attends daily and a doctor visits once a week.

Here in Masset, 35 miles north of Port Clements, this major population centre of 1,200 now boasts a new six-chair dental clinic, staffed by two full-time dentists.

The nearby Indian village of Haida will be getting a day-care centre soon.

Another doctor, a pharmacist and a physiotherapist are coming this summer to live in the islands.

But the really significant change, say residents, has been in the way health services are controlled.

An elected, 15-member council of citizens representing different communities sets policy, decides on facilities to be built, interviews and hires staff and supervises the daily running of the network of services.

"The people on the council don't just come to meetings—they really have to work," said Jonathan Howland, health and human resources co-ordinator—the only administrator in the system.

The professionals involved in the experiment seem to like it. Dr. Bayla Schecter is paid a salary instead of fee for service and says there is less pressure to see as many patient a potible in a day.

Instead of the 50 to 60 patients a day some urban doctors see, Dr. Schecter sees 30 to 30 a day in the hospital in Queen Charlotte City.

Like other professionals here, her role is expanded: She is also the town veterinarian. Elna MacDonald, a registered nurse on the council, runs the hospital pharmacy in addition to nursing, and Mr. Howland has had to be a mortician.

Three more nurses are being trained as nurse-practitioners, and ordinary citizens—some 20 in Port Clements—are being recruited for first-aid training so they can operate an ambulance the council hopes to get from the provincial Emergency Transportation Commission.

Dentist Larry Stinson says he plans to train local residents as dental assistants.

Broken Cancer Cells Eaten Up by Oxygen

LONDON (CP) — A modified form of radiation treatment for cancer, based on experimental animals, has resulted in encouraging findings.

At a conference here, Dr. J. F. Fowler, director of the Cancer Research Campaign's Gray Laboratory, said that progress has made the research team optimistic. The idea was to try to overcome the present drawback in radiation therapy, the ability of cancer cells to resist radiation damage if short of oxygen.

The cells lack a normal supply of oxygen because tumors have a poor blood supply. Radiation breaks up the protein in the nucleus of a cancer cell but the protein can link up again—a process of self-repair.

The repair is possible because the broken pieces end up with electrons that can form the link. Oxygen in the cell, however, can grab the electrons, negating the repair process and the cells die. If there is no oxygen, the cells are difficult to kill.

The researchers at Gray Laboratory have been attempting to mop up the electrons with special drugs with an oxygen-like effect. Called radio-sensitizers, they can be given by mouth before radiation treatment begins to reach all the body cells.

Dr. Fowler said that experiments with tumors in mice had successful results. The use of radio-sensitizers showed they could cut the radiation necessary to kill tumor cells by almost half.

He said experiments with volunteer patients at Mount Vernon Hospital near London showed that a drug known as [illegible] had similar effects on human cancers.

So far, only secondary cancers had been treated in this method and different types of tumors reacted differently. Dr. Fowler said basic investigation is needed to find out why there were different reactions.

But he said that better radio-sensitizers could be developed and a combination of the drug treatment and radiation might prove even more effective.

Ontario Takes 10-day Look At Effects of Turner Budget

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is taking a 10-day look at the provincial economy in light of the federal budget described Monday by Premier William Davis as a failure in dealing with the problems of inflation and unemployment.

Shortly after Finance Minister Jim Gray announced Monday, the premier told the legislature the "blatant tax grab will have serious repercussions" in the province.

He said the 12-cent excise tax on gasoline and 25-per cent jump in home heating costs will add more than two points to the consumer price index and result in 15,000 fewer jobs in Ontario.

"It will damage our tourist and retail businesses and hit particularly hard at the small business, where more 100,000 employees just as it begins to recover momentum," the premier predicted.

He said Treasurer Darcy McKeough will review the impact of the federal budget and report back within 10 days "at which time I will have more to say on this critical development."

He did not rule out the possibility of Ontario bringing down its own mini-budget in response to the federal action. The province's April 7 budget was based on stable domestic fuel prices of $6.50 a barrel.

In other responses to the federal budget the premier:

—Called on the federal government to reverse the 12-cent-a-gallon excise tax on gasoline which he said was "discriminatory and did virtually nothing" for conservation.

—Urged oil companies not to increase retail prices until he had met with their senior officials.

—Urged Ottawa to reduce the scheduled increase in natural gas products and delay until Labor Day any oil price increase.

—Called for a substantial expansion in federal funds for housing beyond the additional $200 million announced Monday.

Opposition leaders challenged the premier's response as too little, too late and too late to protect the consumer.

NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said the province had the power to freeze the price of gasoline now at Monday's level subject to a total review of oil and gasoline pricing before the Ontario Energy Board.

But that suggestion was rejected as a "political proposal" by the premier.

Leader Liberal Robert Nixon, who said he could not support what he called the NDP call for a roll-back of the gasoline tax, added the province should be taking some initiatives other than calling for a withdrawal of the tax.

Higher Housing Costs Forecast

OTTAWA (CP) — Housing measures in the federal budget are expected to have slight impact on the tight market, with much higher prices and rents expected next year.

Housing experts suggest the government may have to provide more money later in the year to meet its own minimum production targets.

Some critics say extra money provided in the Monday budget will help, but they wish more had been committed to boost the slow rate of building.

Alden Hart-Jones Dawson, minister of urban affairs, says the minister is pleased with the increases promised by Finance Minister John Turner. They say the minimum goal of 210,000 starts this year can be reached.

Mr. Turner said in Monday's budget speech that Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. (CMHC) will be given authority to spend $200 million more this year for subsidized home ownership and rental programs and aid to provincial and other non-profit housing agencies.

But he said only about $125 million more will actually be handed out in cash this year. The federal housing budget now is about $1.4 billion.

Mr. Turner said grant levels will be raised under the privately financed, subsidized home ownership and rental housing programs. These programs, approved this year, have had a slow start.

Only 47,193 new housing units were begun in urban areas in the first five months of this year, well below the 71,488 in the same period last year. However, the pace of construction started to pick up in April and May.

Doug Peters, vice-president and chief economist of the Toronto Dominion Bank, said the budget's effect on housing would be "minimal."

The government should have provided two or three times as much extra money to have a significant effect on housing.

He said Mr. Turner should have provided substantially more money for low-income housing. And there should have been incentives for municipalities to make more serviced land available.

Another banking official said the additional government money is for new housing, but his bank finds there is enough money available for builders. The heaviest demand was in mortgage existing housing.

Lalonde Says Health Service Won't Suffer

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Tuesday he is confident health services can be maintained with the same quality despite federal government plans to square spending.

Finance Minister John Turner announced in his Monday night budget he was giving the provinces the required five years' notice to terminate the existing arrangement under the federal-provincial hospital insurance.

Mr. Lalonde followed this announcement with telegrams Tuesday to provincial health ministers and health associations in which he assured them that "we are most anxious to continue with the development of co-operation with the provinces of a health care system which permits Canadians to enjoy health care delivery of high quality."

He said one reason for the big increase in costs is the "rapidly increasing number of physicians" in certain parts of the country. He said in the telegram that, in future, doctors trying to emigrate to Canada will not receive any points under the occupational factor unless specifically requested by a province.

Airlines Surprised at Tax Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Airlines are surprised and concerned by the federal move to raise the tax on air travel, says A.C. Morrison, president of the Air Transport Association of Canada (ATAC).

Mr. Morrison said Tuesday that "air travellers are already paying a transportation tax that is not being applied to passengers using other modes, and this latest increase appears to further discriminate against those who prefer to travel by air."

Finance Minister John Turner said in his budget speech Monday the tax on air tickets will be raised to eight per cent from five per cent on flights in Canada and from Canada to the United States effective Aug. 1. The tax on flights to countries outside North America will be boosted to $10 from $5 at the same time.

There currently is a $5 ceiling on the tax for these flights but the government has not yet decided what the new ceiling will be.

Dollar-a-gallon Gasoline Forecast by Shell President

TORONTO (CP) — The president of Shell Canada Ltd. said Tuesday that a 12-cent rise in the price of a gallon of gasoline announced in Monday's federal budget will not be the last increase.

C. William Daniel told a news conference that Canadians can expect to pay $1 a gallon for gasoline in the not too distant future.

Finance Minister John Turner said Monday the price of crude oil will rise $1.30 to $8 a barrel July 1. World prices are about $11.50 a barrel. The rise will mean an increase of five cents a gallon for gasoline effective sometime in August.

Mr. Turner also introduced a 10-cent excise tax on a gallon of gasoline for personal use, effective immediately.

Mr. Daniel said budget concessions to the resource industry were "encouraging but not enough by themselves, although Shell's exploration program would be larger as a result."

Jerry McAfee, president of Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., said the budget "completely ignored the root cause in the current crisis in the oil industry."

He said none of the 12-cent increase in gasoline prices would go to the oil companies for exploration. Two-thirds of the price increase is crude oil would go to the producing provinces and the other third to Ottawa.

He said the extra $40 million which would flow to industry because of a new reserves allowance was only enough to drill one offshore well in the Beaufort Sea.

Tax Added to Gas Only on New Supply

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

There was confusion at many gasoline pumps across Canada Tuesday about when consumers must pay the 10-cents-a-gallon excise tax on gasoline announced in Monday's federal budget.

Many stations raised prices immediately after the tax came into effect at midnight Monday, but said they were waiting for directions from their head offices.

A finance department spokesman said Tuesday that retailers have not paid the tax on gasoline in storage tanks and should not raise prices until new shipments are received.

The department said the increase should not reach the pump for seven or eight days.

Oil company spokesmen said that, by law, they could not tell dealers how much to charge for gasoline but charges for new deliveries would reflect the increase.

Gandhi Locks Up Hundred Opponents

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi proclaimed a state of emergency in India today, and her government arrested more than 100 political opponents in an attempt to ward off a country-wide civil-disobedience campaign against her refusal to resign.

The government also imposed censorship on outgoing news dispatches as well as on all publication within the country. Procedures for censorship of reports being sent abroad were not immediately announced.

Some newspapers were not being distributed because power supplies were cut off or because copies were confiscated.

It was the biggest roundup of political dissidents since 1942, when the British arrested Mohandas Gandhi and other leaders of the Free India Movement because they, too, were waging a civil disobedience campaign.

Among those reported arrested today were 71-year-old Jayaprakash Narayan, an elder statesman of the Indian independence movement and for months one of Mrs. Gandhi's most severe critics; Raj Narain, the Socialist politician whose challenge of her 1971 election victory resulted in the current crisis; Asoka Mehta, the leader of the Old Congress party which broke away from Mrs. Gandhi in 1969; and two leading critics in her own ruling Congress party, Ram Dhan, a general secretary, and Chandra Sekhar, who urged her to open a dialogue with Narayan.

The crackdown was launched after Mehta announced the start Sunday of a "nationwide struggle" to drive Mrs. Gandhi from office, with rallies and demonstrations throughout the country leading up to a civil disobedience campaign of the kind her father, Jawaharlal Nehru, and Mohandas Gandhi employed against the British.

Mrs. Gandhi's opponents first called for her resignation after a trial court convicted her on June 12 of illegally using government officials in her 1971 campaign for Parliament against Narain and barred her from elective office for six years, the mandatory sentence under the current practices act.

Mrs. Gandhi refused to quit because the trial judge stayed the sentence for 20 days so she could appeal to the Supreme Court.

With the Supreme Court expected until mid-July, one of the justices ruled Tuesday that she could continue as prime minister until her appeal was decided by the full court, which will take several months.

But he refused her the full stay of sentence she requested, ruling that she could not vote in Parliament and this touched off vociferous new demands for her resignation.

"This is nothing to panic about," said Mrs. Gandhi in a nationwide broadcast today. "The forces of disintegration are in full poise and passions are being aroused, threatening our unity."

Mrs. Gandhi said in a country-wide broadcast today that "it is an important whether I am prime minister or not. However, the institution of the prime minister is important, and a dangerous political attempt to denigrate it is not in the interests of democracy or of the nation."

Proclamation of the state of emergency gave the government power to arrest persons at will and to hold them in prison indefinitely without trial.

Mrs. Gandhi said she hoped the situation would improve soon so that the decree could be lifted but she gave no indication how long it might remain in force.

States of emergency were declared in India in the past only in time of war—in 1962, during fighting with China and in December 1971, at the start of the war with Pakistan over Bangladesh.

The 1971 proclamation, directed against external aggression, still is in force and Mrs. Gandhi repeatedly has rejected opposition demands that she lift it, saying the country was still threatened from abroad.

The government said Mrs. Gandhi asked President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed to issue the new emergency proclamation because of a threat from internal forces.

The roundup in New Delhi began after midnight and continued through the night.

Although most of those arrested were reported to be supporters of the anti-Communist parties that have led the demand for Mrs. Gandhi's resignation, the dragnet also pulled in Jyoti Basu of the ultra-left Marxist Communist party.

The pro-Moscow Communist party has long been one of Mrs. Gandhi's bulwarks, and its support has not wavered in the current crisis.

The United News of India, the Indian news agency, reported that in addition to those arrested in New Delhi, 55 persons were picked up in Haryana and the Punjab, two northern states.

It appeared likely that there were more arrests elsewhere.

The government radio in its regular 1 p.m. newscast said: "Some preventive arrests have been made in various places. Constant vigilance against alertness is being maintained throughout the country. The law and order machinery will ensure that peace is not disturbed and anti-social and disruptive elements do not jeopardize normal functioning in the life of the community."

Ontario May Freeze Gas Price

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario cabinet may freeze the price of gasoline to delay until Sept. 1 a further five-cents-a-gallon increase, The Star quotes cabinet sources as saying.

The sources said the cabinet would consider imposing the freeze if the federal government rejects Ontario's request for a 30-day freeze or for a rollback in oil prices. Ottawa has not responded to the request.

A cabinet source said if Ottawa does not take action, "we are going to tell them (the oil companies) to roll back or else."

Another source said legislation is being considered.

Margarine Manufacturer's Wife Held for Million Ransom

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — The family of Mrs. Conrad Blanchet is awaiting further word from kidnappers holding the 49-year-old woman for a $1-million ransom.

Mrs. Blanchet, wife a wealthy industrialist, was abducted Tuesday from her home in Rock Forest, 15 miles east of here.

Quebec Provincial Police have confirmed the kidnapping but have refused to provide further details because of demands made by the kidnappers that the family not inform the news media of the abduction.

However, sources said Wednesday that 39-year-old Gaston Blanchet had been telephoned three times by the kidnappers demanding payment of $1 million in $20 notes in return for the freedom of his mother.

The sources said that during the latest call, at 11:30 a.m. EDT Wednesday, Mr. Blanchet told the kidnappers that the family had been able to raise $200,000 in bills of the required denomination.

Fauny mentioe, treasurer, had expressed concern about Mrs. Blanchet's health because she requires daily medication to treat a heart condition.

Sources said Mrs. Blanchet was sitting alone beside the swimming pool in the grounds of the large split-level house when several men approached her.

She fled into the house where the kidnappers captured her.

It was not known how many men were involved in the kidnapping.

Shortly after the abduction a kidnapper telephoned Gaston, told him his mother had been kidnapped, and demanded the $1 million ransom.

Gaston said the kidnapper told him: "No police, no reporters and pay the money."

The QPP would not comment on whether there had been a direct threat was on Mrs. Blanchet's life after the kidnapping was made public.

The house is situated directly across from Produits Forestiers, the family's margarine manufacturing plant in Rock Forest.

In addition to the plant, the family owns most of the land in the surrounding area, several bungalows and a nearby ranch.

Common Market Prepared To Study Link to Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Foreign ministers of the European Economic Community (EEC) have agreed to the opening of formal negotiations with Canada on the establishment of a contractual link.

Canadian officials said Wednesday the approval means that if all goes well, talks on the link Prime Minister Trudeau has sought in three trips to Europe can start in the fall.

Mr. Trudeau, told of the EEC ministers' approval as he went into a cabinet meeting, said it is good news for Canadian trade and industry.

The EEC approval came early Wednesday in Luxembourg at a meeting of the nine-country community's council of ministers.

The ministers sent a draft mandate outlining the EEC position, to be taken at the talks, to lower officials for study. Canadian officials are reported to be working on their mandate as well.

The contractual link has not been defined.

Unemployment Claims Are High

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Claims for unemployment insurance are way up in the Belleville area — at a time of traditional peak employment.

As of June 18, there were 6,604 claimants registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission's Belleville area office.

This is an increase of about 2,000 from the same time last year, Ken Buest, benefits supervisor, told the UIC's Belleville area advisory committee Wednesday.

The Belleville area UIC office covers Quinte and Prince Edward counties.

The number of claimants is away down from 8,400 registered in March, accepted as the peak month for demands on UIC benefits.

But "claims now are running at about 250-300 a week, said the supervisor, and a number of those whose claim periods are expiring "claim that they're not finding work" she said.

Students who worked last summer and this year are now entitled to draw Unemployment Insurance are among those recently registering, she said.

Ham Fraser, Canada Manpower official in Belleville, said his department also has been experiencing a drop in placements.

Fewer people were being hired locally and the area had undergone a series of layoffs, he said.

Jobless Shun Harvest Jobs

By HARRY MUHALL
Staff Reporter

More people now drawing unemployment insurance could find summer work during the harvest months in Prince Edward County, says Evelyn Beaucoat, the county's social services director.

Instead they are leaving laboring jobs in the county's fruit and vegetable canneries and farms to temporarily imported workers, she said.

The result is when their unemployment benefits run out toward the end of the summer they go on the county's welfare roles.

But, if they worked during the summer, they could then draw unemployment benefits later in the year.

The situation, she said, was a "real headache" for a social agency, as well as a drain on the budget.

She made the remarks in an interview after raising the issue Wednesday at a meeting of the Unemployment Insurance Commission's Belleville area advisory committee.

She told the committee it was "provoking" when imported labor was brought into the county and "our own people are sitting on unemployment insurance."

Mrs. Beaucoat, who later said she was not against importing foreign workers, told the committee she felt the situation was "costly to the taxpayer".

Her statement drew a remark from another committee member.

"If it's any consolation," said Jack Thomas president, Local 128 Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and General Transport Workers, "we probably have a lot of technicians down in Kamaska working and quite a lot of their people out of work."

Farm Odor A Problem

Spreading urbanization has created problems for some farmers, Hastings County council was told Tuesday.

The problem is, said a letter from Simcoe County council, that newly-arrived urbanites are taking offence to farm odors — which existed long before the newly-arrived arrived rural residential. As a result, some householders are complaining and some farmers are fined.

Council concurred with the protest from Simcoe.

Slow Filing of Records Prompts UIC Warning

Noel Stockton has a list. And he's hoping the names on it get the message.

So are his superiors at the Unemployment Insurance Commission's (UIC) Belleville area office. Otherwise penalties are possible for some local employers.

Mr. Stockton is area UIC information officer. The list is a catalogue of employers who are late in presenting out-of-work employees with their job records.

The worker's claims for unemployment insurance benefits are based on his work record and involves what's called a separation certificate, stipulate UIC regulations. Without it "needless" delays in filing claims are caused, says Mr. Stockton.

But the regulations also say an employer must file that record within five days.

At the 101st Annual convention of the Grand Black Chapter of British America in Winnipeg recently, two local men were elected to the executive. Bernard Hollinger of Foxboro now is the Grand Treasurer, and Lynn Jones of Stirling, the Grand Captain.

Police Losing Contact Says OPP Constable

PICTON — Because police officers are not "supermen" who can operate without help, public participation is essential for crime prevention says Constable Donald Watt, community Services officer for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

"We have lost contact with the public and we are the first to admit it," he told a meeting of the Quinte Communications Association Wednesday night.

Constable Watt added a move now is in progress to get policemen back on the streets where they are in touch with people. Contact has been lost through the mobility of the force.

He observed as crime mobilized it became necessary for police to mobilize too. Now, it is important to win community involvement in a program of crime prevention.

The police spokesman said hopefully the "I don't care" attitude of the public will disappear, as community residents join in assisting police.

It is important for people to take the time and effort to alert police of suspicious occurrences and to take an interest in crime prevention.

Prompt notification of police is important and involvement does not always mean the citizen who assisted police will be called into court.

Constable Watt observed some persons seem to fear their appearance in court will be required and for this reason they hesitate to help police.

He said a crime prevention booklet has been published and added it offers a wide range of tips for the homeowner.

Seeing The Sights

Capt. Bob McBurney of 437 Squadron kneels among wheelchairs to talk to 10-year-old Colinda Leblanc of Kingston on a Boeing aircraft flight over Toronto and Niagara Falls Wednesday. The captain was among CFB Trenton personnel who were aboard the eighth annual flight for crippled children co-ordinated jointly by the squadron and Shrine Clubs in the Quinte area.

80 Crippled Children Get Military Flight

TRENTON — A 1½-hour flight over Toronto and Niagara Falls may now be over, but it's unlikely it will be forgotten by a group of about 80 crippled children.

A sleek Boeing 707 rose into the clear sky over CFB Trenton Wednesday with children aboard.

It was the eighth yearly flight for Quinte area children, and was co-ordinated jointly by 437 Squadron personnel and Shrine Club members from as far away as Brockville.

For the children, it was an event, and the highlight of a day that included lunch in the officer's mess, a film and a tour of the base fire hall.

How did 10-year-old Colinda LeBlanc from Kingston like the trip?

"Fine." The plane was over Lake Ontario near Toronto. "Well, yeah," she said shyly, admitting that it was the first time "since I was a baby" that she was aboard an aircraft.

Activity during the flight was plentiful, among both the children aged six to 16, and Shrine Club members from Belleville, Trenton, Kingston and Picton. Fifteen flight attendants were aboard, three times the usual number, and all were kept occupied.

The cabin crew appeared to enjoy the special flight as much as the passengers, rivality went as far as the cockpit crew. Over the intercom near the end of the flight, a series of duck calls were unmistakably heard.

Check Telephone Survey Warns Picton Police

PICTON — Town police today advised Picton residents not to answer questionnaires for a telephone survey being conducted by a Toronto group on television programming.

Detective George Wright of the Picton police department said several householders have complained following telephone calls by persons seeking survey information in the area. Questions such as the number of males in residence at the homes, and whether the householders own black and white televisions are asked.

He observed a Picton lawyer who operied the surveyor calling him was told that he had been selected for the survey by an electronic computer. When he replied he did not believe this information and added that he was a lawyer he caller hung up immediately.

Cyclist Hurt

AMELIASBURG — A Trenton area juvenile was taken to hospital Wednesday night with leg injuries received when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car on Smoke's Point Road.

The 12-year-old boy was treated for a possible fracture of his right leg.

Radio Buffs Form Club To Aid in Emergencies

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Tuned to a wave length of community service the Quinte Communications Association has organized to promote a radio assistance program for this area.

A non-profit group, the newly-formed club is eager to participate in bike-a-thons, walk-a-thons and car rallies where communications between base and mobiles is required.

Also, since the Quinte area EMO program may be phased out soon, the club plans to prepare to assist the community in emergency situations.

Public relations officer Del Kellar of Picton explained the Quinte Communications Association operates on what is termed a citizen band in the United States, or, a General Radio Service in Canada.

Members require a radio and a business reason for using it to qualify for a licence from the ministry of communications.

Mr. Kellar said the ham radio operator is not to be confused with the radio buffs belonging to the Quinte Communications Association. A number of these latter enthusiasts have only a basic knowledge of their hobby.

The "ham" must study radio and radio repairs and learn how to build a radio. Also, he is permitted to transmit on any frequency.

The Quinte Communications Association includes about 20 members from throughout Prince Edward County and surrounding areas who meet monthly at the Picton fire hall.

Several members originally belonged to the Belleville tri county radio club. Interest in communications in Prince Edward eventually prompted a number of radio enthusiasts to start a group of their own to serve this community.

Mr. Kellar observed club members range from an experienced ham to novices who have discovered the importance of communications through personal emergencies.

Trade with Japan Solidly Established but we Export Double What Comes Back

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Almost 15 years have passed since Canada and Japan in the Diefenbaker era established the Canada-Japan Ministerial Committee in 1960.

At that time Canada was also in an economic slump, in fact the worst we have had since the war, except the present one.

Japan was beginning the tremendous leap economically the world made throughout the 60s and most of the 70s to date.

And in spite of our temporary economic decline 14 years ago, there was much meaning in seemingly inconsequential decisions being made at the joint ministerial level in Tokyo affecting the trade of both nations.

This week another mission of four Canadian cabinet ministers including the external affairs minister as well as ministers of industry, trade and commerce, and energy is in Tokyo.

The world of international economics has changed vastly since the early 60s, but not basically. The Japan-Canada relationship.

Canada still sells twice as much to Japan as that country sells to us, in spite of a decade and a half of Japanese imports of transistors, cars, cameras, medical equipment, bicycles, pianos.

The Canada-Japan trade amounted to about $3.6 billions in 1974, 27 times the amount of trade, (in dollar terms), we were doing in 1960.

The Japanese have become intimately involved, usually as minority partners, in Western Canadian resource industries and in the east of coal. Japanese demand for it, has completely revived a dead Canadian mining industry.

They need it in tiny home islands, overflowing with new and expanding industry, is for the raw materials to manufacture their thousands of sophisticated products for the home market and export.

The Japanese have become the most competitive builders of the world's super-lumber and bulk carriers, not because they are capitalists, but "Japanese," but because they need such monster ships to import bulk raw materials like iron ore, bauxite, coal, basalts, sugar and non-ferrous metals, not to forget the vital petroleum imports.

In the early 60s the Japanese were inclined to regard Canada as an appendage of much larger American market and that Canadians could be sold with the same ease, complaints, or less, as the Californians.

The Japanese have found out differently and Canadians too have lost. Under the 6 or 8 years ago, (still reserved for the Americans), the 12 per cent roads of Japanese industry into Canada.

Would British Columbia become Japan's new Manchuria with silent, busy teams of Japanese businessmen signing deals for the production as well as for control of part of the management of fishing canneries, iron and coal mining mines.

This is surprising considering the Japanese presence in our economy! Japanese cars imported cars, a phenomenon not seen in Canada even five years ago.

Trip with a Purpose

The visit to Lahr is over and although there has been an attempt, after the event, to turn it into a political football, the initiative between the two cities is recognized as a valuable one and this first visit a success.

If there are any pensioners upset at the spending of a relatively small amount, (a public money — $500 — in connection with the visit, there is no word of it. An additional $200 for a plaque, cheese and maple syrup, was met by Mayor Jeffrey and the three aldermen on the trip.

This has been a community effort, in the sense of making official contact at the personal level with the city of Lahr with which we are twinned. And of course that city is headquarters of Canada's NATO forces with which the Quinte area is closely associated.

Any such official visit has to cost some money and it is churlish for anyone to suggest in effect that both Belleville and Lahr sit back in their respective parts of the world and never try to effect a closer relationship.

There is a point though in regard to those sections of the community who for one reason or another are unable to make so much as a trip to the next city or township, let alone jet overseas. At the municipal, as well as at the national level, we have a tendency to overlook opportunities that are close at hand.

Is there anything to prevent the city from sponsoring a trip for senior citizens ,say to Upper Canada Village or Ontario Place, or to the CNE, taking in the Lawrence Welk show at the Grandstand for example?

As for the trip to Lahr, it brought side benefits in the form of a comparison of municipal programs. How things are done for instance in a country which enjoys the lowest inflation rate in the western world — around 7 per cent — is something worth knowing. The Lahr visit doubtless would have thrown some light on this, as well as on other matters of mutual interest.

"The Natives Are Restless"

Quebec Teachers' Pamphlet Seen as Political Vehicle

The following editorial by Claude Ryan, editor of Le Devoir, appeared prior to last May Day. The editorial in the Montreal publication, remains relevant today. It is seen as relevant in the context of what seemingly might ultimately face in the event of political teachings attributed have to a Quebec Teachers Federation pamphlet making away.

If we relied solely on the league common sense that has not completely disappeared from among us, we would ignore the new pamphlet which the Teachers Federation (Central de l'enseignement) has just contrived on the pretext of supplying teachers with a pedagogical tool for the celebration in the schools of the feast of the workers next May Day.

Most of the time, fortunately, there is a wide gap between the rhetoric of the head of the CEQ and the everyday behavior of teachers at the local level.

Nevertheless, the CEQ is planning to impose on the schools of Quebec, on May Day a whole vision of social relations in our society which is strongly Marxist.

We only have to leaf through the CEQ pamphlet to realize that, applied literally, the result would be to range some children against others and to pit some teachers against their parents, on issues about which they have, in general know very little.

. . . "the bourgeoisie", we read . . . "who give the workers orders and who own the factories, always have more money, more leisure, more time for travel, for their children."

. . . The workers tire themselves out working hard or waiting for orders from their bosses; they never decide about their own work". I don't know what study inspired these comments. But that they are simplistic and dishonest leaps to the eye.

For elementary school students, second level, an exercise is suggested . . . based on a comparison of the incomes of the workers of a large industrial concern and its president, and calculations on the salaries paid to employees and the profits made by it. The CEQ denounced arithmetic problem in which the concern for learning figures is combined with preaching. It has scarcely made any progress since the time when we thought was over. It has just replaced religious indoctrination with political indoctrination a hundred times more stupid and more dangerous than the pious exaggerations of the past.

. . . On the basis of a Manichean system whose crudeness has been proven many times the CEQ is dividing the citizens of Quebec into good ones and evil ones. It sees on the one hand a minority class of citizens to whose share all advantages and all privileges would fall by virtue of the game of capitalism, and on the other a class, greatly in the majority, who would have no other destiny but to submit to being exploited by the first.

. . . Everyday reality is much more complex, however. That is why no society used to liberty has ever opted by majority vote for the kind of social interpretations which the CEQ, with extraordinary sanctimony, would like to inscribe on the order of the day in the schools of Quebec.

A Summer Initiative

Further to the suggestion here that Belleville should consider holding an Ethnic festival, there is the example this week of Oshawa's Fiesta 75.

The Oshawa event is an annual one and it includes a giant opening parade with more than 1,000 participants and continuing with a Folk Festival Concert, crowning of a Fiesta Queen, and exhibits and dining at 28 pavilions around the city.

Kingston has something of the same style of summer event involving the city's various ethnic groups.

An interesting group which has performed at past Oshawa fiesta events, and recently was seen at Ontario Place Forum, is Les Tournesols, a choir made up of 85 elementary and secondary school students from city schools and an orchestra of 12 secondary students.

It has been mentioned here too how much a choir of this character could be an asset to Belleville. With the continuing success of the music festival in this city, and the obvious interest in music, it is surprising no composite young people's choir exists.

Inexpensive Queen's Park Meal Means Subsidy of $100,000

Sudbury Star

Among the "perks" of office enjoyed by those we send to Parliament Hill and Queen's Park are cheap meals in pleasant settings.

At the Ontario government level down, the Queen's Park people have a committee studying office estimates. It was told that the restaurant for members and guests will have to be subsidized to the tune of about $100,000 this year. Administration director R.J. Fleming told the committee that prices will be called for operation of the cut-rate eatery, and after that some restaurant management consultants will be brought in to see what can be done about more efficient and economical management.

Sudbury's member, Melville (Bud) Germa had a pretty good comment on that. A walk into any successful restaurant in Toronto, and a look at their menu prices would quickly show why the legislature dining room operates at a deficit, he said. At the same time, he observed, having seen the reason for the deficit in the price disparity, they could then eliminate the consultant's study — and the MPPs and friends can get a good meal for about $2.50, while quaffing liquor that sells for half the price it does in public licensed premises. "When the rest of the world has to pay full price, how can we justify getting subsidized?" asked Mr. Germa.

In their small way, the dining rooms at both Queen's Park and on Parliament Hill are part of the "moral world" of capital cities and those sent there to serve. Something akin to untaxed allowances. They widen the gap between "them" and "us".

New York 'Fear City'

Peterborough Examiner

New York's financial decline has threatened the jobs of thousands of civic servants, which are being sacrificed in an austerity measure, and the servants are fighting back with a new version of a "scare" tactic.

Their form is a booklet entitled Without Police, New York City. The message is claimed at the booklet, which calls the city; it's a survival guide, — instructions for surviving in the urban jungle. The booklet is basically a plea to "unless to save the thousands of jobs, and thousands of lives, and tens of thousands of policemen, firemen, sanitationmen and others are lopped from the civic roles.

Its warnings are chillingly simple: stay off the streets after 6 p.m.; never take the subway for any reason whatsoever; do not walk; don't leave valuables in your hotel room or leave them in the hotel vault; and try to avoid buildings that are not completely fireproof.

Some residents of New York scoff at the picture of New York as a haven for murderers, muggers, rapists, and other criminals. Mayor Abraham Beame calls the pamphlet a "disservice" and points out that New York ranks only 15th in danger among the 20 largest American cities. He compared to get a restraining order against the booklet, which union officials say they will distribute the Beame's little tracts anyway.

The booklet is over-dramatic — its cover shows a skull wrapped in what looks like a shroud. If distributed widely, it might have one of two effects. The booklet might worsen the pervasive fear which psychologists and sociologists identify as one of the over-riding problems of the city. By overdramatizing the case, the booklet might have the self-defeating effect of any propaganda. Whatever happens, the civic servants of New York have given "terrorism" a new twist.

A Bible Digest

by R. S. DEAN

"And now, Lord, what wait I for? my hope is in thee." Psalms 38:7.

Your life may be fragmented in a thousand pieces. The Lord is the only one who can pick up the broken pieces and put it together again. The man in this verse answered his own question and he was so right. Put your hope where the help is. The arm of flesh will fail you. He said, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

R. B. Bennett, Conservative prime minister of Canada 1930 to 1935, died at his estate in England 28 years ago—in 1947. Born in Hopewell Hill, N.B., Bennett practised law in Calgary and served briefly in Arthur Meighen's government. He took office as prime minister after winning the general election on a platform of imperial trade and unemployment relief. He put the former first, but most economic proposals were wrecked by the worldwide depression. Bennett announced broad social legislation early in 1935, but the Conservative government was defeated in the election.

1918—Sugar rationing in U.S.

1935—Compulsory labor service in Germany.

1959—St. Lawrence seaway was opened officially by Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower.

1961—Upper Canada Village was opened by Premier Frost of Ontario.

Library a Focal Point

In the Corby library, Belleville has one of the most extensive and best-appointed establishments of its kind.

A new folder, attractively-illustrated and outlining library facilities and other information, is now available.

On the use of these illustrations of the familiar Pinnacle Street building and of the East branch on Victoria Avenue, as well as a photograph of the entrance to the Art Gallery.

Indeed, if the world of books and of art is one of society's most valued endowments, Belleville is more than usually fortunate in the facilities it has here.

The main library is one of the focal points of downtown, serving the public and complementing the economic base of the commercial area. This will be of even more significance as the city grows, as it is doing now. Ultimately there will be a time when another branch may be appropriate, but as of now the city's library services are among the best.

Corporate Bond Issues Sold Show Increase Over 73-74

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

North American investment markets are in the doldrums—either because the advent of summer is turning investors' interest elsewhere, or simply because the markets have run out of steam.

A period of consolidation is to be expected after a big run-up such as this year has witnessed.

In four and a half months, prices of leading U.S. stocks have recovered by an average of 39 per cent.

Canadian industrials stocks have followed the same upwend, but have gained only about half as much.

The stock market's performance in the first half of 1975 has been remarkable at a time when both the U.S. and Canadian economies are beset by recession, growing unemployment, inflation and rising interest rates.

Nevertheless, investors demonstrated renewed interest in stocks—and also in corporate bonds, a market that they have neglected in recent years.

New corporate bond issues sold in Canada during the first five months of 1975 :ore to $2.-[illegible] million. This is double the totals in the January-May periods of the past two years, according to a compilation by Wood Gundy Ltd.

With the stock market in what analysts like to call a consolidation phase, the big question is whether the current gains will be followed by more advance or by a sell-off.

One of the few clues to be found in the trading figures of past years is that the nine trading days just before and just after the U.S. Independence Day holiday weekend have see a rise in U.S. stock prices in the range of three to four per cent.

(Not always, though. In that nine-day period last year, they dropped 7.5 per cent as measured by the Standard and Poor's composite stock index).

If the past 20 years are a reasonable guide, the stock market is at its strongest just before July 4. No definite pattern emerges for the rest of July; on balance, stock prices tend to decline a little.

Any assessment of the fundamental factors affecting the stock market at mid-1975 is necessarily mixed.

On the bearish side are the declines in corporate earnings this year, the slow growth of capital expenditures by business, the shortage of capital at an acceptable cost, and the slump in housing the U.S.

But on the bullish side are a series of leading economic indicators, the run-down in business inventories and the modest recovery in consumer spending revealed in the first-quarter figures on Canada's gross national product.

Of much direct significance to securities markets is the rise in the cash holdings of investment institutions—pension funds, pensions and mutual funds and the like.

There are indications, from investment dealers, that the professional money managers at those institutions are increasing their purchases of stocks and bonds.

They are doing it cautiously and selectively, of course.

Since their participation is essential to any sustained recovery, however, it's one of the most encouraging factors in the current market outlook.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JUNE 26,1955

The repair of two dams on the upper Skootamatta river and a department of public works dam on the headwaters of the Black River will be investigated by the Moira River Conservation Authority to determine their potential use in controlling water levels. Should the dams break, there would be flood damage as far south as Tweed.

Work has now commenced on the Morton Packer factory which fronts Dundas Street in Trenton. It is the second industrial plant to be built in Trenton this spring. Of modern brick and steel construction, the new building will be completely fireproof. The company will manufacture silver-plated hollow ware.

With a grinding roar plainly audible through the lower end of the city recently, 25 feet of retaining wall along the east bank of the Moira River at the rear of 140 Front Street collapsed and slid into the water. It is believed that the large blocks of stone composing the wall had been loosened in the wall at the rear by rain. Other sections of wall near that location are also reported loose and dangerous.

Rev. With them will be placed the pastoral staff, presented to the Conference many years ago by Rev. Richard Duke, the gavel, and the seal of the conference.

Baker UCW Head

MARMORA — Plans for two events in the summer months were made at the recent meeting of St. Andrew's United Church Women (UCW) when they met at the church hall.

A coffee party and bake sale will be held at Olive Howden's cottage on July 6 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. An afternoon tea and bake sale will be held at Helen Meiklejohn's residence on Aug. 8, from 1 to 4 p.m.

President Marie Cook concluded her term of office and presented the books to Ellen Barker who will succeed her as UCW president.

Mt. Meiklejohn was in charge of the program and drew attention to June 19 as being the 50th anniversary of the union of Congregationalists, Methodists and Presbyterians. Several members reminisced and spoke on church union relating the effects made in their lives.

Role of Nursing Home Defined by Owner

DELORO — Nursing Home Week was marked with a number of special events at the Centre Hastings Nursing Home in Deloro.

On June 15, ministers from five different churches in Marmora led an interdenominational service for 27 residents who were able to attend, along with 50 relatives, friends, volunteer helpers and staff on duty.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Horvath, entertained at a dinner on June 16.

In an after-dinner address, Mr. Horvath gave a short resume of nursing homes and their function in communities, but more particular, the operation of his own establishment.

"There have been a lot of changes since we purchased this nursing home in 1971, especially in its size. It has been an uphill battle but the co-operation and support of the Deloro council has gone a long way toward making the path a smoother one," he said. "Unfortunately, there are never enough beds to go around but we do try to accommodate the people in our local area," he continued.

"A popular conception of the public is that the government owns the home and hires the people to run them. This is not so. The government through extended care does contribute a flat rate for each bed occupied by an eligible resident. There is no differential for accommodation — that is the share that must be paid by the resident.

"Another factor is that any person, regardless of age, may enter a nursing home under extended care, provided they fulfill the health requirements.

"All equipment and all furnishings are supplied by the owners with no grants to help out, but the government hands out many rules and regulations to comply with."

Mr. Horvath said, "Our nursing home has 24-hour coverage by registered staff. Since extended care came into being in 1972, all nursing homes in Ontario have had to pull up their socks to conform to regulations. We believe the small homes provide a more personal care than big ones of 100 or more beds."

On June 17, a trio composed of Kate O'Connor, Lori March and Carol Shannon entertained the residents and relatives for about an hour. A group of Marmora senior citizens visited the nursing home on June 18. A demonstration of modern square dancing by the Trent Valley Squares caused many a toe to tap along with the music.

Twelve residents were able to attend, along with relatives and staff, in a social evening at the Deloro Community Hall on June 19. Many of those who hadn't been on a dance floor in years were up and dancing and those confined to wheelchairs enjoyed some wheelchair waltzes pushed around by willing partners.

A garden party was held on the lawn in front of the nursing home on June 21. All but four residents were able to attend. Refreshments were served by staff and volunteer helpers while those unable to attend were not forgotten — they and their visitors had lunch in the rooms.

History on Film

A gift to the Belleville Public Library from local historian Gerald Boyce will make research easier for professionals and those seeking to trace their family trees. The Dominion Censuses for Hastings for 1861, '71 and '81 on microfilm were presented to librarian Elizabeth Mitchell by Mr. Boyce at the final spring meeting of the Hastings County Historical Society.

98-year-old Deloro Resident Delivered 50 Babies as Midwife

DELORO — A host of memories garnered over a full and happy life can be of immense help when a person is approaching a 98th birthday.

That person is Ida Ham, a resident of the Centre Hastings Nursing Home in Deloro for the last seven years and formerly of St. Ola, Ont. Looking 30 years younger than her actual age, Mrs. Ham has a remarkable memory of past events and enjoys sharing them with anyone who is interested.

She is proud of the 50 babies she delivered as a midwife, a profession she learned from her mother who had also performed this duty 100 times or more in the farming community where they lived. A fee of $2 was all she asked for in return until a visiting nurse "ordered" her to charge $5 per case.

With five sisters and one brother, Mrs. Ham grew up on a farm near St. Ola. When she was only two years old, she ventured too close to one of her sisters who was playing with a hatchet and had two fingers on her right hand taken off at the first knuckle. One finger was sewn back on and healed but a portion of her first finger was gone.

In spite of this disability, she learned to knit, sew, crochet, weave and play the piano, all of which came in handy when she married and raised a family of five girls and two boys. Two of her daughters have since died.

One daughter, Mrs. Duncan (Laura) McNabb lives in Marmora and keeps in close contact with her mother, and the other two, Mrs. Cora Gibson and Mrs. Loella Lobe, reside in Toronto.

ALL IN THE FAMILY/by Isabel Huggan

Here Comes the Groom, And Isn't He Lovely?

This letter fell into my hands recently, and I thought you might enjoy reading over my shoulder.

Dear Agnes, Well, the wedding is over! Chucky is married, and it has all been too marvellous for words. It brings tears to my eyes to remember how radiant he looked coming down the aisle.

But let me start at the beginning, to bring you up to date. It's only a few weeks ago that he bounced in the door late one night, flushed and excited, engaged to Cynthia at last. We were so thrilled as he at his diamond — it's really the most darling little two-carat stone set in black onyx.

He said right then, "Mom, my and Daddy, I want you to stop calling me Chucky now. I'm getting married, and I'm 25 years old, and I want to be called Charles!"

Isn't that the cutest thing you ever heard?

We were just rushed off our feet for two months getting ready for the big day. Chucky was a wonderful help. He took over choosing the music, picking out fabrics, ordering flowers, even though he and Cynthia were in a real social whirl those days.

His old school chums held a delightful kitchenware party for him, and the fellows at work gave him an underthings shower, including expensive silk paisley pajamas with dear little cuffs.

At the last minute Chucky just balked at having a trousseau, said that it's just not done anymore. So we had only a few friends over one night to see his things — he has been collecting linens and silver ever since he and Cynthia "got serious" seven years ago.

We think she's just the right girl for Chucky, by the way. She's had two promotions in her job in the past year, a real go-getter, and she's really on her way up. Chucky plans to continue working just now, but Cynthia says that she doesn't get to stay home and take care of things. And we can see her point.

Chucky did seem a little nervous at the last minute and fainted dead away at the rehearsal, but we think it was just that he'd been dieting so strictly the last two weeks.

The wedding was simply glorious. I've just torn out the write-up from the paper with the descriptions for you to read.

Given in marriage by his father, the groom wore a semi-satin sheen polyester jacket in a deep cream shade, edged with baby-blue velvet around the lapels and three-button cuffs of the Edwardian sleeves. Two tucks at the waist caught the jacket softly at the hip, where it was accented by pockets also edged in velvet. Soft blue pants flared to the floor, in the same tone as blue as the ruffled shirt he wore. A navy velvet bow accented the neckline and a blue carnation boutonniere completed the ensemble. The groom's vest was a paisley brocade with navy velvet, and over-sized blue trousers matching his ruffled shirt. Ushers Percy Winkle and Tom "Teenie" Ferguson were outfits identical to the best man. All the groom's attendants were white carnations.

Maid of honor was Vera Verge, and bridesmaids were Penny Pattie and Prue Prunkle.

Greeting guests at the reception, the groom's father wore a maroon velvet jacket with grey flannel trousers, and the bride's father was attired in dusty mauve.

As soon as we got the pictures back, we'll send you some prints. We're just dying to see the ones of Chucky taken before the service. There's one I think will be especially nice of him, before the fireplace, looking deeply into his boutonniere.

We're so sorry you couldn't be with us for the occasion, but I'm sure you can imagine what a sweet blushing groom our Chucky made.

Love to all the family,
Alfred.

Ann Landers

Who Killed the English Language?

Dear Ann Landers: An English professor at Brooklyn College, Leonard R. Ashley, came out recently with some ideas that are worth repeating. He wrote yet save the English language.

Professor Ashley points out that in the good old uneducated people were blamed for debasing our mother tongue. Today it's the educated people, not the illiterates, who are doing the most damage.

The worst offenders, he says, are writers of advertising copy and politicians. Ashley notes that a 19-inch TV screen is described as "huge" and commercials are studded with misleading words such as "additive," "enriched" and "conditioners."

He deplores calling previous statements "inoperative" when they become embarrassing to politicians, and observes that offensive war preparations are described as "defense programs." A depression is called a "downward adjustment" or a "retrenchment."

Stock market plummets it is described as "correcting itself." Teachers come in for their share of criticism, too. Instead of saying Johnny "doesn't get along with the other kids," the teacher writes a note to the effect that "Johnny does not relate well with his peer group." Moreover, parents don't want to hear that their children are "lazy," but they don't mind being told they are "underachievers."

The sage from Brooklyn urges the use of simple words to communicate and the avoidance of fancy words that confuse. I'm in total agreement with Professor Ashley's campaign and I know you are, too, which is why the world loves Ann Landers. — For Telling It Like It Is

Dear For Telling It: Thanks, honey. I love you, too.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend sent this to me in the mail and asked if I thought it was good enough to send to Ann Landers. I believe it is. What do you think? — J.L.C.

Dear J.L.C.: I agree — and my thanks to both you and your friend.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF HOW TO GET ALONG WITH PEOPLE

1. Keep idol chains on your tongue. Say less than you think. Cultivate a soothing voice. How you say it often means more than what you say.
2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what the cost.
3. Never lose an opportunity to say a kind word to or about somebody. Praise work well done, regardless of who did it.
4. Be interested in others, their families, their homes and their interests. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel you regard him as important.
5. Be cheerful. Keep the corners of your mouth turned up. Hide your worries and disappointments under a smile.
6. Keep an open mind on all debatable questions. Discuss, but don't argue. It is a mark of a superior mind to disagree and remain friendly.
7. Let your virtues speak for themselves and refuse to discuss the shortcomings of others. Discourage gossip by changing the subject.
8. Have respect for the feelings of others. Wit and humor at the expense of a friend is never worth it.
9. Pay no attention to destructive remarks and personal slurs on you. Live so that no one will believe them. Remember, a famous cause of back-biting is dissatisfaction with oneself.
10. Don't be concerned about your "just due." Do a good turn for the sake of being helpful.

Doris Clark

Isolated Widow Sad and Lonely

Dear Doris: You wrote about volunteer seniors. I am a widow 68, living 15 miles from the city.

Being all alone I become very depressed so I called the "Help Line". They put me in touch with the senior citizens' club and I talked to a member. All this member does is talk about her club work, doesn't want to hear me at all, and if I say anything about myself needing transportation to the club, she makes excuses and hangs up.

I am friendly but the young neighbors around me never come to see me. I am on the quiet side as all my life I did for others and never could afford to get around like most. — Another Doris.

Dear Another: "An isolated spot like yours is meant for a hermit.

If there are neighbors more or less near you, and they do not come to see you, why not bake something tasty and go to see them? Friendship is a two-way street.

Sorry about that self-centered club member! Call the Help Line again and ask them for a contact with the president.

Another idea: Try a local weekly newspaper or supermarket bulletin board for a brief advertisement for rides to attend the club meetings.

Home-grown Herbs Instant Success

TORONTO (CP) — Growing herbs at home and in apartments is almost an instant process, says Toronto Star's food writer Monda Gontsbert.

And she said, "once you sprinkle fresh chives or basil in a salad or sauce you've never satisfied with bottled crumbled leaves again."

Miss Rosenberg offers some basic tips on home growing herbs.

"If you're a novice, start with chives, mint and parsley. They'll survive despite a little neglect or over-protection."

She said that when planted outside, sage, dill, mint and chives live for years.

Thyme, said Miss Rosenberg, is a hardy perennial that needs full sun but can't take foot traffic. Rosemary and garlic cloves must be brought inside in the fall.

"For window-sill gardening, begin with chives and parsley," she said," and never let herbs such as parsley, basil and chervil go to seed."

Other suggestions she gave:

—Whatever container used, it must have slits or holes in the bottom for drainage.

—Use room temperature tap water and never let the soil completely dry out.

—Water as soon as the soil beneath the surface dries out. In an apartment that could be every second day.

—Place pots so they receive some shade during the hottest part of the day and rotate daily. While mint and parsley do well out of direct sunlight, most other herbs develop fullest flavor with lots of sun.

Soil should be lean, seldom fertilized and on the dry side.

"Leave foliage on the stem," she said. "Wash and tie several stems together. Most herbs will keep their flavor longer if blanched before freezing. Dip in boiling water for 30 seconds, then immediately in ice water for two minutes, remove the leaves and pop in plastic bags or foil before freezing."

She said that drying herbs takes longer.

"Wash or spray lightly because the more air that circulates around them the quicker they'll dry," she said.

(One way or another you need to be neat- people I'm sending you my booklet "Don't Be Shy" which may strengthen your spine about that. (Leaflet is available to any reader for 25 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope.)

Dear Doris: I'm 16 and I went out last once with a guy who I find is undesirable, so my parents forbade me to see him again.

Then a girl friend (who knows I shouldn't see this guy) set up a date with her boy friend and another couple. When they called for me, I found the unwanted guy in the back seat. I didn't know what to do. If I had turned back my Dad would have wondered why and then he would have forbidden me to see my girl friend again.

Coming home we left off the guy, and then I said to my girl friend's boy friend, "George, I don't think it was right to put me in this position." He said, "They won't find out."

Then I really blew up. I said, "George, I don't stand behind my parents' backs! They trust me and I won't ruin it because of one stupid mistake." Well, I told my mother and she understood.

But since that night I haven't been asked out on a date. Should I have kept my mouth shut and let them think wrong of me? — Bewildered and Heartbroken.

Dear Bewildered: Your girl friend and George both knew they were putting you in an awkward position. It will be difficult for you to turn back from the car when you looked in and saw the unwanted fellow there.

But if I were George I would hesitate to risk your wrath again. This is a passing incident. Start making some new friends. And when necessary, keep straight and honest even if this means expressing yourself rather forcefully — just like you did.

(Doris knows Canadian resources and can provide you it the help you need.)

IWY: It's International Women's Year — but what does that mean?

Halfway Through: A Look at Women's Year

1975 is International Women's Year.

You know that.

But do you know, really, what it's all about; what it's supposed to be; who is supposed to help? Or do you care?

What has International Women's Year — now at the halfway point — meant to you — man or woman or child? Do you want to recognize it or mark it personally? Or do you think it would just go away and stop spoiling the apple cart?

First some explanations.

International Women's Year is a designation of the United Nations which asks that the year be devoted to an examination of the status of women and a continued and renewed pursuit of the full integration of women as equal partners with men in society.

The theme for IWY is peace, equality and development.

Canada has taken up the UN challenge with a national program which includes a special IWY secretariat. The program includes legislation aimed at removing the last legal barriers to the equality of women, a publicity campaign designed to raise general awareness and a national conference to discuss the issues.

Two IWY secretariat field workers, Sharon Mintz and Anne Betrne spent several weeks in Belleville speaking to groups and explaining IWY.

The main objective of the program is to make all persons — men and women — aware of the movement to full equality of women in our society.

To make women and men aware that women's place is wherever she wants to be — kitchen, House of Commons, office or garden club.

What about you, personally?

How can you become involved? The secretariat for IWY has issued a list of suggestions to help men and women recognize and take part in IWY. Here are some of their ideas.

— Inform yourself of the current status of women. Go to the library; write Information Canada, Ottawa, for lists of publications; read the Report of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women in Canada. Then talk about what you've learned. With everyone.

— Discourage thoughtless stereotypes and put a down about women. The next time you hear the disc jockey on the radio station wisecrack about women in stereotyped roles call the station and protest.

— Monitor the content of the media in the area for stereotypes in content and advertising. Note all the examples and then complain. Document your examples.

— Set up a study group for IWY — be sure to include persons of both sexes. Study the meaning of equality, barriers to full integration, the image of women at various times and in different cultures, the image of women in textbooks, attitudes of women and men toward their role, the origin, motivation and claims of the contemporary women's movement, study of women's contributions in all fields of labour and labour unions.

— Set up dialogues between adult and younger women.

— Set up a resource-information centre in a corner of your basement with facts about day cares, legal aid, family planning and the like as well as women's literature.

— Switch roles in your family for a day or a week or a month. Interchange roles between daughter, son, husband and wife. Be sons can cook and daughters can fix things.

— Take a hard look at your children's education. Are boys' and girls' sports integrated? Are textbooks stereotyped? Or do they mention women at all? Do the teachers and administrators of your school make a conscious effort to get rid of stereotyped attitudes? How about guidance counsellors? Apply political influence where necessary. Press for women's studies courses at the high school level and a non-sexist approach to education at the primary school level.

— Honour the women in your community who have achieved in their various fields whether paid or voluntary.

— Organize a baby-sitting network, fund a women's sporting team, organize a women's film festival or art exhibit or both, open discussions with the community's religious leaders to discuss the role of women in the church.

— Run for office, support qualified women candidates, integrate the local political organization so that women aren't just tea-givers and envelope lickers, learn to lobby, learn your rights under the law.

— Urge corporations and businesses in your area to examine hiring practices for covert discrimination. Ask them to consider day care for employees.

— Use your purchasing power, to wield power with corporations which discriminate against women, separate and lower paid job descriptions.

— Get the job you want by upgrading education, press employers to recognize volunteer work as legitimate job experience, act against discrimination if you feel you have been victimized, insist on equal pay for equal work and be sure your employer obeys the letter and the spirit of the law. Press for equal employee benefits.

— Remember this year is just the beginning.

Girls May Soon Receive Equal Status As Cadets

OTTAWA (CP) — Soon but not heard, female army cadets may soon be given official recognition by the department of national defence.

There is legislation before the House of Commons which will replace the word "boys" with "persons" in the bill authorizing the cadet program; this will give girls legal status in the corps.

"There have always been a number of girls with unofficial cadet status," said Lt.-Col. W. J. (Brick) Brown, general manager of the Army Cadet League of Canada.

He says some girls are already commanding their own corps despite their unofficial status.

This has caused problems, because the various regulations were not allowed to recommend members when applying for grants.

A special federal order-in-council allows funds to be spent on the girls this year and they will be involved in many cadet activities, including summer camps, junior leaders' courses and a Kingston-to-Ottawa trip.

This reflects the trend towards "adventure" rather than military training in the cadets. The military training was instituted during the Second World War.

The Cadet League petitioned the defence department three years ago to let girls join the cadets. Col. Brown says it became clear the girls were just as capable and interested in cadet activities as were boys.

In some subjects they outshine the boys," he says. "We're not worried about their ruggedness at all. They've proven themselves in the past."

When the girls are officially recognized they will be allowed to take Arctic training, parachuting, leadership and challenge courses, cultural tours in England and adventure exercises in West Germany.

Col. Brown says there will be no "token" females on these courses and the girls will have to qualify for the programs just as the boys do.

"They'll have to meet present standards, and we have no doubt they will."

Resolutions Approved

AHMADABAD, India (AP) — Indian men and women meeting here with other people from different countries approved two resolutions for the winter World Education conference, in discussing world education and the status of women, the final plenary session approved building a coalition of women locally and internationally to establish equal rights and to take action against armament production.

AROUND TORN with LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

Well, I'm back from my vacation and will be with you until the end of this column carries the middle of July. My thanks to Nancy Munden who did such a great job.

The Grand Opening

I've been hinting at this for a long time, but Friday and Saturday are THE DAYS — the days of the Grand Opening at Vader's Car Sales. Vader's will be showing off their new premises at College and North Front Sts., just around the corner from their previous location on North Front St. There will be door prizes, special displays, room for the ladies, lots of demonstration on land in which you can experience that great Datsun drive, no matter what the model, and of course, a complete array of all Datsun models. There will also be the prides and joys of the Vader sales staff there too to answer any questions you have about any Datsun product. And if you're thinking gas mileage, as is Mr. Turner obviously, then you'd better think Datsun. If you're going to Vaders on Saturday, I'll see you there!

You'd Better Hurry

Gord Sabiln Real Estate, 117 North Front St. has a truly great bargain on their listings right now; but it's not going to stay there long. Listed to this — especially you older-home buffs. This home on Station St. is between 85 and 100 years old; has pine and hardwood floors; is a two-storey frame construction; has natural-stained woodwork throughout; has stained glass and lead pane windows; has two enclosed sun-porches; has the original lightfree fixtures; comes set on a well-landscaped lot. But, the asking price of this home, which could be made into a real showpiece, is only $23,000. Now, if that's not a bargain, I've never heard one before! But as I said, you'll have to act quickly. Just call the Gord Robin number at 968-6475 and get on it.

Summer Pet Care

If you think this humidity is uncomfortable for you, you should be your dog! Mel Sherwood of the Tropical Gardens Pet Shop, 201½ Front St. has some good advice for summer pet care. Flea spray or powder, and a flea collar are musts for you dog. Mel also suggests a flea shampoo on a regular basis. In summer weather, dogs often contract summer eczema. There are special products to counter this. Mel also suggests that long-haired dogs be trimmed a little during the summer months so that they will be more comfortable. Because of the natural, constant scratching in the summer, Mel suggests that you brush your dogs more often at this time of year too. And you can get more advice and all the summer pet care products you need at the Tropical Gardens Pet Shop.

Facing The Blows

After listening to Mr. Turnire's budget, there's no doubt that we're all going to have to trim our spending and make every purchase count. And that includes our optical needs. Comparison shopping isn't something we should do; it's something we MUST do. And when you comparison-shop for glasses, Trenton Optical will be your choice. Trenton Optical is located at 8 Bridge St. E. and is one office of an independent locally-owned company. Trenton Optical doesn't buy glasses from one company only, but from several, which permits it and you to make the best purchase. Whether you receive your prescription from your eye examiner, you are free to take that prescription to your Trenton Optical. So you can shop around for your glasses, just as you do for your groceries, or your car.

To Mark The Occasion

There needn't be a graduation at your house for you to mark the occasion of a passing from one grade to another. That's a pretty big deal in the life of any student. W. Wennacott and Son Jewellers, 347 Front St. have just the thing to give added delight and encouragement to this momentous event, such things as charm bracelets and matching school charms, inexpensive watches and ever-popular identification bracelets. These gifts needn't be expensive, but they are a nice way of saying you're pretty proud of the academic efforts at your house. Wennacotts provide all the free advice you need, plus free gift wrapping. And they're not stingy with either.

All In One

Here's some really good news! There is a way to get revenge on that mosquito which spoiled your sleep last night and the night before and the night before that: there is a way to put that fly which disturbed the sanctity of the dinner table last night — screens and storm windows from Bellevieve Glass and Mirror, 334 Plaisance St. The question is, how did the nasty things get in in the first place? Faulty and worn-out, loose-fitting screens. Hot enough for you? Do have a few chuckles to yourself as you see your Bellevieve aluminum windows go on, when you think about how you've out-smarted the bugs, but cooled yourself, who is not going to have to worry anymore about storm windows? You, that's who. Call Bellevieve at 968-5731 and start laughing.

Stalemate Continues at International Hardware

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The stalemate continues between International Hardware and the 320-member local of the International Union of Moulders and Allied Workers.

The union has been on strike at the Coleman St. plant since June 13 supporting its demands of a 75-per-cent increase in pay and unlimited cost-of-living benefits in both years of a two-year contract.

The company's last offer would have given workers about a 34-per-cent increase in a complete wage and fringe benefit package.

Strike chairman Ray Ryan said, "There have been no new developments."

B.C. Boyd, president of International Hardware here, refused any comment on the strike situation other than: "There is nothing new."

Mr. Boyd hung up the telephone when asked the significance of officials from Emhart Corp. visiting the city. The corporation is International Hardware's parent company.

The company's last offer would have given workers about 90 cents an hour — an increase the workers would probably settle for "if the cost of living was uncapped for both years of the contract," said Mr. Ryan.

In the meantime workers continue to picket the plant and Belleville and area businesses are contributing cold drinks, coffee and food stuffs for the union coffee wagon.

"We're getting terrific support from everyone," said Mr. Ryan. "The other day a senior citizen stopped and gave a striker a $10 bill to buy food for a winner roast."

Campbellford Kids Get New Day Camp

FRANKFORD — Campbellford children will be going to a new outdoor day camp this summer in a specially prepared area of the Seymour Conservation Area.

Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority members agreed this week to open Seymour, for use by the Campbellford recreation department in its day camp program for ages six to 12.

In all, 45 children will attend the Monday to Friday camp in the conservation area. Three separate two-week programs will be held during the summer July 7 to August 15.

Authority members agreed to a request from the Campbellford department for use of the area, once informed that the department had been forced out of existing facilities due to increased costs.

Campbellford plans to spend a maximum of $450 in preparing and improving the actual camp site. Registrants for the program will pay $10 for the supervised activities, ranging from swimming to canoeing to art and craft work.

Hot Line

This is the busy time of year for Picton-based fruit and vegetable specialist Ralph Shaw. Morning phone calls to the provincial ministry of agriculture and food office invariably lead to afternoon and evening trips to follow up on problems of growers in the counties of Prince Edward, Hastings and Lennox and Addington.

Pea Yield Down, But Corn Good

By CARM MARAFFY
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Causing crop prospects for the Quinte area range from fair to very good, fruit and vegetable specialist Ralph Shaw predicts.

Mr. Shaw, in the Picton office of the provincial ministry of agriculture and food for the past six months, brings experience as a buyer of canning crops to his job of working with producers of fruits and vegetables for the processing industry.

Before coming to Picton, he was manager of Produce Processors in Trenton for about three years. Prior to that he was fruit and vegetable specialist with the agriculture ministry in London, Ont., after completing a seven-year stint with Canadian Canners in various centres in Ontario and Quebec. To back all this up, the Dresden, Ont., native holds a BSA degree from the University of Guelph.

In this, his busiest time of the year, Mr. Shaw tries to put a couple of hours a morning in at his office. The phone rings continually with queries from farmers and gardeners about pests, fertilizers, problems and you name it. The balance of the day — and often the evening — is devoted to visiting farmers and growers, following up queries and attending meetings. He covers Prince Edward, Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties.

As for crops, Mr. Shaw says green peas, now being harvested, "seem to be getting kicker every day." The crop is only fair. They suffered from wet feet with all the rain early this month and some root rot resulted.

"Sweet corn is still being planted, to fit into canners' schedules, so it's early to make any predictions. The corn that has been planted is doing fine," Mr. Shaw said.

Acreage of snap beans is reduced this year. Wet weather prevented planting at the normal scheduled time. Planting schedules are established by canners to coincide with normal maturing dates of crops so they can be worked into canneries' processing routines.

This year cherries, due to ripen in mid-July, should produce a "good average" crop. "Better than the last two years."

Apples, the region's prime cash fruit crop, look good, so far, said Mr. Shaw.

Letter Prompts $50 Cut In Bleecker Rental Fee

The McTaggart's are coming — or so members of the city's recreation-arena committee hope.

The McTaggart clan is widespread but of late has been holding annual reunions.

They want to do it again this year — and have sent 200 notices to various McTaggart households everywhere.

But they were hit by a "bombshell" when making arrangements to rent the Ben Bleecker auditorium for their 14-hour family get-together Aug. 10, wrote organizer Mildred Wannamaker to the committee in a letter read this week.

Last year, the rent was $75, this year it's $200.

Among the reasons for the hike, explained recreation director Clifford Belch, are rising labor costs. In the interim workers have become unionized. Other prices are up as well.

And, last year's charge was for a private party. This year charges are changed — a flat $200, or $20 an hour.

Committee members agreed over a solution that would be polite but still somehow offset costs. They finally decided on $150 rental.

Committee member Bob Phillips pointed out the numbers involved — who would be using city accommodation facilities — and the distances they're expected to travel.

"This is the type of thing we should be looking for — we should encourage them to stay here."

"On another occasion we might spend more than $150 to get less people here," he added.

Kirking of the Tartan Revived in Local Church

The kirking of the tartan, an ancient Scottish church service, was revived in Belleville, Sunday.

For the first time in Canada, according to the Belleville St. Andrew's Society, the ritual act of disobedience to the English Crown was held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The nucleus of the society, 18 members, combined the Presbyterian, Roman Catholic and United ministers in the non-denominational service.

The act of kirking, or blessing, the tartan dates back to 1707 when the English ruled Scotland.

During this period the English attempted to break the spirit of the Scots by forbidding them to publically display their tartans.

But Munro, local spokesman for the Quinte area group, said the Scots, being law-abiding chose a unique way of obeying the regulation while still holding true to ancient customs.

Once a year the members of the various clans would attend a Jewish church service.

Variety of Gas Prices Prompt Some Questions

There are sharp disparities in the prices of gasoline being charged in the northern areas of Hastings County, a county councillor charged this week.

Reeve Jesse Carr, Montagle Township, evening tackled Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings for an explanation.

There are parts of the county within a half-hour drive of Bancroft where gasoline prices are higher by eight-to-10 cents a gallon he said.

"Why is this section penalized in this way?" he asked. "I don't know whether there is a combine in there or what . . . I think there's something wrong in that area."

One explanation offered by Mr. Rollins was that in an overflow market where major oil companies are supplying unbranded dealers, the dealers might be taking advantage of the situation. Also station markups could be different.

The issue was raised by an irony.

Before council this week — less than 12 hours after the federal government had announced big new gasoline price hoists — was a protest from Madoc Village council — passed last week — that gasoline hikes announced for July 1 were "excessive."

Council concurred and agreed to circulate the protest to other local governments.

Officials Now Looking For New Swimming Site

Recreation and parks officials will study the feasibility of finding an alternative swimming site for young swimmers now banned from the harbor area.

Monday night city council called for such a study on the northeast shore of the Bay of Quinte, east of Front St.

Tuesday, both the recreation-arena committee and parks board formally endorsed the project.

Recreation director Clifford Belch said if a suitable site was found for supervised swimming it would not be available until next year since all budget projects had been allocated.

The city has banned swimming from all its dock installations in Victoria Park and on the boat-loading ramp near the Wharf St. Debating Club, following complaints from boat-owners.

The move was prompted by criticism from private operators who feel county treasurer - administrator and workers might have an unfair advantage when such equipment is required.

Rental Policy Revised

The move was proposed Tuesday to county council by its personnel committee.

Carl Bateman, county treasurer, said the move will save the county $150 a month.

Payment Dates Set

Hastings County council this week approved setting payment of its county rates — the levies from member municipalities — which help pay its expenses — on a twice-a-year basis.

The rates will be paid in no-per-cent installments by July 15 and Dec. 1, recommended council's finance, property and promotional committee.

The move is aimed at reducing high interest costs on money that has to be borrowed before rates are paid. The move would be effective next year.

Official Plan Proceeding

Hastings County's official plan has progressed one step through the official approval process.

The plan was first introduced — and approved by county council — last year.

Now, Felix Browne, Bangor-Wicklow-McClure Township Reeve and planning board chairman, told county council this week proposed provincial government amendments to the document are in circulation.

The amendments — which runs 40 pages — has been sent county municipalities by the housing ministry.

Antarctic Ice Sheet May Be Disintegrating

OTTAWA (CP) — Some scientists believe the Antarctic ice sheet may be disintegrating, that large parts of it may slip into the ocean and raise worldwide sea levels nearly 20 feet, flooding major coastal cities.

A similar, but smaller ice sheet covered Hudson Bay 8,000 years ago. It disintegrated in 400 years, remarkably fast in geological time, and flooded much of Central Canada.

The Antarctic ice sheet is exhibiting characteristics that scientists feel the Hudson Bay sheet had before its collapse.

Essentially, the ice is coming in contact with relatively warm water that causes it to move out faster than it normally would.

It extends itself over the water, which melts it from underneath, and the weight of the ice at the end breaks off into huge icebergs. This forms a central channel of warm water which gradually breaks the whole ice sheet into icebergs.

The ice sheet covering Antarctica is about the size of Europe and in some places is three miles thick. The western half is considered unstable because it rests mainly in water, as the Hudson Bay ice sheet did.

A hole drilled through 7,200 feet of ice at Byrd Station, Antarctica, has shown a layer of slushy ice near the water. Radar probing of the ice has revealed many "lakes" of warm water which are melting the ice from underneath.

If this ice sheet did crumble and move into the oceans, some scientists say, its white surface would reflect a lot of sunlight back into space, cooling the atmosphere and probably ushering another ice age.

"The amount of this ice is hard to comprehend.

"What you must understand is that it takes thousands of years for such huge ice masses to form. There was a sheet of ice two miles thick on Hudson Bay that weighed so much that it pressed the surrounding land down at least 2,500 feet," said Victor K. Prest of the Geological Survey of Canada.

French Group Tries To End Smoking Habit

PARIS (Reuter) — A middle-aged businessman broke down and cried with the strain, a Paris taxi-driver kept a packet in his pocket to prove his will power while the other 98 gnawed desperately at liquorice sticks or just sat around fidgeting.

The 100 were a determined group of Parisians who stopped work for a week, went to a Gerardmer in the Vosges area which gave them the impression of being on vacation. But we put them in an enclosed situation."

The vegetarian diet which goes with disintoxication was given to them at their hotel. The 90-minute evening lecture sessions with doctors and psychologists really had a spectacular effect.

Slogans were dotted everywhere to remind the sorely tempted "five minutes pleasure costs 15 minutes off your life".

But the strain proved considerable. Many complained of dizziness as a withdrawal symptom and one businessman said: "I rang up my wife and started to cry like a child. I couldn't stop."

The volunteers — including doctors, plumbers, lawyers, a helicopter pilot and pregnant woman—often resorted to compulsive nibbling of liquorice sticks as doctors graphically illustrated what cigarettes were doing to their insides.

One girl admitted: "You have to forget a smoker's gestures—looking for a packet of cigarettes in your pocket all the time and also thinking there is something missing between your fingers."

The much-publicized exercise was watched with considerable attention by Health Minister Simone Veil who has pledged to launch a nationwide campaign against the dangers of smoking.

St. Thomas Won't Replace Rare Organ

The mood, atmosphere and tradition of the last 139 years in the life of St. Thomas Anglican Church is beyond precapture, says Harold Carruthers, chairman of the parish council's building committee.

Mr. Carruthers bluntly answered criticism during a meeting of the church's congregation here this week which deplored that an initial design concept as proposed by an architect for the restored church will retain nothing but the exterior heritage.

"As far as the old St. Thomas is concerned, it's gone," he commented. "It's finished."

Mr. Carruthers also noted the large pipe organ which was lost in the April 30 blaze will probably not be replaced with a similar one due to a prohibitive price tag of about $120,000 at today's costs.

"It is highly unlikely we will replace a 31-stop organ like the one we lost in the fire," he stated.

Lloyd Sankey of Sankey Associates Architects of Toronto explained his firm, contracted by the church, has attempted to re-create of the church but said certain restrictions prevent a detailed restoration.

He pointed out much of the original wood and other materials are not legal today under present building codes.

In addition, there are no craftsmen today who perform that type of work, Mr. Sankey said.

Rudy Javorsky, another Sankey representative, added Kingston limestone, which is no longer quarried, was also an original ingredient and will likely be replaced by Queenston limestone.

Turner in Court July 14

Donald Turner of Prospect Hill in Trenton, charged with assault causing bodily harm in connection with a brawl following a lacrosse game here June 3, will appear in provincial court here July 14 at which time a trial date will be decided, a city police spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the 18-year-old Turner has applied for legal aid for which there is a three-week waiting period.

The charge resulted from a donnybrook at the completion of a minor league lacrosse game at Dick Ellis Rink during which Robert Hurst, 18, of Pine St. in Belleville had his nose broken in three places.

The exhibition Frankford-Belleville juvenile match was called midway through the third period by the referees due to roughness. The league has suspended Frankford from further play in Belleville.

Trenton Firm Gets Contract

From The Ottawa Bureau Of The Intelligencer

OTTAWA—Capkey Developments Ltd. of Trenton has been given a $14,879 contract for building aircraft at Canadian Forces Base Trenton, Supply and Service Canada announced this week.

It was one of 309 unclassified federal contracts, each worth $10,000 or more awarded to Canadian companies during the week ended June 13. Total value of these contracts was $13,983,973.

New Industry Hinted

PICTON — Robert Boyce, Wellington town and chairman of Prince Edward County council's economic development committee, predicts "very interesting material to report" in the county's industrial future soon.

Reeve Boyce described the news as relating to "a very worthwhile project" and told council details should be released within the next 10 days.

The May report of the economic development committee noted negotiations with a group that plans to manufacture aircraft parts.

The report stated, "Further negotiations in June and early July are envisaged with a final decision at a relatively early date."

It also was noted that an aluminum castings company has agreed on "the final circumstances of its location in the county and a draft lease has been prepared.

"Finalization is anticipated in June but the company has requested that no publicity whatsoever take place until they have re-located," the report stated.

Reeve Boyce observed one formal and one informal meeting took place regarding re-submission of a residential development proposal in Halloweil.

Church Council Grows

Sympathy and support for the restoration of St. Thomas' Anglican Church in Belleville stretches into Northern Ontario, says Dr. Richard Potter, Quinte MPP and chairman of the church's fund-raising committee.

"As far away as Thunder Bay, I've had former parishioners come to me, offering to form a fund-raising committee . . . " he told a St. Thomas' congregational meeting here this week.

Dr. Potter said he felt the response should be high once the fund-raising campaign goes into full gear within the next few months.

Concert Ends School Year

BANCROFT — When you're looking at two months of holidays, it's easy to celebrate the occasion in fun and activity.

The students of Our Lady of Mercy School in Bancroft presented a concert Monday for parents and friends.

The students were assisted in the program by Don Buskirk, a member of the Pandora's Box drama troop and teachers.

Ballpark Gets Work

City council's parks board Tuesday retained engineering consultants to prepare for the $23,500 improvements to Alemite Park facilities.

A building addition is needed to bring facilities up to standard with the entry of a city team in the Ontario Football League.

Lowest bid submitted was $750-$1,000 from Morden Guthrie, of Belleville, which will prepare designs, work drawings and specifications for work on the project.

Many Get Gas Tax Rebates

OTTAWA (CP) — The revenue department estimates between 700,000 and one million car and truck owners will get refunds on the 18-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax brought in with the new federal budget.

However, an official said Wednesday, it will be several weeks before the department can issue details of how and where refunds can be claimed and probably longer before refunds can be issued.

The refunds will go to those who buy gasoline for commercial use. This includes farmers, salesmen, fishermen, hunters, trappers, bus companies, municipalities, provincial governments, hospitals, school boards, professionals such as doctors, and companies.

The new tax will have little impact on some truck and bus companies because it does not apply to diesel fuel.

M. P. Bourgeois, head of systems and planning for the excise branch, said eligibility for refunds will be on the same basis as income tax deductions for a car or truck. If half the use is personal then only half the expenses of operation can be written off for income tax purposes.

Development Company Wants Oil Hunt Role

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canada Development Corp. (CDC) wants either to acquire or form a Canadian oil exploration company, its president said Wednesday.

H. A. Hampson said in an interview the federal government-owned corporation is discussing with several companies a partial or complete takeover.

Mr. Hampson did not name the companies, but said the Vancouver-based CDC is interested in buying an oil company with "a chain of gas stations." A major unintegrated company was preferred.

If the CDC finds an acquisition too costly, it might form its own oil exploration company, he said.

Opposition Fears More Inflation

OTTAWA (CP) — The budget debate started in earnest Wednesday with opposition critics predicting higher unemployment and more inflation.

Sinclair Stevens, Progressive Conservative finance critic, said the opening Commons salvo, saying the budget represents a failure by the government to deal with the urgent problem of inflation.

"Inflation can be solved politically and it is not being solved by this government."

Ed Broadbent, New Democratic parliamentary leader, said "it would be impossible to present a worse budget."

Mr. Turner's budget "will increase unemployment and lead to further inflation."

"Only in Canada has a government seen fit to respond to economic riddle by weakening both situations simultaneously," Mr. Broadbent said. "A madness has been let loose in finance."

He said increases in the price of oil and natural gas will "increase the cost of living for every Canadian by two points on the consumer price index and reduce further, by about one percentage point, the growth in our economy in the coming year."

Mr. Broadbent predicted that manufacturers will increase the prices of consumer goods and lay off employees to cover their higher energy costs.

"First estimates of the effect on employment indicate that around 15,000 jobs will be lost in Ontario alone because of the increased costs of energy."

Mr. Stevens (York-Simcoe) said the 18-cents-a-gallon excise tax on gasoline, which will bring in about $750 million of revenue, should be eliminated. It was indefensible that motorists must finance the government subsidy program that lowers the price paid for imported oil used in and east of the Ottawa Valley.

"The subsidy should be paid from a general charge on the treasury, rather than a special tax on motorists," he said.

Adrien Lambert (SC—Bellechasse) also criticized the budget, noting that this year's deficit is running at about $10 million a day. He said work incentives should be built into the unemployment insurance program and more money should be placed in the Local Initiatives Program (LIP).

Mr. Stevens said government plans to trim $1 billion from its spending is inadequate.

Contract Accepted

HAMILTON (P) — Members of Local 67, Plumbers and Pipefitters Union, accepted a two-year contract which continues to make the workers the highest paid construction trades group in Canada, a union official said. They will receive $13.08 an hour by May 1, 1976.

End Seen To Slump

MONTREAL (CP) — Data for the first quarter of 1975 confirm earlier estimates of a "bottoming out" in Trendicator, The Royal Bank of Canada's composite index of leading indicators.

"This behavior bears out our previous conclusion," said Dr. Robert Bagsley, Royal Bank senior economist and co-designer of Trendicator.

"We expect the Canadian economy will reach its trough in the second half of 1975 and then turn upward in the final quarter of the year or the first quarter of 1976."

Trenton to Check Water Leaks

TRENTON — Trenton Public Utilities manager Douglas Hanlon said today a six - to - eight week leak detection program in other sections of Trenton will begin in early July.

The program, one estimated to cost $2,000, is aimed to find locations of leaks in the town water system, which is depending on daily demand for 1,000,000 gallons of water, or losing 10-to-20 percent of the water it carries.

Mr. Hanlon said today two men will be working night to locate leaks.

Water to entire Quinte in Trenton will be shut off as the crew can check flows and determine where leaks occur. Some leak isolation will be carried out with special listening devices.

Mr. Manlow said the program cost is provided for in the budget. Plans were to start earlier this year, but members of the five-man water department have been kept busy repairing and replacing parts of the water system downtown where Trenton is undergoing a street reclamation program.

City Begins Investigation Of Sports Centre Funding

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

An "in-depth investigation" into the financing of the proposed Quinte Sports Centre is being conducted by a special committee of city council, The Intelligencer learned Wednesday.

In June, members of the Belleville Tyndmen Benefit Fund, city council and provincial and federal government representatives met behind closed doors here to discuss possible municipal involvement in erection of the sports centre.

Spokesmen for the fund and for the provincial government say approximately $2 million has been placed in a trust account for centre construction but almost three times that amount will be required for the projected first phase of a swimming pool and multi-use ice surface. Cost of this work is estimated at about $5.5 million.

Council, in a caucus session Monday, dealt with the prospect of assuming ownership of the project Monday and formed a "special, investigative committee", said Mayor Robin Jeffrey Wednesday.

Municipal ownership would make the project eligible for provincial funding.

Senior alderman Ben Corke has been named chairman of the committee with other members Aldermen George Zegouras and Jean Smith and Mayor Jeffrey.

That committee met privately Tuesday "to discuss certain problems," said Ald. Corke.

"There was nothing very positive out of the meeting," he said. "We kicked around certain problems."

Ald. Corke said there should be some decision "in 10 days or so," about the project following a "round table discussion" with representatives of the provincial government.

"There is a very fair chance that the city will become involved directly in the project," said Ald. Corke. "Likely, the city will take over the project in name rather than actually contribute financially. It will either alternative is agreed upon, he said.

During an interview, Mayor Jeffrey said: "The city has a responsibility to make available provincial funding. We are looking into how it can best be done . . . always keeping in mind what the taxpayer might face in the future."

Commenting on the continuing costs of operating such a facility, Mayor Jeffrey said: "The Yardmen are active in their lottery now but it's way, way in the future that we have to think about."

"We are confident we will come to an amicable agreement on this amazing project," she said.

Big Board

The Kinsmen pool opened for the summer this week and as far as Marcelle Villneuve, 12, of Belleville is concerned this is only board he'll be thinking about until school starts in the fall. Gordon White calmly watches the action from the vantage point of the lifeguard's chair.

Kinsmen Pool Opens For 26th Season

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

The Kinsmen pool opened for its summer season this week for the 26th year.

Under the direction of manager Kathryn Watson, the Kinsmen expect to have more than 20,000 people use the pool during the season stretching until August 29.

Public swimming is held daily from 1.30-4.30 p.m. and nightly from 7-9 p.m. except Saturdays.

The pool has a full teaching program scheduled said Miss Watson.

Last year, there were more than 400 swimming students and this year the number should approach 500, she said.

Beginner lessons are offered at no cost to children of school age with classes held from 10 a.m.-12 p.m.

The adults will not be left out of the swimming instruction program with classes being offered for adults Monday and Wednesday evenings at 8-10.

Mother and tot classes are offered in the morning at no cost, and the wading pool in the playground is supervised, with about more than 100 children making use of the park facilities each day.

Private swimming instruction is offered by all the instructors to all levels of swimmers.

The pool will offer a full Red Cross program, said Miss Watson, with bronze medallion, award of merit and life saving lessons given.

The cost for admission will be the same as last year with children paying 25 cents, students 35 cents, adults 50 cents and families $1.

The pool offers season passes at reduced rates costing $8 for children, $16 for students, $15 for adults and $18 for families.

Committee Critical Of UIC Budget Item

The advisory committee in the Unemployment Insurance Commission's Belleville office Wednesday protested one proposal of this week's federal budget.

The committee may never be certain if anyone up there in the federal complex of things will listen.

But, Wednesday they had one indication such groups have a role to play.

Monday's budget contained a proposal to extend the maximum period of UIC benefits from 15 to 25 weeks.

The committee had passed a resolution calling for more such flexibility at one of its earlier quarterly meetings.

Similar resolutions had been passed by other advisory committees elsewhere, the group was told.

But after learning the news, the Belleville group drafted another suggestion:

Monday's budget's proposed that higher benefits for what news reports have interpreted as low-income recipients be cut from 75 percent of regular wages to 66 and two-thirds — the maximum for higher income categories.

The committee passed a resolution stating the budget proposal be withdrawn and the benefit categories remain unchanged.

Monday, the group was performing the role for which it was appointed — as a local advisory post on UIC policies.

The committee was formed last year — it held its first session in July, 1974— and meets three times a year, one of similar local-input groups around the country.

Budget Passed

City hall has received Ontario Municipal Board approval for its 1975 capital works budget.

The OMB has sanctioned the $5,537,800 in expenditures for capital works estimated needed — and approved — by city council April 8.

One major thrust of the budget is servicing lots in the city's northeast industrial park.

Funds for such projects are raised by debenture.

Council can now proceed to prepare construction bylaws for each project — although each such ordinance must come under Ontario OMB scrutiny before being finally approved.

The budget — which includes various projects from parks development to new transit equipment — calls for about $12,000 from 1974. The largest single allocation about $1,000,000, involves Dufferin road, sewer and water services toward the industrial park south of Highway 401.

OMB approval of the budget was received at the office of city treasurer Frank Morrell.

New Salesmen Honored

Four Belleville area real estate salesmen were honored with presentation of certificates Wednesday following completion of a course sponsored jointly by the Quinte and District Real Estate Association and the Ontario Real Estate Association.

The four who received certificates were Dr. Dalton de Fraasz; and O'Neil, Ann Fiskle of Fraser, and O'Neil, Vic Kirby of McKinney and Duane Russell of W. Frank.

In the same meeting, Charlie Cooke of A. E. LePage was presented with a class prize for listing and selling the most multiple listing service properties in the first four months of the year.

41 Area Residents Now Canadians

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The Bay of Quinte area welcomed 41 new Canadian citizens Wednesday following citizenship presentation court before Judge Russell Honey at the county courthouse.

Nine of those to be are Italian, seven German, six Dutch, three each of Greek, Austrian, Czechoslovakian and American, two Belgian and one apiece of Philippine, Chinese, Yugoslavian, Polish and French.

Representatives were present from the three levels of government, the clergy and the law profession to bring congratulations.

Jack Ellis, Hastings MP, noted he has been attending such functions for the past 10 or 15 years. "What can I say that will help Canadians who have lived here all their lives to appreciate what you feel," he told the new citizens.

Judge Honey urged them, "we ask you to retain your culture, your tradition . . . instill this in your children. By being different, we can enrich the whole of Canada."

Ald. Jean Smith represented the city of Belleville, Clarke Rollins, the provincial government, Mr. Ellis, the federal level, Glen Staveley, the federal department of manpower and immigration, vice-president Rev. David Murphy for the Belleville Ministerial Association, Msgr. James Sullivan of St. Michael's Catholic Church distributed Bibles, Cpl. Ron Harlton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police stood at Judge Honey's right and the International Daughters of the Empire (IODE) passed out welcome certificates and held a tea party later at the Belleville Armory.

Twenty-three of the new Canadians reside in Belleville, three are from Trenton, two each from Frankford and Deseronto and one apiece from Bancroft, Marmora, Tweed, Corbyville and Foxboro.

Crippled Children Get Two Weeks at Camp

Twenty-eight local crippled children will spend two weeks at Camp Kiwanis, a special camp.

Kiwanis Camp-on-the-Rideau, outside of Smiths Falls, will open its doors June 29 to the local group of 28 local juniors.

Divided into three categories, junior, intermediate and senior, each will have their turn at recreation, sports and handicrafts.

Six intermediates will attend the camp for two weeks, followed by eight seniors.

The co-ed camp is sponsored by Kiwanis Clubs of Belleville and many community groups.

In Belleville and Trenton, the Rotary Club will subsidize families not able to pay for the camp, while in Madoc, the Kiwanis Club, in Bancroft, the Lions help. Also if transportation is not available club members will take the children.

The camp is staffed by trained counellors, nurses are on duty 24 hours, and a hospital is less than 10 miles away.

Rock Hound at Work

Whitby resident J. P. Melnik is busy here putting the polishing touches to a ring he is fitting for a Quinte Mall shopper during the annual display staged by the Quinte Gem and Mineral Club. The show of 10 dealers continues at the Mall for the remainder of the week.

Rock Collecting: A Hobby The Family Can Enjoy

When you tell J. P. Melnik he's got rocks in his head — you are absolutely correct. He's got his mind on his business as a rockhound and jewelry manufacturer.

Mr. Melnik is one of 10 dealers at the Quinte Mall this week displaying the art of rock collecting and jewelry-making. The display is sanctioned by the Quinte Gem and Mineral Club.

Mr. Melnik now lives at Whitby (?) is employed at General Motors but it wasn't many years ago that he made his home in Bancroft employed at Faraday Mines.

"I was the last miner to be laid off," said Mr. Melnik. "It was up at the mines that I became interested in working with the semi-precious stones.

"I'd like to turn it into a business," he said. "There's an endless demand for jewelry." Mr. Melnik also works as a silver and goldsmith.

Show chairman Don Kirkham says the attraction to rock collecting is "the chance to get out of doors and meet new friends".

"Like all other hobbies, it has the attraction of being able to outdo another collector and telling tall tales," he said.

"You can go to what ever level you want in the hobby and still have lots of fun as a family outing," said Mr. Kirkman. "You can just collect or you can go right through the procedure to the end product of polishing stones and making jewelry using smithing techniques," he said.

The Quinte club also has a booth at the mall where members are selling stone and jewelry samples.

The show continues throughout the weekend and marks the ninth such exhibit staged by the club. In existence for nine years, the Quinte Gem and Mineral Club has about 65 memberships on the club roster — the majority of these being family memberships.

Winds Cause Heavy Damage

MARMORA — A violent windstorm that hit the east shore of Crowe Lake early this week caused extensive damage and cut electric power to the area for about six hours. Trees were uprooted, TV aerials blown down and the area was covered with a layer of dirt and debris after the brief local storm subsided.

Franklin Gets New Bus

MARMORA — A new 47-passenger highway coach has been purchased by Franklin Tours of Marmora and will go into operation on July 1, on a trip to the west coast.

The new bus features washrooms, air conditioning, reclining seats and an entertainment centre containing radio, tape deck, FM and a public address system. It will also be possible for passengers to reverse their seats, unfold a card table and have a game of cards while travelling.

It also be possible for passengers P'Prevost Car Inc. of St. Clair, Que.

Bayside Graduates Told Be Adaptable to Change

Don't be afraid to change one's job — that was the message for graduates at the Bayside Secondary School convocation Wednesday as spelled out by Global Television Network newscaster Peter Trueman.

Mr. Trueman, the guest speaker, told students among the crowd of about 1,000 people, "don't be afraid of changing your mind . . . of changing jobs."

"You spend an enormous amount of your time working, greatest contribution in international relations.

Gold Medals for the highest standing in every grade were awarded to Richard Stevenson of Brockville, Grade 7 and 8; David Ridley of Stirling, Grade 9; Rosalind Lawrence of Belleville, Grade 12; and Gail Thompson of Coboconk, Grade 13.

The Howard Award, presented to the finest representative lady student, was given to Susan Riley of Trenton and to the finest boy student, the Marsh award was given to Richard Joyce of Monteval.

Mr. Trueman, the guest speaker, told students among the crowd of about 1,000 people, "don't be afraid of changing your mind . . . of changing jobs."

"You spend an enormous amount of your time working, and if there is anything sadder than a man or woman who is married to the wrong person, it's a man or woman in the wrong job."

He said, "working is too alien to most of us to be bearable for protracted periods unless we really love what we're working at. So don't take a job because of the money, or the location, or some other peripheral advantages and expect to enjoy it."

Mr. Trueman urged the graduates to get involved and enjoy life. "I hope you bring enthusiasm to this adventure you're starting, because you're sure as hell going to need it," he said. "I think the world will be made or broken forever in the next few years."

"We solve the population problem very soon or die . . . we learn to conserve energy somehow, or move out of the northern hemisphere altogether and resign ourselves to a primitive existence in some alien world . . . we come to grips with pollution or face the prospect that the ocean will die, the soil will be poisoned, the air will be too foul to support living things."

Albert College Has Six Ontario Scholars

Albert College held its convocation recently with guest speaker, Rev. Dr. Robert F. Smith of Eglinton United Church in Toronto.

Widjaja Jiemy also received the Governor General's Silver Medal for the highest standing in Grade 13; and Sari Amal, the Rotary Plaque for the highest from outside Canada who has made the Car Looted

City police are investigating the theft of four eight-track tapes, a fire extinguisher and an air freshener from a car owned by John Horlock of 144 Station St., some time between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. today.

Police said entry was gained by bilgeing an object between the door frame and window and tripping the lock. Total value of the stolen goods $42. The car was parked in a parking lot at the rear of the owner's residence.

Teachers Get Fellowships

Two men, one a high school teacher living in Belleville and the other a former Belleville, Ontario, teacher, have been awarded Shell Canada Merit Fellowships in chemistry.

James Stewart, a science teacher at Bayside Secondary School, Belleville, and a graduate of Queen's, is one of 20 fellows chosen from high school teachers throughout Canada to attend the four-week course at McMaster University in Hamilton.

Former Belleville resident, Carl Twiddy, a science teacher at Newmarket High School, Newmarket, Ont., was also chosen for the honor.

Booklet Stresses Seat Belt Use

A booklet published by the Ontario ministry of transportation and communications sets out to prove — and does — the effectiveness of seat belts in reducing injuries in motor vehicle collisions.

The Human Collision, the illustrated 20-page booklet, was produced by the driver-vehicle operations research branch of the ministry and is available from 1201 Wilson Ave., Downsview, Ont., M3M 1J8.

Happy New Canadians

Mario Del-Grosso, three years old, has a smile for his father, Giorgio while his mother, Pasqualina, displays her and her husband's Canadian citizenship certificates they received at citizenship presentation court Wednesday at the county courthouse. They were two of 41 new Canadians who reside in the Bay of Quinte area who were successful.

Cubs Crumble In Seventh

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos have paced themselves in a three-game mid-week series against Chicago Cubs.

The Expos lost the first two National League baseball games badly before erupting in the seventh inning of the third game Wednesday night to set a club scoring record for an inning with a 10-run outburst that generated a 13-4 win.

"It's good to take one out of three when you've lost the first two," said Gene Mauch after his charges raped three Cubs pitchers for eight hits in the inning tying another team record.

"When somebody gives you a little help it goes a long way."

Don Kessinger provided the help when the shortstop committed two throwing errors that, combined with Pepe Mangual's single, loaded the bases for Mike Jorgensen. Jorgensen singled home two runs to tie the score at 4-4 and

PEPE MANGUAL

His hit chased Cubs starter and loser Rick Reuschel, 5-7, and brought in Oscar Zamora, who got Bob Boyd to ground out before giving up the game-winning hit to Pete Mackanin, whose single scored Morales.

Gary Carter then singled and Larry Parrish connected for a run-scoring hit before Pat Scanlon, making his second pinch-hit appearance of the inning, pushed Carter across the plate

McNally Admitted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former major-league pitcher Dave McNally is reported in fair condition at a Baltimore hospital after he was admitted earlier this week suffering from intestinal hiccups.

A hospital spokesman said McNally, who announced his retirement from baseball June 8, was in fair to good condition and was undergoing tests.

The spokesman said the left-hander was admitted Monday after suffering intense hiccups for four to five days. He did not know when McNally would be released.

The 33-year-old McNally retired after a poor start with Montreal Expos. He was traded from Baltimore Orioles to Montreal last winter.

Braves Stifled By Red's Defence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's double or nothing when Cincinnati Reds play Atlanta Braves these days. The Reds reel off double plays and the Braves get nothing.

After turning four double plays in blanking the Braves 3-0 Tuesday night, the Reds rolled off five more Wednesday night in a 5-0 triumph. Coupled with the Houston Astros' 5-4 victory over Los Angeles, the victory boosted the Reds' lead over the Dodgers in the National League's West Division to four games.

In the NL East, Philadelphia Phillies chopped Pittsburgh's lead to one game by defeating the Pirates 7-4 in 13 innings and sweeping the four-game series.

Elsewhere, New York Mets slipped St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 Montreal Expos exploded for 10 runs in the seventh inning and whipped Chicago Cubs 13-4 and San Diego Padres downed San Francisco Giants 6-2.

Pitching ace Don Gullett on the disabled list, the Reds turned to a couple of relative newcomers the last two nights. Pat Darcy blanked the Braves for 8 2-3 innings Tuesday before needing relief and Wednesday they eight innings of three-hit ball from Tom Carroll.

Roger Metzger singled and Cesar Cedeno tripled off Don Sutton in the seventh inning to break a 4-4 tie and give Houston the win. Cedeno homered in the first inning and the Astros added two more in the second off Ron Watson's double, Ken Cabell's triple and a grounder. The Dodgers tied the score in the third on Jim Wynn's three-run homer and both teams scored in the sixth before Houston got the winner in the seventh.

With the win, the Astros broke Sutton's personal nine-game winning streak against the Braves. His last loss to the Astros was July 29, 1972.

The Schmidt drew a bases-loaded walk from Dave Giusti with one out in the 13th to force in the winning run in the Phillies-Pirates game. The Pirates had a 6-0 lead after 2½ innings.

Tom Seaver and Rick Baldwin combined on a four-hitter and Rusty Staub slammed a two-run triple in the seventh to lead the Mets. It was the sixth consecutive triumph for Seaver, 11-4, who had allowed only one run in his last 38 innings until St. Louis scored in the ninth. Baldwin got Ken Reitz to ground into a game-ending double play with runners at first and third.

Indians Sweep Three

Robinson Sure Enjoys Boston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston is a nice place to visit and Cleveland manager Frank Robinson wouldn't even mind living there for a while.

"It's been a very pleasant visit," said Robinson after his Indians completed a three-game sweep of the Red Sox at Fenway Park with an 8-5 victory Wednesday.

"We're definitely putting things together now. This is what I want, the type of ball game I've been looking for since the start of the season."

Elsewhere in the American League, New York edged Baltimore 3-1, Chicago turned back Texas 5-2, Kansas City outlasted California 6-2 in 12 innings, Oakland dumped Minnesota 7-1 and Milwaukee shaded Detroit 7-6.

The Indians exemplified Robinson's game-of-all, all-for-one theory of baseball as only Bong Powell failed to get a hit.

Frank Duffy had three singles, two RBIs and scored twice, Alan Ashby hit a two-run homer and Duane Kuiper drove in two runs and turned in a pair of defensive plays at second and base.

Wait Williams tripled to lead off the ninth and scored the winning run on Thurman Munson's sacrifice fly as New York moved 1½ games ahead of second-place Boston in the AL East with its win over Baltimore. Munson tripled and scored on a single by Chris Chambliss for the first New York run. Sparky Lyle, 3-4, won it in relief and Jim Palmer, 13-4, lost it.

Jim Kaat picked up his 11th victory against four losses and Jorge Orta drove in two runs with a double and triple for Chicago. Deron Johnson also knocked in a pair of runs for the winners with a sacrifice fly and a single. Mike Bacsik, making his major league debut, lost it for Texas.

Frank White cracked a grand slam home run in the 12th inning to lift Kansas City over California. Steve Busby went the distance, spacing a dozen hits to raise his record to 11-5.

Oakland took a two-run homer for the Royals. Ellie Rodriguez singled in scores Angel Mangual and Jerry Remy scored the other on an error.

Ken Holtzman, 7-7, scattered seven hits as Oakland beat Minnesota for the 10th time in 12 meetings this season. Reggie Jackson, Gene Tenace and Bert Campaneris drove in two runs apiece for the winners. Dave Hale's RBI were his first of the year.

Stewart Shoots 79 To Take Top Honors

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

"Arnold Palmers we're not", commented one area golfer participating in the 4th annual Chamber of Commerce Golf Tournament at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, Wednesday.

"But we sure had fun", added another part-time golfer, "The day was beautiful".

That's just how things went at the Chamber of Commerce Golf Tournament with every one having a good time and getting plenty of laughs.

Mixed with the merriment though was some good golf, with some of the best amateurs in the area competing for prizes and trophies.

As Tournament Director, Don Sutton, said, "I hope this will bring together the groups of businessmen if not pros."

He and the other directors couldn't have asked for a better day, and attendance at the event was close to perfect. Over 60 Belleville and area golfers participated in the tourney, the most in its four year history.

BOB McCALLUM

In every competition there must be some winners and some losers. In this one most were winners as there were plenty of awards to be given away. Many of the prizes were awarded for such things as, "Greatest Liar" and "Greatest Golfer". The prizes were mostly donated by members of the Downtown Businessmens Association.

The top golfer for the day was Jack Stewart, who ended with the lowest overall great, a 79. He received two trophies for his fine effort on the greens.

Low total net went to Bob McCallum, who also had a good day on the links.

Among the more prominent names at the tournament were aldermen Ben Corke and Joe Cox. Also present were guest speakers George Thompson, president of the city's Chamber of Commerce and Gerry O'Donghoway, president of th Downtown Businessmens Association.

One of the first for the tournament was the entry of several women golfers into the competition, and all fared quite well. Connie Mitchell was the top female golfer, taking one of the many prizes.

The tournament began four years ago with just 20 competitors and very little support or following. Now it is one of the major golf events in Belleville and has become a fixture in golf circles around the area.

Posties Upset 2-0 by Holoway

Sonny Holoway threw shutout ball for Bruce Johnson and walked off with an upset over Post Office in Wednesday night in Belleville Industrial Softball League action. Other games saw The Intelligencer tie Canadian Tire 3-3 and Black Diamond defeat the Lenders by the lopsided 17-4 score.

Holoway gave up four hits and three walks while chalking up 12 strikeouts on the way to his impressive victory.

Norm Lockhart gave up eight hits, one walk and managed six strikeouts in the loss.

The offense for Mend Johnson was a team effort. Gary Genereuss collected two singles, while the rest of the hits went to Dave Dolan, Jim Sopha, Holoway, Jim Woods, Mark Bell and Charlie Rowbottom.

Joey Edwards threw for The Intell, with five strikeouts while only giving up five hits and no walks.

They Goncalves had two singles for The Intelligencer, while Ron Coffodon powered a two run homer, Glynn Reynolds and Edwards collected the other hits.

Alec Belch led the way for Canadian Tire, with two singles, while Jim Parks doubled for the only extra base hit off Edwards. Dave Pox and Ron Prest also singled.

Black Diamond pitcher Ron Bateman walked off with a 17-4 victory over Lenders in the third game of the evening.

Bateman gave up seven hits and four walks while striking out five Lender batters on the way to the win.

Harry Vandanen, Norm Tetlock and Ed Dawson shared the loss for the Lenders, combining to give up 14 hits, 13 walks and strikeout two.

Doug Stewart had a good night at the plate for Black Diamond, hitting a single, double and triple for his nights work. Gene Francis had a single and a double while Terry Hiddleston and Ron Bateman both singled twice.

Bob Wilkes and Ed Dowson both doubled for the Lenders.

14 Starters Will Produce Record Purse

Upper Shelf, Countryman Dark Horses in Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP) — Upper Shelf and Countryman may spell double trouble for Queen's Plate owners this year.

They're expected to go as an entry for Kinghaven Farms, owned by Bud Willmot at King, Ont., on Saturday's 118th edition of the Plate—North America's oldest continuously-run stakes race.

The draw will be made this morning with from 13 to 15 horses expected to compete in the 1¼-mile race for three-year-olds foaled in Canada.

It's expected that 14 will start and if that is the case, the prize purse will be a record $148,695. The winning owner would receive a record $96,651.

Greek Answer, owned by Preston Gilbride of Toronto, and L'Enjoleur, representing Louis Levesque of Montreal, will likely be the favorites with an expected crowd of close to 40,000 at Woodbine race track.

Duke and Duchess of Kent will also be in attendance and they'll present the traditional gift of 50 guineas, actually 50 gold sovereigns, and a gold cup, valued at $8,700, to the winning owner.

Sandy Hawley of Mississauga, Canada's leading jockey since 1969, will be aboard L'Enjoleur and Mickey Solomone of the United States will ride Greek Answer.

L'Enjoleur has nine wins in 23 career races and total earnings of $214,433. Greek Answer has won nine of 19 races and has earnings of $99,869.

Upper Shelf's second - place finish in Greek Answer in the second division of the 1 1-16 mile Plate Trial last Saturday earned him a starting spot along with stablemate Countryman.

Upper Shelf, with two wins, a second and a third in five lifetime starts, was beaten three lengths by Greek Answer who covered the distance in 1:44 3-5.

Upper Shelf's time was 1:45 1-5, four-fifths of a second faster than Hagelin's winning time in the first division.

Countryman, who didn't run in the Plate trial, was untraced as a two-year-old and has had only one bad race in eight starts this year. He has two wins, two seconds and a third.

Besides Levesque, two other Montreal owners—George Farrell and Vidmont Hardings—are expected to be represented. Farrell will send out Rex Favor and Hardinge will have Coup de Soleil.

Hagelin will likely run for Stafford—seeking his third Plate win in a row—if the horse recovers from a sore heel on a forefoot, which he suffered in the first division of the trial. Stafford, from King, Ont., won the Plate with Amber Herod 14 1974 and with Royal Chocolate in 1973.

Mystery Time, owned by Sam Douglas of Stratford, Ont., will also be entered.

New System in Store For Mutuel Tickets

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Jockey Club has placed specifications with seven companies to provide a more efficient system of selling and cashing mutuel tickets.

"Cashing tickets is our No. 1 problem," John Mooney, president of the OJC, said Wednesday.

"The companies have until Sept. 1 to provide bids and I expect positive bids from six of them. If all goes well, we'll have have a new system operating by early 1977."

The PMU System from France developed by Pierre Garrus three years ago is the one the OJC is most interested in.

The system handles all types of bets and cashes almost immediately. For cashing, the ticket is inserted in a machine that validates it and flashes the payoff for both cashier and customer to see, speeding up the process.

Cashiers on the OJC circuit, including three thoroughbred and three harness racing tracks, have five steps to worry about, including adding up tickets if there is more than one payoff.

The French system expedites the selling of tickets because the seller operates the machine with a small keyboard to handle any combinations.

"If a customer orders 40 $2 tickets, the seller merely punches out 40 X 2 on one ticket," said Mooney. "It would take seconds to punch out a $20,000 bet."

Double Split In OFL Action

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Al Pew pitched a four hitter to lead Burlington Ancaster-Provisioners to a 3-2 win over Kitchener Greyegreens in the first game of a Ontario Fastball League doubleheader Wednesday.

Playing at Burlington, Kitchener won the second game 2-1.

In the only other games, Bob Eccles threw a three hitter to lead the Warriors to an 8-0 victory over East division leader Hamilton Wasman-Scrapers in Woodstock in the first game of a doubleheader.

Hamilton pitcher Bill McNellis threw a three-hitter in the second game to carry his team to a 3-0 victory.

Tim Seifter and Hal Kemp led Burlington in the opening game with two hits each. Two Provisioner runs were scored on Kitchener errors.

Pitcher Terry Gallamore was charged with the loss.

In the second game, Kitchener picked up its two runs on fifth-inning singles by Jim Murdock, Russ Woloshyn and Barry Musselman.

Keith Wagler got the win and Bill Dwenna took the loss.

Ed Mudorf took the loss in Hamilton in the first game. He gave up 10 hits, struck out seven and walked one.

Woodstock opened the scoring in the second inning. Terry Lamb singled, then Dan Werby doubled in more Lamb home for what proved to be the winning run.

Werby made it to third on a outfield error, then stole home. The Warriors scored two more runs in that inning.

Woodstock scored one run in the third and fourth innings, added two more in the fifth and two in the sixth to round out the scoring.

Hamilton right fielder Ted Diruiter hit a home run in the ninth inning, knocking in first baseman Cookie Appleby who had singled, to account for the Hamilton scoring.

Play resumes today with Oshawa at Newmarket and Toronto at St. Catharines.

Brill Gets Gold

HELSINKI (CP-Reuter) — Debbie Brill gave Canada its lone gold medal of the day in a special international track and field meet of world class athletes Wednesday, but it was Poland's Irena Szewinska who provided the feature entertainment.

Miss Brill, of Haney, B.C., won the women's high jump with a leap of six feet and three-quarter inches, four inches clear of Mikiko Sone of Japan.

However, Miss Szewinska ran the fastest women's 400 metres in the world this year, posting a time of 51.97 seconds.

Mrs. Szewinska was pushed to the limit by Finland's European champion, Riitta Salin, timed in 52.08 and Yvonne Saunders of Guelph, Ont., timed in 52.7.

Britain Ian Stewart captured the 3,000 metres sprint in 13:27.53, nipping Kenyan Paul Mose by two metres with Toronto's Jerome Drayton a distant fifth in 13:34.02.

Francie Larrieu of the United States captured the women's 800 metres in 4:15.05 with Glenda Reiser of Ottawa taking fourth place (4:18.26) and Thelma Wright of Vancouver in sixth (4:21.06).

Dwight Stones of the U.S., world record holder in the high jump, captured his specialty with a jump of seven feet, 1¾ inches. He edged John Beers of Burnaby, B.C., (7-0¾) and Greg Joy of Vancouver, competing for the U.S., and Montreal's Claude Ferragne, both at 6-10¾.

Not Too Much to Talk About As CFL Squads Cut Rosters to 50

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There weren't any big names or raging veterans cut Wednesday when Canadian Football League teams trimmed their respective training camp rosters to 50 players.

Part of the reason may be that all nine teams were short on bold commodities when training camps began a week and a half ago.

Retirements, trades and the lure of big money from other leagues reduced the number of veterans coaches had to work with.

In all, 54 cuts were made Wednesday before the 4 p.m. local time deadline.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats made five cuts—all imports—and also announced its sending on loan Willie Pesther to Edmonton for future consideration.

At Montreal, the Alouettes cut two imports and placed defensive end Jake Zambotch on indefinite suspension for missing practices. The cells and suspension left the Als with 26 Americans and 24 Canadians in camp.

Ottawa put five players on waivers and returned three to Ottawa Sooners of the Canadian Football Conference to trim its roster to 48.

There were a few surprises at Aurora, Ont., where Toronto Argonauts are holding their camp.

Mike Legan, Toronto's only Canadian quarterback, is good after spending most of camp playing defensive back. Running back Ernie Carnegie, who would have been the leading ground attack with a twisted knee, was the only Argo veteran to go.

In the Western conference, last - minute Winnipeg Blue Bomber cuts were linebacker candidate Rob Etherington and defensive tackle George Asseff. Veterans cut earlier were running back Bob Cushman and defensive back Jeff Kolberg.

At Edmonton, the Eskimos cut down to 49 players with the cutting of Eddie Paul, a wide receiver from Southwestern State College; Brian Jones, a linebacker from the University of Alberta; and import Kirk Killion, a tight end from the University of Oklahoma.

The Lions cut six players from their lineup—three Canadians and three imports. Two of the Canadians cut from the squad are graduates of Simon Fraser University—defensive end Rob Harding and wide receiver Dave Kadubir. The other Canadian is Garry Adam, a defensive tackle from Alberta.

At Calgary, veteran wide receiver Bill Lide was among eight cuts the Stampeders made. There were four Canadians cut—defensive halfbacks Doug Senuik from Edmonton, Bryant Fraser from London Lords of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Dan Dilduck from Calgary, and veteran Dave Crabbe, a Canadian linebacker who trained at Kent State.

Saskatchewan cut two Canadians and two Americans—wide receiver Larry Giles of the University of Saskatchewan, defensive back Bob Wolonchuk of the University of Alberta, defensive tackle Kenny Thomas of the University of Tulsa and linebacker Tony Kerla from the Continental League.

The most prominent Saskatchewan cut was linebacker Steve Putnal from Georgia Tech, a late Detroit NFL cut last year. Putnal had weight problems at camp and disappointed the coaching staff. In all, Saskatchewan had to cut only eight players.

Toros' Houle Offered WHA Executive Position

TORONTO (CP) — Buck Houle, general manager of Toronto Toros, has been offered a position with the World Hockey Association with the duties that haven't been defined but make him answerable only to the WHA's chief executive officer.

Houle confirmed Wednesday he had been talking with Ben Hatskin of Winnipeg and expected to make his decision known by Aug. 1 "after I've taken a few days off to give it some thought".

"I don't know what kind of title they have in mind," Houle said.

"I'm still trying to find out what my duties would be. I imagine it will have to do with all areas of hockey."

Hatskin said the league needs "another hockey man in our head office and Houle has been a hockey man almost all his life."

Hatskin admitted the job Houle is expected to handle has not yet been defined but it would have to do with representing his interests in the league operations.

Hatskin continues to live in Winnipeg while the league is moving its headquarters to Toronto from Newport Beach, Calif.

Houle said he probably wouldn't consider the WHA offer had the league office been anywhere but Toronto.

Houle's hockey career began with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League where he was manager of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series and Victoria Maple Leafs of the Western Hockey League, winning a national title with the Marlboros and a league title at Victoria.

He joined Hockey Canada in 1969 as manager of Canada's national team until 1972 when he joined the WHA Ottawa Nationals, forerunners of the Toros.

ZANDVOORT — The Netherlands (AP) — James Hunt of Britain assumed the lead in a mad scramble as drivers pitted to shed rain tires, then powered his Hesketh to victory Sunday in the rain-delayed Dutch Grand Prix. The start of the race, marking the halfway point in the 15-race world championship series, was delayed by showers. Third was Ferrari team-mate Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland.

Other Canadians in the top 15 were Bruce Jensen of Toronto, eighth; Craig Hill of Mississauga, Ont., 12th, and Hugh Cree of Georgetown, Ont., 13th.

TAKES MICHIGAN OAKS

LIVONIA, Mich. (AP) — Sanders Farm's three-year-old filly star Monitrice waltzed to a 7½-length win Sunday in the $36,500 Michigan Oaks at Detroit Race Course. Pitted against five other three-year-old fillies in the Michigan-bred event, Monitrice chased Janesian through the first half of the 1 1-16th mile race, then made her move midway in the backstretch and caught the field in the turn. It was her third successive win at DRC and fourth in 11 starts this year.

IN-MEMORIAM

ZAVITZ — In loving memory of our dear grandfather and great grandfather, who left us June 26, 1974, one year ago today.
Sweet memories are treasures
Are a pleasure to recall
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
—Lovingly remembered by grandchildren Jim, Marlene and Ed and Marlene and family, Jackie, Archie and family.

ZAVITZ — In loving memory of our dear father, who died June 26, 1974, six months ago.
We had a father we were proud to own,
How much we miss him will never be known.
The heartaches in this world are many,
But to lose our father was greater than any.
Sadly missed, loved and remembered by daughter Leone and son-in-law Greg.

ZAVITZ — In loving memory of dad, grandpa and great grandpa, June 26, 1974.
God saw you getting tired,
So He did what He thought best.
He came and stood beside you,
And whispered come and rest.
You worked so long, so hard, so well,
Your work was done,
God said "Well done, we know it,
And only God knows why.
—Ever remembered, ever loved by daughter Gladys and family.

SPACE NEEDED

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A study has indicated that when someone says, "Don't crowd me," he means it. Dr. Leslie professor at Case Western Reserve University, has released his study showing that humans need a kind of "body buffer zone" or personal space and when violated, the reaction is flight—for more space.

Irritation Cause Of Tongue Spots

By G. C. Thesleson, MD

Dear Dr. Thesleson: What is the cause and cure of "geographic tongue"?

Also, I have another question. What produces the feeling of a little shock when someone touches the "TV knob or even, sometimes, when touching another person? —L.C.

The surface of the tongue consists of tiny structures called papillae. Normally, these structures form a rather uniformly smooth surface. When there is an enlargement of a group of the papillae, an irregular design can appear, and the tongue will have the appearance of a map in relief.

Any irritation can cause this — from alcohol, tobacco, hot or spicy foods, toothpaste, mouth gargles, or local inflammations. Deficiency of vitamin B can also be a factor. Removal of the causative factors, and sometimes use of vitamin B supplements, is the usual treatment.

As to your other question, the one about shock from your TV. This could be due to a short in the electrical system of your set, and this must be considered first. The phenomenon can also be caused by the static electricity you generate. This seems most prevalent in cold, dry weather. This might also explain the shock you get from other persons.

Dear Dr. Thesleson: I am 58-years-old and never had any allergies until this past year. Now my eye doctor says I have an allergy that is affecting my eyes. Is this possible?

I also had a bladder infection this past year. How can you tell if it is really cleared up? What is the best way of treating allergies that affect the eye? Mrs. M.D.

An eye irritation can be due to an allergy, a form of contact dermatitis, which is an inflammatory reaction to some material to which your skin is particularly sensitive.

A person may use the same soap or cosmetic material, including nail polish, for years without any obvious problem, then suddenly develop a sensitivity to it. In this, elimination of the causative agent is the only available treatment.

Incidentally, your bladder problem can also be allergy-based. In such cases the agent is often in a food. Usually, the bladder infection will be detectable in urine samples. When the urine tests show the infecting organism gone, you can assume it is to be cleared at the point of origin, which can be anywhere along the urinary tract.

Dear Dr. Thesleson: What is regional ileitis? What causes it and what is the treatment? I am on a low fat, low milk and low residue diet, but that doesn't seem to control it. Do they ever recommend surgery to remove the diseased bowel? —M.M.

This is an inflammation of unknown cause which affects the large or small intestine, also called Crohn's disease, sometimes also regional enteritis, depending upon what portion of the intestine is involved. In severe cases there may be a blockage, even an ulceration, of the lining of the bowel area affected. Fistula, an abnormal passage in the tissue, may also develop.

A common symptom is pain in the lower abdomen on the right side. Sometimes there is also around the umbilical area. Your diet is a conservative form of treatment. If it isn't successful, and if medication is not effective in removing the problem, then surgery may be recommended.

Ileitis is usually done when the thickening results in bowel obstruction.

Vietnamese Refugees Mostly Well Educated

OTTAWA (CP) — Of the 300-odd Vietnamese refugees who have come to Ottawa, most are well-educated and want to work, an impressed manpower and immigration official says.

"The first thing they tell us is thank God we are here in a safe environment," said manpower counsellor Art Hoppart.

"The first question they have is what are the chances for work?"

Wellbredated, part of the Saigon establishment before the fall of Saigon, about three out of them have arrived here penniless, with only the clothes on their backs.

Dr. Nguyen Hoa Chi, chairman of Canada's Vietnamese political science department, said 90 per cent of the family heads have a college education in English or French.

"These people will have no problem in becoming a part of Canadian society," he said.

Mr. Hoppart said the refugees are very friendly, handle people well and have well-mannered children.

"I only wish my kids were as well-behaved."

The refugees' first concern is to find a job, and kind of apartment they can live in apart-ment and save enough for their sakes.

"From our experience, it's obvious they did not come here to the welfare rolls," said Mr. Hoppart, dollar-a-year man in charge of the Vietnamese refugees.

"Those with no relatives went to a hotel and to the YMCA. The manpower department pays for their accommodation and meals. Most seemed embarrassed about having to accept government assistance.

"When one family saw another group leaving the hotel for the YMCA cafeteria, they delayed their own departure so they would not arrive in a large group.

"The refugees have not been choosy about jobs. A former destroyer captain and head of a naval academy took a job as a janitor on a local tourist boat. Jokingly, he called himself the commander of the Dow's Lake fleet.

"A former aviation engineer specializing in hydraulics, a telecommunications engineer and a former naval fleet commander have all taken jobs making submarine sandwiches.

"We took the jobs because we don't want to be on welfare," said Ho Van Ngoc, the engineer. His family of six lived on rice eating at the YMCA in groups of three, sharing a dinner dish and dividing the meals available to them.

Meanwhile, Ottawa, a citizen's group set up to help immigrants, assigned volunteers to help the Vietnamese find furniture and clothing.

Although the Canadian climate is appreciably colder than the hot humid weather they left behind in Vietnam, the refugees say they don't find it as bad as they expected. Many are worried about the winter, however.

When asked why they chose to come to Canada and not the United States most said it was to avoid racism.

"Many of us came to Canada because we thought people would be more friendly than in the United States. So far, it seems we were right," said former airforce pilot Ta Nhat Chi. 27.

The refugees are here under a special immigration minister's permit, good for a year. Then they will have to apply for landed-immigrant status.

Cow Fight

VICTORIA, B.C. (CP) Lloyd Bennet is trying to win the right to let his-cows graze on land that the British Columbia Forest Service does not want him to use. By Oswald and James Jacoby

Back in the '30s a certain soap was advertised as 99.44 per cent pure. The Colgateans applied that and said some bids were 99.44 per cent forcing.

About that time the best players, including young Oswald Jacoby, started to play the jump raise to three as an absolute force.

It took 30 years to get the experts to change their minds. Today almost all experts use limit raises. The raise from one to two shows support for partner and not much of a hand. The jump raise to game says, "As far as I am concerned we want to be in game." The jump from one to three says, "I want to be game unless your hand is a real horror."

South's hand is almost a minimum. Take away that jack of diamonds and many people would pass it. But with that jack of diamonds, South should bid the spade game after North's strong, but limit, jump raise.

The game contract is not one for South to be proud of, but with the club finesse working and trumps breaking 3-2 it makes easily.

Unholy Mess

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell said Wednesday the federal government has created an "unholy mess" through Monday's announcement of a 18-cent excise tax on gasoline.

He said to an interview there is tremendous confusion among the public and retailers about when prices should increase.

Rent Control Out

TORONTO (CP) — Housing Minister Donald Irvine replied Wednesday the City of Toronto's controversial rent-control bill, effectively ending the chances of government-imposed rent control in the near future.

But the minister in an interview would not rule out the possibility that the province might act on rent reviews "in some form" at a later date.

No Split

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Wednesday he still is thinking of getting out of politics, but he turned aside suggestions it results from a disagreement with government policy.

Mr. Macdonald said if he quits it will be for personal reasons. He wanted to spend more time with his wife and four children.

Request Rejected

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand rejected Wednesday an appearance by his department officials at a coroner's inquest into the deaths during shootings last month at a Brampton, Ont., high school.

A request by Chief Ontario Coroner H. B. Cotnam that an official appear to explain federal gun control plans had been refused, Mr. Allmand told Erik Baldwin (PC—Peace River) in the Commons.

Income Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The gross total income of farmers for farming operations in all provinces except Newfoundland during 1974 increased by 29.4 per cent from 1973, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

Total cash receipts in 1974 were estimated at $8.837 billion, up from $6.828 billion in 1973. The figures do not take into account the cost of production.

Court Martial

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Canadian Armed Forces have court-martialed four dental officers in recent months for refusing to perform their duties.

One senior officer is quoted in the newspaper as saying the men involved are those who received their education at public expense and owed it to the service only after their education was complete. These whose professional education is paid for by public money must agree to serve with the Canadian Forces for five years after obtaining a licence to practice.

eral Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson and although additional locations had not been spelled out, the Ontario minister predicted his share would be between $50 million and $60 million.

Lastman Picked

TORONTO (CP) — Mel Lastman, borough of North York mayor, who joined the Ontario Progressive Conservative party only 10 days ago, won the party's nomination for Armour-dale riding Wednesday.

The millionaire mayor, who will not have to resign his borough position unless elected in the next provincial election, said he has spoken to Premier Davis about the possibility of a cabinet post but said the premier would not make any commitments.

Cars on Tour

Some of the cars date as far back as 1911.

Sixteen cars from the Saint John area left Wednesday for Halifax.

Orders Unknown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee might never be able to determine where orders to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro originated, Chairman Frank Church said Wednesday.

"It may just be we'll be unable to find evidence that establishes the chain of command," Church, a Democrat from Idaho, said following five hours of closed-door testimony by a former Central Intelligence Agency officer allegedly involved in plots to kill Castro.

Diet Has Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill to prevent appeal courts from reversing jury decisions, as happened in the case of abortionist Henry Morgentaler, was introduced Wednesday in the Commons by former prime minister John Diefenbaker.

The proposed Criminal Code amendment virtually duplicates a bill introduced last week by Stuart Leggatt (NDP—West Westminster). Justice Minister Otto Lang has said he is "not disposed" to support that bill.

Houses Costly

TORONTO (CP) — The average price of a house will increase 15 per cent this year and mortgage financing likely will be costly, Adams Mingay, president of Canada Trust Co., said Wednesday.

Tighter Control Of Guns Advocated

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — The inquest into the Centennial high school shooting deaths ended Wednesday with recommendations for tighter firearm controls but without an answer to why a 16-year-old student became a killer.

The five-man coroner's jury deliberated for 4½ hours before issuing eight recommendations, seven of them dealing with gun control.

The Grade 11 student used a rifle slipped into the school in a guitar case during the late-morning shooting May 28 that unleashed five minutes of horror on the campus in near Toronto.

The jury's main recommendations were that the legal age for obtaining a hunting licence be raised to 18 from 16 and that anybody using a rifle or a shotgun should be required to obtain a licence.

The jury said the licence should be issued by police department upon receipt of documents stating the applicant's reason for desiring the licence, training course taken and a brief certificate of health.

The jury added that the application should be subject to police approval.

Other recommendations included:

—The legal age for a minor's rifle permit be raised to 16 from 14 and that the rifle only be used when the permit holder is accompanied by a person holding a valid licence.

—A licence be produced for the purchase of ammunition.

—The seller of weapons keep a record of the sale of all firearms and ammunition.

—All offences involving firearms be dealt with severely.

—All firearms currently in households be securely locked up.

PCs Win Two Manitoba Seats

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba Progressive Conservatives picked up legislature seats in two close by-elections Wednesday and knocked off Charles Huband, recently-elected Liberal leader, in the process.

New Democratic Party candidates finished third in both contests, held in the Winnipeg ridings of Crescentwood and Wolseley.

Conservative Warren Steen, a 34-year-old city councillor and life insurance underwriter, won in Crescentwood and turned back Mr. Huband's first bid for a seat in the house since his election as Liberal leader four months ago.

New Democrat Harvey Patterson, who won the seat in the 1973 general election only to lose it later in a court, finished ahead of Steen, votes behind Mr. Huband.

Old Supporter Greets Gandhi

Censored Report Says India Calm

The following dispatch is based on an official government briefing and on other information closed by censors after the proclamation of a state of emergency in India.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian government reported scattered public protests today against Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's crackdown on her political enemies but said "the country as a whole remained absolutely peaceful."

"There was no incident of any consequence anywhere," chief information officer A. R. Baji told an official briefing.

He reported protest marches of 100 to 500 persons in Bombay, several cities of Kerala state and in Mysore.

He said strikes were organized in three cities of Gujarat state, but there was only a "partial response." Strikes also were reported Thursday in Bombay and Haryana state north of New Delhi.

Baji said at a Thursday night briefing that police used tear gas against rioters stoning buses and throwing up road blocks in Ahmadabad, the capital of Gujarat 275 miles north of Bombay.

The government said a total of 676 persons were arrested in nine of India's 21 states after the proclamation of a state of emergency early Thursday.

The government's stated purpose was to head off a country-wide civil disobedience campaign against Mrs. Gandhi's refusal to resign following her conviction for illegal use of government officials in her 1971 campaign for Parliament.

A government spokesman said 90 persons were arrested in New Delhi and 430 in Madhya Pradesh, India's central state. He said they were being "very well looked after" and acknowledged that they included leaders of opposition parties.

He refused to give the names of those arrested, but other sources reported previously that they included former Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai, 75-year-old Jayaprakash Narayan, who for months has been leading a campaign against Mrs. Gandhi; and Atanka Mehta, the leader of the Congress party conservatives who broke with her in 1969.

However, the government did issue a statement denying reports circulating in New Delhi that two leading members of the cabinet, Foreign Minister Y. B. Chavan and Agriculture Minister Jagjivan Ram, had been placed under house arrest.

The trial court that found Mrs. Gandhi guilty of corrupt campaign practices barred her from holding elective office for six years.

Her opponents had announced this weekend against her refusal to resign after a Supreme Court justice on Tuesday granted only a partial stay of the sentence until the full court decides her appeal against her conviction.

Although Justice V. R. Krishna Iyer ruled that she could continue in the prime minister's office, he said she could not vote in Parliament and her foes contended this constituted a stigma which required her resignation.

No Candu Sales to Countries With Bomb-making Equipment

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau stopped short Thursday of saying Canada will refuse to sell Candu nuclear reactors to countries acquiring nuclear recycling equipment.

But he said in answer to questions in the Commons that if Argentina and South Korea acquire equipment "that can only be used" for a nuclear explosion then there will be no sale.

He was answering questions in the Commons from James Gillies (PC—Don Valley) about reports that France is seeking to sell the two countries recycling equipment. Both Argentina and South Korea contracted to buy Candu reactors.

Mr. Trudeau was questioned in the Commons as External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie were visiting South Korea. They intended to question Korean officials about various statements concerning nuclear weapons that have been recently reported.

Mr. Trudeau told Mr. Gillies that consultations are being held about the purchase of the recycling equipment. But later Michel Sharp, acting external affairs minister, told reporters he sees no reason why the South Korean sale should not proceed although he was calling in the Argentine ambassador for explanations because of persistent reports that his country is acquiring recycling equipment.

Assurance Is Given

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea has assured Canada it will honor its obligations under the non-proliferation treaty not to manufacture nuclear weapons with a reactor it hopes to purchase from Canada soon.

Two FBI Agents Slain by Indians

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — "It looked like an execution—they were riddled with bullets," Willian Jankhow, South Dakota attorney-general, said today after two Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) agents were shot to death on the Pine Ridge Indian reserve.

Authorities said the agents were dragged out of their cars and killed Thursday when they tried to serve warrants on persons holed up in a house.

An Indian in the house was reported killed in an exchange of gunfire.

Federal agents pursued occupants of the house through hills of the reserve Thursday night but early today the FBI agent in charge of the operation said that as far as he knew the gunfire had stopped.

FBI special agent Joseph Trimbach said his men were continuing to patrol the reserve roads but no arrests had been made.

The house where agents Jack Coler and Ronald Williams were killed is about five miles southeast of the reserve community of Oglala, not far from the village of Wounded Knee — which militant Indians occupied for 71 days in 1973.

Coler, 28, worked out of the Denver office of the FBI and was on special assignment to the reserve. Williams, also 28, worked out of the FBI office in Rapid City, S.D.

The dead Indian was Joe Robert, about 30, of Oglala, said a spokesman for the Wounded Knee Legal Offense Defence Committee in Rapid City. The spokesman said there had been some confusion about who was killed, that persons who saw the body said the victim was Robert.

Authorities have refused to say anything about the man's identity.

At the state capital in Pierre, Gov. Richard Kneip's office issued a statement saying he had been told the two FBI men were lured into an ambush.

The governor said the agents were "dragged out of their car and shot 15 to 20 times."

Chartrand Loses Appeal Against Murder Conviction

OTTAWA (CP) — An appeal by Rene Chartrand of Montreal against his conviction of murdering a police officer was dismissed Thursday by the Supreme Court of Canada.

Chartrand has been sentenced to be hanged for the death of policeman Gabriel Labelle during an October, 1971, bank holdup at Ste. Therese, Que.

No date has been set for the hanging. Nor will the cabinet consider commutation for Chartrand for several months since the whole question of capital punishment now is under cabinet consideration.

Toronto Island Airport Seen Essential to Quinte Centres

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The leading executives of the central Quinte counties have agreed on a move hinged to commuter air service with major urban centres.

The group has decided that Toronto Island Airport should be retained as an air service facility and it notified it to an Ontario transportation resource, Mr. Robin Jeffrey at a Thursday night.

As such, the island base off Toronto harbor is "absolutely essential" to a smaller community as a future commuter air link with Toronto.

The mayor said the group — which includes the, mayor of Trenton and wardens of Hastings and Prince Edward counties and which meets regularly to discuss mutual issues — endorsed a resolution calling for retention of the airport. Copies of similar motions will later be presented to the councils of each of the municipalities represented.

The Thursday night session followed a flight earlier in the day designed to give community representatives from both counties a chance to weigh the potential of intercity air transportation.

Organized by Jack Ellis, MP Hastings, the group took part in an on-the-spot experience of the possibilities of STOL — short-takeoff-landing aircraft, which have no need of large airport facilities far removed from city centres.

Mr. Ellis had arranged a flight with De Havilland Aircraft — a leading manufacturer of STOL planes — from Trenton to Toronto.

The objective, said Mr. Ellis, was to demonstrate to Quinte local government representatives the possibilities of STOL air service linking their smaller communities to major urban centres like Toronto or Montreal.

At present there are no regular, commuter air services linking the Quinte district with major urban centres, and STOL is one answer to rapid travel.

The trip from CFB Trenton aboard an 18-seat De Havilland Twin Otter took 41 minutes to Toronto Island Airport — only a few minutes' ferry ride from Toronto's downtown.

The group then was flown to De Havilland's production facility at nearby Downsview — where the Dash-7, a 50-seater STOL plane with Otter capabilities, still is being flight-tested.

There they were told by Gil Dunkin, market division executive, that decentralization of industry and urban living has seen a growing need for such air services.

Since last July a STOL Otter has been shuttling daily between central Montreal and Ottawa.

But there now were "many pressures" to get rid of Toronto Island Airport.

The community spokesmen were presented with a request that, after their first-hand experience with inter-urban air service to Toronto, they should petition senior governments to keep the island airport open.

Returning to Belleville, this is what they decided to do, said Mayor Jeffrey. The move in no way was linked with De Havilland, but with the principle of providing commuter air service for smaller centres.

"De Havilland wasn't even mentioned," she said.

The community Quinte communities with metropolises is "absolutely essential some time in the future . . . our community needs it," said the mayor.

Neither Toronto International Airport nor the new, planned Pickering airport were alternatives for inter-city commuters, she said.

"There is no alternative to the Island. Certainly the provincial government must look at this . . . it is an essential link with Toronto for our communities," she said.

Mayor Robert Patrick, Trenton said he thought such a project "could be the most fantastic service to the people of the area."

Asked how the federal government might react to any suggestion that its local airport facilities be used by a regular private service, he said such a proposal previously "was favorably looked on".

"I can't think that much has changed," said Mr. Ellis.

'Twas All in the Air

This chat is all about issues that are up-in the air — and followed a flight. Jack Ellis, MP Hastings, (left), organized municipal group out of CFB Trenton Thursday to view potential of inter-city air services in Ontario. There De Havilland Aircraft's Gil Dunkin (centre) explained techniques of DASH 7 — big commuter plane still being flight-tested — to Clifford Warden (right) Prince Edward County warden and Trenton's Mayor, Robert Patrick.

Foundation Suggested

PICTON — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority (PERCA) will investigate establishment of a foundation to provide funds for conservation projects that cannot be achieved in the next few years from the regular budget.

Secretary of the Cataraqui Foundation in Kingston, Anne Hutchison discussed the idea at this week with PERCA members and stressed the need for definition of objectives before establishment of the foundation.

The foundation could accept donations toward objectives from individuals, groups or companies. Special donations for purposes specified by the donor also could be accepted.

If the PERCA decides to establish a foundation Ms. Hutchison suggested 10 directors should be named. These persons should be willing to solicit donations for the fund and would necessarily be associated with the PERCA.

When a board of directors is established then the foundation must submit an application to the department of financial and commercial affairs to form a company without share capital.

With approval of this application the foundation becomes an incorporated company and further applications must be made to the department of revenue to obtain income and estate tax relief on donations.

Taylor Stresses Authority Role in Today's Society

KIRK'S COVE — The public must be educated in conservation and its philosophy and avoid the pitfall of regarding the conservationist as "an eco-freak" says James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox.

Mr. Taylor made the observation during a recent address to a meeting of the Conservation Authorities of Ontario held here.

In his remarks, he traced the history and evolution of the authorities, describing it as "a long lesson on the educational process.

Mr. Taylor said progress was slow in the early 1930s and 40s but the message took hold in 1944 with the establishment of a conservation branch of the provincial government.

In 1946 the Conservation Authorities Act was passed but there was still little community involvement in conservation, he said.

"It took something catastrophic — Hurricane Hazel — in 1954 to focus public attention on the need to do something," observed the MPP.

He said it was not until 1971 that a restructuring of provincial government occurred. Ministries were re-organized and policy fields established to co-ordinate the activities of the individual ministries.

"While it is relatively simple to set up a structure, it is much more difficult to achieve public understanding and participation," commented Mr. Taylor.

"The big battle today is for men's minds. It is necessary to understand the varying social fabric throughout the province — throughout the country — throughout the world."

Mr. Taylor suggested the easiest approach to conservation education may be field trips for elementary school students to be added to the curriculum. It is necessary to start with "the ordinary citizen who farms, carries a lunch bucket and pays the freight."

The MPP observed it is difficult to discuss open spaces and land use planning with the farmer.

"Try and get our ranking urban population to pause and seriously consider the need for watershed management."

He added it is only when the individual is personally and forcefully affected that he grows concerned.

"Everybody's problem is nobody's problem and our population is fast becoming conditioned to the misfortune and misery of others."

To promote public education in conservation, Mr. Taylor suggested regular and better communication between conservation authorities and municipal councils.

Boards of education should be "educated" to the concept and need of conservation and professional teachers should be taught the meaning of conservation to permit them to convey the concept to their pupils.

"Every segment of society, every union, club, organization or agency should be addressed and awakened to the conservation cause," stressed Mr. Taylor.

Picketers Barred

OTTAWA (CP) — The owner of a shopping centre has the right to bar persons wishing to picket a store in his centre, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled Thursday in a 4-to-3 decision. It upheld four convictions of trespass against Mrs. Sophie Caswell of Winnipeg, who was charged in connection with a picket line at a Dominion Store in a shopping centre. Evidence was that a representative of the owner asked Mrs. Caswell and 11 others to leave the centre's grounds. When they refused, charges of trespass were laid. Mr. Justice Robert Dickson, writing the majority reasons, followed an earlier decision.

Bands, Races and Art July 1 As Trenton Marks Canada Day

By AL EADAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Emphasis during Canada Day activities at Centennial Park July 1 will be geared to having the most fun for the least money, says one of the prime co-ordinators of the event.

Jerry Goldberg said Thursday the theme of the day's events is clear: It's an old-fashioned, low-cost deal for the whole family.

"They can spend the whole day down there without spending a penny," he said.

Activities, from kite-flying to inner tube racing in the Trent River, are geared for participation by all ages.

Canada Day '75, said Mr. Goldberg, will be the largest since the one-day festivities began in Trenton in 1967. The celebrations were small, with only the Trenton Citizens Band and the fire department involved. There was a concert and a fireworks display.

Over the years, said Mr. Goldberg, more and more people became involved. Now unofficially the Trenton Rotary Club sponsorship, organization of Canada Day has been placed under a committee for the first time.

Involvement in the day ranges from service clubs, to town businesses and associations. The Middleton Park community and the armed forces have also been more heavily involved this year than in previous years, both in terms of money and participation.

One of the main attractions this year will be the Second Canadian International Championship Inner Tube Race. Sponsored by the CFB Trenton Flying Frogmen Club, the race has been lengthened this year to a mile along the Trent River's east bank.

The event will be twinned with other sporting events during the day.

The arts also have a prominent place in activities this year. The CFB Trenton women's auxiliary will stage an art show while numerous bands and musical singing groups will be presented on a stage, among them CFB Trenton's Sing Out and "Here Comes the Harmony" folk ensemble.

For animal lovers, the Northumberland Purebred Dog Training Association will stage a dog show.

One of the feature performers will be the Toronto-based Canadian National Greek Folk Ensemble.

Mr. Goldberg said that last year about 15,000 attended the festivities. This year, he is "looking for a lot more than that."

Pre-Canada Day activities most co-ordinated through the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, should have an effect on attendance, he said. Trenton merchants have been publicizing the day through special sales that have raised the consciousness of Trenton citizens to Canada Day.

Performances by Canadian entertainers Gordie Tapp and Stampeders are also scheduled.

Ham Operators Plan 24-hour Vigil to Perfect Skills

By CASH MAHAFFEY
Staff Reporter

About 20 members of the 60-strong Quinte Amateur Radio Club are expected to set up shop by 2 p.m. Saturday to begin a 24-hour vigil designed to perfect operating skills that could become vital when normal channels of communication are disrupted.

Their site will be at Mountain View, and visitors are welcome Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning.

The event is the 42nd annual field day of the American Radio Relay League, a group of U.S. and Canadian ham amateurs with headquarters in Newington, Conn. The 60-member Quinte club is concentrated in the Belleville — Trenton area, with members as far away as Ottawa and Peterborough. Club headquarters is at Loyalist College.

More than 12,000 hams are expected to take part in this year's field day.

Field day rules have changed over the years to keep up with the times. This year's rules have provided an incentive of bonus points for stations that conserve natural resources by using non-fuel-burning generators. Quinte club secretary Fred Levere, of Trenton, said club officers hope to have a bicycle-powered generator in operation. Also on hand will be a member-built propane-powered generator that produces no fumes and has operated for 36 straight hours.

Area hams will spread their tents and set up equipment at the Mountain View site Saturday morning.

To use the club in simulated emergency operation, drive to the rock cut at Mountain View on Highway 14. At the top of the hill on the east is a laneway and a small white building inside the gate and a sign reading QARC Field Day, at the side of the road.

United Nations is 30 Years Old, Overweight, and Potentially Suicidal

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
UNITED NATIONS (AP) The UN charter is 30 years old Thursday and its anniversary finds the membership swollen to thrice its original number, trying with a potential self-destruct mechanism.

Many residents of the glass house on New York's East River have been throwing stones — actively, say some Westerners. Conceivably such activities might start the organization on the sort of path to oblivion taken by the 1920s vehicle the League of Nations.

A charter was signed June 26, 1945, by 51 countries still reeling from the Second World War. Among the stated purposes were these: to shield successive generations from war; to reaffirm faith in freedom, human rights and the dignity of persons; to promote social progress. Article VI provided that a member nation persistently violating the charter should be expelled.

Today, it is UN burning with 138 members, many of them micro-states with small population, remains far short of the ideals enunciated in the charter, and indeed, Articles VI were enforced, considerably more than half the membership would have to be tossed out.

The UN was what it was meant to be any more than was the League of Nations, perhaps because dreams seldom come true. The charter was that, but much of humanity talking in terms of brotherhood after the big war long ago faded.

Three perilous decades have passed without another world war. The balance of nuclear terror may have played the key role in that. Still, the UN has demonstrated it is eminently useful. Even now, the physical presence of UN soldiers as buffers in the Middle East is a measure of assurance against sudden and immense world crisis.

But there is much on the dark side, including the fact that the UN's division into blocs, blocs within blocs and cross-lapping blocs. A majority, about 80 countries, likes to consider itself "non-aligned" with either the Soviet or the Western camp, and thus a Third World. In reality, there are five or six worlds, often at a variety of cross purposes. There are an African group of 41 countries, an Arab bloc of 20, an Asian bloc, a Latin bloc, a Soviet bloc and a Western bloc.

Countries with 10 per cent of the world's population that produce five per cent of its goods have a voting majority in the General Assembly. The Third World can and does push through the assembly any measure it wants to make a crack in the last session when it suspended South Africa.

The United States, as the richest and most powerful member, has become the prime target of this clamorous majority.

The General Assembly's 29th session that ended in December was dominated by a Third World truculence encouraged by Communists. It evoked angry U.S. reaction—Ambassador John Scali hotly denounced the truculence as "the tyranny of the majority."

Critics find the world organization called in name only; clumsy, unwieldy and inflexible in a time of swift change; capable at best of negative stop-gap measures.

But the UN is not a legislature and can be only as effective as its members permit. At each session, the assembly adopts many scores of resolutions, some of them all but meaningless and voted in response to bloc pressures. Each session the assembly hears millions of words of oratory. But it lacks power.

What power there is rests with the Security Council, nominally of 11 members, now of 15. But its five "permanent" members each has a veto that can frustrate any measure that fails to please. Of the 134 vetoes in 30 years, the Soviets cast 116.

Still, over the years the UN contributed its bit to hopes for the future—or to hopes that there will be a future. Its contribution was the simple fact that it is there.

The UN set up an atomic energy agency and helped develop concepts such as limits on testing and non-proliferation of nuclear weapons. It participated in a series of nasty crises in the Middle East, Cyprus and the Congo. It provided a framework for international co-operation in fields of culture, technology, trade, health, food, child and refugee assistance and related matters. It provided a forum for investigation of world environmental problems and its Stockholm conference of 1972 is credited with impetus for "regulating" co-operative efforts on the road.

But on major issues, matters such as disarmament and the perwapons, spheres of influence and war and peace, the UN is bypassed by the two superpowers who, in the long run, have the "only really decisive voices.

The Myth of Restraint

Where are the examples of Government restraint in spending which Mr. Turner in his budget presentation is hoping will win public approval and inspire a similar effort on their part?

Of course the key words are "government plans for restraint," which means a lot of good taxpayer money has already gone after bad in Ottawa's mad pursuit of winning the most dubious of friends and influencing no one.

All those stories of Prime Minister Trudeau's leftist leanings of the past, long before he reached his present political eminence, seem to be coming home to roost. How are he and his cabinet direction of Canadian financial aid — for example to countries under Communist control?

External Affairs Minister MacEachen told the Commons recently that Canada is increasing aid to South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia by $10 million to $18.75 million.

Consider Cambodia . . . in other words we are sending aid to a country reported to have been reduced to a state of chaos and mass starvation by its new Communist overlords. The London Daily Telegraph's Bruce Loudon says tens of thousands are believed dead in the wake of efforts to establish "a peasants revolution." It's logical too, given the Communists' emptying of the capital city of Phnom Penh, just sending everyone packing.

Ottawa is also in a hurry to establish trade relations with Hanoi, as witness a recent report from the publication, Canada Commerce. Among possible Canadian exports, newsprint, to come back no doubt in the form of some Communist sheet of the kind sent to this office by a reader some time ago.

Where else has the taxpayer's money been going? To improving the lot of our pensioners? Or providing decent housing for Indians? Or improving living conditions for Canadians generally?

Of course not. But Ottawa has no difficulty in allocating $40 million, as columnist John Harbron has pointed out, to help design a huge fishery complex in Communist Cuba.

Nothing of course for our own struggling fishery industry which watches helplessly as the Soviet fleets "sweep the seas clean," as Harbron points out.

The Canadian taxpayer deserves some sort of explanation of all this misplaced benevolence. Better still, Ottawa should take off those red-colored spectacles and get its priorities straight. Not to mention its politics.

Small Pickings for Ontario

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

Ontario's job now if we presume as we have all along that premier Davis wanted to make a federal confrontation an issue, is just where he is going to pine the worms down on the ground, and probably lost a little less.

In advance the thinking had been that the biggest advantage could have been a lot of politicians of the budget politically cal unknowns.

Now it seems as though there is not much a lot of them and a lot of thought has been given as to where there has been pragmatics and philosophy.

Ontario's job now if we presume as we have all along that premier Davis wanted to make a federal confrontation an issue, is just where he is going to pine the worms down on the ground.

John Turner's Future

If Prime Minister Trudeau ever considered John Turner as a potential inside threat to his leadership, or one who might balk at the more extravagant and questionable flights of Government fiscal policy, he may be breathing more easily now.

The office of finance minister traditionally has not been one that curries favors with the public; indeed it has been something of a graveyard of lost hopes and frustrated ambitions.

What better way to blur somewhat the "Mr. Clean" image Mr. Turner for so long has enjoyed.

Certainly the minister has won few friends in his latest excursion into the disposal of the public purse.

For Mr. Turner it could be close to the end of the road politically, or at best, a shift to some other portfolio — but no nearer to the office of Prime Minister with which he has been linked as a possible successor to Mr. Trudeau.

School's Out

Well, school's out again. There have been gifts to teachers and report cards, and we know of at least one bus driver who has candy for the kindergarten and assorted youngsters and he makes a stop at a corner store for the high school students for goodies for them too. And each year no doubt it gets costlier. Still, there's a school bus driver out there who adds a touch of thoughtfulness and kindness to the end of a school year.

Viewpoints

Brantford Expositor

A massive switch to vegetarianism in Quebec would come as no surprise after the nauseating disclosures at the organized crime inquiry about extensive sales of uninspected meat, part of it from the carcasses of diseased animals.

There are many perspectives in which our land can be viewed. Internationally one can view its multinational perspectives—particularly its influence on trade.

Internally we all look at our native economy; how it is going to affect Alberta as against Nova Scotia.

However as "Ontarians" it would seem there is only one prime judgment—how does it affect the province and in turn how does the country effect the province.

Every politically interested Ontarian was watching the budget for in it could have been many mysterious issues of our next provincial election.

It has been assumed that Premier Davis would like to have Prime Minister Trudeau give him some fighting material. In this however, we see a fighting saw-off.

For Mr. Trudeau (or rather Mr. Turner) gas and oil price increases are on the ball, but at the same time substantial contributions to housing funds and other spending institutions effect this.

And the balance of the budget was pro and con, give and take, win win win loss and nobody comes up with the big stakes.

A quick analysis of the budget fact is that Ontario gained little relationship to the continuing crises in Africa.

Rather, we read that Kenya's aged leader Jomo Kenyatta has been serving as mediator between the warring Angolan liberation groups in a last attempt to determine who will give black rule to Angola.

Next year Uganda and Gen. Amin will be hosts to the annual meeting of the Organization of African Union. If that happens, the results could be even more disastrous for Africa and the credibility of that continent's many strongman regimes.

It is up to competent, safe and responsible African leads of state like Nigeria's Gowon, Tanzania's Nyrere and Kenya's Kenyatta to find some way to boycott Gen. Amin, unless he permits Prof. Hills to live and release him forthwith.

Gen. James Wolfe landed a British army force in Quebec 216 years ago—in 1759—and blocked the St. Lawrence to French ships. The attack on Canada followed several French victories over the English in Ohio and upper New York and was the first and decisive English success in the Americas. After a siege of 75 days, the 33-year-old Wolfe led his troops up a cliff behind the Plains of Abraham where they defeated Montcalm's garrison and captured the city.

1899—Central London Electric Railway opened.

1963—President Kennedy appointed Henry Cabot Lodge ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Pressure Groups Silent as Amin Pursues His Mad Course

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

In a world filled with unpredictable, brutal and brutal leaders, Uganda's Gen. Idi Amin has to be placed near the top of the list.

His rule in Uganda has been revealed as bloodier than any East African specialists had expected. And when he is gone, his all tyrants must, the record of his special kind of African dictatorship surely will be revealed.

In the meantime he bargains for high stakes with his life, holding the life of a hapless British intellectual who has done no more than any other honest observer would and attacked Gen. Amin's brutalities.

In fact he called him merely a "village tyrant" which is a mild epithet compared to some of the others tossed at him.

But there is another reprehensible element in the entire Amin episode, relating not only to the fate of Prof. Denis Hills, but to the record of many black African leaders in power.

The world's conscience is not raised against them by the pressure groups of the free world as it would be, say, if Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith announced he would execute Bishop Mazurewa, one of his chief critics.

That would be an act of barbarism, but not so far than what Gen. Amin has announced he will do to Prof. Hills. A decision to execute a matter under what circumstances.

Prime Minister Ian Smith does hang blacks, those accused of murder in attacks on white communities in that country and we always hear a good deal about them, though they are unknown men.

But the equal time which protest groups should be giving to Gen. Amin's excesses as much as to Premier Ian Smith's wont be shared.

Pressure groups to stop "racial supremacy" in Africa are just that, organized for their narrow cause by the pressure group of the world as it would be, say, if world campaigns to get the Portuguese out of their African colonies. Well, they are going and in their going, the colonies are in chaos. In Angola, a rich and large entity in its own right, three former liberation groups now fight each other for the take over of power later this year.

In Portugal itself a socialist majority, freely elected must struggle with a Communist-inclined junior officers movement to determine who will rule in that country.

In the meantime the Portuguese economy always fragile, it is in ruins. Productivity has fallen off to almost zero point. There are serious flights of capital. Consumer services are a shambles.

But any a word from the pressure groups who have moved on to other causes of their own choosing, hearing little relationship to the continuing crises in Africa.

Rather, we read that Kenya's aged leader Jomo Kenyatta has been serving as mediator between the warring Angolan liberation groups in a last attempt to determine who will give black rule to Angola.

Next year Uganda and Gen. Amin will be hosts to the annual meeting of the Organization of African Union. If that happens, the results could be even more disastrous for Africa and the credibility of that continent's many strongman regimes.

It is up to competent, safe and responsible African leads of state like Nigeria's Gowon, Tanzania's Nyrere and Kenya's Kenyatta to find some way to boycott Gen. Amin, unless he permits Prof. Hills to live and release him forthwith.

LETTERS

Teachers' Salary Issue

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In response to the letter from "a Hastings Teacher" on the topic of ratification which appeared in the Intelligencer on Friday, June 20, 1975, I, John Curtis — vice chairman of the Hastings County Economic Policy Committee for B.C.I. ASC, wish to make the following reply.

Firstly, the "magnificent 40" were supposedly presented a fresh breath of professionalism to the meeting in Madoc on June 12, instead of expected, the meeting with the stench of greed. They seemed to me a rather misinformed lot who came to that meeting given some statistics which in fact were pure fantasy. In reference to the "more than 95 per cent of Hastings teachers who wanted a COLA clause in two surveys conducted". I would like to point out that only one survey was conducted (in November) by the EPC and this because of requests for briefs from teachers outlining their wishes was not the actual lack of response. From the survey which I conducted in my ASC 68.75 per cent of teachers who responded to the questionnaire wanted a COLA clause in their next contract and 93.9 per cent of those teachers wanted payment dates to be set in December and March. Our contract provides for an additional $400 to the grid on each teacher's salary starting in January. This represents an increase in actual salary of $240 for each teacher from January to June. Does this not more than meet the needs of the teachers I surveyed? I was a member of a sub-committee of EPC which investigated COLA clauses. It was our recommendation that in Hastings no COLA clause at this time, because, of the sliding clauses (COLA) in other boards bargaining the previous many had collings on them of between $200 and $400 in any given year. Our agreement now provides for an additional $240 in this contract and $400 over a calendar year. That, in my opinion, is as good as any COLA clause we looked at. It was our feeling at the time, that being tied to the index of living would hinder future negotiations.

As for the "Hastings Teacher's" gripes about not having a signing bonus of $1000 in our contract, this is the first mention I have ever heard of such an item in Hastings county. Let me point out that it was not one in any questionaires from teachers in my ASC (and which still have) to my knowing negotiations was any mention ever made of a signing bonus. Besides what good would a signing bonus be to this person who is doing all the complaining? He or she has already got a contract, unfortunate as it may seem! I do not believe this person to be altruistic in nature, but greedy.

As for Q.E.C.O program I not being in our contract, it has not even as yet been approved in the province so how could it be in our negotiators, negotiate something that doesn't even exist yet?

Further to the letter, we as a committee agreed that a Task Force to look into working conditions in Hastings county would be in the best interests of teachers and would be in a position to take on this added responsibility and give it the attention and consideration it needed. So a Task Force to look into working conditions was negotiated into our new contract.

I believe the contract we negotiated for elementary teachers in Hastings county is a good one. There was an increase in most areas of fringe benefits besides a first! for Hastings in our Retirement Gratuity Plan. There is not one teacher in Hastings who will receive less than a $3000 increase in salary. In fact the average increase for teachers is more than $3,000 and some increases are as high as $4,300. Some people, I guess, are never satisfied.

PC Policy is Criticized

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In the last 50 years the Canadian public have elected to power two Tory governments for only 13. Perhaps the obvious background of the public may have to offer are a big conscriptive factor.

The problems of the 20th century requires centre methods.

As it is, they seem bent on pursuing regressive policies, that if accepted, would turn the country back to the 19th century. Perhaps they have nostalgia for this period in history as it was there that their party made its mark. Members of Canada more often.

Typical of this preoccupation with things regressive is John Reynolds and Otto Jelinek. These two typify the Tory outlook. They want the re-introduction of hanging. This, they suggest will prevent or eradicate the violence of murder Publicity.

Reynolds appears to spend his parliamentary day collecting signatures while Jelinek polls his constituents with pro hanging propaganda.

As return, I propose a work ethic, in a society that has, daily less work to offer. Invoke it the motivation for maximization of profit, and condemnation for labor; push for a fair share of the pie, are all tied in with the Tory Liberal philosophy that dominates their thinking.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY.

Peter Trueman, Global Television Network newscaster, urged graduates at Bayside Secondary School's convocation this week that whether they go to university or into the work force, "the learning process has just begun. If it does end, you're dead . . . either dead in the sense that you've six-feet under or dead from the neck up." Mr. Trueman, whose speech included insights into his 20-year career in journalism and a personal bout with alcohol, received a standing ovation from the crowd of about 1,000 people

Air Transport Command Band In Changing of Guard Ceremony

From The Ottawa Bureau Of The Intelligencer

OTTAWA — Hundreds of visitors in the nation's capital line up on Parliament Hill daily to view the changing of the guard ceremony which began again this week for the 18th consecutive year.

The colorful ceremony is a special attraction this year to Quinte-area residents who visit Ottawa between July 13 and Aug. 2. Those are the dates when the Air Transport Command band will provide musical support for the ceremony which includes the traditional inspection review and placement of the old guard with the new guard.

Weather permitting the seven-day-a-week program begins at 10 a.m. and runs for 30 minutes with 75 officers and men on parade.

The guard actually carries out its sentry duties more than one mile away at Government House, the Governor General's official residence where sentries are posted from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Most of the guardsmen are university students. They are enrolled in the Governor General's Foot Guards of Ottawa and the Canadian Grenadier Guards of Montreal. Each unit provides 100 militiamen for the ceremony.

These bands will support the guardsmen this year, starting with the Royal Canadian Artillery Band of Montreal from June 23 to July 13, and closing with the Central Band of the Canadian Forces in Ottawa from August 3 to Labor Day.

Mother Remembers Midwife

DELORO — The story of a 98-year-old resident of Centre Hastings Nursing Home here in Thursday's Intelligencer who delivered 93 babies as a midwife in St. Ola, Ont. brought back memories for a Belleville resident.

Phyllis Phillips of 39 Charlotte St. said Thursday it was 39 years ago on March 3 that Ida Ham, who has resided at the nursing home for the last seven years, delivered her daughter, Edith, while the Phillips family lived in St. Ola.

And in addition, it was Mrs. Ham's mother who delivered the Phillips' second child, Mrs. Phillips noted.

She said she and her daughter visited Mrs. Ham last autumn — "she remembered delivering her" — and they plan another visit this fall following their summer holidays.

Work Rewarded

At this year's convocation exercised at Albert College, the Howard Award, for the finest representative lady student, was presented to Susan Hisey (left) by teacher Miss Finney. Miss Hisey was one of a class of 26 graduates.

Area Officials Reject Formation Of New Conservation Authority

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Reporter

EGANVILLE — Municipal representatives from three counties and 52 municipalities this week rejected a proposal for the establishment of a Madawaska-Bonnechere Conservation Authority for this part of eastern Ontario.

The proposed authority, which would have had extensive powers over the lands served by the Madawaska and Bonnechere Rivers was defeated in a vote of 20 to 12.

The authority was originally proposed in May, 1974. However, it was deferred until this year, "in order to give the municipalities time for further consideration of the project."

David Murray, conservation officer for eastern Ontario, said the original request for the project came from "the townships of Edmonton, McNab, Griffith, Matawachan, Bromley, Horton, Broughton and the village of Eganville."

All the requests came from the Renfrew county area.

The areas of Hastings County which would have been affected by the proposed plan would have been the nine northern townships and the village of Bancroft.

A Child In Shining Armour

If children wore shining armor they might have greater protection in today's death-dealing traffic.

But, the only armor we have in which to clothe our children today are the rules of traffic safety that we teach in the home and at school.

Parents must assume the prime responsibility for training their children. A sound traffic safety habit is as vital to a child's well-being as the care and control of the child during his most formative years.

The major contribution of parents is example. It is of little value to tell a child that he must obey a red light with junior in tow, and then deliberately defy a red light with junior in tow.

The major contribution of parents is example. It is of little value to tell a child that he must obey a red light with junior in tow, and then deliberately defy a red light with junior in tow.

A study of child traffic accidents over several years by the Ontario Safety League showed that the majority of these accidents were caused by six specific hazards, and from these stem the basic pedestrian rules that children should follow:

1. Go with the green, not in between.
2. Look both ways before you cross the street and walk (don't run) when you leave the curb.
3. Keep out from between parked cars.
4. Obey traffic signs and signals. (Small children must ride their wagons, bikes and scooters on the sidewalk.)
5. Play your games in a safe place away from the street.
6. Where there are no sidewalks walk on the left facing traffic.
7. Wear or carry something bright at night.

To those who have never spilled blood on the roads, it comes as a deadly shock to find that tragedy strikes without warning. Sometimes there is practically no chance to avoid disaster, a second chance never remains.

Thousands of children are out of school, so watch for them playing near the street and slow down so that these children can live.

The June 7 wedding of Susan Patricia Brinkert and Wayne John Kerik took place in Christ Church, performed by Rev. John Utiley.

The bride is the daughter of Lorne Brinkert and Doreen Brinkert and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kerik.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a peau de soie gown with short puffed sleeves, and chantilly lace-trimmed V-neck and midriff. The three-layer cathedral veil was caught by a headpiece of matching lace and seed pearls. The bride, wearing her grandmother's diamond engagement ring, carried three red roses on a lace-covered Bible.

Maid of honor Janet Lynn Batchelor wore a pale yellow lace-trimmed gown of sheer organza over taffeta, featuring a wedding band collar, short puffed sleeves and tie-backs.

The bride's sisters Valerie Ann and Janet Lynn were her bridesmaids, in identical gowns of printed sheer over taffeta featuring a gathered bodice, V-neck and short sleeves.

Brian Howe of Toronto was the groom's best man and the ushers were the groom's brother Gerald Kerik and the bride's brother John D. Brinkert.

After a dinner and dance the newly-married couple travelled to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. They now live in Belleville

More Women Vets in West

SASKATOON (CP) — More women are going into veterinary medicine at University of Saskatchewan, which has the only veterinary school in Western Canada.

Dr. Ray Butler, director of continuing education at the school, reports that one of four students is a woman. In 1970, only one in 19 was female.

"It had been slowly growing over the years, but applications from women have levelled off now at about 25 per cent. I expect about 25 per lent of admissions of the school next year will be women too."

Dr. Butler said women in the total enrolment of 300 students are as competent as men both academically and clinically.

St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church was the setting for the May 31 wedding of Patricia Mary Tracey and Frederick John Putnam in marriage.

JAMES W. G. BURR received his Master of Arts Degree in Political Economics from the University of Toronto on June 12. He previously received a Bachelor of Arts Degree summa cum laude from McMaster University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Burr of Foster Avenue.

GARRY GEORGE GARNET GREATIX graduated with a degree of B.Sc. (engineering) at the Convocation. JAMES W. G. BURR receivsity recently. Garry, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Greatrix is a former student of BCI and has accepted a position in Hamilton.

SHEILA MATILDA FOSTER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foster, RR 1, Hillier, graduated from Trent University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology at the spring convocation June 6. In September she will attend Allhouse College of Education, University of Western Ontario.

CONSECON UCW

At the Kingerly Hall on June 10 the United Church Women of Consecon held a tea to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the church.

The hall was decorated with flowers and the UCW members dressed formally for the occasion. President Fern Adair opened the program, and Merilyn Joint and Thelma Burris provided vocal and piano music. Lela West cut the anniversary cake which was decorated with lilacs and lilies-of-the-valley.

Canada's Birthday

Murray Atkinson of Murray's Food Market, 290 Front St., is a man of very strong loyalties. As his customers, you're one of those strong loyalties; this country of Canada is one of them too. That's why Murray will not be open on Canada's birthday, and doesn't approve too much of those who are. And Murray — and I too — throw out the question to you: "What are you doing to celebrate Canada's birthday?" Or are you going to be so busy boating, sunning, barbecuing and having a good time enjoying this country that you won't give that country a single thought? Inflation, Mr. Turner's budget, and the price of gas notwithstanding, we enjoy, in this country, a very high standard of living. Murray's Food Market contributes to that standard. Perhaps on Tuesday, we should make a point of thanking instead of complaining.

A Memorable Visit

You want to make this weekend a memorable one for you and your holiday guests: a visit to the Cameron Gallery, 1½ miles west of Roslerville on the Roslerville Rd. will guarantee that wish. This cozy, country gallery boasts the paintings, sketches and pottery of three artists, all Cameron. Their work is a joy to see and will add the name to any home. Your guests may have a gift requirement to fill, or maybe they want a meaningful moments of their visit to you. They will find both at the Cameron Gallery. The gallery will be open this holiday weekend, as usual, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. If you wish to make a special appointment this week, or any week, just call Mrs. Cameron at 962-1606.

This Is The Weekend!

Who says you have to go away to enjoy a great day in a great hotel with a great pool and the poolside atmosphere to match. Well, I don't says so. I just rent a room at the Four Seasons from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for just $10, with all the facilities and services of the Four Seasons at your fingertips, i.e., the phone, and celebrate Canada's birthday weekend in style and comfort, without all the hassel of hot highway travel. You don't have to waste time and patience getting anywhere. It's all right here. Just call the Four Seasons at 968-3411, pack your bathing suit and your sun-tan lotion and the weather and the Four Seasons will take care of the rest. Have a Happy . . .

Get Rid Of It

You have nightmares about it because it reminds you of your great Aunt Harriet who was a witch on the side; your daughter hates it so much she won't ask her boyfriend to dinner; it's so ugly that the Flea Market at Tobe's refused to have it on the premises. So get rid of it: it being that thing designated in the English language as "a dining light fixture". And what's going to take it off your hands, with a smile even? Why good old Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division, 291 Coleman St. Not only will Ruddy take the thing as a trade-in, they have a grand selection of beautiful dining fixtures which your old one will help you obtain. Let's hear it for mental health. Get down to Ruddy's.

New Line, Great Prices

Gibbs and Son, 37 Albion St. have a new line of vacuums in their fleet: the Swedish machine, VOLTA. And Gibbs and Son are offering special introductory prices. The Volta upright with a reusable paper bag feature is on sale at $168. What really appeals to me about this machine is that the vacuum won't run without its paper bag, so you aren't tempted to use any bed hatks. The canister Volta is on sale for $179.50. Its very powerful Power Brush, which is regularly $52.50, is also on sale for $79.00. If you want a good new machine, the Voltas, whichever model, is it. And the Volta motor is guaranteed, parts and labor both for two years. See Gibbs. There is free pick-up and delivery within the Belleville area. Call 968-5284.

How's Your Humidity?

That annoying atmospheric condition unaffectionately known as HUMIDITY was omnipresent this week, for sure. But if you called Moira-Schuster way back when I first advised you to do so, you would have been laughing, so to speak. At least you wouldn't have been sweltering inside as well as outside. It's still not too late. Just call 962-4504 and start talking. You can have a window air-conditioning unit plan if you choose, or a central air-conditioning system connected to your furnace. And don't forget that humidity problem. Moira-Schuster can help you there too. And then July and August can bring on their heat — or warm up, depending on how you look at it — and who cares? You needn't.

Give Your Guests The Best

Many of you will be having guests this weekend. On your agenda, beside the beaches and parks, you should include a visit to Jean Smith's West Wind Boutique at Actinolite on Hwy. 7. Not only is the drive from any direction a delight, but the rewards when you get there are understatedly delightful. For gift-shopping, there is Jean Smith's gift shop, with its treasures from all over the world — pottery, jewelery, leather goods, woollens, linens, scarves, placemats and many, many more interesting items. To supplement your summer casual wardrobe, there is her sportswear shop, again packed with the best in casual fashion. And for that something extra special which will make any wardrobe enriched, there is Jean's Import Shop. They're all there at one location which is open every day. Happy Holiday.

Some Great News

Heard some interesting news from Highland Construction's Home Improvement Centre this week. Highland can now supply you with a total new home, not just help you improve your old one. Highland is now the agent for Get CLAMA prebuilt homes, an Ontario company, by the way. You can choose from 12 different models for a permanent residence or a cottage. You either buy the basic home and finish the inside yourself — prices range from $11,000 to $15,000 for this type of home, or Highland will completely finish it themselves for about $22,000. These home require only a lot, a basement and a phone call to Highland at 962-1184. With the prices of homes today, this is some news well-worth telling. Right?

Let the Experts Do It

If you're going to attempt a major cleaning job at your home or cottage in this weather, you're crazy. ServiceMaster can do it all for you. Their expert cleaning service doesn't change, no matter what the season. The job will get done and get done well. It's unfortunate that our unpleasant tasks such as housecleaning don't take vacations too. But they don't. So instead of allowing that "I have to" feeling make you even more hot and bothered than the weather does, call ServiceMaster at 967-1672. And then sit back in your chaise lounge in the back-yard with your mint julip and have a fitting and proper welcome to summer. Happy sunning and happy sipping.

Holiday With Holiday

Holiday Car and Truck Rentals, 11 West Moira St. can help you really get your holiday on the road - literally, with one of their fine Chrysler products available for rental. But supposing you already have a car, but husband uses it. And suppose you also have guests. How are you going to get them to our great pallies and beaches? If you don't have a car? Or perhaps your guests would like to go off on their own and explore our great tourist area. Holiday Car and Truck Rentals will get you or them wherever you want to go. Just call them at 962-9114, or drop in at the corner of North Front and Moira St. You can't miss the sign. But you just might miss the service if you don't remember that holiday-ing means Holiday.

Doris Clark

Adults' Opinion of Youth Changeless Over Centuries

"Our youth love luxury; they have contempt for authority; they show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households."

"They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their food and tyrannize their teachers." — Socrates writing in the 5th century, B.C.

Well, folks, does it sound familiar? Or is history repeating itself?

In some ways today's children grow up younger; and in other ways they are over-protected and only become adults — responsible, grown-up people — later.

Look at the extension of the period of education, for instance. And in many cases, I'm sad to say, our parents are far too permissive; far too hesitant to lay adult responsibilities upon young shoulders, which are perfectly capable of handling them.

Dear Doris: Our 17-year-old daughter is making us unhappy. We have suspected that he smokes pot and I know that he drinks sometimes. He has a girl friend and he seems to think any time is all right to come home over the weekend, although on school nights he is always home on time.

The thing that bugs me most is his hair. It is shoulder-length and he just won't get it cut. His Dad has threatened to put him out if he doesn't get it cut and abide by our rules, and he comes back with, "Yeah, you'd like to get rid of me, wouldn't you? I know you wish you'd never adopted me."

His hair bugs me so much I can hardly be civil. Just tonight I asked him again to get it cut and he raged out of the house saying that he might not be back. And I replied, "Good — just don't change your mind."

In other ways he is good. He never skips classes, plans to complete his grade 13. He works part time and takes any job offered him. He will work hard and long hours during the summer and his boss told him he was a good worker and reliable. His teachers have no complaints about him either. — Unhappy Home.

Dear Unhappy: You should be congratulating yourselves all over the place! Don't you know that if your 17-year-old cuts his hair, he will be the laughing stock of his peers? An argument about hair is simply out of place with a teen-ager in 1975.

All those sterling virtues you have described are far more important than the issues you are making. This boy of yours is struggling to grow up, to assert himself, to be his own person. And in a very few years he will be on his own.

If you haven't instilled right thinking in his head and heart now, you never will. Put more confidence in him and, when it's his own business, leave the issue alone — whatever it may be. Love him and enjoy him and let him know you do. Put on a party for him.

Confidential to Too Slim: Breakfast is important and you should be distributing your food intake over three meals a day. So try, won't you?

Exercise won't help the bust hard and long hours during the summer and his boss told him he was a good worker and reliable. His teachers have no complaints about him either. — Unhappy Home.

Two Dead After Plane Slams into Pasture

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

LONG POINT — Two Prince Edward County men were killed Thursday night when the light aircraft they were flying crashed in a pasture field near here.

Dead are pilot and owner of the plane, Neil Molyneux, 29, and his passenger, Ronald Dostie, 17, both of RR4, Picton.

Neighbors in the Long Point area, about 75 miles southeast of Picton, reported they heard the plane's engines roar and then a loud crash was heard. The accident occurred just before 8:30 p.m.

First on the scene of the wreck were Arthur Bongard, and Lloyd Brandrick, of RR5, Picton.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Joe Thurston, called for police assistance.

Community services officer for the Picton OPP Constable Don Bell said the men were pronounced dead on the scene by Frank J. Edward County coroner Dr. C. R. Richmond.

Police said both victims were pinned in the Taylor craft model BL65 and it was necessary to cut out parts of the wreckage to remove the bodies.

Constable Watt said a post mortem on the pilot's body is being done today at Belleville General Hospital.

Minister of transport personnel arrived at Long Point early today to begin an investigation of the mishap.

The plane was flying out of Prince Edward Flying Club.

Two Years For Rape

A 26-year-old Smiths Falls man was sentenced to two years definite and two years indeterminate at Brampton Reformatory after pleading guilty Thursday in a special Ontario Supreme Court sitting here to the July 20, 1974 rape of a 17-year-old Toronto girl.

Gerald Alan Giberson, originally of Decatur, Ill., was sentenced in the sitting necessitated when he did not appear in court as scheduled during spring assizes here in March.

Giberson was employed by Bell canada laying cable in the village of Tweed, about 20 miles north of here, when the offence occurred. A U.S. citizen, he fled to Illinois shortly before the assizes where he was persuaded to surrender in April by his brother, a state trooper.

Board Adopts Mid-road Policy On School Psychologist Fees

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Despite provincial law the Hastings County Board of Education won't officially recognize registered psychologists in name — but has decided to pay them more than unregistered psychologists.

In closed session this week the board of education set new salary schedules for its three school psychologists, one registered and two who are not registered by the provincial government.

Superintendent of special education Ted Morris said this week the first salary range, to be called psychologist I, will be between $17,650 and $22,450.

To qualify the psychologist must have an MA and be registered with the Ontario Board of Examiners in Psychology, which receives its mandate from 1969 legislation.

Mr. Morris said the second salary range, to be called psychologist II, will be between $19,000 and $21,000. To qualify the individual must have an MA but be unregistered with the provincial government.

Both categories will receive an additional $500 for extra degrees.

Director of education Eric Runacres said the salary increase is the first since 1973 and "reflects the marketplace for school psychologists across the province." Mr. Runacres said the board decided not to enter into "the state of turmoil" between registered and non-registered psychologists.

"We are very satisfied with all our personnel in this area and we don't want to get involved in a problem that belongs to the profession, not to school boards," said Mr. Runacres. He said in effect the board "is not referring to them by a label."

Registered psychologist Linda Seppanen, with the board of Education, said Thursday the profession has been pushing for boards of education to recognize registered psychologists.

She said there is only one type of psychologists and they are registered by the Ontario government. Since 1966 the Board of Examiners in the province has admitted only those with PhDs plus two years of supervised experience.

Mrs. Seppanen said prior to 1966 the Board of Examiners accepted psychologists with MAs plus four-years experience. She said there is now a move in the profession to have the standards lowered again to an MA with five years supervised experience.

Mrs. Seppanen said by virtue of provincial law the boards must acknowledge the professional status of registered psychologists. She said many boards of education do not even have one registered psychologist on staff.

The new schedules go into effect September with a $600 bonus Jan. 1.

Course Combines Fun With Summer Work

If the children attending the recreation supervisors pilot program have half as much fun as the playground supervisors did at a recent two-day training session the summer should be a good one for all concerned.

For two days at Ben Bleecker auditorium, the group of supervisors from Belleville and Picton played, made and had fun.

"It was a gigantic playground for the leaders," said Karen Fraser, co-ordinator of the summer program, "so they could learn what it was like for the children."

"Quite a few don't remember how it was," she said referring to 16, 17 and 18-year-old trainees, "because they mostly have changed and developed so much in the past few years."

The leaders, comprised of recreation workers from Belleville and Picton and instructors from the retarded adult-program met in groups to learn how to active and musical games, and listen to special seminars.

The highlight of the afternoon program was seminars in drama and crafts given by two professional instructors from Toronto.

A studio lab in drama was taught by Tony Moffat-Lynch, of Centennial College.

The park leaders also worked with Mr. Moffat-Lynch in developing suitable games and learning creative activities to teach the children.

While the drama workshop was held outdoors, a craft display and demonstration was held in the auditorium.

The display and discussion was directed by Mary Garrett, also of Centennial College and a teacher of recreation.

A group of local students has obtained an Opportunity for Youth Grant and will tour the parks, staying for one week, giving a basic introduction to music.

Instruction will be given in guitar, drums, accordion and piano in an attempt to stimulate musical interest in Belleville, with a child allowed to choose lessons in any one discipline.

The program will run from July 3-August 15, 9.30 a.m. 12 p.m. and 1 p.m.-4 p.m. from Monday to Friday.

Registration will take place the first three days of the program but children are invited to attend and register anytime during session.

McCoy's Closing

Keith McCoy and his son, Mike, work into the night at McCoy's Drug Store on Front St., filling prescriptions and cleaning up loose ends before store closes for the last time Saturday. Mr. McCoy has bought a partnership into Top Drug Mart and will take over as manager there.

McCoy's Closing Doors After 88-year History

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

For the first time in his life, Keith McCoy took his telephone off the hook Thursday at his Front St. pharmacy — a phone that rang constantly with customers calling to wish him well.

This Saturday will see McCoy Pharmacy doors closed for the last time as Mr. McCoy takes up a new position as partner and manager of Top Drug Mart.

At the middle of the 19th century, the present day drug store was a saloon but by 1887 the first druggist had taken over the shop and for the past 88 years the location has continued as a dispensary.

"The move to sell out was inevitable," said Mr. McCoy, who admits to having mixed feelings about leaving the shop where he first worked as a pharmacist fresh out of school in 1947.

"In those days there were eight drug stores on Front St. Now there are three and the pressure is incredible.

"It's just getting too heavy with the paperwork and book keeping," he said Thursday night.

"Chain stores are taking over," said Mr. McCoy. "When the other independents go, it will be the chain stores that buy them out."

But because Mr. McCoy is leaving his own ship to work in a chain store, it does not mean Belleville has lost another friendly face across the counter.

"We will be putting one to one contact back into the business — the kind of contact that we have enjoyed with our customers," he said.

"It's very important that the customer feels he or she can seek advice from a pharmacist on what is good for them. After all, doctors don't always have the time and that's what so pharmacists are here for — to help people."

Top Drug Mart bought out the McCoy store "lock, stock and barrel" said Mr. McCoy.

It is not known what the overall drug store will be used for. McCoy customers will find their prescriptions have been transferred to Top Drug Mart.

"I feel I can do more for people over there (at Top Drug Mart) as far as prescriptions are concerned now that I am freed from some of the other chores in a smaller store," said Mr. McCoy.

Head-on Crash Injures Two

TRENTON — Two people remain in satisfactory condition in Trenton Hospital today following a two-car head-on collision on Highway 33 north of here Thursday.

In Trenton Memorial Hospital with a fractured right leg is Elizabeth Ann Hanna of Hamilton. Also in hospital in satisfactory condition with a dislocated hip is Colin Chamberlain of RR 5 Trenton.

Both were among the six occupants of the two vehicles involved in the crash 1 mile west of the Pipes Motel north of Trenton late Thursday.

Brighton provincial police said a southbound vehicle driven by Aaron Easton, 20, of Hamilton was in collision with a car driven by Joseph Frank Thomas, 19, of River Rd., Frankford.

Police say both cars were demolished.

PUC Building Sale Means More Parking

Parking continues as a priority at the downtown Pinnacle and Front streets. board of management.

Jack Ferguson, board chairman, said during an interview Thursday the main project for the board this summer will be to develop a new parking area at the rear of the former Belleville Public Utilities Commission building.

The building was purchased by the city's parking authority for $90,000, in a continuing effort to bring Pinnacle Street parking areas under parking authority control. The authority now controls all parking from the PUC building to Campbell St.

Mr. Ireland said now that the authority has completed demolition of the rear portion of the PUC building, his board will begin work on placing benches and flower planters to beautify the area.

The demolition also makes way for an alleyway between Pinnacle and Front streets. The board of management will also undertake the painting and lighting of this walkway.

The board of management is the administrative body in charge of monies raised through a special taxation of the downtown area.

Each year for the past three yers, the special tax has given the board its $25,000 annual budget.

3,000 Goldfish In Sidewalk Sale

Belleville downtown association president Gerry O'Shaughnessy said Thursday the annual downtown sidewalk sale will be held July 18, 19 and 20.

The theme of this year's sale will be accent on community involvement with a wide variety of activities scheduled for sale shoppers, the association president said.

"A lot of downtown core have lost their magic," said Mr. O'Shaughnessy. "We are trying to bring back the magic and do it especially well for three days."

Highlights of the weekend program include an exhibition lacrosse game against a team from Tyendinaga Reserve, a mobile cottage display on the river bank and a swimming pool filled with 3,000 goldfish — a fund raising event in support of Cheshire Home.

"The association is fully behind the operation of the home and hopefully everyone will be raised through the goldfish sale to get the home on the road to the purchase of its own swimming pool, said Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

The association has also made plans for a petting zoo and a merry go round.

For the three days of the sale, the downtown association has arranged for a sign at the upper bridge warning through traffic to use Coleman St. to avoid congestion downtown.

For the sale, barricades will be in place along both sides of Front St. between Victoria and Bridge Sts., leaving only two lanes for traffic.

"We will be encouraging shoppers to use back lot parking," said Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

Outlook Uncertain for Therapy Course

By JERRY BROWN

Swimming can be great fun as most people know, but at the YMCA it is also being used as rehabilitation training for physically and mentally handicapped children.

The Parents Association for Handicapped Children, in co-operation with the YMCA, with funding from the Rotary Club has been operating a weekly swimming class for handicapped children.

Parents and volunteer workers from the First Adventure Nursery School, Bridge Street United Church, have been taking children from the school to the YMCA and working individually with the youngsters.

"The program has helped the children develop mentally and physically," said Noreen Davis, president of the association and mother of Adam, 3, who has cerebral palsy.

"Adam has improved his mobility since he started in attend the swimming sessions," she said. "And he really enjoys the water."

The director of the swimming programs for the YMCA, Anne Leverton, said she teaches less in this program than in others.

"The main ingredient needed for this program to work properly is patience," said Mrs. Leverton, "and the parents and volunteers provide all that is necessary."

"The progress is slower and less recognizable to the untrained eye but the volunteers feel the children have made much improvement in their muscular co-ordination."

Calvin, 5, moves through the water and has just learned to jump off the edge of the pool.

When Calvin is not in the water he needs a walking frame to give him the support he needs to remain upright.

"We hope to have another program next year," said Mrs. Davis, "because the children benefit a lot from it, but we don't know who will organize it or direct it."

"The school has been incorporated into the new government pilot project for preschoolers on Bridge and Bleecker Streets, and the future of the program has not been decided."

Sox Snap Yanks Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Yankees' five-game winning streak ended Thursday night when they went up against Boston's Luis Tiant, Fred Lynn and Carlton Fisk.

Tiant pitched a strong seven-hitter, rookie Lynn drove in three runs with a triple and single and Fisk hit his first home run in more than a year as the Red Sox thrilled a capacity Boston crowd of 34,383 with a 6-1 triumph.

LUIS TIANT

The opener of a four-game series left the Red Sox but one-half game behind the Yankees in the American League's East Division.

In other American League baseball action, Cleveland Indians beat Milwaukee Brewers 9-2, Kansas City Royals defeated California Angels 7-1, Detroit Tigers beat Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and Chicago White Sox defeated Texas Rangers 8-3.

Tiant, 11-6, registered his fourth consecutive triumph after being defeated for a time in the first inning on Chris Chambliss' long sacrifice fly which scored Walt Williams all the way from second base.

The Red Sox got their runs off Pat Dobson in the fourth on singles by Rick Burleson and Carl Yastrzemski, Lynn's triple and a single by Cecil Cooper.

Fisk, playing only his fourth game since suffering a serious knee injury last June 28 and a week-long stint in the waiting listing, touched off a the-sun-never-sets-on-me-and-my-bat-since June 17, 1974.

Fisk then quite a thrill," the big catcher said. "I made sure I touched all the bases, too, before I jumped and took first for home plate."

Mickey Rivers, Bucky Dent and Buddy Bell drove in two runs apiece to lead the Rangers to their fifth consecutive victory while Dennis Eckersley and Jackie Brown blanked the Brewers until Da'rell Porter's two-run homer in the ninth inning.

Detroit ended a six-game losing streak with the win over Baltimore.

Gene Michael's eighth-inning single, his third hit of the game, drove in the tie-breaking run and enabled Mickey Lolich to beat the Orioles for the 20th time in his career, more than any other active pitcher. Lolich allowed only five hits, including homers by Dave Duncan and Paul Blair, ending a string of Baltimore runs were unearned.

Mickey Rivers opened the eighth with a double off Doyle Alexander, and Bill Madlock followed with a single that gave to one unearned run since replacing Lolich with Mike Cuellar in the second inning. Stanley remained at second as the next two batters grounded out but Michael then came through with the game-winning hit.

Fred Patek hit a two-run homer, George Brett singled three times and doubled and Marty Pattin scattered nine hits for Kansas City's eighth consecutive victory over the Angels. Brett's double sailed into the bleacher in the fourth and he scored on a five-hit shutout. By winning, the Royals climbed within six games of idle Oakland in the American League West.

Wilbur Wood gained his former off Texas pitcher Fergo Jenkins scored Chicago's five-run eighth inning and gave Wood an 8-3 lead enroute to their fifth victory in a row. Wood's two-run single in the fifth inning and relief from Rich Gossage in the seventh.

MONTREAL (CP) — Ted Sizemore is one of the first people to admit that he is not an accomplished home run hitter. Nevertheless he is known as a good second baseman.

Thursday night, Sizemore belted his first home run of the year and his 14th career shot and then made a game-saving catch in the ninth inning as St. Louis Cardinals edged Montreal Expos 4-3 in National League baseball play.

"I never hit a ball and know I is going out," said Sizemore, whose cracking a two-run blast to spark a four-run rally in the eighth inning. "I'm not a home-run hitter. I only hit two a year and that was one of them.

"I just hit the ball and run. Reggie (Smith) and (Ted) Simmons can hit them and wait to go."

Sizemore's homer, his first since June 4, was sandwiched in a game-winning blast in Chicago against the Cubs, came with two out and after pinch-hitter Jerry Howard slammed a single to lead off the eighth. Ken Reitz followed with a double and drilled a two-run single to complete the Cardinals rally. Lynn McGlothen, who pitched 5-hit ball in the Cardinals's his ninth win in 15 decisions.

The Expos, who took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning, added two more runs in the eighth when Pepe Mangual and Carmelo Garman then walked two batters with two out in the sixth inning and pinch-hitter Paul Casanova singled home Garman.

Sizemore's catch came in his 7th Poll.

Scanlon lined a hard shot which second baseman Sizemore leaped for and hauled down for the game-ending play.

"I didn't think I had a chance for it," said Sizemore. "I was playing him in the right spot, but he hit the ball real hard. He must have hit the top of it. It sunk.

"At first, I thought it was over my head. I was lucky the ball sunk and landed in my webbing.

"It's a shame when you hit a ball like that and don't get a hit. In the first inning their third baseman (Larry Parrish) made a good stop on me and in the eighth, I hit a hard line drive to left which was caught."

McGlothen's win was his fourth in as many lifetime decisions over Montreal. He gave up a run on four hits before being lifted for pinch-hitter Howard in the eighth.

"I didn't think I had good stuff at the start of the game," McGlothen said. "When I tried to throw the ball hard early, it was sailing quite a bit."

The Cardinals, who lost their chances to score against losing pitcher Woodie Fryman in the fourth, fifth, six and seventh innings, but Fryman, now in the end of the jam, helped by three double plays.

"I don't worry about the other guys getting their hits," McGlothen said. "I'm interested in doing the best I can do.

Western Open Golf Tournament

Another Graham Tops?

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Australian David Graham, seems to be confused with twelve-time winner Arnold Palmer when the Western Open champion Lou Graham, earned a course-record 64 and a three stroke lead over Arnold Palmer into today's second round of the $200,000 Western Open golf tournament.

Palmer shot an opening 66 over Butler National Golf Club's course with the same par 71 and rated almost as tough as nearby Medinah Country Club, the scene of last week's U.S. Open.

Palmer, without a victory since 1973, was cheered after displaying "more confidence in my game than I've had in a long time."

Palmer fashioned four birdies, including two with long putts and one with a 10-doomer, and saved par with a 10-footer. "I had my best putting round in some time," said Arnie, 30-20 money winnings.

Graham, who tied for 20th in last week's Open, missed only two greens en route to a 32-putt round which included 7 birdies and the rest pars. That 65 broke the Butler course record of 67 by Tom Evans in the second round of last year's Open. Evans opened Thursday with an 11-over-par 82.

Tied for third in the pursuit of the Western's $40,000 top purse were Harry Heard and newcomer Gary Wintz at two-under-par 69, while Argentina's Fidencio Maldonado and Eldon Berger, and Jim Simon.

ARNOLD PALMER

George Knudson of Toronto shot a 74 and Ben Kern of Toronto jumped with an 81.

Defending champion Tom Weiskopf was back with a 70 while John Mahaffey, who Monday led by Lou Graham's first stint in the current money list with $32,778.

"I just played well, putted well and kept the ball in play all day," said Graham. "Fortunately, the soft greens made up for the long fairways."

Graham disagreed with Palmer on the subject of ever-demanding courses such as Medinah and Butler.

"Golf fans paying $40 and $60 to watch big tournaments don't want a golf course scramble for a high 70 or an 80."

Title Gloves Sent Up River

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Two pairs of bright red eight-ounce boxing gloves spent the night in sealed boxes behind the high walls of central prison.

"I been fighting 20 years and I never saw them put on gloves in jail before," Muhammad Ali said.

Heavyweight champion Ali and British challenger Joe Bugner had selected the gloves (Bugner will wear on Tuesday's title fight. Security for the gloves is as strict as for everything involving the match.

Organizers of the first bout for the heavyweight crown in this part of the world are trying to make sure no other kind of contest nears. Extra guards were posted today at Merdeka Stadium and casual visitors barred.

Security at the mid-morning bout July 1 will be as rigid as for the major event in this country's troubled history, a police source said. The usual measures to control crowds and protect the boxers are being extended.

Uniquely Malaysian security problems are posed by communal stress between the Muslim majority and the Chinese minority and by the communist underground.

Pittsburgh Pirates are happy to be out of Philadelphia.

"I talked to some friends when we got back to Pittsburgh and they seemed very disgusted about what happened in Philadelphia," said Pirate Rennie Stennett, referring to the Phillies' four-game sweep over Pittsburgh. "I feel we should have won three of those games but we just have to forget about that now, start over and play our game."

They played their kind of baseball pitching and power—with a vengeance Thursday night.

Rookie John Candelaria provided the pitching, a five-hit, 13-strikeout performance. And Stennett provided the power with a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning that gave the Pirates a 5-2 victory over Chicago Cubs.

Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals edged Montreal Expos 4-3, San Francisco Giants defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 5-0 and Houston Astros beat Atlanta Braves 8-4.

Stennett's fourth home run of the season came off Steve Stoneman, who had pitched seven hitless innings before Stennett's blast.

"Everybody knows I'm a fastball hitter," said Stennett, who was a big game for us," he said after being gifted by the entire Pittsburgh team at home plate following his homer.

He also said he wished more fans had greeted the Pirates in Three Rivers Stadium. "If I was a fan of this team, I would come out to see it. I know more fans would come out to see us," Stennett said. Actually, the slim crowd of 10,262, "The crowds like they had in Philly (more than 50,000 for a twilight doubleheader) really make you play. They help bring out the best in a ballplayer."

The 13 strikeouts by Candelaria were tops in the league this year.

Two of the five hits he allowed did any damage — homers by Andy Thornton and Tim Hosley. Richie Hebner also homered for the Pirates.

RENNIE STENNETT

The Giants jumped on 11-game winner Andy Messersmith for a pair of runs in the first inning on Bobby Murcer's single and Willie Montanez' double, then Ed Halicki made the runs stand up with a five-hitter. The loss dropped the Dodgers 4½ games behind first-place Cincinnati in the West.

While Astros Rodney Richard went the distance, scattering nine Atlanta hits, the Astros battered Mike Thompson and four relievers for 15 hits—three each by Roger Metzger and Doug Rader—and the Braves kicked in with five errors to help Houston breeze to its victory.

The Buck Ain't Stoppin' Here Mr. Field

The upset of the season in the Belleville Industrial Softball League took place Tuesday night when Constellation Carpets had their unbeaten string snapped at 13 games. Perhaps it was the number that did it to them. Maybe it was just the law of averages — everybody's got to lose sometime. Most likely the Carpetmen dropped the 8-3 decision because Black Diamond happens to have a strong well-balanced team.

No matter what the reason is, Constellation's coach, Al Fields, thinks the loss was the fault of the sports department at the good ol' hotel.

"You gave all the publicity to one guy and it takes nine men to make a ball team," said Fields.

He was referring to the many headlines, since the beginning of the Industrial League season, that praised Constellation's star right-hander, Ken Kerik.

Fields says all that publicity went to the kid's head. That he wasn't all we were making him out to be. That we should have generalized in our headlines and praised the entire operation instead of just one. "NEN KERIK""".

After all that unwarranted publicity Ken Kerik only pitched 13 straight wins, pounded out triples and homers on a consistent basis and in between Industrial League victories he threw a couple of wins in the Prince Edward North Shore League. Fields says he became a little of himself as a big gift from the gods. And felt Constellation had better begin to realize just how indispensable a hurler of his charismatic stature was to a rooking team like theirs.

"When he started pulling that stunt I just told him he might as well go home," said Fields. "we've got a good ball team. We've got four guys hitting over .400 and three more over .300. We've got the best defensive club in the league and we've scored more runs than anybody else — over 130 in 14 games. We don't need to take anything like that from anybody on this team."

Fields is right. If you're part of a team you just don't start sending messages from cloud nine. It is true that it takes nine men to make up a ball team. Fields himself admitted that.

"We have other pitchers that can do the job just as well," added the coach.

What bothers me is that if he has other pitchers that can do the job just as well why didn't he use them before the 16th game (the one they lost). And if Kerik is so dispensable, why, when they finally did use another pitcher, did they lose the game.

If Ken got a fat head, Mr. Fields, it is my opinion that you are the one to blame, not the Belleville Intelligencer. If you need a scapegoat for internal problems and dissension among the ranks, look somewhere else.

By the way, in last night's Industrial Softball League action the almighty Constellation squad battled to a scoreless tie with Brooke Bond. Kerik pitched, but these booming bats of the Carpetmen only got three hits off Brooke Bond's Tom St. Jules.

SLICES — Tomorrow afternoon Belleville soccer parents will be out in full force as the Bay of Quinte Olympics all-star memorial soccer squads make their first appearance. The mosquitoes play at noon and the peewees at 1:45 p.m. Both games are at Zwick's Island and the opponents will be supplied all-star squads from the Toronto Spartan organization.

While on the subject of soccer, two players from the Belleville Olympic senior squad have been selected to play for the Under 21 Eastern Division team in the Central Ontario Tournament in Windsor next weekend. Both Brian Mohr and Gary Donovan will be hoping to catch a spot with Ontario team.

Steve Reid, a third Olympic player, Thomas Masiello, is currently listed as a reserve for the Eastern Ontario squad.

• • • • • • •

Let's have some fun. I am still some chivalrous souls in the world who like to see a damsel in distress. Jean Reid needs someone to stop her from pushing the panic button. She is in charge of billets for the Central Golden Girl Bantam Baseball Tournament. Of the 16 teams in the tourney, all but one-and-a-half are taken care of. Reid desperately needs rooms for the weekend of July 4, 5 and 6 for bantam age boys to stay. If you are interested in taking one of the ball players in for the three day period, or to meet cases it less than three days — call Jean at 968-7446.

Swan Fires QFL One-hitter

Auger's Bob Swan had a no-hitter going until the fifth inning when Bill Harrison singled in Quinte Fastball League play Thursday night. Swan held on to pitch a one-hitter against one of the league's better hitting teams and won the game 2-1.

In the first game of the doubleheader, the Ellis Juniors defeated Devolin Motors 4-0.

Swan was the man of the hour for Auger as he struck out 19 Bardon batters and only walked one. The only run scored on him came in the fifth on an error, a sacrifice fly and Harrison's single.

Earl Foster took the loss for Bardon, throwing a four-hitter, and giving up one walk, he managed two strikouts.

Auger tallied the winning run in the bottom of the sixth when Dave Lott scored on Darryl Jones hard hit double.

Other Auger hitters were Joe Theriault, Lott and Bob McAlpine, all with singles.

Sprackett gave up six hits on the way to his win, walking three and striking out two batters.

Don Holoway took the loss, giving up five hits, no walks and setting down three Junior batters on third strikes.

Belleville Yardmen Benefit Tourney Underway Tonight

Local Ladies' Squads Have Good Shot at Title

Ladies softball has grown rapidly in recent years here in Belleville and as proof of that is this weekend's Ladies Softball Tournament, being sponsored by the Belleville Yardmen.

Opening ceremonies take place tonight at 7 p.m. at Alemite Park. Celebrities on hand to start the ball rolling are Mayor Robin Jeffery and Alderman George Ostrander. The Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps will provide added entertainment.

Tournament director Donna Lucas is expecting some of the best women's teams in Ontario to be represented in this Tournament.

Top flight teams will come from Newmarket, Burlington, Oshawa and North Bendale especially.

"Newmarket was winner of the Intermediate Championship series last year and the ages extremely good," stated Lucas.

Belleville Yardmen, Belleville Broadloom and the Purinettes are also rated as strong possibilities to win the tournament.

Broadloom were runners up in the Intermediate series last year, while the Yardmen were highly rated at the Oshawa Tournament, finishing among the last four out of 16 top senior teams.

The Yardmen boast three of the best pitchers in the area, in Shirley Gulliver, Sue Morton and Sandra Clasen. The club also has good hitting, with Morton leading the team, batting at a .400 clip.

Sharon Alexander is hitting well while Shirley Gulliver is batting .361, comprising a formidable offense.

Belleville Broadloom pitches Sue Fobert and Mary-Anne Gilks, a pair well known in ladies softball circles. Fobert was winner of the Top Pitcher Award at the Springbrook Tournament last weekend.

The Purinettes are not to be taken lightly either; with Sandra Pelsing and Darlene Bedore pitching for them, the Bailey sisters, Jane and Joan are two of the better hitters in the area.

"The one thing about this tournament is that any of the teams can very well win it," said Lucas, pointing out the fact that there are no favorites participating.

All of the money made at the gate will go right back to the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League.

The championship game will be held Sunday at approximately 7:00 p.m. with a second one at 8:30 p.m. if necessary.

The Grand Championship Trophy has been donated by the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund, The Runners Up Trophy, going to the losers in the final game, was donated by Don Bell Sports.

Individual awards will be presented also, with Most Valuable Player Trophy coming from the Red Barn, the Most Valuable Pitcher Trophy from Rays Signs and Top Hitter Award from Howard and Robert Printing. Finally, there will be the Most Sportsmanlike Player Award, donated by Bob's Body Repairs.

"We hope to make this an annual event, positively expanding it in future years," stated Lucas.

Games will be played at the Alemite Park and Centennial Secondary School Diamond, for this year, and games will go on all day Saturday and Sunday, along with tonight's games at the Alemite.

Tickets may still be obtained from players in the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League or at the gate.

Greek Answer Poses Superstitious Question

TORONTO (CP) — A superstition has may have helped Saturday persuading himself to bet on Greek Answer in the Queen's Plate.

The colt, with nine wins in 19 career starts, will leave from the No. 13 position in the 116th edition of the Plate, North America's oldest continuously-run stakes race.

The son of Northern Answer and Greek Victress, owned by Brig.-Gen. Preston Gilbride of Toronto, was listed as the only second choice at 3 to 1 following Thursday's draw.

The factor post position didn't disturb Frank Merrill, trainer of Greek Answer, who won the second division of the Plate trial last Saturday in 1:46 3-5 after a month's layoff. The race was at a distance of 1 1-16 miles and the front-running Greek Answer was by three lengths over Upper Shelf.

"I'll just mess that well! Have to get out of the gate a little quicker than we wanted to," Merrill said.

Favorite for the 1¼-mile race, worth $146,600 with $86,281 going to the winner, is L'Enjoleur, at 8 to 5.

The race for three-year-old thoroughbreds sealed in Canada will be run at Woodbine race track at 4:45 p.m. EDT and will be televised on the CTV national network.

The Plate has been an elusive prize for Jean Louis Levesque, who heads a syndicate which owns L'Enjoleur, to be ridden by Sandy Hawley, Canada's leading jockey since 1968. Mickey Solomone, who rode Greek Answer in the trial, will be on the same horse in the Plate.

L'Enjoleur, son of Buckpasser and Pranksoloche, has been consistent this year with one win in seven starts. He was fourth in his last race to Mystery Time, another Plate starter owned by Seth Douglas of Stratford, Ont.

The favorite drew post position No. 6, which trainer Yoonie Starr found to his satisfaction.

"It's a good post. But in a race of that length, post position doesn't really matter that much. If we had a come-from-behind horse it would have been good to draw in close to the rail. But we don't so we're happy with what we got."

Mystery Time is the third choice at 6 to 1. He will be ridden by Bill Parsons, who guided him to first in the $13,000-added Toronto Cup Handicap in which L'Enjoleur finished fourth.

At 10 to 1 is Trusted Friend, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto and to be ridden by Jeff Fell. The only entry in the race—Upper Shelf and Countryman—owned by Fred Wilmot of King, Ont., is 12 to 1. Gary Stahlbaum will ride Upper Shelf and Lloyd Duffy will be aboard Countryman.

In order the starters are: Near The High Sea, owned by Jack Laist and Earl Frymus, Toronto, jockey Richard Grubb, 20-1; Brilliant Sandy, owned by Tom Smith and Saul Wagman, Toronto, Jim Kelly, 15-1; Omo de Soleil, owned by Vincent Harding, Montreal, no boy, 30-1; New Orleans, owned by Gretchen Ross, Brian Swatek, 60-1; Mystery Time; L'Enjoleur; Trusted Friend; Eskimo Bay, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Vasey, Toronto, no boy, 50-1; Countryman; Upper Shelf; Rex Flavor, owned by George Farrell, Montreal, Hugo Dilthach, 15-1; Johnny One Step, owned by Henry Sloan, Niagara Falls, N.Y., no boy, 30-1, and Greek Answer.

Jack Stafford, who won the Plate with Amber Hero last year and with Royal Charlotte in 1973, lost his chance for his third win in a row when he withdrew Hagelin, suffering a bruised heel after winning the first division of the Plate trial last week.

Earlier this year at Woodbine, Stafford Farms lost Royal Selari—considered a top contender for the Plate—when the horse fractured a leg in the race and had to be destroyed.

Bench Draws Million Votes

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench of Cincinnati Reds has become the first player in history to draw more than 1 million National League all-star ballots for the sixth consecutive year, the baseball commissioner's office announced today.

With 10 days remaining in the voting, the Reds catcher is also the individual voting leader in the tabulations with 1,060,229 votes.

All the leaders retained their positions from the initial standings two weeks ago, though some are being threatened as the July 8th deadline draws near.

Cincinnati's Joe Morgan has a comfortable lead for the second base spot with 1,430,860 votes to 414,480 for Pittsburgh's Rennie Stennett, while Reds shortstop Dave Concepcion polled 1,329,881 ballots for a margin of 470,966 over Larry Bowa of Philadelphia.

Ron Cey of Los Angeles continues to be the fans' favorite third baseman, gathering 982,992 votes to outdistance Joe Torre of New York Mets, with 430,375.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati leads the outfield race with 1,200,815 votes and Oil Usher of the Mets has tightened his grip on second place with 704,692.

Rusty Staub of New York is third with 639,862 while base-stealing king Lou Brock of St. Louis has attracted 479,376 votes and jumped from sixth to fourth place, just 39,805 behind Staub. Los Angeles' Jim Wynn is also a strong contender with 599,645, while Reggie Smith of St. Louis trails with 582,290.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, winner of the 1974 Commissioner's Trophy as the all-star game's most valuable player, improved his first base advantage slightly over Cincinnati's Tony Perez, drawing 928,326 votes to 892,873 for the challenger, an edge of 35,453 votes. Garvey's lead was a mere 5,962 last week.

Jimmy Connors – Leads Lefties WHA on Move

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (CP) — Headquarters of the World Hockey Association, housed in fashionable Newport Beach since it was founded three years ago, moves to Toronto July 1.

The WHA offices were closed Thursday in this community an hour from Los Angeles. The new address will be 415 Yonge St. in a suite of offices overlooking Maple Leaf Gardens.

League officials concede Newport Beach was an ideal setting for offices but not for hockey. The only ice familiar to the natives here is the variety used during the cocktail hour.

"It was imperative that the league office move to a more hockey-oriented area," says Ben Hatskin of Winnipeg, the WHA's new chief executive officer and chairman of the board.

"This move has been advocated by the trustees since day one of the league's formation. But out of deference to the Californians, who were the first organizers, action was deferred."

Southpaws Stand Out

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Led by defending men's champion Jimmy Connors, the left-handers are giving the fans at this year's Wimbledon tennis championships the best display of southpaw tennis since Australia's Rod Laver won the men's title four times in the 1960s.

Connors and the three other lefties among the men's seeds have breezed through in the final 16.

A restrained poetry loving Argentinian, Guillermo Vilas, is ranked No. 4 after taking the Grand Prix and Masters titles this season.

Roscoe Tanner, the powerful left-hander from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., has had Wimbledon crowds in awe at the speed of his blinding serve, once measured at 140 m.p.h.

Veteran Australian Tony Roche, a finalist in 1968, has revived his hopes with straight set wins in the first two matches.

"For some reason left-handers always seem to do well here," said referee Mike Gibbons. "For one thing they have an advantage because right-handers most often play other right-handers and are unsettled when they come up against lefties."

As for women, until now there's only one contender left-hander in recent memory—Ann Jones of Britain, who defeats Billie Jean King for the title i 1968.

After Connors' 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 victory, Cox defeated Tanner at the

Eliminate Amateurs

BERNE, Switzerland (Reuter) — A formula designed to get Canada back into world hockey championships will be presented to a congress of the International Ice Hockey Federation in Gstaad, Switzerland, July 19-26, one of its authors said Thursday.

A five-man IIHF committee has proposed amending the federation's statutes to eliminate the explicit distinction between professionals and amateurs, said Rene Fasiechi, Swiss member of the committee.

The revised statutes would refer only to "players" instead of "professionals", "independents" and "amateurs" as at present, he told reporters.

The formula appears to be a response to recent moves to establish a hockey version of soccer's World Cup with open competition.

But this year, the No. 1 seed man most likely to upset the champion.

"The person who serves best against him will do well, and someone like Tanner could be the man," said Cox. "But he'll have to play great because motivation is a big part of Jimmy's game and he's obviously very keen to win again."

As the crowds sweltered after three days of hot sun, Tanner said he was banking on a secret weapon—fitness.

"Fitness is going to count a lot, especially if it stays this hot," said the 6-foot, blond giant. "I've been doing a lot of running and also some exercises with pulleys to strengthen my legs.

"Ever since I was 16 I've had a big serve. Some people just naturally swing fast and hit hard. Arnold Palmer's done all right with that method, hasn't he?"

The right handed challenger remains potent, however, with big seeds Ken Rosewall of Australia, Bjorn Borg of Sweden, American Arthur Ashe and Raul Ramirez of Mexico all winning on Thursday.

Only Borg had to work hard. He lost the first set 6-4, before subduing Jaime Fillol of Chile by taking the next three sets 6-4, 6-4, 6-1. He also had to subdue his teenage girl fans—they were asked to stop trying to talk to him as he waited to return service.

How much money can you afford to make?

That's a question everyone who works should think about, including people in the pulp and paper industry.

What you earn is important. Your wages are one measurement of how well you're doing in this world. And the fact is, pulp and paper workers are doing very well indeed.

Pulp and paper workers earn more than most Canadians. The chart below gives you some comparative figures: Now, remember, they're averages. They don't pertain to any one particular job, mill or area. But they do reflect how well Canadian pulp and paper workers are doing. And they may even surprise you.

Average Hourly Earnings	October 1969	October 1974	Increase
Pulp and Paper Mills	$3.66	$6.07	$2.41
All Canadian Manufacturing	$2.84	$4.65	$1.81

Source: Statistics Canada

Pulp and paper workers are ahead of the Inflation rate. Between April 1970 and April 1975, the Consumer Price Index in Canada rose 39%. In that same period, the average hourly earnings of people who work in pulp and paper went up some 71%. In other words, definitely ahead of the inflation rate, including the particularly high rate of the last two years.

Nobody is suggesting that pulp and paper workers stop trying to improve their position. We're suggesting that requests be reasonable and fair. For instance, recent wage settlements in the U.S. pulp and paper industry amount to approximately a 10% annual increase in each of the next 3 years. If the trend in Canadian settlements since 1969 continues, our hourly labour rates will be some 30% higher by 1977 than those of our nearest competitor—the U.S.A. Add that to the generally higher costs of Canadian wood, transportation, machinery, materials and taxation, and it's clear: we could lose our ability to compete, both in the export and domestic markets.

A healthy industry must be competitive. And such an enormous disparity in labour costs is totally unhealthy. For an industry, and for an individual. If an industry cannot compete, it loses sales both at home and abroad to foreign competitors. And people lose jobs. That's not a threat—it's a fact of life.

Canadians make good pulp and paper. We've got an enviable combination of traditional skill and modern technology. We have an important natural resource: our forests. We make good products, and we can supply a growing world demand for them. We have a pulp and paper industry with great potential, but only if it can match the toughest competition in the world.

The Pulp and Paper Industry of Canada.

Italian Director Working on New Film

ROME (Reuter) — Pier Paolo Pasolini one of the most outspoken innovators of the modern cinema, appears to be continuing his creative journey from asceticism to sexual licence with a vengeance.

In the 1960s, Pasolini was perhaps the purest of all directors. He worked, mainly with amateur actors, with a minimum of stylistic frills and a maximum of intellectual force to produce some of the strongest works of the decade.

Although a committed Communist, his masterpiece The Gospel According to St. Matthew is probably the most moving religious film ever made.

In the early 1970s, however, Pasolini underwent a stylistic change, producing bawdy, sensual and very stunning adaptations of The Decameron and The Canterbury Tales.

Now, with a new work, The 120 Days of Sodom based on theMarquis de Sade's work, he seems to have gone further than ever before.

As the title indicates, sodomy, particularly as practised on adolescents of both sexes, is a dominant pastime in the film. But it is only just one of many sexual aberrations displayed.

Pasolini has set his film in 1943 in the northern Italian republic of Salo, scene of Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini's last stand.

"What my film is really about is the anarchy of power," he explained at a news conference. "I have used Nazi and Fascist power as a symbol for power in general.

"Whereas previously I had shown sex as a form of liberation, a source of happiness and joy, here it becomes a symbol for the possession of one group of persons by another," he added.

"I decided to set the film in Salo because Nazi-fascism is a precise equivalent of the aberrant concept of power that moves de Sade's characters."

The film's action takes place over three days. A group of local dignitaries round up dozens of boys and girls from the countryside and shut themselves off in a villa for a 72-hour orgy.

Everyone is massacred the end.

"It is a perverse film," Pasolini admits, "but it is a protest against perversion everywhere. It is violent, but in protest against violence."

Pasolini said he expected a hard battle with the censors in Italy but hoped the film would remain intact.

What was the single most course sequence? "That depends on the individual spectator," he replied. "But it's pretty disgusting from start to finish."

Brynner Prints Tour Instructions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Recently the show world has amused when the show business magazine Variety published Yul Brynner's instructions to theatre personnel during his Vietnal tour with the new musical, Odyssey.

Among the lengthy orders: "Magician bed in master (hotel) bedroom (one mattress only not two). Must be utterly blacked out so not a sliver of light can enter, though must let air in to open them when wanted.

"Suite must be immaculate. . . . A gross of extra wooden hangers in YB's bedroom, and extras in all other rooms of his party. . . .

"All phones must be touchtone with 15-foot cords. . . .

Wine. The only one he drinks is Chateau Grand-Lasose '66. . . . Mr. Brynner brings with him special Canadian bacon. Make sure he can put some of it in the hotel's freezer, and the balance will go in his own kitchen. . . ."

No one got more amusement out of the reaction to the list than Brynner himself. Backstage at the Ahmanson Theatre, where Odyssey has started a long summer run, he remarked:

"I should explain why I made up those instructions. When I was touring in The King and I, I was working for very little money and playing split-weeks which were enormously tiring. When I arrived at the theatre, I found my dressing room was dirty and shabby. The squalor was unbelievable.

"I existed backstage under the most depressing surroundings, then it was my job to go onstage and bring happiness to hundreds, thousands of people.

"Now I have committed myself to 20 months of Odyssey, taking the time from film work and the house in Normandy that I love. Is it any wonder that I want to make my life as pleasant as possible?"

Odyssey is well-named. It has been on a cross-country journey in search of a way to present the Homer epic as a musical comedy.

"The show is 85 per cent changed from when we opened in Cleveland last December," said the star.

"Now it is just about the way it will be for Broadway. We'll add a song for Joan Diener to sing after the prologue and make a few other changes here and in San Francisco. Otherwise, this is it."

BOSTON (AP) — The man who said he had invented the character Paladin of Have Gun Will Travel television fame, has lost the second round of a suit against the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Victor De Costa, 65, a mechanic from North Scituate, R.I., says the man in a black suit and with a chess knight on his holster was his creation—down to the calling card which said, Have Gun, Will Travel, Wire Paladin.

But the United States Court of Appeals overturned a lower court ruling that said CBS used the character without authority in the series which was reported to have grossed more than $14 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — Writer Clifford Irving, whose fake autobiography of Howard Hughes sent him and his wife to jail, filed an application Wednesday for voluntary bankruptcy.

He claimed liabilities: $52,880,340.01. —

His claimed assets: $410.

The bulk of the liabilities listed in papers filed by Irving's lawyers is a $50-million libel suit pending against the writer in Manhattan federal court.

The suit was filed by Fernand Legros, artist, who was the subject of an earlier book by Irving entitled Fake.

Other liabilities include $344,-329 Irving still owes to McGraw-Hill, the publishers who bought the fake Hughes book on the assumption that Irving had the recluse Hughes's co-operation in the work; $100,000 in income taxes and $132,676 in legal fees.

The assets included a typewriter worth $35, a tape recorder worth $50, a camera worth $75 and an auto which Irving valued at $100.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The sheriff's department said Wednesday it is unable to serve an arrest warrant on used car salesman Henry Wynberg, constant escort of actress Elizabeth Taylor, because he is reported to be in the Soviet Union, where Miss Taylor has been filming The Bluebird.

The warrant was issued last week for Wynberg after he failed for the second time to appear at a court hearing.

A sheriff's spokesman said they would avoid his return before serving the warrant.

The warrant was issued June 17 in a case in which Wynberg is accused of defaulting on payments to a Chicago firm.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, June 28

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You and your mate will not completely agree on plans for the day. If you try to give in, you'll both have a good time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This will be a pleasurable evening. You'll enjoy being with friends, provided you avoid those who talk shop.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you run into your boss at a social gathering, it would be a good time to bend his ear in some quiet corner.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Seek privacy if talking business today. An outsider-brother-in-law type could spoil things for you if he can butt in.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You can settle that contract today for nearly all your terms. You won't get everything, but it's still your best deal.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Put yourself in the other guy's shoes if making an agreement today. You'll see the gram is greener on YOUR side of the street.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take time for a hobby today. You'll not only relax, but end results will be productive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be the focus of attention at a gathering today. Don't come on too strong or you'll needlessly arouse jeep jealousies.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you plan to entertain at home, be careful not to inflate the guest list so much that nobody will have a good time, especially you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take care as antagonist doesn't draw into an argument where you'll have to debate a subject about which you know little and care less.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your financial aspects are mixed today. What you sensibly save, you may squander on something you don't need.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're luckier today dealing with merchants than with friends. You'll get a fair shake from the merchant, but friends may rub you wrong.

Seafarers Charged

TORONTO (CP) — Roman Gralewic, president of the Seafarers' International Union (SIU), surrendered to Ontario Provincial Police on Thursday. He appeared after a warrant for his arrest was issued Tuesday.

Gralewic, 44, of Montreal is charged with counselling Hedley Harmon, Thomas Mason for the union, to commit an indictable offence with an offensive weapon. He also is charged with possession of a weapon dangerous to public peace.

Harmon also surrendered to provincial police Thursday. He was sought on a warrant charging him with possession of an offensive weapon.

OPP have been investigating the SIU since last December after allegations by Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member of the Ontario legislature for Trinity-High Park.

Labor Minister John Munro ordered the RCMP in May to investigate the SIU. Dr. Shulman has demanded a royal commission inquiry.

Gralewic has been union president since 1973.

Budget Called Anti-Ontario

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario government has been forced to revise its own budget priorities because of the "anti-Ontario" aspects of Monday's federal budget, Premier William Davis said Thursday.

He told a nomination meeting for Cochrane South the federal budget represents nothing more than an attempt by the government to ride out the current economic recession on the backs of the people of Ontario.

"They couldn't know it's the first federal budget in the history of Confederation that could properly be called an anti-Ontario budget," he said.

Clement Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — John Clement, acting solicitor-general for Ontario, said Thursday he does not support the suggestion that lawyers should collect a percentage of what their clients win in court actions instead of charging conventional fees.

The Law Society of Upper Canada has announced formation of a committee to consider the proposal.

May License Sales

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is considering licensing outlets or salesmen of guns in the province, Attorney-General John Clement said Thursday.

He told the legislature the issue was among several under study in support of federal gun control measures expected to be introduced in the Commons "hopefully by the end of August."

Trucks Studied

TORONTO (CP) — An inquiry into Ontario's dump truck industry has heard down more than 40 recommendations for improvements in the industry which the Ontario Trucking Association said was "in a state of chaos."

Benefits Extended

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill extending benefits to pensioners' husbands and wives between the ages of 60 and 64 was passed into law Thursday. The bill, given royal assent by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting Governor-General, provides pensioners' spouses between the ages of 60 and 64 with a monthly pension if they pass an income test. The government estimates that up to 90,000 persons will be eligible by Oct. 1. Previously benefits were available only to persons 65 and older.

Wintario Winners

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The Lightfoot family winning the two $100,000 grand prizes in the Wintario lottery draw Thursday held ticket 70000 series 25 and 27.

There are 48 $10,000 prizes for holders of tickets 70000 in any series other than 25 and 27.

There are 336 $1,000 prizes for persons with tickets ending with the numbers 0000 and 3,400 $100 prizes for persons with tickets with the last three digits of 000. Total prize money for the draw was $1,258,500.

The draw was held in this community about 30 miles north of Orillia in conjunction with its centennial celebrations. It was not broadcast.

Need Abortions So They Should Be Done Well

OTTAWA (CP) — If cigarette machines dispensed birth-control pills, it might solve the abortion problem, an Ottawa doctor said in a news conference on birth control and abortion Thursday.

"It would certainly do a lot less harm than cigarettes," said a grinning Dr. J. Clinton Whyte, medical director of the family planning clinic of Ottawa-Carleton.

"I'm anti-abortion myself," Dr. Whyte said. "But I realize that until we have an easily accessible, 100-per-cent effective contraceptive, abortion will be needed, so we might as well do it well."

He agreed with Stuart Leggatt (NDP—New Westminster), who said that more birth control information, not tighter abortion laws, would lower abortion rates in Canada.

Mr. Leggatt called on the federal government to drop abortion from the criminal code. "Other major western countries have done it, why not us?" he said.

Trustees Fear Loss of Power

TORONTO (CP) — Proposed legislation dealing with collective bargaining between teachers and school boards will sharpen the electoral process by taking too much power from elected board trustees, says Peter Bargen, executive director of the Ontario School Trustees' Council.

Settling of education policies must be protected as the sole management rights of trustees, he told the Ontario legislature's standing committee on social development Thursday.

The committee has been studying the proposed legislation for a week.

Control Mopeds

TORONTO (CP) — A bill amending the Highway Traffic Act to impose additional controls on motor assisted bicycles (mopeds) was introduced in the legislature Thursday by Transportation Minister John Rhodes.

Stanfield Says Budget Is a Bust

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Thursday the federal government's budget "is simply a bust" and called for some form of compulsory restraints to fight inflation.

"Any program, to be effective, must involve government restraint—which we do not have," Mr. Stanfield said during Commons debate of the budget introduced Monday by Finance Minister John Turner.

"It also must involve some discipline on the prices and incomes who have inflationary."

He said mandatory prices and incomes controls "are not acceptable in a permanent sense, because they are too rigid." The Progressive Conservatives proposed temporary controls during last summer's federal election campaign.

Mr. Stanfield said it now would be impossible to convince Canadians to accept such a program "even for a relatively short time because the government for more than a year has concentrated its efforts on persuading Canadians that such a program would never work."

But voluntary restraints were not the solution either.

Mr. Turner's eight-month attempt to get consensus from business and labor on voluntary restraints "died, as did Julius Caesar, lingering six months of suffering and secret meetings," Mr. Stanfield said.

He did not specify the type of compulsory controls he favors, but said "one hears many suggestions these days."

Ontario Demands Withdrawal of Tax

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is giving the federal government until "the first of next week" to withdraw the 10-cent excise tax on gasoline introduced in Monday's federal budget, Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell said Thursday.

In a Thursday message to federal Energy Minister Donald MacDonald, Mr. Timbrell said the federal government has not justified the imposition of the excise tax.

"The government of Ontario demands its immediate withdrawal," the message read.

Turner Declares Hardship Inevitable

TORONTO (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner, in a vigorous defence of his June 12 budget, said Thursday the government cannot hold down spending without causing some inconvenience and hardship in Canadians.

"Everybody is in favour of cuts as long as it doesn't involve restrictions of his own or his interests," he told a financial conference sponsored by The Conference Board in Canada.

He reviewed the problems he faced in trying to cope with inflation, recession and a shortage of energy.

Responding to critics who said federal government spending had increased rather than diminished, he said much of the spending was already committed. The $1-billion reduction was "a severe cutting exercise when you consider the political priorities."

He said that although it was "painful," the government felt Canadians should pay a single price for their energy.

The Last Post?

The Belleville Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps may not have a sponsor. For the past six weeks the corps has been rehearsing with the Kingston Grenadiers for a combined corps to be used in competition — a move that may have jeopardized the support of the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund. The band has been asked to turn in their instruments Tuesday. For details see first page, second section.

EMO Dead In December

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Quinte Emergency Measures Organization will be disbanded Aug. 1 and will live in name only until December, it was decided at a meeting of the organization's executive committee Friday.

Last April the provincial government instructed municipalities to disband Emergency Measures Organizations (EMO) as provincial funding would only continue until Dec. 31. Because severance pay and benefits were not included in the province's estimates, the local executive committee calculated the organization would have to be dissolved by the end of July.

At Friday's meeting the committee was told by EMO director August Duffy that "verbal" contact with the federal government indicated that new support might be coming later in the year. Until now, the federal government has contributed 15 per cent of the EMO's operating budget.

Mr. Duffy was in charge of setting up the EMO and urged the committee to "leave EMO operational" until "things have been cleared up." Information at the meeting indicated provincial police detachments would be taking over EMO responsibilities.

Bitter about the province's decision, Mr. Duffy said: "The province has abdicated its responsibility of taking care of the people.

The committee agreed to call a final meeting in December where the decision to eradicate or retain the EMO will be made.

The EMO will continue in at least name as long as member municipalities have letters on their boards appointing council members to serve on the committee.

At the last meeting of the committee it was decided to appeal to member municipalities in the hope the EMO could be supported completely from local money. In council votes, Hastings and Prince Edward County councils refused support while Belleville and Trenton councils voted in favor of the EMO.

Prince Edward County Council refused pay only the budgeted figure of $300 and decided municipalities share of the cost that would have kept the EMO alive until December. Hastings County Council took a similar line and authorized $1,000—half what they would have had to pay to maintain the organization until the end of the year. Belleville and Trenton council's each voted in support of increased funding with Trenton paying $825 and Belleville paying $2,000.

It was decided that if any one municipality voted against extended funding the organization would be wound up immediately," said Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

"Our EMO is the most successful of its kind in the province," said Mayor Jeffrey following Friday's meeting.

Commenting on the possibility of increased federal assistance, the mayor said: "There has to be somebody in the community that will co-ordinate emergency procedures."

"There has to be somebody who will knock heads and the way Mr. Duffy has to make sure the community is ready," said the mayor.

MORE

Within the next few weeks, the EMO will attempt to distribute supplies and information pamphlets to area municipalities and also attempt to distribute radio equipment.

The equipment is to be loaned to member municipalities and "may be re-called" if the EMO is pulled back into action, said Mr. Duffy.

The EMO has been an active body in the Quinte area since 1962 and since that time has formulated disaster plans for all area municipalities which outline steps to be taken to gain recovery following an emergency.

"There are more weapons in the world and more countries which have them," said Mr. Duffy. "There are more critical situations.

"We still need an EMO," he said.

Davis Offers No Gas Relief

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis offered no hint Friday whether Ontario consumers will get a delay in oil and gasoline price increases requested by the province.

The federal government has told oil companies they might increase retail prices Aug. 15 after clearing inventories July 1 when the crude oil domestic price jumps $1.50 a barrel.

But Ontario has asked for a postponement until after Labor Day for retail gasoline prices because the government believes the 45-day waiting period is not adequate to allow for depletion of inventory held on July 1."

Some senior oil officials emerging from sessions Friday with the premier and Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell warned an extension might cost the consumer more in the long run than the five-cents-a-gallon gasoline price increase predicted for Aug. 15.

Among those of the seven company representatives who would comment to reporters, it was clear that the oil companies are they must raise retail prices to cover added costs of oil entering the system starting July 1.

Premier Davis refused to say whether he has been able to convince oil officials of Ontario's position. The province has the legal authority to set retail prices.

He said he would have more to say next week, possibly Wednesday, after assessing the information.

Urges Limits Be Lowered

Ugandans Claim Arrest Of Two British Spies

LONDON (Reuter) — Two British spies have been arrested in Uganda, Uganda radio said today.

The radio, monitored here, said a number of British spies had entered the country in disguise.

The radio quoted a military spokesman as saying he would not disclose the names of the men being held until the British government gave Kampala full details of its spies in Uganda.

Radio Uganda reported Friday that more Britons were under arrest in Uganda.

It also quoted President Amin as saying he is "more than ever prepared to teach Britons a lesson they will never forget."

His statement follows the death sentence for treason on British lecturer Denis Hills, 61.

The reports of further arrests have not been clarified from Kampala, and it is not known how many people are involved or who they are.

Radio Uganda said the cases of these unnamed Britons were "even more serious" than that of Hills.

Amin says Hills will be shot July 4 if British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan does not visit Uganda before then.

But the president has not yet replied to the latest message from Prime Minister Harold Wilson offering a new start in British-Ugandan relations if Hills is spared.

Hills was convicted of treason after comparing President Amin with a village tyrant in the manuscript of an unpublished book.

FBI Seeks Agent Slayers

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — The FBI says its search for the slayers of two FBI agents still is centred on the sprawling Pine Ridge Indian reserve that has been beset by violence.

The agents, Jack Coler and Ronald Williams, both 28, were shot Thursday when they approached a group of buildings on the reserve to serve arrest warrants on four Indians. The enclave had trenches dug around it.

Tax Trial For Elliott

HAMILTON (CP) — Former Hamilton harbor commissioner Kenneth Elliott and business consultant Reginald Leirh Fisher were remanded in provincial court Friday to Sept. 12, when a date will be set for trial on charges of income-tax evasion.

Six companies charged with tax conspiracy are also to appear Sept. 12 to have a trial date set.

They are A.-J. Frank and Sons Ltd., Aldershot Contractors Equipment Rental Ltd., J. P. Porter Co. Ltd., McNamara Corp. Ltd., Marine Industries Ltd., and Richilieu Dredging Corp. Inc.

The parties were charged May 21 after a Revenue Canada inquiry resulting from an investigation of activities into operations at the Hamilton harbor.

Elliott has been charged with supressing income of $309,210 and of evading federal income taxes totalling $1,371.

Fisher has been charged with supressing income of $5,201 and of evading federal income taxes totalling $1,371.

Posties Reveal Automation

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Union of Postal Workers made public Friday a summary of post office documents that union officials say show the government intends to spend at least $854 million on its current automation program.

A senior post office official said the costs listed in the document include expenditures on buildings and equipment that would have to be purchased with or without automation.

Joe Davidson, president of the union, which represents mail sorters and postal clerks, said the government has been trying to hide from the public the real cost of the program.

Government officials recently said the automation plan, which hinges on public use of the postal code, would cost between $96 million and $143 million.

The figures revealed Friday show the government will spend $98.5 million on letter-sorting machines and coding desks, $8.6 million on cullet-lacer-cancelers, which cancel letters, and $10.7 million on optical character readers (OCRs), which read coded mail for sorting.

The five-year national facilities program outlined in the documents also includes $411 million for planning and construction of new buildings and $154 million on other machinery in new post offices.

Another element of the program shows spending of $181 million on 1,218 projects costing less an $1 million each before 1981-82.

The total cost is $1864 million. Union officials say the cost will in fact be up to $1 billion because some expenditures on land and equipment are not included.

Postal official Gerry Pultz, said the $154 million for other machines included spending on equipment that "dates back to the grounding of the ark," he said.

Kidnappers Send Tape

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Kidnappers holding the wife of a wealthy industrialist for a $1-million ransom sent a tape recording and written statement to a Montreal newspaper early today, sources here said.

The newspaper, the Journal de Montreal, could not immediately be reached for confirmation of the report.

However, sources said the tape was believed to contain a recording of the voice of Lena Blanchet, kidnapped Tuesday from her home in Rock Forest, Que. 15 miles west of here.

The sources said the statement reiterated the kidnappers' demand for the $1 million ransom to be paid in $20 bills.

An anonymous telephone caller told the newspaper the tape and statement had been left in a telephone booth in suburban Longueuil, the sources said.

Meanwhile, Quebec Provincial Police here were working on several leads in the kidnapping, the sources said. An extensive search is under way in the city, 95 miles east of Montreal, where police believe the kidnappers are holding the 64-year-old hostage.

Lena Blanchet, 38, a son of the victim, told the kidnappers Wednesday that he had gathered $50,000 in the required bills.

There have been unconfirmed reports, however, that the family has now raised the $1 million.

Quebec Provincial Police, meanwhile, would not comment on an unsuccessful attempt early Friday to carry out an exchange with the kidnappers.

Sources said Gaston Blanchet received a call late Thursday instructing him to deliver the ransom to a hotel in nearby Richmond. Mr. Blanchet was told he would be contacted there by telephone.

Once in Richmond, the sources said, he received further instructions to go to Drummondville, 45 miles southwest of here, where he was to drop off the money near the Masonic Drummond hotel.

Mr. Blanchet left the money and returned an hour later, as he had been instructed, but he found the ransom unclaimed where he had left it, the sources said.

The Blanchet family has refused to talk to newsmen and was continuing to await further instructions from the kidnappers. Mrs. Blanchet's husband and other relatives are staying at the family ranch which has been seated off by guard dogs and unmarked police cars.

Neighbors described the Blanchets as friendly people who know most of the people in the area but like to keep to themselves.

MONTREAL (CP) — A city-wide hunt has been launched for a prisoner who escaped from a hospital Friday after a prison guard accompanying him was fatally shot and another seriously wounded.

Gilles Hebert, 32, described by police as extremely dangerous, escaped from the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital after a gun was smuggled into a washroom in the hospital, a police spokesman said.

Paul Gosselin, 23, was killed and fellow guard Fernand Gravel, 45, injured in the shooting. Gravel apparently suffered a heart attack after the incident.

Winner Wasn't Sure

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An elusive London woman who had a hard time convincing herself she had won one of the $100,000 grand prizes in the Wintario lottery draw Thursday night, was identified Friday.

Audrey Kabakos said in an interview Friday she thought she held winning ticket 70000 in series 17 on Thursday night but wasn't positive. So she took two sleeping pills and went to bed without telling her husband, George.

Friday morning she phoned Bill Brady, host of an open-line radio show on CFPL, and gave only her first name but got confirmation that she had the winning ticket.

Mr. Kabakos, a bartender, went to work at noon and Mrs. Kabakos still had not told him they were $100,000 richer.

"I kept looking at the ticket and asking if it really was the ticket," she said.

Mrs. Kabakos, who came to Canada from Greece 26 years ago, was finally found by the news media when a person telephoned to say they recognized her voice on the open-line show.

Mr. Kabakos, who bought the ticket for his wife, heard the good news while a waitress at work.

He said he is thinking of retiring from his job.

Parking Proposal Approved By BGH

Belleville General Hospital (BGH) Board of Governors approved Friday a recommendation by its planning and property committee to accept a developer's agreement drawn up by the city of Belleville in consultation with retaining and the school board for property at extension to the east and south of BGH.

Gerry Joyce, committee chairman, commented the agreement is "rather a compromise agreement which looks like the best we can get.

The new 200-car parking area will extend onto neighboring Bay Street and First St. where BGH now owns residential property. The board is committed to the minimum of negotiations to purchase three additional properties — two on First and one on Second Street.

Three houses will be demolished on First St. and the parking site extended south toward the Canadian Pacific Railway (CPR) tracks behind BGH.

It will incorporate an area which now parks 30 cars and provides room for vehicles which now use leased public school board property at nearby Queen Elizabeth School. Net gain in parking spaces thus will be about 110 spaces, board officials estimate.

Estimated cost of the provided by income from the Sills Estate bequest — $3 million endowment received by BGH in January, 1973.

Car, Truck Collide

HAROLD — A 39-year-old resident of the village of Hastings has been charged with making an improper turn following a car-truck accident on Highway 14 near this hamlet about eight miles south of Marmora early Friday.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc identified the man as Arden McGee.

A police spokesman said today the mishap occurred when a car attempted to pass a water tank truck pulling a left turn into a quarry while both were northbound.

Constable Walter Brown estimated damage to a 1968 Plymouth driven by Frank Kober, 40, of Colbourne at $700 to the pickup truck and $300 to the left side of the truck. There were no injuries in the 10.50 a.m. accident.

Giberson Faces More Charges

A spokesman for the Crown attorney's office here said Friday there are still charges of failing to appear in court and of being wilfully at large outstanding against a 26-year-old Smith's Falls man sentenced here Thursday to two years definite and two years indeterminate in Brampton Reformatory for the rape of a 17-year-old Toronto girl last year.

Gerald Alan Giberson, a U.S. citizen and native of Decatur, Ill., pleaded guilty to the rape charge in a special Ontario Supreme Court sitting necessitated by his failure to appear at the spring assizes in March.

The incident occurred late July 30 in the village of Frankford, about 30 miles north of here, where Giberson was employed by Bell Canada laying underground cable.

Giberson gave himself up to two Toronto police officers in April at Toronto airport after allegedly fleeing to his home state shortly before the assizes. Police said he was persuaded to surrender by his brother, a state trooper.

Association Formed

PICTON — Prince Edward County Museum volunteers and supporters will be organized soon through a "Friends of the Museum Association" planned by the museum management association.

Impaired Charge Laid In Trailer Park

FRANKFORD — A 19-year-old Frankford youth has been charged with impaired driving following an incident early today at the Frankford Trailer Park.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville identified the youth as William Wilson. He will make his first provincial court appearance July 14 in Belleville.

A police spokesman said a man was reported to be doing "donuts" with his car among the tents at the crowded park at about 6:20 a.m. when his car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Donald F. Mills, 20, of R.R. 3, Frankford as one of the cars was leaving.

Hospital to Expand Chronic Care Program

Belleville General Hospital (BGH) is planning an expansion of its chronic obstructive lung disease program, says Dr. Reg Anderson, BGH medical director.

Dr. Anderson said in his report to the BGH Board of Governors Friday that he has been considered that this program which has been reasonably successful, has been improved."

He related information on such programs was garnered by BGH representative attendance at a two-day seminar recently on the rehabilitation of chronic respiratory disease at Sunnybrook Hospital and a day visit to Dr. Colin Woolf's Respiratory Clinic at the Toronto General Hospital.

"The need for concentrating on this group of diseases is attested to by the fact that there were 706 admissions to this hospital in 1974 under the diagnosis of chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, asthma and chronic obstructive lung disease," he commented.

Belleville General Hospital (BGH) is attracting medical students from as far away as Wales in Great Britain, according to the medical director's report to the BGH Board of Governors Friday.

Dr. Reg Anderson revealed Jean Francis and Helen Jefford, both electives in medicine and pediatrics, from the National School of Medicine in Wales, will arrive here July 1.

He said there are seven students on BGH wards at present, five being house in the Queen's Self-Care Unit and two living in the city, associated with family physicians who are acting as their preceptors.

Insurance Costs Down

According to trustee Fraser Rose the Hastings County Board of Education is not in the business of advertising student insurance but none theless it has a good choice of plans for area parents.

The new insurance plan, to be administered not by the board but by a representative of the Commercial Union Assurance Company, will be offered to parents next fall and in some cases the premiums have been reduced.

In contrast to last year the new basic plan includes $1,000 life insurance for a full day, 365 days a year. There is also a double indemnity for death in school bus accidents.

Board business superintendent Ken Wormald said all the life insurance options this year will cover 365 days a year, regardless of how the death occurs. He also said accidents which involve the loss of use of limbs will also be treated as if the limb were severed.

The basic $1,000 life insurance will cost parents $6 for the student and $15 per family. Last year the cost was $7 for single and $12.50 per family.

Parents wishing $2,500 life insurance for a single child will cost $7.50 and $18.75 for a family. This premium is down $1.50 from last year.

Parents wishing $5,000 worth of insurance will have to pay $10 for a single student, and for a family $25.

The Option B for parents, which is just accident insurance, costs $2 for single student and $5 for the family. The coverage will be placed locally with the Frank Cowan Company Limited.

Trenton Man Wins $5,000

A Trenton resident is $5,000 richer today having won the monthly drawing Friday of the Belleville Yardmen lottery.

The winner is listed in a Yardmen release as J. Barre of Trenton, winning the third place prize of $5,000. Ticket seller H. Curtis wins $1,000.

There were no other local winners.

First draw of $10,000 was won by Bramalea resident G. Bursey. Second prize of $6,000 was won by John Fox of Cornwall. Fourth prize of $2,500 was won by Dale Mulville of Westport. Fifth prize of $2,000 went to Rob Cooper of Oshawa and sixth prize was by Bill Sopinka of Whitby.

Education Beat

Contract Terms Game of Wits

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Ontario's proposed Bill 100, which will regulate school board and teacher negotiations, does little to enhance the power and bargaining strength of the individual boards.

While the legislation gives them the right to lock out teachers it is totally unrealistic for boards to take this measure in view of the political importance of trustees in the community. Trustees, by virtue of electoral consent, are obliged to be responsible — and closing a school by either the board or the teachers is not a responsible step.

When asked recently why 93 per cent of the secondary school teachers voted to reject the Hastings County Board of Education's settlement, a senior member of the negotiating team replied that teachers are all too aware of other board settlements.

In fact, much of the time consumed in this county's negotiations was taken up by both parties waiting for neighboring settlements. And of course the ceiling given an upper hand in negotiations.

Defergusing the marketplace has been of official to the teachers but has done little for boards of education and the province's taxpayers. The new legislation has not even attempted to deal with this matter.

The new bill will allow either the teachers or the board to call for negotiations anytime after Jan. 1 with every contract in the province ending Aug. 31. However, the legislation does not require negotiations to begin at a specific time.

If the legislation proposed that all boards begin negotiations in early March with settlements slotted for May, it would eliminate the playing of one board against another by teachers to achieve higher settlements.

This measure would also reduce media interference and lessen the impact of public reaction from one area of the province to another, as is claimed by teacher federation leaders. In actual fact, teachers depend on the media to advertise the "market-place" giving them an upper hand in negotiations.

What is a Spurious Rejection?

Answer:
AM FM tuners back habit of creating unwanted meaningless "LIE". Signals which it then at emits through the antenna, causing interference in the neighbor TV set or radio, and b: picks up itself, affecting its own reception because this self generated "lie" signal can interfere with the true wanted station signal. Proper Breeding Records Reduce Risk of Suit

Paternity suits are sensations in the courts. But in the cattle world they are common.

Dr. G.J. Kraay, head of blood grouping at Agriculture Canada's animal diseases research institute in Ottawa, is judge for all such cases in Canada. When the parentage of a purebred calf is uncertain, Dr. Kraay makes the final decision.

Thousands of dollars can hang on the correct identity of a calf's sire. And you can't always depend on the mother to tell. Sometimes confused cows exchange calves in the calving pen, and leave the farmer with a "who's who" dilemma.

Dr. Kraay tests for 12 different genetic traits in a calf's blood. If all the traits found in the calf are present in the parents, the calf qualifies as their offspring. If the calf's blood matches that of its dam, but has groups that are not present in the bull listed as sire, that bull is disqualified as a parent.

"We can exclude parentage with certainty," says Dr. Kraay.

By examining the blood of other bulls that might have come in contact with the dam, Dr. Kraay may find one with blood groups matching those of the calf. That animal then qualifies as sire.

Blood typing has become increasingly important with the extensive use of artificial insemination (A.I.). Some provinces make blood typing mandatory for all AI bulls. All breed associations also require it.

If a farmer sells semen privately from a prize bull, calves from the insemination cannot be registered unless the bull is blood typed. Imported bulls must be blood typed.

Dr. Kraay keeps all the records in his Ottawa office — he analyzes 25 different breeds. Because semen is often imported, he has blood types on file from animals living in many countries around the world.

Most of the cases Dr. Kraay arbitrates occur when a cow has been exposed to two bulls. If a cow doesn't conceive on first service, she is inseminated again three weeks later. If semen from different bulls is used each time, the identity of the sire of the calf is in question, especially if the gestation period was short.

In these cases, the blood of the two AI bulls, the cow and her calf are compared. One bull can be eliminated as sire. The other then qualifies and the calf can be registered as his offspring.

The system guards against potential mixups in handling semen from AI units. If, after the birth of a calf, the real sire is in question, the calf, its dam and the bull listed as sire are tested. If the listed bull is disqualified as sire, Dr. Kraay examines the blood types of all the 28 or more bulls in the AI unit until he finds the correct sire.

One case Dr. Kraay handled involved two bulls, both with a herd of 40 beef cows. When the cows calved, their owner wanted to assign the proper sire to each calf so the animals could be registered. Dr. Kraay found the blood of the two bulls, 40 cows and 40 calves. He was able to assign parentage to 39 of the 40 calves.

Keep Vigal On Vandals

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — This community is the sort of home-town typified by books and movies as "a good place for kids to grow up in" is subtly being blackballed to a new image.

Because it is a real life town, not just a collection of cardboard buildings on a movie set, Picton always has had the proverbial few bad apples.

Reports of vandalism and even the reading of the Riot Act during the Prince Edward County fair have been recorded in the past decade.

But this spring the town has made headlines with accounts of vandalism and shoplifting among merchants and residents who retreat from the problem in a frustrated neutrality.

Recently, several merchants stated that they planned to close their stores on Friday nights because of the obscene language on Main Street.

Discouraged by repeated damage to outdoor planters and store owner announced he would no longer attempt to grow flowers in streetside containers.

The theft of flags at Picton's Canadian Tire store this week prompted owner Gary Campbell to discontinue flying them. It was not the first time they had been stolen and they are expensive.

At the annual Prince Edward Spring Horse Show held at the fairgrounds last week town police were called when a group of young exhibitors ignored warnings from show organizers and continued to use obscene language and display general disregard for other show contrants.

It was the first time in the 16-year history of the show that an incident of this type had occurred.

In Picton, the summer of 1975 will be remembered as the time when the town went to the dogs.

Despite a town by-law calling for all dogs to be tied, a raft of household pets is running at large. Frequently the owners, after paying fines imposed for one animal, free them to run until complaints are lodged a second, third or fourth time.

Many irate town residents have stopped calling the police about the dogs at large. After all, what is the point when there is no deterrent, no permanently curb persons breaking the by-law?

It is unfortunate and a little sad that merchants are closing their doors, dragging planters inside and taking down flags as a witless minority find "fun" insensitess protection.

It is also regrettable that the man on the street is growing tired of complaining about things like dogs at large because no action is forthcoming.

More than being just "unfortunate and regrettable" such attitudes are dangerous.

When businessmen and town residents back down and apparently give in to the vandals and those with utter contempt for rights and authority it's an invitation to more of the same.

Possibly it is time to enlarge Picton's police force to bring a halt to some of the window smashing, flag thefts and swearing that are changing Main Street. It also may be time for the citizens of the town to show greater participation in community affairs.

A ratepayers' group could be organized to pursue complaints such as dogs at large or vandalism. Such organizations are effective against the complacency that seems to be taking root here.

Similarly, individuals can demonstrate a little more public spirit and concern. If the organizers of the spring horse show had "laid it on the line" for the exhibitors creating a disturbance last weekend, possibly their antics would have stopped without police intervention.

It would have been easy to inform them that they must either observe the rules of the event or be excluded from all competition. The pussyfoot "grin when the town went to the dogs" did not squelch them.

By taking the easy way out and handing down the flags, Picton merchants may neatly alter the dismal list of losses but only for a little while. In time, it will be necessary to come face to face with the problems of vandalism and contempt for authority — why not do it now ?

Spiral Is Secret

Simple spiral of doubled galvanized wire is key to suspension fence system. Inventor is agriculture representative Doug Tipper shows stay that is threaded through horizontal barbed wire replacing many fence posts. Using stays, available from the Stirling ag. office, stationary posts can be set as far as 100 feet apart and fencing costs cut by two-thirds.

Wire Twist Increases Life of Farm Fence

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Just as its most dramatic example, the Golden Gate Bridge across San Francisco Bay, shows how great distances of water can be crossed by a few strands of wire, the suspension fencing system holds out great promise for Quinte - area farmers.

Stirling-based ag rep. Doug Tipper feels the system, developed in western Canada and the U.S. could put a lot of marginal agricultural land "rough pasture" — back into the production of much-needed food.

"There's plenty of rough pasture land in this area," said Mr. Tipper, "but the cost of fencing has left it unused for years.

"The suspension fencing system cuts fencing costs by two thirds, estimates Mr. Tipper. Anchor posts are set up to 100 feet apart. They must be solid, and he recommends four strands of barbed wire be stretched between them. Every 30 inches inches sag in the wire, spiral spreaders, or stays, are not anchored, but they keep the horizontal strands from spreading.

"The biggest effect," Mr. Tipper says, "is the swaying. If one cow touches that fence, it sets the whole thing in motion and all the other cows shy away. It may be psychological, but it works."

The twisted spiral fence stays are available from the ministry of agriculture office in Belleville at a cost of 30 cents apiece.

Gambling Expensive And Dangerous

Part of the job of a farm safety consultant is to keep farmer informed of potentially dangerous situations on Ontario farms. A major one is still with us, namely the removal of the master and power takeoff shafts. Farmers are notoriously known as gamblers. If they weren't they wouldn't be in this business. In this case however, they are unaware of the dangers they face. The power take-off shaft and the universal joints on the take-off equipment are extremely dangerous. Replace yours today.

Trenton Bureau

Contract Delay Not Needed

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter.

Twice in the past five years Trenton council has had its fingers burnt. And when one's fingers are burnt, obviously, one must receive treatment and pay out bucks for it.

This week, the municipality had to do just that, pay out.

Trenton learned an arbitration board had awarded town firemen a 17-per-cent wage increase, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1974.

Oddly enough, the award was both the calamity itself and the penalty for getting the fingers burnt in the first place.

Odd also is the realization, after no great consideration, that the peculiar duality of the situation need not have occurred.

First, one must explore the past.

In mid-1974, a town negotiating team and another representing Local 1338 of the International Association of Fire Fighters sat to talk that year's contract.

Firemen, who had originally asked for a 24-per-cent wage increase, at this point had formally presented an 18-per-cent demand.

Trenton's negotiating team said no and offered 14½ per cent. At this stage, town treasurer Brian Fagan said he felt the contract could have been settled for about 15 per cent.

And here council stepped in. It refused to grant the 14½ per cent offer and said 15 percent was the uppermost limit.

Its move forced the arbitration procedure through which firemen have now received 17 per cent, 4½ per cent more than council wanted to give and about two per cent more than council could possibly have seen reached in a settlement.

The award will now cost Trenton $5,000 more than it had expected to pay. However, the extra cost, though not large when compared to the $4.8-million budget in 1974, could have been entirely avoided.

One can hear arguments that that conclusion is based on use of the rear-view mirror. I'm not going to argue the point, but introduce another instead.

Council could have used that same mirror and looked at the results of an arbitration board award in 1971.

Then, the very same occurred. When council went to arbitration, it lost.

Trenton offered firemen a 13-per-cent wage increase but firemen were given instead a 30-per-cent hike. Just less than half of what they demanded.

The town's lack of success speaks for itself. The issues from the past is eloquent.

Disregarding arguments over the need for increases to firemen, the issue and its solution is simple: council should stay away from board hearings. It can't seem to win.

Or is that the idea? Does council see in the first place that a part of firemen's demands are reasonable, but doesn't want to assume responsibility for granting them in the face of possible public displeasure?

Saskatchewan Gains and Flora MacDonald's Candidacy Seen as Boost for PCs

By P. W. GROVER

OTTAWA — Two events recently have given the Progressive Conservatives a much needed shot in the arm — the election of seven Tories in the Saskatchewan provincial election and the declaration by Flora MacDonald that she will indeed be a candidate for the national leadership.

Neither one was an earth-shattering occasion for the PCs. Seven seats in the legislature in Regina is a victory only in the context of the 11-year-shutout the Saskatchewan Tories have endured. On the national scene, it is, however, an indication that the voters haven't written the party off and that the Progressive Conservatives are still the most truly national party the country has.

It was generally considered that Miss MacDonald would be a candidate for the leadership but her delay in making it official was becoming a source of confusion, and in some quarters, a joke. There is a long road between declaring candidacy and winning the leadership. Here's how Miss Mac. Will do a lot to spark the leadership race.

Spark is what the Tories have lacked. They have lacked it since the Dump Diefenbaker movement began back in the mid-1960s. The selection of Robert Stanfield failed to light the needed fire under the party even if it did give the Tories a sense of unity and a commitment to present a coherent policy platform to the voters.

Leadership is the most important thing a party needs. The initial efforts of the Progressive MPs in the present Parliament is attributable directly to the lack of leadership. Never a strong leader, Mr. Stanfield has been little more than a titular head since his third consecutive defeat by Pierre Trudeau's Liberals.

These MPS who opposed the caucus decision to have Mr. Stanfield carry on as a caretaker leader pending a leadership convention are now saying, "I told you so," and more and more of their colleagues are agreeing they were right. Mr. Stanfield's personal integrity remains as clean as ever, but the party needs a hero down onsaw in the Commons if they had elected any MP as their interim leader.

It is in the Commons that the electorate-at-large see the parties in action and make their assessment. That last with which which which

CP News Roundup

Abortion Opponents Upset

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) ended its annual weekly convention Friday with a newly-formed anti-abortion group, Canadian Physicians For Life (CPL), opposing the CMA's handling of the abortion issue.

The CPL, headed by Toronto gynecologist Heather Morris, accused the 27,000-member CMA of "tyranny" for denying members the chance to record their views on the issue.

Earlier in the week, the CMA general council overwhelmingly approved a resolution that would allow doctors to authorize therapeutic abortions on them-selves rather than have to obtain the currently-needed approval of a hospital committee.

The newly-formed organization said the 125-member council "speaks only for itself and not for the thousands of Canadian doctors."

About Face

TORONTO (CP) — City council voted 13 to 7 Friday to rescind a freeze on downtown development it had approved 18 hours earlier, and asked planning commissioner Dennis Barker to explain by Aug. 6 the implications of a lifted freeze.

Mr. Barker told council some of the principles of the proposed freeze "are about as not reasonable."

He objected to the motion which council had accepted Thursday that all developments be curtailed" until 1.4 acres of parkland and open space for every 1,000 residents in the city core was established.

Skipper Upset

TORONTO (CP) — David McTaggart, skipper of the Greenpeace yacht in protests against French nuclear tests in the South Pacific in 1972 and 1973, said Friday in the Star that the Canadian government may have known in advance of French intentions to board the boat.

The Greenpeace III was protesting French nuclear tests June 30, 1972, 22 miles off the shores of Mururoa island in the South Pacific when it was rammed by the French warship La Palmpoulse.

WAS SHAKEN?

On Aug. 15, 1973, it was making a second protest at the site when it was boarded by French commandos. Mr. McTaggart said. He and his crew said they were beaten and Mr. McTaggart said he has been left with permanent damage to his right eye because of the beating.

Shriners in Town

TORONTO (CP) — At least 65,000 Shriners will arrive in Toronto this weekend and tourist and convention bureau officials say there will not be a quiet place left downtown.

The Shriners are expected to spend at least $20 million on hotels, bars, entertainment, shopping and restaurants during their week-long 101st annual convention.

Highlights of the convention will be parades Tuesday morning and Thursday evening on University Avenue north to Bloor Street.

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Bonnie Baker of Stratford, who has had her jaws wired shut since May 9 when she weighed 229 pounds, was down to 225 Friday and making plans for an Oct. 16 marriage. Beef Stabilization Plan Guarantees Calf Prices

TORONTO (CP) — A farm price stabilization program designed to act beef farmers' losses in bad years was introduced in the legislature Friday by Eric Winkler, chairman of the management board of cabinet.

He introduced the legislation on behalf of Agriculture Minister William Stewart, who is recuperating from a heart attack.

Mr. Winkler said whether other products are brought under the plan this year will depend on what the federal government does with the plan on which it is working.

Under the voluntary Ontario plan, farmers will be guaranteed 50 cents a pound for calves sold this year. If current market prices hold, they would get an eight-cents-a-pound subsidy because the current price is about 42 cents a pound.

Mr. Winkler said the plan might cost the government $15 million this year.

Farmers would have to sign up between July 15 and Aug. 31 at a cost this year of $5 a cow. The farmer must enrol for a five-year period and the province will make up any losses below 50 cents a pound.

Donald C. MacDonald, agriculture critic for the New Democratic Party, said the subsidy was "seriously inadequate" because it costs at least 61 cents a pound to produce the beef.

Assessment Act Defended

TORONTO (CP) — An amendment to the Assessment Act does not shift tens of millions of dollars to tenants in shopping malls, Revenue Minister Arthur Meen said Friday.

Mr. Meen told the legislature that the amendment, which replaces the tax on the value of space occupied rather than the amount of space, "adds greater equity to the over-all assessment."

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—High Park) said Thursday that large stores and companies which draw customers to plazas have charged rents of about one-tenth that charged small business on a square-foot basis.

He also said the change means a gift of tens of millions of dollars to major businesses while small businesses will either be forced out of business or raise their prices.

Mr. Meen said that past business assessments did not reflect the value of common malls, shared walkways and shared parking areas.

In some cases, shared areas amount to 70 per cent of the value of the assessment, he added.

"Small stores, especially kiosks, enjoyed a substantial tax advantage because they paid taxes only on occupied space but used the common area for their business trade," the minister said.

The amendment, which was passed in June, 1974, applies only to properties which became operational since the passage of the bill.

Classroom Main Concern

TORONTO (CP) — Teachers are not trying to take over the jobs of school board trustees through proposed legislation which permits working conditions to be discussed in contract talks, an Ontario Teachers' Federation (OTF) official said Friday.

Maurice Richardson, chairman of the OTF committee studying Bill 100, told a committee of the legislature that teachers' concerns lie with students and conditions in the classroom.

Under the legislation outlining teacher-board conditions for collective bargaining, previous board decisions both as class size, teacher selection and

July 1 Message

Trudeau Seeks Economic Maturity

OTTAWA (CP) — Restraint in demands for higher prices and bigger profits can be used to test individual and national maturity, Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday in his annual July 1 message.

Mr. Trudeau said people are being challenged to look beyond self-interest towards the common needs of the country, and the international community.

Here is a partial text of his message:

The 108th anniversary of Confederation comes at a time when Canada's maturity is being tested at home and abroad. We are being challenged, as individuals and as a member of the community of nations, to look beyond narrow self-interest toward the common good of the family which is Canada, and the family which is mankind.

Because our national birthday comes at a time when we are distracted by the clamour of armed conflicts elsewhere, nor by the discomfiture of an economic doomsday, we have the opportunity to use this day for reflection upon our maturity as individuals and as a nation.

How, then, do Canadians and Canada rate against the standard of independent and responsible judgment? There is no shortage of tests we can use. A person's judgment can be said to be independent if it is free from prejudice, ignorance, and blinding self-interest. It can be said to be responsible if it demonstrates a fair balance between the rights of oneself and other people.

Businessmen know whether their prices reflect a grab for excessive profits, whose inflationary impact will harm the economy, or whether their prices reflect a sense of responsibility and justice toward the consumer.

Trade unionists know whether they have decided to struggle for the highest wage rate their power can command, or whether they have decided to go forward less quickly so that other workers, with greater need, can catch up.

Every individual knows whether he or she is willing to work with other people and make reasonable sacrifices to improve the quality of community life, protect the environment, aid the disinvested, and contribute to the evolution of public policy — whether we prefer to sit back, uninvolved, and look exclusively to self-interest.

Regardless of our public protestations, we all know in the privacy of our own minds whether the gap is wide or narrow between what we should do and what we are doing. That gap is the practical measure of our maturity. If narrow, we are growing in the right direction. If wide, then we are individually and collectively stalled somewhere along the road to full adulthood.

Anne Murray Named to Order

OTTAWA (CP) — Singer Anne Murray has been named to the Order of Canada along with Pierre Juneau, chairman of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, and Dr. Jean Gascon, former artistic director of the Stratford Festival.

They are among 62 new appointments to the order announced by Gov.-Gen. Jules Leger. They will be invested next fall.

Three become companions of the order, the highest position. They are Dr. Lucien Jacques, St. Wenceslas, Que., A. E. (Ed) Ritchie, who retired last year as deputy external affairs minister, and Dr. William Gauvin, Beauceville, Que., director of research for Noranda Mines Ltd.

MPs Working Overtime

VOTE TIME OFF

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament have voted themselves the next two Mondays off, but plan to work overtime to make up for it. Next Tuesday is Dominion Day, a statutory holiday, and the government felt it would be a waste of time to have the House sit Monday. The following Monday, July 7, is voting day for a new leader at the New Democratic Party convention in Winnipeg. The Commons also approved a motion to make June 23 a parliamentary holiday if the June 24 St. Jean Baptiste Day holiday falls on a Tuesday.

INQUIRY PLANNED

OTTAWA (CP) — The industry and trade department announced Friday that the textile and clothing board will hold an inquiry to determine whether the domestic textile industry should be given special protection from certain imported stockings. The inquiry follows a complaint from the Knitters' Association of Canada that the industry is threatened by low-priced imported synthetic stockings. The imports come mainly from Asian countries and are not subject to quotas.

EASE THE BLOW

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should consider exemptions or a coupon system to ease the blow of the 6-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax, Liberal MP Paul McRae said Friday. Mr. McRae (Fort William) told the Commons the excise tax would hit people in remote areas hardest because they must travel long distances by car. He said a system of coupons should be introduced allowing people up to 100 or 400 gallons of gas without the tax. Above that they would have to pay a higher tax.

World Council of Churches Stresses Desire for Unity

TORONTO (CP) — In a world where Christians are on both sides of political and economic antagonisms and hostilities there is an urgent need for unity among Protestant churches, say concerned churchmen.

If the central goal of one recorded Christian church is to be reached, existing divisions and rifts and intermediate standings among Protestants must first be swept away, they contend.

These views were given in a 4,000-word message to Christians drawn up in a conference here June 3-6, the first of its kind, of 31 united churches and committees in union. Fifty-eight delegates and observers from 30 countries and territorial areas attended.

Set for the meeting, called a consultation, was the United Church of Canada which this year is celebrating 50 years of union. The Canadian union of 1925 that brought Methodists, Congregationalists and Presbyterians together was the first in this century and has set the pattern for similar movements in other countries.

The consultation was called by the commission on faith and order of the World Council of Churches to which most Protestant churches belong. The Roman Catholic Church is not a member but sends observers to its assemblies. The council was formed in 1948.

Rev. Lesslie Newbigin of Geneva, secretary of the WCC commission, said of the eight-day consultation:

"It went far beyond my expectations. We have developed a common sense.

"The united churches so far have seen unity mainly within the boundaries of their own countries. They now have discovered that they need to establish relations among themselves and that they need to act together within the ecumenical movement to promote the realization of the goal of unity which we seek to attain."

The message drawn up by the delegates emphasized the "call to organic union," and gave an answer to the oft-asked question, "Why do you press so hard for acts of union?" by stating:

"We believe Christ is calling us to leave behind personal and group security to serve not only the needs of individuals but also divided communities and nations.

"We live in a world of those conscious of being exploited and those ashamed of having profited from exploitation. We need a unity that can overcome the hesitations of Christians unsure how to receive and nurture those who respond to one gospel and then find many churches."

Churches that are already united were cited upon in the statement to "share in the life of fessorous of personnel and participate in their experiences, their victories, failures and suffering." Sharing of resources of personnel and finance was urged. Mutual acceptance of each other's ministries and practices was pressed essential.

Said the statement:

"We recommend that each united church make the explicit declaration that it recognizes the other united churches as true churches of Jesus Christ and is prepared to receive their members as full communicants into its full communion.

Most church-union negotiations take time, and of this the message said:

"For many, the question is less whether, compared to the gain, the price for organic union is not too high. We would affirm that the quest for unity should be pursued whatever may be the struggle required to attain the goal."

"Reflection" between united churches and the world family of churches, commonly known as the World Confessional Families (WCF), was termed important. The WCF is composed of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches, the Anglican Consultative Council, the World Methodist Conference and similar groups.

Throughout the discussion it was apparent that many Christian churches in the developing countries seek their own cultural identity, and Dr. Vischer said this is a new problem for the church that must be faced.

Many African churches feel it is more important to find an authentic African expression for the gospel than to search for the union of imperfect confessions," he said in an interview.

"What are known as Anglicans, Methodists, Presbyterians or Catholics have at their origins in Europe and not in Africa. They feel that a n authentically African church should be formed."

That history still plays a part in the Christian life of church-goers in the Third World, so long dominated by Western emissaries of Christ, was evidenced in papers presented to the conference by ministers from Africa and India.

Union of the Congregationalist Church, the French Reformed Church and the Quakers came to Madagascar in 1968 after a decade of discussion.

Union was not easy. Western practice and influence had to be overcome.

Rev. Rasamoela Andrianay for Church of Christ in Madagascar:

"Differences already existed among Malagasy Protestants became even deeper because of the three separate churches.

"Churches of the French Protestant origin were well-supported financially by the French government and thus were able to train many church workers in France.

"The Quakers, formed by the English, were less concerned with training for the ministry than with social work and their activities lay where the church was much weaker.

"Now that unity has been achieved, Malagasy Protestants are becoming more and more aware that they are no longer in the care of the French or the English. They are all simply Malagasy Christians united in one church."

Most Rev. Erle Nasir, bishop of the Church of North India:

"The population of India now numbers nearly 600 million. Christians of all traditions form only 2.5 per cent of the total.

"The denominations, though meaning well, have done a great disservice to the Christian cause in India.

"The whole personality of Christ was mutilated and divided into hundreds of fragments beyond recognition.

"The result was that when Christ was represented to the people they were thoroughly confused with the conflicts and rivalry existing between denominations in India.

"Converts were certainly attracted by the gospel but just before actual baptism, the usual question they asked was, "Which Christian am I going to be? Am I an Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist?

"Many a catechumen refused baptism because of this departmental confusion and denominational chaos.

"The Church of North India in 40 years has been able to put together six pieces in the jigsaw puzzle.

"While this Christian faith and the nature of the church are very real to us, very real to Indian Christians, the denominations have never made any sense to us. They are foreign to us and our way of thinking."

Hope Is Key Word In New Testament

By
Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

A prominent teacher out of years of experience has written, "Believe—I find a youngster who is almost in despair over his work. I deliberately give him a high mark that he does not deserve. The next time he is almost ready to make it for himself."

"Hope" is a great Christian virtue. St. Paul affirmed it. "We are saved by hope" (Romans 8:24); he reminded the small company of believers in Caesa's capital. Indeed the word "hope" appearing scores of times in the Bible, is the key word in the New Testament.

The circumstances were such as to rebuke modern pessimists who are having a field day in the area of politics. They say that there are impassable obstacles to peace. What does biblical prophecy mean to you? I wish every concerned reader of this column would digest the contents of Richard S. Happ's paperback, "The Future of the Great Planet Earth"; (It comes from the Zondervan Publishing House. Any major book store could order it for you).

Jesus never ceased to believe in God's unfolding purpose for the world, just as He never ceased to believe in people. His hopefulness was not based upon any Pollyanna view of life. He looked at life realistically. He saw it whole. He saw it in all its grim aspects as well as in its kindliness.

Jesus told the story of a coin that was lost; of a sheep that had strayed; of a young man who went into a distant country in proud defiance of a godly upbringing. Each of these situations held its element of heartbreak and tragedy. But the coin was found; the sheep was rescued; and the prodigal came home to a father's love.

Some of you are dis couraged, fearful or almost crushed by burdens. Others are riding for a fall on false hope of one kind or another. Turn to the Gospels in the spirit of Mark Rutherford who wrote, "The pure, calm, noble figure of Jesus confronted me, and I succeeded. I had no doubt what he would have done, and I followed him I did not doubt what I ought to do."

Get we do like "failure" and "defeat" and "pessimism" out of your head. Put your trust in a Teacher who has never had an equal....You will be saved by hope.

Car Accident Hampers His Hunting

Eskimo Likes to Carve

By Lorraine Gilbert
The Canadian Press

Meekeesetee smiles gently as he remembers the "stories of long ago" his father used to tell him at home in Cape Dorset, on the southern tip of Baffin Island. Stories of great hunters, of the seal and the polar bear, of how his mother once carried him on her back inside her parka—all vivid in Meekeesetee's memory.

Meekeesetee is a 35-year-old Eskimo sculptor who started carving in soapstone 20 years ago by reproducing the characters and animals of his father's stories.

"Nobody ever taught me to carve," he said, speaking slowly in his second language. "I learned myself."

His tools are simple—a hatchet for splitting large chunks of stone, a set of hand carving tools, sandpaper and files. When a sculpture is finished and smooth, Meekeesetee gives it the final polish with his thumb.

The only electric tool he uses is a drill. He says some Eskimo sculptors use electric tools now, but he is quick to point out the disadvantages.

"Sometimes, when people look at a sculpture, they can tell electric tools were used; then they think it's not done by Eskimo people."

He has been working on a seven-inch figure of a woman with a baby on her back. Already carved, it needs only the artist's patient sanding and the final thumb-polish for completion.

Meekeesetee sells much of his work through a co-operative store in Cape Dorset, established in 1960 by about 12 local artists. He also sells sculptures to the Hudson's Bay Co. to visitors in Cape Dorset, to distributors in Ottawa and to other Eskimo people travelling to more southerly markets.

While most of his work is in soapstone, Meekeesetee also works in harder rock—dark green serpentine from northern Quebec, and white quartzite from Baffin Island. He wore down seven coarse steel files on one of his larger quartzite statues, a figure of a woman about two feet high.

Only once, he said, did he encounter theft of his work.

"Two times, I sent some carvings to a friend of mine. That was six years ago, but he never got them. So I went to the RCMP to ask them what was going on, and they showed me a picture of the guy that stole them. He had sold them in Montreal."

Not long ago, Meekeesetee had a much more serious problem that actually interfered with his work. He candidly admitted that he drank too much.

"The liquor made me shake, made me sick, made me lazy so I couldn't do any carving. The last time, I got so sick that I had to stay in the hospital (in Frobisher Bay) for a week. The doctor told me not to drink: it's no good for me any more."

Drinking is behind him now, and Meekeesetee says, "I hope I carve the rest of my life for a living, no matter what happens.

"I want to see my little boy become a great hunter someday. That's why I'll never give it up—it's for my kids. I'd like to see my grandchildren someday, to tell them stories about a long time ago."

Meekeesetee and his wife Seeta who also carves, have three daughters and a son.

Already, his six-year-old son asks for tools so he, too, can carve, but his father says he'll have to wait until he's older.

Meekeesetee has worked for short periods at other jobs, but sculpture is his life now. He carves all winter to support his family, and in the summer he likes to sit outside, carving with his friends.

Although he likes to hunt, a neck injury he suffered in a car accident has hampered his ability.

"I really want to learn more about sculpture," he said, "I want to learn more about the old stories of our people long ago."

How's Your Diet? Computers Judge

A visit to the Ontario Science Centre this summer may help you get in shape.

At the Science Centre, 770 Don Mills Road, Toronto, your children from seven to 17 can test their physical fitness. Tell the kids to bring their sneakers so that they can take Canada Fitness Scheme testing on the lower patio of the centre.

How about your diet?

A computer will ask you to divulge your eating habits in the Nutrition display of the Hall of Life. It will then give you personal advice on how to modify your eating habits for better health. There's a nutrition expert on hand, too.

In the Hall of Life, too, you can find out your mass and height in kilograms and even have your fat calipered to determine what percentage of your body weight is fat. Taking those measurements is part of a physical fitness estimate for adults. There's an electrophrygmomanometer which will take your blood pressure and allows you to listen to what the doctor hears when he takes your blood pressure. A hand dynamometer will test your grip strength and a jump board will test the power of your leg muscles.

A spirometer measures the capacity of lungs to take in and breath out air and a peak flow meter will measure in litres per minute the rate of expulsion of air from lungs. An ergometer will measure changes in body function as you exercise on a bicycle and a cardiotone will let you hear the sound of your heart. If you visit the centre, you can even take an instantaneous heart rate with an earpiece.

The Science Centre is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday from July 1 to September 1.

What does inflation mean in real terms? Try keeping records to find out. Two years ago, for example, you probably paid about $3.80 for a flat — eight quarts — of strawberries. So far this year the price is more than $5.50 and doesn't show much inclination to drop. That's a pretty hefty increase — almost one-third — but one that's not out of line with the general trend. Since strawberry plants reproduce themselves you can guess that the increase in that labor-intensive business is caused by the fact that the growers need more money to live now than they did in 1973, just like everyone else.

Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. asked recently that owners of Versatronic oven range-microwave ovens not use the microwave function until they can be checked for radiation leakage. The models involved are JB86002 and JB86003.

The announcement came after the United States Food and Drug Administration advised 17,500 owners of General Electric microwave ovens to discontinue use until they are inspected for excessive radiation leakage.

According to CGE, the unit's conventional oven and surface elements are still in use.

Countertop microwave ovens are not involved according to the company.

Doris Bids Readers Fond Farewell

Dear Readers: I looked at the calendar and realized that we had been getting to know one another — as pen pals — for the last 15 years. I hope you will feel I have reached out in love over the many miles of our broad Canada, and that we have become friends.

I also hope my chief reason for writing to you has been accomplished. And what is that? Mainly, to make sure you know there is a profession which can come to your rescue or mine — when we are in difficulty with the people we care about: Social Work!

Just as a doctor can examine the physical body of an individual with a pain, link up symptoms and diagnose a disease, a social worker talks with the fellow who suffers mental agony because he is in trouble with his associates or loved ones, and digs for the underlying cause.

Just as a doctor then prescribes treatment toward a cure, the social worker also treats the mental or emotional disturbance. He gives understanding; positive ideas; and stays with the human in trouble until progress is achieved towards mentally healthy, "Successful Living", once more.

We have many hundreds of university graduates (Masters of Social Work) in Canada who are doing just that. Social work has grown in the last quarter century until people are less hesitant to consult a specialist about whatever seems to have gone wrong — psychologically or physically. And that is all to the good.

There are times when every single one of us needs to unburden to someone. And that unburdening can make all the difference, especially if it is done to one who has studied human behavior and its treatment — namely, a social worker.

I'm reluctant to leave you — all of you. We have shared and moments, and glad ones (thank Heaven!); we have even shared our live of poetry! And the editors, carrying "Successful Living" have cheered me on.

It now seems clearly indicated that there is one area of human need which is not being met — sufficiently. People are living longer — but are they living longer happily? Some are. Yet there is a notable proportion of our older folk who feel like put-downs, back numbers, — Horrible thought.

A recent survey showed that aging people were concerned more about loneliness, boredom and uselessness, than they were about finances. So we have to usher in a Mature Age; an age in which our oldsters can share hard won knowledge and take their rightful place in the economy of their beloved Canada.

I aim to lend a helping hand to the effort. I'll be reporting from time to time; so it is not good-bye. Just — be seeing you! And thank you, all of you, for tuning in on me for this long time — Doris Clark, M.S.W.

BARBARA HAYMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayman of Belleville, recently graduated from University of Waterloo with her Bachelor of Arts in Sociology. She will be attending Teacher's College at the University of Western Ontario in the Fall.

Williams — Putman

Mr. and Mrs. David Williams

The June 7 wedding of Beth Doreen Putman and David Charles Williams was conducted by Rev. John Morrison and Rev. Paul Packman in St. Mark's United Church in Carrying the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Putman of RR 6, Belleville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Williams.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an heir-loom-style gown of white cotton she designed herself, with a square neck edged in wide embroidered lace and bell-shaped sleeves. Narrow tucks gathered the bodice to the waistline from which lace inserts and alternating tucks fell to the floor. Her ivory illusion veil was chapel length, and her bouquet was red roses, white gardenias and baby's breath.

The bride's sister, Sherrie Helen Putman, was maid of honor in a two-piece gown of rose jersey with a burgundy and white pattern. Wide white lace edged the top and jacket, which had matching lace on the cuffs and buttoned buttons to the waist. A pink straw hat and a bouquet of blue bachelor's buttons, pink carnations, daisies and baby's breath completed the ensemble.

Bridesmaids were Patricia Inch, the groom's sister, Joyce Patterson, and Janice Pound, who wore outfits identical to the maid of honor, matching hats and bouquets.

Junior bridesmaid Kimberly Putman, the bride's cousin wore a gown in pink and similar to the other attendants with a pink and burgundy design, with a beige hat, and a bouquet matching the others.

The groom's best man was John Kelly of Halifax. His ushers were his cousin Leonard Tate, the groom's brother David Putman and Rick Nichizaki.

After a dinner and dance at the Quinte Hotel, the newly-married couple travelled to Antigua for their honeymoon. They now live at 588 Lakeshore Road, Burlington.

SUSAN ELAINE WANNAMAKER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Wannamaker of Belleville, graduated from Weston University, London, with Bachelor of Arts Degree in Social Sciences. Susan will be attending London Teacher's College in September. She is a graduate of Moira Secondary School.

GARY EDWARD FLEMING, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rose Fleming, Prankford, received his Bachelor of Arts degree in geography from Wilfrid Laurier University at convocation on May 25. In September he will be attending Duncan McArthur Hall, at Queen's University in the Bachelor of Education program. Gary is a graduate of Centennial Secondary School.

Veteran Columnist Retires

For more than 14 years, readers of The Intelligencer have daily had the advice of a social worker at their fingertips.

Doris Clark, a Master of Social Work, has since March 1961 written the column "Successful Living", which appeared in this newspaper and later in as many as 17 daily newspapers and 45 weekly newspapers in the United States and Canada.

The column was first published by Intelligencer publisher Dr. Gerald Morton.

"He persuaded this human relations effort of mine more, I think, because he wanted to encourage a Canadian writer than because my work was all that wonderful," Doris Clark said in a farewell letter to The Intelligencer, recently.

"He did believe that it was sincere and I know that he lived the ideas that my knowledge was authentic and had been gained through many years of university study as well as practice in the field."

Now Miss Clark has decided to retire from the business of writing a regular column. The column which appeared on today's women's pages will be her last.

Instead, she will continue and expand her work with persons of relatively age who need counselling for their new life style.

For several years she has assisted social workers with whom she lives in Hamilton, with a course "Preparation for retirement" - at Mohawk College.

The reapons of students "made us feel that our course ought to be expanded and followed up by a phase two", she says.

Born and raised in Hamilton, Miss Clark graduated in arts with post graduate studies in social work from McGill University. She received a vocational guidance diploma from McMaster University and later received the degree of Master of Social Work from the University of Toronto.

For more than 20 years she worked in her field in Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal. Then, in the fall of 1960, began researching her column which appeared the following spring.

Besides her professional affiliation, Doris Clark is an active member of Olivet United Church where she at one time led a BI-C class. She plays the piano and guitar for relaxation and enjoys bridge.

Her sister, Mary Moore, a syndicated food columnist, lives nearby.

In spite of the fact that Miss Clark is terminating her column, she intends to continue writing the occasional article as well as spend time attending meetings, reading literature and studying gerontology in connection with her work with sister Pearl at Mohawk College.

Ann Landers

Lost Chord Club — All Ex-smokers

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you said, "I hope I'm not boring my readers to death with the subject of cigarette letters."

Please don't give up the fight, Ann. People listen to you and we need all the help we can get to educate the public. I hope you'll print one more letter from a member of the "Lost Chord Club." Here it is:

Dear Friends: I was a resident of Gatlinburg for over 10 years. My name is Ray Calloway. I was a heavy smoker for 20 years and am a member of the "Lost Chord Club." Anyone who wants to join can by no means do so. I gave up the fight. I quit cold turkey. I was checked out at M. D. Anderson, University of Texas Hospital in Houston. They told me my vocal chords and voice box, plus two malignant tumors had to be removed. That was in January of '75.

Since then I have undergone a laryngectomy. I couldn't even speak it and I'd had two years of college. What it means is the removal of the vocal chords and voice box and you have to get a new voice box and you have to learn to stand around where they are camouflaged admirably, their almost black cons blending perfectly with the fire-blackened veld.

The young are born in March and start life with a fox-colored brown coat behind horns to dark brown before they are a year old. The horns of both sexes have a rapier-like tip although the horns of the bull are longer, thicker and more massive.

Sable are not good runners and depend on their horns for protection, going to bay readily when attacked by lions or wild dogs.

The sable crouches down on the ground and deliberately entices its adversary to attack. If this attack comes from the rear a lightning sideways sweep of the horns, which can reach well behind the hindquarters, will impale any animal which happens to be in the way.

Wild dogs seldom fall victim to this defence, but domestic dogs which attack a sable bull are often killed. In an attack by dogs, it is not uncommon for a whole herd to sit down and successfully fend off the enemy.

At the Wankie National Park tourists have watched a single bull beat off an attack by five lions. The lions made repeated rushes to get the bull to run so that one of their number could leap on its back, but the bull would have none of it. When darkness fell the duel was still going on.

Next day there was no sign of either the lions or the bull—evidently the sable had won.

A good sable bull weighs more than 500 pounds and stands as high as 56 to 61 inches at the shoulder. The horns of the bulls run as much as four feet in a magnificent backward curve which is almost a semicircle.

A herd seldom has more than one mature bull and some fights to the death occur surplus bulls roam separately or in small parties—the herd for the position of leader. The of bulls at Wankie numbers about 20.

Sable Still Roam Rhodesia

BALLISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — The last big herds of the magnificent sable antelope are in Rhodesia.

Perhaps the biggest and best sable can be found at the Victoria Falls Game Reserve, on the Rhodesian bank of the Zambezi River. There herds, and there are several of them, number more than 200 of the outstanding antelope.

Sable are not uncommon in the Wankie National Park, about 60 miles to the south but the herds are not as large.

They also occur in other parts of Rhodesia, including a herd which has been established at the McIlwaine National Park a few miles outside of Salisbury.

The range of the individual herds is limited. Predominantly grazers, they are likely to lose ground when they come into competition with either cattle or buffalo for feeding areas.

They will eat leaves if not enough grazing is available but show a marked preference for new grass in burnt-out areas, where they are camouflaged admirably, their almost black cons blending perfectly with the fire-blackened veld.

Too Few Trained Workers To Help Unhappy Teen-agers

TORONTO (CP) — An estimated 75,000 teen-agers in Ontario are moderately to severely disturbed, but health and social workers are "reaching" only about 30,000, a ministry of health official says.

Douglas Finlay, acting director of children's mental health services for the health ministry, said there is a lack of trained and experienced people to deal with adolescents.

He said communities should take more responsibility for disturbed youths in their midst. People should allow group treatment homes in their neighborhood, become foster parents and adopt children with handicaps, he said.

Dr. Noeni Rae-Grant, a former director of children's mental health services, said emotionally disturbed teen-agers are "kids who are causing unhappiness either to their family or themselves or their communities."

"The problem is often in the eye of the beholder," she said.

Dr. Rae-Grant said children can show disturbance between the ages of two and three. She said she would like every day-care centre to have a trained social worker, because problems often are spotted at the centres.

Hospitals should become more involved with the problems of disturbed teen-agers and should take a second look at emergency cases, an official of the Children's Aid Society of Metropolitan Toronto said.

"It is regrettable that when a kid cuts his wrists, the hospital bandages them and sends him off," said James Davis, director of admissions and assessment at the society.

"There is no attempt to examine the reasons for the attempted suicide," he said.

Mr. Davis said the government should set up an authority to review cases of children who are difficult to place in treatment centres so that agencies do not have to beg treatment centres to take in some children.

Mr. Finlay said multi-handicapped children are difficult to place, but services are being started for deaf children who are emotionally disturbed.

The government should provide more funds for preventive counselling in the home, said an official of the Catholic Children's Aid Society of Metropolitan Toronto.

Ronald Arellano, assistant executive director of the society, said about $13,000 can be spent to keep a child in a treatment centre—"If we could spend half that on prevention."

Social workers should be able to visit families twice a week to do marriage and family counselling, but, because of their caseloads, they are lucky if they visit a family once a month, Mr. Arellano said.

Increase Granted

HAMILTON (CP) — The Status of Women Council here has been granted an increase in its budget from the city board of control. Special projects include hiring a full-time stenographer for the year, an audio-visual display outlining opportunities for women, a "communication clearing house" and visits to 18 companies about women employees there.

Thanks for telling your story.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a petty gripe compared with the load of serious problems that face you daily, but it's driving me nuts.

My aunt (a dear woman in her 80s) sends cards and gifts to our little girl (age four) addressed to "Mistress Mary Smith." I dislike such fancy, upsity-sounding "titles" but don't want to offend my aunt least.

Will you comment, please? Aunts is a daily reader and will surely recognize herself. Thanks for doing my dirty work. —Lo-No-Nee

Dear Lo: Why be annoyed? The poor woman is ignorant.

She obviously believes "Mistress" is the female counterpart for "Master" — which it isn't. The next time you see Aunts take out a dictionary and point out the definition of "Mistress." You can both have a good laugh and that will be the end of it.

Dear Ann: Millions of people read your letter today. I'm sure, somewhere, somehow, you will get through to somebody.

'Cosmic' Poetry Springs from Trance

TORONTO (CP) — At 5 a.m., Helena de Silaghi Sirag got up, made herself a cup of coffee, sat at a table with pen and paper in front of her and began "to concentrate very, very hard." That is the last detail she remembers.

"How long I was sitting at that table I don't know," she recalled. "When I woke up it must have been around 9:30. My head was cracking. I barely had the strength to stagger over to the couch for a minute I didn't know where I was. I became violently sick."

Hours later, the 54-year-old Romanian-born artist recovered and returned to the table to her Burlington, Ont., home. She found the paper covered with writing.

Some words were illegible. Others made sense. And, finally, there were gatherings of neat little verses.

Dr. Joel Whitton, a graphologist and expert in the science of Rhythmic handwriting, interviewed Helena, known to her friends as Bobbi, at the Clarke Institute of Psychiatry.

He said the phenomenon of automatic handwriting, or writing under an induced hypnotic trance, is rare. And he had never heard of anyone whose automatic writing took the form of poetry.

Bobbi, who has churned out more than 200 poems since the original incident last July, cannot account for it.

"I'm not a romantic," she said. "I've never been a poetry fan."

Jean Edmonson, an insurance writer who had been staying overnight with Bobbi at the time of the original incident but did not witness it, was astonished when she read the first verses.

"The words she was using—words like 'ephemeral,' she said. "I had never heard her use words like that before. Her English is what you might call fractured."

Bobbi, who obtained an art degree in Bucharest and travelled widely exhibiting her paintings before coming to Canada in 1949, said she has been travelling astrally since she was 14 and that her paintings reflect her cosmic experiences.

She said she has been examined repeatedly by psychiatrists who have pronounced her sane and that her astral body, encompassing the soul, mind and psyche, is 6,000 years old.

She gave up painting when she started her writing experiments but Dr. Whitton has illustrated her first published book of astral poems with watercolor sketches.

Bobbi went to Dr. Whitton last fall because she was suffering physical pain and mental depression as a result of her experiments.

After a lengthy series of tests and interviews, he helped her control muscle spasms which were causing headaches and arm stiffness and she learned to ease herself into trances in a more relaxed manner.

Bobbi said she believes an inner ego, dead or alive, may be transmitting the poems to her telepathically.

Colorful Conversion

The once drab streets of Glasgow in Scotland are undergoing a dramatic and colorful conversion. Vivid murals painted by local artists are appearing on the walls of old houses throughout the industrial city. It is all part of an experiment, initiated by the Scottish Arts Council, designed to cheer up dull urban surroundings. (CP Photo)

Tobacco Land Grows Peanuts

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Farmer Niklas Majewski of Tillsonburg gave up five acres of valuable acreage for peanuts in a noble experiment.

He hopes the peanuts will result in a successful crop in Ontario's experimental peanut planting in the tobacco country. An Ontario Agricultural College special research team is planting five-acre plots on three other farms in tobacco country.

"What we're doing here is a commercial type operation," said Dr. Elwood Hatley, an agronomist with the college's crop science department. "We're doing what we think farmers will have to do for a successful crop."

Establishment of a peanut-growing industry in the sandy-loam soil is looked for as a result of the research. The federal government granted the researchers funds to explore the peanut crop possibility.

The Spanish peanuts planted on Mr. Majewski's land are expected to show the first green shoots two weeks after the seed is planted. Harvest occurs in late September and early October, past the harvest time for tobacco.

"If it's going to work in a tobacco area, it can't compete with tobacco," said Dr. Hatley, who has been conducting the study for two years.

The research team has received money from Canadian peanut processors who have shown interest in the enterprise, especially since the team raised a good crop under adverse weather conditions last year. The harvesting of peanuts can be accomplished with mechanical units without much labor.

Canadian processors import more than $40 million worth of peanuts and peanut products annually, often at the mercy of fluctuating world prices and supply. Fifty million pounds of Canadian peanut butter is produced a year.

Scientists hope that one day production could be able to satisfy the needs of the domestic market and provide a surplus for export. Although peanuts have been grown in most of the eight main counties of the Tobacco belt for years, these "horticultural curiosities" are looked upon as the basis of a cash crop.

Scottish Artists Endeavor To Brighten Glasgow's Slums

GLASGOW (CP) — In the drab and depressing district of Partick, where slums have been demolished to make ready for new housing, the gable ends of the remaining old houses stand gaunt, grey and crumbling.

But on one four storey gable-end, a mural is painted—Blue Sky Against Grey Sky. It shows an innocent-eyed boy seated on a dog. On one side is a dove and on the other a crescent moon and a butterfly. Reaching up to the chimneys are clouds on a blue and grey sky.

It is the work of Scottish artist John Byrne and is part of a pilot plan of the Scottish Arts Council (SAC) to cheer up this industrial city.

SAC was inspired by a similar scheme in New York. Glasgow artists were invited to submit designs, of which four were chosen.

John Byrne's work, begun last September, was completed in only 16 days in spite of bad weather. The artist was helped by a professional sign writer, Ian Bateman, and two men leaned by a scaffolding firm.

Byrne, 34, is well known for a wide variety of work. After attending art schools in Glasgow and Edinburgh he won a scholarship which took him to Italy to study. On his return he worked as a graphic designer for Scottish Television and has had shows in Glasgow, Edinburgh, London, Sydney, Bratislava, Zagreb, Lugano and Los Angeles.

Glasgow reactions to Byrne's mural were, even among older and conservative residents, almost all favorable. Inevitably some local lads painted in a few comments at the base of the painting but they could not reach high enough to deface the main picture. Encouraged, the SAC went ahead with plans for a second mural at the special request of the residents' association of the Govanhill area.

Jim Torrance painted a gable-end flat grey with an abstract design in brilliant primary colors. One remarkable aspect is that although in every city paintings and posters tend to be defaced, often by children or gangs of youths, the residents of Govanhill have seen to it that nothing should happen to spoil their very own street art.

Jim Torrance, born in 1946 in Ayrshire, Robert Burns' county, works as a free-lance in the world of commercial art and was a runner-up in British Aluminium's 1971 sculpture competition.

The biggest site yet is in the Charing Cross area of Glasgow. The artist is Stan Bell, who has been working experimentally in three-dimensional metal relief.

This will be his first outdoor commission and he loves to use aluminium for the brilliant design in silver and black he has planned for the gable end.

"I am interested in the use of metal in art, interested too in the use of light and sound," he said in an interview. "I paint, I do some silk screen printing, some free-standing sculpture—now comes this exciting opportunity. This is a good time in Scotland for there is a rebirth of interest in the arts."

The cause of the resuscitation is Bell thinks, partly that the discovery of the country's rich natural resources of gas and oil have made the people realize that they have a better economic future than most of them had ever envisaged. There is a renewed pride, a desire to preserve the best of the historic past and to develop new beliefs for the arts.

Sleep 20 Cents a Minute At Rhodesian Luxury Hotel

VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia (CP)—This country's most expensive hotel has recently opened with eight hours' sleep costing 20 cents a minute.

The new Elephant Hills Country Club just outside Victoria Falls is charging a cool $100 Rhodesian for a suite. In Canadian currency that's almost $200.

That is the charge for eight hours sleep no breakfast in an executive suite at this combination hotel-casino-golf club.

The manager of the $1,400,000 enterprise, John Creavan, agrees that it is the rich man who is being catered for.

"It is definitely not for the family man," he says. "This is the exclusive bracket. The charges are high.

"We offer the best of service, comfort and accommodation to the man who can afford it."

The executive suites contain a large twin-bedded room, bathroom with walls of imported German tiles and bidet, an extra toilet, a valet's room, large lounge with stereo, tape deck and bar, and a veranda with a panoramic view of the Zambezi River and the spray of famed

Stutz Blackhawk Expensive Auto

CAVALLERMAGGIORE, Italy (Reuter) — In an age of economy cars and soaring gasoline prices, a tiny factory here is building a $41,500 machine that gets only 10 miles to the gallon.

The Stutz Blackhawk, inspired by a 1930s trend-setter, is the second most expensive car in the world after the Rolls-Royce Camargue, and is produced in what once was a barn in this small medieval town in Northern Italy.

While workers in the nearby giant Fiat works in Turin suffer the consequences of a motor industry slump, the Stutz factory is thriving.

Singer Elvis Presley has four Stutz and actor Dean Martin has two. Middle East oil sheiks are among other buyers.

For their money they get a completely hand-built car put together by 35 of the last surviving craftsmen in the Italian motor industry. They turn out five cars a month, each requiring 1,000 working hours.

The car has distinctly 1930s sports car lines. It has a spare wheel on the trunk lid, in place by a hong plated in low-carat gold. There are external exhausts protruding, independently mounted headlights.

The manufacturers say it is the biggest two-door sports car in the world—19 feet long, 6.5 feet wide and 4.25 feet high.

The instruments are rimmed in 18-carat gold—which also plates the cigarette lighter—and the seats are covered in thick English leather.

The body is made of special extra heavy steel. It takes 18 coats of paint, and there's a choice of 36 colors. Standard features are stereo tape player and radio, electric sun roof, electric windows, air conditioning—and a floor covering of thick New Zealand wool, or if preferred, mink.

It also has an adjustable horn emitting noises from a gentle hook to a blaring klaxon at the flick of a switch.

In Cavallermaggiore, the car no longer attracts attention, but farther afield it's a real head-turner.

The Stutz is mainly the brain child of one man, New York investment banker James O'Donnell, who says he saw one of the original Blackhawks in Allentown, Pa., as a boy and has dreamed about it ever since.

The idea of building a modern luxury version began in 1967. It was designed by the late Virgil Exner, chief stylist of the Chrysler Motor Co.

The present builders bought rights to the Stutz name and a model of the old car for $200,000, O'Donnell said.

The chassis and engine of the car are both made by General Motors. The engine is the General Motors 455, which powers the Buick and Pontiac Grand Prix. Maximum speed is about 108 m.p.h.

The metalworkers, recruited from all over northern Italy, bend metal with hand tools, helping to make the car truly one-of-a-kind. A door from one Stutz would not fit another.

The exterior trim is moulded in brass and chrome-plated. There are 300 pounds of brass in each car. The bumpers, so heavy they are difficult to lift, take four hours to make.

There now are about 175 Stutz in use.

Two Held After Chases

FRANKFORD — Constable Fred Fry of Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville found himself involved in two high speed chases within 24 hours Friday and today.

A police spokesman said today Gerald Foole, 31, of RR 3, Trenton has been charged with dangerous driving and impaired driving following a pursuit at about 2:30 a.m. Friday near this village and Donald F. Mitts, 30, of RR 3, Frankford, has been charged with dangerous driving after a chase in the same area at about 2:30 a.m. today.

Both men are scheduled to make their initial provincial court appearance July 14 in Belleville.

The spokesman said the first chase, a distance of about eight miles, began on County Rd. Five and ended at Highway 33 near Concession Six of Sidney Township where the driver was apprehended.

He said the second incident, involving a 4½ mile chase, began in this village and ended on Highway 33 near Batawa. Several cars were forced off the road during the second pursuit, the spokesman added.

Dief Visits Picton

PICTON — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker was to arrive here today to participate in dedication services for the sanctuary at the Prince Edward County Museum.

Mr. Diefenbaker was to land by plane at the Prince Edward Flying Club air field and attend dedication ceremonies at the museum at 2.30 p.m.

Although the county museum was opened officially in 1973 the sanctuary or chancel area has been completed only recently.

Focal point of the area is a stain glass window donated by Picton's late mayor H. J. McFarland in memory of his mother, Della.

New Home

Clinton Vader here is seeing a "dream come true" as his firm marks the official opening of its new car showroom on College St. Mr. Vader has further plans of building a roof over his entire outdoor parking area.

Last Canadian Outing

Survey Shows No Abuse Of BGH Bed Facilities

Initial results of a recently-devised weekly patient survey at Belleville General Hospital (BGH) to determine possible abuses of bed utilization have revealed no offenders, says Dr. Reg Anderson, BGH medical director.

In his report to the BGH Board of Governors Friday, Dr. Anderson commented, "there is no evidence that any physician or physicians are regular offenders in the matter of over-stay of patients."

He continued, "it is unusual to discover a patient occupying an active treatment bed whose stay in hospital cannot be justified."

Dr. Anderson explained total number of patients in hospital longer than two weeks is "remarkably constant on a weekly basis. "There are usually about six surgical patients and about 40 medical patients or about 16 per cent of all patients involved," he said.

"Seldom is a patient kept for long in an active treatment bed once arrangements have been made for transfer to the WCA Wing."

Dr. Anderson concluded; "there has been no indication that patients are occupying active treatment beds while under investigation which could be carried out on an out-patient basis."

He told the board the bed use control "is probably as good as any yet attempted. It provides a permanent record of the cases reviewed each week . . . in addition to the immediate benefit of disclosing any cases whose stay in hospital is dubious."

The survey was announced in April in an annual report to the board by Dr. Douglas A. MacIntosh, BGH chief of staff, who noted the new method would mean beds should be obtained more rapidly on the days during which they are needed.

S. A. Armstrong Opens Latest City Industry

S.A. Armstrong Ltd. officially opened its doors as a member of Belleville's industrial community Friday.

The firm manufactures castings from sand moulds and employs 45 people in its Belleville operation. The plant is situated on more than six acres of land in the city's north west industrial park.

Company president Jim Armstrong held a gathering of company and civic dignitaries at the lunch-time opening ceremonies "today's opening marks the end of a year of hard work, trials and tribulations."

Mr. Armstrong said the plant has short range plans of expanding the staff from 45 to 60. "It's a great day culminating a year's efforts," he said.

S.A. Armstrong has plants and warehouse facilities across Canada and the United States and England. A company spokesman said the firm enjoys not only a solid domestic market but also an international selling sphere.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey, who one year ago laid the cornerstone of the plant, cut the ribbon officially opening the building.

Though still in the tentative stages, the company's ultimate goal would include expansion of the plant to include a machining operation — the step which follows sand casting.

A company spokesman said that stage would not come for at least five years and that such a move would depend entirely on the economy of the business.

Vader's New Showroom 'Dream Come True'

Big cars are done and little cars are here to stay, says Clinton Vader, owner of Vaders Car Sales.

Mr. Vader Friday celebrated the grand opening of his new show room and service facilities on College St. next door to Quinte Secondary School.

"For a long time the big companies were running to have cycle going from big to little and back and forth," said Mr. Vader. "I don't think the current interest in small cars is a cycle. I think the small car is here for good."

"Especially with gas prices the way they are," he said.

In the car business most of his life, Mr. Vader said during an interview the opening of his new show room "is a dream come true." But, the dream is not yet complete.

He must wait for the owner of the city's first completely new car lot.

Mr. Vader said there is a possibility" within the next year or so that he will cover his new and used cars with an upper deck that will be both a roof and a second floor parking facility.

"It has been a dream for long time," he said. "It just may happen this year."

Yardmen Band Plays Own Swan Song

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Belleville Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps played an unscheduled concert Friday night for the sponsors who may be taking their instruments away from them.

Hugh Boyd, director of the band and one of its original founders, said in an interview with The Intelligencer Friday: "They're supposed to have all the instruments to be turned in Tuesday. I don't know if we'll get them back."

The situation came to a head in the last two weeks after a proposed amalgamation of the Belleville band with the Kingston Yardmen — a move that would give both bands the needed size and strength to compete against other North American drum and bugle corps. Combined, the two groups can field 80 marching members. It was a composite of both bands which played last night.

Yardmen spokesmen appeared to be taken by surprise.

Secretary Ernie Belanger, said during an interview he had no comment to make and that: "It's none of your business. I don't know anything at all."

Kingston corps director John Hagmann said: "We're trying to come up with a championship corps. The amalgamation is for competitions only and that both bands will retain their identities in their own communities."

The Kingston corps will be able to find instruments for the Belleville members if it comes to that," he said.

A meeting has been scheduled for the middle of next week between the band and the benefit fund to come to grips with the problem.

"We have to play and that's that," said Mr. Boyd. "We have signed contracts to perform in four competitions this summer and we'll be fined $1,000 each time we do not show up."

Mr. Boyd said he had formed the Yardmen of the amalgamation four weeks ago.

Bus Drivers Oppose Reduced Transit Hours

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville bus drivers are upset with Monday's council decision to pull city buses off the streets two hours earlier in the evening during July and August.

Council accepted a recommendation from the Belleville Transit Commission (BTC) that evening bus hours be reduced by two hours from 11:45 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. starting June 30.

Harry Gritts, a bus driver and spokesman for the city's 34 full-time drivers, said Friday the reduction in hours will cause an inconvenience to customers. He said it will not affect the bus drivers, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Transport and General Workers, Local 126.

Mr. Gritts, 26, said "we sympathize with the general public because many people still want to use the service after 9:45 p.m." He said it will also affect hospital shift workers who use the public transportation on a regular basis.

He said the bus drivers did not encourage or recommend to the commission to reduce the hours. However, Mr. Gritts said Local 126 will give the commission a written protest suggesting an alternative.

BTC manager Lewis McMullin said the new hours will only be in effect until the end of August when he will re-evaluate the program.

He said "the commission has been operating at such a staggering deficit that this is one measure they could take to reduce costs."

However, Mr. McMullin added that if the commission receives many complaints the full-service may have to be re-instated.

Mr. McMullin said the BTC welcomes the comments of people who use the system. He said the night service operates at more "of a loss" than during the day.

Helicopters Speed Rescue

TRENTON — The chances for survival of a downed aircraft pilot or a stranded hunter in Lake Ontario will be substantially improved this fall when three helicopters begin service as search and rescue craft at CFB Trenton.

Three helicopters will replace the three twin-engined Otters now stationed with 424 Squadron, the base search and rescue co-ordinator.

Base information officer Capt. Wayne Crost said this week the arrival of the helicopters will mean that once found, any pilot or hunter, can be immediately rescued.

Now, said the captain, the Otters "could search, but once found them, it couldn't rescue."

Chopper Now Here

Air Maintenance Development Unit worker Jerry Claveau works on the newest addition to CFB Trenton, a two-rotor Voyageur helicopter. The chopper, now in storage is one of three that will be brought into service this fall as a search and rescue aircraft with 424 Squadron. The twin-engine Otter's now used by the squadron will be shifted to other duties in western Canada.

Gas — Higher Price Means Less Travel for Many

A major item in Finance Minister John Turner's federal budget this week was a 10-cent-a-gallon excise tax on a gallon of gasoline for private cars.

The increase pushed the price for a gallon of regular grade gas to between 72 and 80 cents at most Belleville service stations.

A further five-cent-a-gallon hike is expected later this summer when a $1.50-a-barrel increase for the price of oil is felt at the retail level.

The price of natural gas also went up.

In an informal survey this week, The Intelligencer asked Belleville residents if the sudden jump in prices will alter their driving habits.

BOB PERRY

A retired post office employee, Bob Perry, 66, of Campbellford said he "won't be driving any much" because of the 10 cent excise tax.

"I'll have to cut down on my leisure driving," Mr. Perry said.

"If they have to have the money for exploration, the tax is okay," Mr. Perry commented.

Mr. Perry claimed people are being "ripped-off" by some gas dealers.

"I can't see it. These dealers should not have raised their prices so soon," Mr. Perry stated. "It's still their old stock."

DAVID ARCHER

David Archer, a 31-year-old travelling salesman from Oshawa, said the tax "will not affect my business because of the rebates (to business) but it will affect my vacation."

Mr. Archer owns a boat and he said he was planning a trip up the Rideau Canal. "I'll be changing my plans," he added.

"Before the increase, it was already 72.9 cents at the marina. Tack another 15 cents, by the end of the summer, and at 88.9 cents per gallon, I feel I don't need that type of holiday," Mr. Archer said.

Mr. Archer said he feels "Alberta got the better of the deal".

SHARON PRUDDEN

Sharon Prudden, a 19-year-old Belleville resident, is a non-driver but said she feels the tax will affect her.

"When I go somewhere, I usually chip in on the gas and now with the increase, my share will probably break me," Miss Prudden said.

"My summer fun will certainly go because I won't ski," Miss Prudden said.

The increased price of natural gas will also affect the Prudden family.

"We have a big old house and we use a lot of gas for heating," Miss Prudden stated.

LINDA FOLEY

An 18-year-old Belleville housewife, Linda Foley said, "We'll be cutting down on our driving."

"We pay a lot on our rent, and with the baby to support, and now this tax, it's going to hurt," Mrs. Foley said.

"The only driving we'll be doing is going for groceries and going to work," Mrs. Foley said.

"It's going to cause a lot of trouble for everyone," Mrs. Foley commented.

Mrs. Foley stated, "We're having it hard, I know that much."

WALT HOLLISTER

The initial reaction of Walt Hollister of Tweed, to the increase was one of surprise.

"If the tax was put on at different times over a certain period, it would not have had such an affect," Mr. Hollister said.

The 39-year-old plant manager said he will be "more conscious of short, unnecessary trips."

The tax is valid if it is used properly, Mr. Hollister said.

"If it is going to exploration, it certainly is justified, but if it is supposed to be a deterrent to driving, it's a waste," Mr. Hollister commented.

MARGARET DART

A 21-year-old Belleville nurse, Margaret Dart said the increase will not affect her driving.

"I don't like paying the 10 cents more but it won't affect me," Mrs. Dart said.

"A lot of people are putting it down but Trudeau is doing a pretty good job so there must be a good reason," Mrs. Dart commented.

Mrs. Dart said she felt it won't affect many people that much."

"People will complain but after awhile it will slow down and it will be forgotten," Mrs. Dart stated.

Yardmen Pull Up Stakes, Macs on Their Own

As of Belleville's entry in the Ontario Football League they had enough troubles. Now the gods of finance have decided to lower on them.

"I don't know why," queried Mac GM Doug Adams, "they didn't really give us much of a reason. They just said we were cut off."

So far this season the McDonald's have suffered from roster instability, player-performance inconsistency, executive and coaching troubles (some by choice, least the knowledge that not even they could lose every game).

Things began to happen. The Macs still lost, but with every outing they began to look more and more like a ball team. Then, as if sent from heaven, the entire club played an inspired, exciting brand of football. Their kind of football.

That was Sunday (they dumped the Confederate 3-0). Thursday, Adams was notified that the team would have to bear the added burden of bus expenditures. The Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund had guillotined all backing, in the form of bus service, to the team.

"They had a meeting Thursday," said Adams, "and after the meeting Bob Turcotte phoned me and told me we had been cut out of financial support."

"He didn't explain why," resumed Adams, "just said something about having to cut back."

The McDonald's, much to the surprise of most of their followers, do not have money rolling out their laurels. True, they are the McDonald's, but they received a pittance from from the giant of the fast food industry. All they get was enough to pay for the uniforms with the bit Mac's on the front, beyond that Mc. Donald's Restaurant is not liable to throw even an ear by their way.

As a matter of fact, the Macs are one of only two self-supporting clubs in the OFL. (The other is Woodstock.) Every other team has someone picking up the tab for them. Belleville's cousins looked after through gate receipts. If the gate dies the Macs too shall be laid to rest.

An agreement at the first of the season gave the club bus paid for by the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund.

"That was one of the things we had to do," he decide to purchase a franchise," added Adams. "If we had known they weren't going to keep up their support for the second year we wouldn't even have risked entering a team."

"We knew we wouldn't be able to afford buses and out of house expenses," he said, "we've been out of town two weekend trips twice, and it's cost us over $500 just for meals and accomodations."

"Throw another $300-$400 on top of that for a bus and you get way out of our range," he explained.

Turcotte, one of the compatriots of the Macs, earlier attempted to defend his corporations position as, "we just have to cut back somewhere."

Ernie Stonner, treasurer of the Yardmen Fund, explained, "we're getting it up to date by the provincial government. They're really crucifying down on us. We can't make a move without getting their approval first and some of the moves we've been making for the past several year, well, we've just been told we can't do certain things anymore."

Turcotte furthered the explanation, "we were told that we could not support a profit making organization."

The Macs, however, are but one meeting away from being a self-supporting, but hardly profit making, club. With the additional overhead of bus rentals, it looks like they may start seeing red.

"I really don't know what we're going to do," pondered Adams, "we're here though and here we're going to stay. We may just go out and buy a bus of our own and work on a deficit budget for the season ahead."

In any event, it appears that the Macs will be back in their sudden love box with the Yardmen. Many of the athletic associations and teams once sponsored by the BYBF, it is rumored will be in for a cold winter.

Plenty of Slugging in AL, Most of It Off the Field

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Friday night's most exciting American League baseball action took place in dressing rooms at Baltimore and Arlington, Tex.

JEFF BURROUGHS

Texas slugger Jeff Burroughs exchanged punches with one team-mate and had to be restrained by manager Billy Martin from going after another before the Rangers' 3-0, 5-6 split of a twi-night doubleheader with the Minnesota Twins.

Billy Martin a peacemaker? That tells you what kind of a night it was in the American League.

And at Baltimore, Detroit manager Ralph Houk allegedly cuffed a Baltimore newspaperman before his Tigers dropped a 3-2 decision to the Orioles.

In other action on the field, Boston Red Sox regained first place in the East Division by trouncing New York Yankees 9-1, Oakland A's stretched their lead in the West to 5½ games with a 12-4 rout of California Angels while second-place Kansas City Royals swept a 4-3 twi-night doubleheader from Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians topped Milwaukee Brewers 6-1.

Dan Ford hit a tie-breaking two-run single as Minnesota scored three times in the ninth inning to beat the Rangers in the nightcap.

Texas' Steve Hargan handcuffed the Twins on six hits and Cesar Tovar and Tom Grieve hit home runs off Bert Blyleven in the opener.

However, the big news in Texas came prior to the doubleheader when Burroughs, accused in a local paper by an anonymous team-mate of loafing in the outfield, exchanged punches in the clubhouse with Joe Lovitto and Martin then had to break up a potential fight between Burroughs and Jim Fregosi.

RALPH HOUK

Burroughs, the most valuable player in the American League in 1974, later shook hands with Lovitto but called Fregosi a "backstabber."

Burroughs, who is hitting .221 with five hits in his last 58 times at bat and was benched Friday night, said he was "mad" at the reporter who wrote the story.

"I'm mad at the people who told him."

Baltimore snapped a five-game losing streak when a double of Mark Belanger's two-strike squeeze bunt in the seventh inning after the tying run scored on a fielder's choice.

Earlier, an assault complaint was filed against Houk for allegedly "roughing up" Phil Hersh, a Baltimore writer. Hersh filed the complaint with Baltimore police after he said Houk assaulted him in the Tigers' locker room minutes before the game.

According the Hersh, he was conducting an interview when Houk called him over to discuss a story in which he was quoted as saying the Tigers had a "losing ball club."

Hersh said as he approached the manager, Houk grabbed him and ordered him to leave the clubhouse.

"Before I could get out, he slapped me in the face and started to drag me across the clubhouse," Hersh said.

"What right do you have to call these guys a losing team?" Hersh said Houk bellowed at him. Hersh said the Tigers' manager struck him several more times in the face.

Boston backed Rick Wise's eight-hit pitching with a timely attack. Doug Griffin drove in three runs with a double and single, Rico Petrocelli drove in two runs while extending his hitting streak to six games with a single and double and Cecil Cooper hit his first home run of the season.

Joe Rudi drove in four runs, and Claudell Washington and Phil Garner two each for Oakland. California pitchers struck out 15 batters but also yielded 16 hits and the Angels contributed six errors.

Bucky Dent's sacrifice fly drove in Chicago's tying run in the ninth and Bob Coluccio scored the winner when reliever Steve Mingori dropped a throw at first base with two out.

Buddy Bell's sixth home run of the season put Cleveland ahead to stay in the fourth inning and two errors by Milwaukee third baseman Don Money set up a three-run fifth.

Expos, Cards Trade 6-4 Wins

MONTREAL (CP) — Two pitchers from Omaha, Neb., shared the spotlight Friday night as St. Louis Cardinals and Montreal Expos split their National League baseball doubleheader.

Veteran right-hander Bob Gibson recorded his 250th major-league victory in the opener as the Cardinals downed the Expos 6-4. Then in the second game, rookie left-hander Dan Warthen pitched six strong innings of relief to record his fourth major-league win as the Expos edged St. Louis 6-4.

"Yes, we're both from Omaha," said Warthen, who started this season with Memphis Blues of the class AAA International League. "I'm one of the greatest admirers of Bob Gibson."

Warthen, who was shelled for seven runs in 2 1-3 innings in his initial major-league start last Tuesday against Cincinnati was anxious to do well Friday night.

"I had a bad start against the Cubs last Tuesday. I wanted to make up for it. For the most part, I was using a lot of sinkers, trying to get ground balls."

Warthen scattered six hits in the six innings he worked after taking over from starter Dave Scanlan in the fourth with the Cards leading 3-2.

But while Warthen seemed enthusiastic about winning, Gibson did not appear overly excited.

Gibson, now 24 on the year, won his first game since May 4 when he beat Philadelphia Phillies. He lasted until the seventh inning when he was yanked with two on and none out and gave up five hits, walked six and fanned one.

"The only difference tonight was that I was getting my breaking ball over. If you don't have the breaking stuff, you just have the fastball. It's tough to pitch with just the fastball.

"No, 250 doesn't mean any more than 249," he said. "It feels good to be able to win a game and help the ball club.

"I want to be part of a winning ball club. I haven't had that."

Gibson, who was dropped for the Cardinals starting rotation earlier this year, was obviously not pleased with the move.

"My problem was that I couldn't get to pitch. I spent three weeks because I pitched well. When they took me out of the starting rotation, one of the pitchers were pitching well. Now that's changed."

Ted Simmons's two-run double capped a three-run rally in the fifth inning of the contest that carried the Cards to their win. Lou Brock also drove in two runs, including one in the ninth when the Cardinals added their fifth and sixth runs.

In the second game, Simmons hit his second homer of the season and of his series in the first inning after Brock had singled to right.

Reggie Smith led off the St. Louis third with a walk and scored on a double by catcher Ted Simmons but expos came back with two in the bottom of the inning on run-scoring singles by Tim Foli and Mike Jorgensen.

Pete Mackanin's triple and Foote's sacrifice fly tied the game in the fourth but the Cardinals grabbed a 4-3 lead in the fifth on a run-scoring double by Reitz, the only run against Warthen.

Mangual led off the fifth with a single for Montreal, stole second and then went to third on an infield out. He came home on Larry Biittner's bloop single to left to tie the score at 4-4.

Mangual then scored the winning run in the seventh when he reached on a fielder's choice, stole second, went to third on a ground out and came home when Smith could not handle Mike Jorgensen's grounder at first.

The teams meet again tonight with a single game set for Sunday afternoon.

Sparky Sure Can Call 'Em

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dan Driessen made Sparky Anderson look like a genius Friday night in a battle of wits with John McNamara.

McNamara, manager of San Diego Padres, decided to issue Johnny Bench an intentional walk to get to the slumping Driessen in the 11th inning of a National League baseball game with Cincinnati Reds.

Anderson, the Reds' manager, decided to let Driessen swing away.

"When the winning run is on, go to whacking," he explained.

So Driessen whacked a Danny Frisella pitch over the right field wall for a three-run homer that gave the Reds a 5-2 victory over the Padres and helped Cincinnati sweep the National League West lead to 5½ games over Los Angeles Dodgers.

In other games Friday, San Francisco Giants belted Los Angeles 10-5, New York Mets beat Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, Atlanta Braves defeated Houston Astros 7-6, Pittsburgh Pirates swept Chicago Cubs 5-1 and 3-2 and St. Louis Cardinals split with Montreal Expos, winning 6-4 and losing 5-4.

Joe Morgan, who had homered in the eighth inning to lift the Reds into a tie, also started the Reds' rally in the 11th with a two-out single and stole second.

Then Bench was given his Cubs free pass to first, bringing up Driessen, fighting a .223 average that included only one homer and five runs batted in before the game.

"He told me to swing away," said Driessen, making a rare start to give slugging first baseman Tony Perez a rest. He didn't let Anderson down.

Gary Thomasson drove in three runs while Bobby Murcer had three hits, batted in two runs and scored four for the Giants.

New York strongman Dave Kingman provided Jon Matlack with his winning margin against the Phillies by capping a four-run first inning with a two-run homer, his 11th of the season.

Greg Luzinski's 18th homer of the year, tops in the majors, came in the fifth inning. It was Luzy's fifth hit against Matlack by the Phillies, who slipped seven games back of first-place Pittsburgh in the National League East.

Dusty Baker's two-run single highlighted a five-run Atlanta rally in the fifth inning against Houston. Baker gave rookie Jamie Easterly his first major league victory.

The nine-hit pitching of Dock Ellis and a three-run homer by Richie Hebner in the fourth inning gave the Pirates their first game win. Then Richie Zisk's tie-breaking single capped a two-run seventh inning that made it a sweep over the Cubs.

Connors, Evert Draw Crowds

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Record crowds are jamming the All-England Club to see if Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert can retain their Wimbledon titles against the world's top tennis players.

The remaining men's singles quarter-final places to be decided today, after Connors, Sweden's Bjorn Borg, and Roscoe Tanner of Lookeba, Montana, Tenn., advanced into the final eight Friday.

A crowd of 34,000 sheffled shoulder-to-shoulder at courts to watch Friday's play, bringing the five-day attendance to more than 182,000. That's 10,000 more than the all-time attendance record for the 13 days of the United States Open at Forest Hills, set last year.

"It seems certain that our all-time record will be broken," said an All-England Club official. The record is 200,111, set last year.

Connors, 23, from Bellefville, Ill., played with a master's touch Friday in beating Phil Dent of Australia 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

Borg, protected by police officers as much as by his female fans dedged him wherever he went, had to work harder to beat veteran Marty Riessen of the U.S. 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

Tanner relied on his powerful left-handed serve in ousting fel- 4, 6-2.

Today's matches for the remaining quarter-final spots pitted Arthur Ashe of the U.S. against Britain's Graham Stilwell; Sandy Mayer of the U.S. against Guillermo Vilas of Argentina; Cliff Richey of the U.S. against Raul Ramirez of Mexico; Tom Okker of The Netherlands vs. Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union, and an all-Australian clash between Tony Roche and Ken Rosewall.

Meanwhile, the top seven women's seeds were through to the fourth round, with Miss Evert, 20, of Fort Lauderdale Fla., looking unbeatable against Japan's Kazuko Sawamatsu 6-2, 6-3.

Billie Jean King, 31, who said this tourney would be her last major event as a singles player, posted a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Julie Anthony of Santa Monica Calif.

Meanwhile, some of the players were unhappy about the state of Wimbledon's hallowed grass courts, which were looking half-baked after a long dry spell.

"They're uneven and you get lots of bad bounces," said Vilas, the No. 4 seed. "But at least all the players have the same problem."

Ashe, stumbling in the baseline rally that ended Vilas, yelled across the net to Tanner: "Why don't we just move outside to the cow pasture?"

"That's where we are," Tanner replied.

But watching the lightning-fast serve of Tanner—once measured at 140 miles per hour—some players said the dry, dusty conditions may help the big servers by keeping the ball low and making returns impossible.

Jimmy Connors – Title Defence

Gray-Espada Fight Tonight

SAN JUAN (AP) — Angel Espada and Clyde Gray climb into the ring tonight at the Roberto Clemente Coliseum in search of the welterweight crown of the world, vacated by Jose (Manicguilla) Napoles.

But the winner will have to settle for half the crown, as Napoles, a Cuban living in Mexico, relinquished only the World Boxing Association (WBA) share of the title, keeping to himself the World Boxing Council (WBC) half.

Espada, of Puerto Rico, and Gray, of Toronto are rated even. Both are heavy punchers and good boxers, and while Gray is considered the fastest of the two, Espada has been tabbed as a very cunning boxer.

Both are said to be in top shape, and both are eager to win the crown, "for the money that comes with it."

Gray has already tried once and failed, losing a 15-rounder to Napoles in 1971. Espada tried to get a chance at Napoles, but the Cuban's handlers wanted too much money.

The WBA finally gave Napoles 30 days in which to sign to defend the crown against Espada, the No. 1 challenger.

Weeks before he had been severely battered by Mando Muniz of California, who nevertheless lost by a disputed "technical decision."

Napoles' pride had been hurt, and he decided to meet Muniz in a return bout rather than fight Espada, and vacated the WBA half of the title.

Puerto Rican promoter Pepito Cordero, who had been negotiating with Napoles for the Espada bout, offered Gray, the No. 2 challenger, a $50,000 guarantee to meet Espada.

The WBA gave its approval and the winner tonight will succeed Napoles as WBA world welterweight champion.

Espada and Gray finished their road training Wednesday, and Thursday and Friday limited themselves to light workouts in the gym.

It has been very hot in San Juan during the last few weeks, with the temperature going as high at 36. Friday it was about 27, and it is expected to be about the same for the fight, scheduled to go on at 10 p.m., EDT, tonight.

Asked if the weather bothered him, Gray said "not too much." but boxing experts here say it could very well be his downfall tonight.

With a capacity of around 12,000 for boxing shows, the Roberto Clemente Coliseum, although air-conditioned, gets very hot when large crowds gather in it, and Cordero expects around 11,000.

Gray could also be bothered by the referee, Isaac Herrera of Panama. Gray's manager, Irving Ungerman, has said that he does not trust Latin American officials.

Besides Herrera, one of the judges, Luis Zulbaran, is from Venezuela. The other judge will be Larry Rozadelli of Los Angeles.

Hawley Will Ride L'Enjoleur

Levesque May Finally Win

TORONTO (CP) — A change in jockeys and equal weights may bring Jean-Louis Levesque of Montreal his first Queen's Plate win today.

Levesque, who has finished second on three occasions and third once in the race for three year-old thoroughbreds foaled in Canada, has one of the two contenders in L'Enjoleur.

L'Enjoleur was listed as the early 8 to 5 favorite among 13 horses with Greek Answer, owned by Brig.-Gen. Preston Gilbride of Toronto, at 2 to 1 for the 114th running of the 1½-mile race. It's worth a total purse of $146,800 with $95,261 going to the winning owner.

Sandy Hawley, Canada's leading jockey since 1969 who has been riding in California this year, will be aboard L'Enjoleur, which has a win in seven races this season.

The son of Backpasser and Fanfreluche, named Canada's horse of the year in 1974 because of eight wins in 15 starts, won the 1½-mile Quebec Derby by eight lengths June 1 but was fourth in his last start—the 1 1-16-mile Toronto Cup Handicap—behind Mystery Time finishing first.

In those races, however, L'Enjoleur carried 126 pounds while his rivals carried 118. Mystery Time carried 113 pounds when he won the handicap June and two geldings today's race will each carry 118 pounds.

L'Enjoleur had his final workout Friday morning, going the first quarter in 23.1 seconds and the half-mile in 46.3.

Trainer John Starr said he hadn't intended the horse work quite that fast but he added that he was happy with the result and predicted L'Enjoleur would run a big race today.

Greek Answer also blew out Friday, going three-eighths of a mile in 37 seconds, hand-held all the way by apprentice jockey Mara Claessent.

The starters in order of post positions are: Near The High Sea, owned by Jack Laist and Earl Fryman, Toronto, 20-1; Brilliant Sandy, Tom Smith and Saul Wagman, Toronto, 1-1; Coup de Soleil, Viscount Hipolyte, Montreal, 30-1; New Orleans, Gretchen Ross, Toronto, 30-1; Mystery Time, Sam Douglas, Stratford, Ont., 4-1; L'Enjoleur; Trusted Friend, E. P. Taylor, Toronto, 10-1; Eskimo Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Vasey, Toronto, 50-1; the entry of Countryman and Shalif, Jack Williams, King, Ont., 12-1, Rex Favor, George Farrell, Aurora, 15-1; Johnny One Step, Henry Sioma, Niagara Falls, N.Y., 50-1; and Greek Answer.

The owner whose horse places second will receive $20,520, a third-place finish will be worth $14,600 and a fourth-place finish $7,254.

Jack Stafford, owner of Stafford Farms, has won the Plate the last two years—Amber Hero in 1974 and Royal Chocolate in 1973.

This year he's on the sidelines after withdrawing Hagella on Thursday when the draw for post positions was made and losing Royal Selari, once one of the favorites, when the horse was destroyed after breaking his leg in a race at Woodbine earlier this year.

Post time is set for 4:42 p.m. EDT. The winning owner will also be presented with 50 gold sovereigns and a gold cup valued at $9,700 by the Duke and Duchess of Kent.

Delvecchio May Be Out

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have scheduled a news conference for Monday amid reports Alex Delvecchio will step down as coach and Doug Barkley will replace him.

It is reported that Delvecchio, who would stay on as general manager, all but confirmed the change in an interview Friday with Detroit Free Press.

Following a meeting Friday with Wings owner Bruce Norris, Delvecchio said he thought the team needed a younger coach.

This season Detroit failed for the eighth time in nine years to reach the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Barkley coached the Wings for the second half of the 1971-72 season and for 11 games in 1972-73. He has been coaching in the minors since then.

MITCHELL RECALLED

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles of the American League have recalled pitcher Paul Mitchell from their Rochester, N.Y., farm club. A team spokesman said Friday the right-hander will be activated Monday.

Pap Test Valuable Diagnostic Tool

By G. C. Thosteson, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My last Pap test came back "Class I infection." My doctor gave me an antibiotic or douching instructions. He just said come back in six months for another test. Can you explain? — Mrs. D.W.G.

The Pap test is a study of cells obtained from a smear taken from the cervix. It is based on the fact that malignant tumors will slough off cancerous tissue cells, which can be identified in such smears.

A mild or few cells infection, your urine indicates the body is not utilizing all the vitamin, especially riboflavin, so it is concerning it is the only way it can.

Check the label for the various proportions and get a preparation with tablets of less potency. The dark golden color could be due to the tablet, if so, it is not harmful, but it is wasteful. The appearance in your urine indicates the body is not utilizing all the vitamin, especially riboflavin, so it is concerning it is the only way it can.

Check the label for the various proportions and get a preparation with tablets of less potency. The dark golden color probably does not, in this case, indicate kidney malfunction; but if it occurred without the taking of the tablets, it could indicate some disorder.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it standard procedure to take urine samples for a bladder infection with a catheter? My doctor does this, and it is painful the first few times. I urinate afterwards!

Why doesn't he let me urinate into a container? I'm 27, and old enough to understand how to do a "clean catch" sample. —Mrs. V.F.

It is not always easy to get a clean catch sample of urine, and it is sometimes more difficult with some patients than with others. You are apparently one of the "others." As you know, vaginal and skin secretions can contaminate the voided specimen.

For the benefit of other readers I might explain that a catheter is a narrow tube inserted through the urethra and directly into the bladder. It can produce samples of urine uncontaminated in passage through the urinary tract.

TORONTO (CP) — Victor Borge packed the Ontario Place Forum as 10,000 fans came to watch the Danish comedian perform Tuesday.

Mr. Borge made his audience laugh with such antics as a one-note piano performance: "That's the last note of the national anthem, so you won't have to stand up."

Betty Lee, Globe and Mail critic, described Mr. Borge's performance as "delicately geared spontaneity."

"His technique is so perfect it's invisible. Even his atrocious work at the keyboard has class."

TORONTO (CP) — Rolling Stones fans packed Maple Leaf Gardens Tuesday and Wednesday night to hear what many music critics have called the greatest rock and roll band in the world.

More than 18,000 people bought tickets for each show, and were treated to two solid hours of Mick Jagger and the Stones performing such songs as Gimme Shelter, You Can't Always Get What You Want, Brown Sugar and Honky Tonk Woman.

Jagger never stopped moving. And at the end of Tuesday's show he threw two buckets of water into the audience to cool things down.

Jagger "connived to make us want to see him more than anything else," said Peter Goddard, music critic for The Star. It was "the rock show of the year."

Opening lead—Q♣

By Oswald and James Jacoby

North and South were bidding what might be called advanced standard American. Thus North's jump to four spades conveyed the standard information that he had 19 or 20 points in support of spades, but special information that his hand included no singletons or voids.

Based on that information South decided to play slam without exchanging any information that might help the defense.

South won the club lead in dummy and made the standard his ace. This guarded against the danger of finding all four trumps in one hand. As it turned out, this was an essential play.

South's next move was a low trump toward dummy. West played the 10 and dummy the king.

South still had problems but he solved them in admirable fashion. He started by cashing dummy's ace-king of hearts and ace of diamonds. Then he led a club to his ace, ruffed his last club and finally led dummy's nine of trumps. West took his queen but had to lead to South for the rest of the tricks.

Apart from the trump safety play, it should be noted that if South had failed to cash dummy's high heart and the ace of diamonds West could have thrown him in dummy and scored his eight of trumps as a diamond overruff.

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

The Sleeping Prophet

Edgar Cayce, subject of the bestselling book The Sleeping Prophet, is commonly considered one of the greatest — if not the greatest — psychics of ours or any other time.

Cayce died in 1945. But what if another version of him, equally gifted, were alive and well right now?

We may have discovered just such a second Edgar Cayce.

Before I offer you some evidence for this statement, remember who Cayce was and what he did.

The semi-educated son of simple country folk in Kentucky, Cayce, at age 17, underwent hypnosis and was never the same again. Nor was the world.

During the trance — it was a profound one since the gawky teenager was a natural hypnotic subject — the semi-educated Cayce diagnosed his own condition of long-standing laryngitis as being due to a lack of proper blood supply to the affected area.

Whereupon, in trance Cayce told the hypnotist — who must have been taken somewhat aback by the unusual turn of events — in direct by suggestion that the flow of blood to the boy's throat was to be enormously increased.

In a few minutes his throat turned pink, then red, then deep scarlet.

"It is enough," the entranced Cayce said, "restore normal circulation and revive the body."

To his and everybody else's amazement (including the hypnotist's) Edgar Cayce's chronic laryngitis was cured from that moment.

That was the beginning of a remarkable career in which for more than 40 years Cayce, in a self-induced trance, continued will-power to be called his "Higher Self" and diagnosed and prescribed for thousands of sick people he had never seen. All that was necessary was that Cayce have the people's name and address. Then, in his strange sleep, he would intone: "Yes, we have the body" and proceed to diagnose any physical or psychological ailments of the person who at the time might be 3,000 miles away.

The story sounds incredible but it's all documented and today a growing number of doctors use remedies first prescribed by "The Sleeping Prophet."

The name of the man nominated as a second Edgar Cayce is not being revealed until certain further research with scientists is completed. But here are some facts about him.

In October, 1974, Mr. X (as we'll call him) demonstrated his extraordinary gifts on a Canadian television network.

The "slumbering seer," as the narrator listed him, is a gaunt, nervous man in his late 40s, though he looks older.

On the television show he lay down on a couch and took three or four minutes of deep breathing to put himself into what he calls "the Theta state" (this is the condition, on the edge of deep sleep, when the brain-wave rhythms are extremely slow).

The television network had invited a medical scientist to take part in this unique experiment. Logan Stanfield, MD, a physician specializing in psychiatry, was asked to take to the studio the name and address of a patient chosen more or less at random from his files.

The question: Could Mr. X, in trance, diagnose and prescribe for this woman, unknown to him as Edgar Cayce had been able to do?

It should be stressed that nobody on the television program besides Dr. Stanfield knew the patient's identity.

The patient's name and address were read to Mr. X. (though these personal data were later bleeped from the videotape for reasons of medical confidentiality). There was a pause, then Mr. X began to speak in a strange hollow voice.

"We have the form."

Well, I thought, his opening was a little different from Cayce's, anyway. (I didn't know what to expect but frankly I was skeptical.)

Then Mr. X proceeded to describe Dr. Stanfield's patient. He said the woman was suffering from an "organic disease of the brain and nervous system." He described "massive lesions" of the brain itself and the sheath covering the spinal cord.

He spoke of the patient as having "erratic movements — a lack of motor coordination and a spreading paralysis."

These symptoms, said Mr. X, were accompanied by a delusional psychosis in which the patient expressed an intense hatred of the entire male sex.

By way of prescribing, certain palliative measures reminiscent of Cayce were recommended (poultices and massage; but the slumbering seer's summation was ominous.

"This body is gravely ill," he said. "Gravely ill indeed."

Later, when Mr. X had come out of his trance, as reality it seemed as he had gone into it, Dr. Stanfield was asked to evaluate the diagnosis. For a moment he seemed virtually speechless.

"It's amazing, unbelievable," the psychiatrist murmured. "I can hardly tell you what a profound experience this has been for me."

The psychic diagnosis was uncannily accurate, he said. His patient was suffering from a rare, genetic organic disease of the brain and negrous system called Huntington's Chorea. The disease, he said was characterized by just such symptoms as Mr. X had described — the loss of muscular co-ordination, the spreading paralysis, even the bizarre psychotic hatred of the male sex.

Could it have been a lucky guess on the psychic's part?

"No, no," replied the psychiatrist. "That's impossible. Something much more than guesswork was going on here tonight."

Research with the slumbering seer continues and in due course his full story will be told.

Mann Breaks Course Record

TORONTO (CP) — "Carol Mann is a good front-runner."

The president of the U.S. Ladies Professional Golf Association was talking about the president.

Miss Mann, a 34-year-old native of Buffalo who now lives in Towson, Md., had just set a course record for women at the St. George's Golf and Country Club with a 34-35—69 in the first round of the LPGA tournament Friday.

It became that the record she set at 70, had been held by the LPGA treasurer, Jocelyne Bourassa of Lemeloigne, Que., one of six golfers tied for second place at 71.

Miss Mann, who had seven birdies and three bogeys on the 6,385-yard, par-73 course, admitted she likes the idea of holding the early lead, if for no other reason than that she can sleep later in the morning.

She was in the last of 30 threesomes teeing off today in the second round of the 54-hole, $50,000 tournament.

And she does sound the sleep. Her job as president of the LPGA has kept her up late several nights this week as she and other members of the executive grapple with the problem of finding a successor to executive director E. M. (Bud) Erickson, whose contract is not being renewed.

Besides Miss Bourassa, others tied for second, two strokes off the pace, were Sandra Palmer of Caldwell, Ohio, Jan Ferraro of Palm Springs, Calif., Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth, Texas, and Beth Solomon of Mill Glebown, Ind.

Marlington Smith of Dallas and former tennis ace Allison Gibson of Longbranch, N.J., making one of her infrequent tour appearances, were another stroke back with 72.

Tied at par 73 were Sue Roberts of Oak Park, Ill., Murle Greer of St. Petersburg, Fla., Joanne Garner of Kirkland, Wash., and Judy Rankin of St. Louis, Louise Bruce, a Toronto native living in LaMesa, Calif., Betsy Rawlins of Palm Springs, Calif., Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis, Kathy Postlewait of Sylacauga, Ala., Judy Meister of Erie, Pa., and Vivian Brownlee of Linwood, N.J.

Miss Garner is second in money winnings on the tour this year with $34,534 and Miss Rankin is third with $34,304.

The runaway leader is Sandra Palmer of Dallas with $54,712 won to date, was among seven golfers at 74.

Sandra Post, a native of Oshawa, Ont., now living in Boynton Beach, Fla., came in with a 75, hitting 17 of 18 greens but three-putting four times. The only green she missed, the 13th yard, par-4 second, gave up one of her bogeys as she was put into the cup from a sand trap 20 yards from the pin.

Miss Mann, who is fifth in earnings with $30,206, said: "I worked my tail off. Anytime you make some birdies, especially on this fine course, you've got to be working hard."

Rather than admitting her problems with the troubled LPGA have hurt her game, she maintained they have helped.

"The strength I've had to muster off the golf course has helped me on the course."

She described the beautifully manicured course with its fast, undulating greens as "is the finest shape of any we've played this year."

"It's treacherous if you're hitting the ball badly. But it's fair because it gives you a chance to score if you're hitting well."

The two Canadian amateurs invited to take part in the tournament didn't exactly scare the leaders. Marlene Streit of Stouffville, Ont., the final amateur ever to be developed in Canada, had a 77 and Pam Barber, 80.

Miss Post was nervous despite the fact that she was playing before what it virtually a hometown crowd.

And Miss Bourassa said she "relaxed, very happy and psyched up" by the support of the gallery.

Miss Bourassa, whose course record was set while playing from the women's tees, which are 370 yards shorter, in 1972, was delighted with her round.

Her father Leger and brother Gilles, who followed her, had been concerned because she had been ill a week earlier. But she said she felt fine after her round.

She put her ball in the water on the 446-yard, par-five 14th but instead of letting it bother her, as she admitted might have been the case in the past, she calmly went on to make par.

Golfers Still Recovering From Western's Lightning

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Nobody had a chance to invoke the lightning rule in the $200,000 Western Open golf tournament Friday.

It was a scary, painful experience for two-time United States champion Lee Trevino and Jerry Heard along with several other players hit by electrical bolts.

Trevino suffered back burns and Heard leg burns and had to be removed from the thunderstorm stricken Butler National course to a hospital as the tourney's second round was cancelled with half the field home.

Bobby Nichols, Tony Jacklin and Jim Albers also got lightning jolts. Nichols went to the hospital complaining of a headache after a bolt struck nearby — Jacklin had a shot knocked 15 feet away just as he began a swing. Albers was leaning on his putter when a charge knocked it out of his hands.

Most serious hurt were Trevino and Heard, huddled under an umbrella which proved a conductor rod. Both were held in a nearby hospital for overnight observation.

Arnold Palmer, who went into the storm tied for second after round still trailing pace-setting Dave Graham by three strokes, even got a scare in the middle of the 5th fairway.

"A bolt struck nearby and I just dropped my club," said Palmer, who had lost two strokes to par when play was cancelled.

Graham, who shot a course record 65, six-under-par, in Thursday's opening round, was last teeing off on No. 10 and was five-under-par when play was called.

"I heard the siren blow and I made a beeline for the clubhouse," said the Australian pro.

Hall in the inclayer field had finished when the sudden thunderstorm hit, but all second-round scores were erased. The final two rounds will be played Sunday.

Trevino, Heard and Mike Fetchick, playing in the same threesome, had just played to the 13th green when play was halted at 5:04 p.m. EDT.

Fetchick elected to hasten to the clubhouse, but Trevino and Heard sought a low spot near the green and got under an umbrella held by Heard between his legs.

A lightning bolt apparently struck the umbrella and Trevino began shouting, "I'm hit, I think my shoulder's broke."

Heard complained of a groin injury.

Trevino's caddy, Ned Carmoe, said he ran from a nearby concession stand after the bolt hit. "At first I thought Mr. Trevino was kidding, laying there," said the caddy. "But he said he felt like he had died."

The players generally said the storm hit too quickly for many to invoke the lightning rule and get off the course.

Tom Watson did that in last week's storm-jolted U.S. Open at nearby Medinah Country Club at which Trevino played.

"Lightning will never strike me.

"God is on my side."

Jack Tuthill, the PGA's tour director, said the only previous similar incident occurred in the Flint Open in the mid-1950s when golfers Bob McAllister and Mason Rudolph were knocked down and a spectator killed by lightning.

Among the better rounds erased by the cancellation of the 66s by Ray Floyd and Monty Kaiser and a 69 by Dale Douglass.

OFL Clubs Strong in Tourney

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Sabre's single game Burlington a 3-3 win in eight innings over Grimsby Peach Kings in the opening round of Ontario Amateur Softball Association Senior A championship Friday.

In other action, Toronto Wincrest Pat Caterers defeated Niagara Falls McRaes 2-0 and Mississauga Scrapers edged Grimsby Tavern 3-1.

Burlington took a 2-0 lead in the second inning, but Grimsby came back with two in the fourth to tie the game. Bill Dreman was the winning pitcher while Rick Conkle took the loss.

A two-run homer by Frank LaVerdi gave Winston Park the win over the McRaes. Jake Neufeld was the loser, despite pitching a three-hitter. Don Crowley got the win, allowing six hits.

Hamilton scored two runs in the fourth inning, then held on to defeat Grimsby.

Ed Neubert, Larry Christie and Dick Booker all singled to account for the Hamilton runs. Bill McCuliley's single scored Wally Kuzy for Grimsby. Wally Dick was the winning pitcher and Don Clark the loser.

Play continues during the weekend with the championship game Tuesday. The winner of the 27-team tournament will represent Ontario in the Canadian softball finals in Oshawa during August.

McNally in Fair Condition

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave McNally, the former Baltimore Orioles' left-hander, was fair condition Friday while the hospital was swamped with calls offering remedies to end his 11-day siege of hiccups.

His physician, Dr. Leonard Wolkenstein, said the 25-year-old left-hander was fairly comfortable, eating well, but still had the hiccups.

"I guess you could say he is slightly improved. We are treating him for a small stomach upset, but we don't really know if that is causing the problem."

The doctor said McNally would be in hospital for awhile yet.

McNally's wife, Jean, said the attack started slowly June 17 "but by last weekend he was miserable."

McNally was preparing to sell his suburban Baltimore home and move his family back to Billings, Mont., where he will join his brother in an automobile agency.

Strike Threatened

Federal Prison Guards Want Death Penalties

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal prison guards alarmed and angered by the slaying of four penitentiary employees in the last year say they will not work Wednesday unless government complies with the law on capital punishment.

The guards' union announced the decision Sunday and said that unless Prime Minister Trudeau or Solicitor-General Warren Allmand respond by noon Tuesday, "a national day of mourning for the death of our brother Paul Gosselin" will be held Wednesday.

If the 6,500 prison employees in the union take the day off, the more than 8,000 prisoners in 49 federal prisons will have to be guarded by soldiers or police.

Gosselin was shot to death Friday in Montreal while escorting a maximum-security prisoner to hospital. A second guard was shot in the stomach as the prisoner escaped.

Earlier this month Mary Steinhauser, an employee at British Columbia penitentiary, was shot to death as guards rushed prisoners holding her hostage.

Green's killer is appealing a death sentence.

Paul Gascon, executive secretary of the solicitor-general's component, Public Service Alliance of Canada, told a news conference the guards want a commitment from the cabinet that it will not interfere in a death sentence except where the jury has recommended clemency.

Eleven members of the jury in the Green case recommended clemency and one was against.

Mr. Gascon said that while more professionals are being poured into a permissive prison system, government will not spend money for more guards. The 2,200 guards had put in more than $10 million a year in overtime since 1970.

More than 200 assaults a year were recorded, not counting threats and being spat at, he said.

As he spoke, about 300 guards from Ontario and Quebec prisons cheered the announced action or jeered Mr. Allmand and the prisoners, "Liquidate them," said one.

Another guard, who Mr. Gascon explained had recently been hurt by a prisoner, walked out of the conference swearing. He apparently wanted tougher union action.

Mr. Gascon had said prisoners themselves support the death penalty because many live in terror of killers now in prison.

The guards paraded to the national war memorial after the conference to place flowers at the cenotaph in memory of Mr. Gosselin and the others.

Union president Bill Camche of Prince Albert, Sask., said the action Wednesday will not be a strike or a walkout. Guards were entitled to one day bereavement leave on the death of one of their number.

A guard shouted "hang 'em" at Mr. Camche said killing had become "a weekend sport" in prisons.

He urged union members across Canada to "stick together" on action aimed at stopping "the senseless killing of our brothers and sisters."

There has not been a hanging in Canada since late 1961. The government currently is reviewing the present temporary law, which limits the death penalty to those who slay prison employees or police who are on duty. Seven men are on death row for killing policemen.

In Memory

A penitentiary guard lays a bunch of flowers at the National War Memorial in Ottawa Sunday. About 200 guards from several prisons gathered at the memorial to honor four comrades killed in the line of duty this year. They later marched to Parliament Hill where they held a minute's silence. Gandhi Clamps Down

Arrest Reason Can Be Secret

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi further tightened her emergency rule in India today, authorizing police to make arrests without telling their prisoners why.

The ordinance, issued by President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed, said arresting authorities need only make a declaration that the detention is necessary for dealing with the emergency declared by Mrs. Gandhi last Thursday.

Issuance of the order underlined the concern with which the 57-year-old prime minister views persisting opposition in her refusal to resign and her arrests of non-Communist leaders opposing her stay in power.

The original emergency decree provided that prisoners must be told the grounds of their arrest within a few days.

Only scattered outbursts have been reported since the government proclaimed a state of emergency last Thursday, arrested hundreds of opponents of the prime minister and imposed censorship.

A government spokesman said the country was generally calm, and there was no indication that the anti-Gandhi movement had gotten off the ground.

Before their arrest, Jayaprakash Narayan and other leading opponents had called for country-wide demonstrations Sunday which they hoped would culminate in a civil disobedience campaign.

Their goal was to force the prime minister to resign because of a partially adverse ruling against her by a Supreme Court justice.

Nuclear Waste Probe Is Sought

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — Allan Lawrence, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Northumberland-Durham, has called for a federal government investigation into dumping of waste by the Eldorado Nuclear Ltd. plant here.

In a letter to Environment Minister Jeanne Sauve, Mr. Lawrence said:

"Obviously a full-scale public investigation should be immediately undertaken by your department, or by some other federal body, to either reassure my constituents that no danger to them exists . . . as a result of these dumping operations, or in the alternative, if there is negligence or carelessness on the part of the company, to rectify the situation."

Mrs. Sauve has said her priority "is not just to eliminate the immediate danger but to make sure about what we are leaving behind for future generations."

Eldorado Nuclear, a Crown corporation, has been using local waste disposal sites in and around Port Hope for a number of years. The division of Eldorado at Port Hope refines uranium concentrates into uranium oxide for use as nuclear fuel, and produces zirconium for fuel-holding tubes in reactors.

Tests at three of the sites last week showed registrations of radioactivity in varying amounts, at the sites and in surrounding areas.

Dr. O. J. Andrews, professor of nuclear engineering at the University of Toronto, who conducted tests in 1968, 1974 and this year, says results were not alarmingly high in any instance but there was some leakage and presence of radioactivity in small pockets in Port Hope.

He recommended better disposal methods at the dump sites, including burial of material, pooling of signs and consideration of centralized disposal sites for all nuclear industry in Ontario.

Kidnapped Woman Rescued

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Two men will be arraigned in court here today in connection with the kidnapping of 45-year-old Lina Blanchet, who was freed unharmed by police early Sunday following a five-day ordeal.

Quebec Provincial Police said the two men were arrested when a farmhouse near this community 100 miles east of Montreal was raided. Mrs. Blanchet was found blindfolded.

The men offered no resistance.

Mrs. Blanchet, wife of a wealthy margarine manufacturer, was later reported resting under care of her family physician.

One of her sons, Paulin, 32, said his mother was "in a weakened condition" but that she was otherwise alright.

"My mother said the kidnappers treated her well—they gave her everything she asked for," he said. "They didn't hurt her, and her guard kept her morale up by talking to her."

Kente Parents Plan Paper On Eugene Bright's Dismissal

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

AMELIASBURG — Residents of Prince Edward County will be told the entire story behind the dismissal of Kente Public School principal Eugene Bright, including some never-before-released reports, if a proposed tabloid to be published by Concerned Parents of Kente School becomes a reality.

Roy Stevenson of RR 7, Belleville, a member of the parents' committee, told The Intelligencer in an interview here Sunday the tabloid will contain "all the actual reports that the board (Prince Edward County Board of Education) presented us."

"Hardly anybody knows what's in those reports," he noted.

Mr. Bright, 45, Kente principal for two years in this village, was dismissed by the board April 1 and has been demoted to a teaching position at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in Picton, effective Aug. 31.

The board cited alleged low level of acceptance for Mr. Bright in the community and argued he lacked administrative techniques and management skills.

"That's just the whole sum and substance of it," Mr. Stevenson commented. "There isn't anything in the reports that warrants their (board members') actions."

He said the committee hopes to raise sufficient funds "to have a resume of the entire affair put into a tabloid form and mailed to every household in the county."

"Then it will be up to the people of the county whether they want this board retained," he added.

Mr. Stevenson declared the tabloid will be objective and said the committee does not plan any further legal action.

"We the committee aren't setting ourselves up as a judge," he remarked. "We just want to expose the facts and let the taxpayers judge."

As for possible committee participation in the next school board election, Mr. Stevenson argued he hasn't decided that when the people know all the facts, they won't need any encouragement."

Dishing Out for Bright

Ameliasburg area residents line up to receive their portions during the strawberry social and bake sale held by Concerned Parents of Kente School in the village's township hall on Sunday, to raise money to offset legal fees and advertising costs already incurred in the fight against the April dismissal of Eugene Bright as Kente principal by the Prince Edward County Board of Education. Dishing out the berries are, from left, Marion Bright (principal's wife), Leslie Berg and Maureen Mackian. About $300 was raised.

Strawberry Social Aids Kente Committee

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

AMELIASBURG — Concerned Parents of Kente School legal fund raised about $300 Sunday towards legal expenses already incurred and newspaper advertising in their fight with the Prince Edward County Board of Education over the dismissal of Kente Public School principal Eugene Bright.

The parents' committee held a strawberry social and bake sale at the township hall here and received a warm response from area residents on the hot, humid Sunday afternoon.

Roy Stevenson, committee member, said the group requires close to $500 to offset advertising and legal fees and probably needs an additional $500-$600 to publish a tabloid for county residents which will divulge the entire dismissal affair including board reports.

J. Windatt's Windy Acres of RR 1, Picton, donated 100 boxes of strawberries for the social and baked goods were contributed by parents and taxpayers throughout the county.

Organizers for the social were committee members Cora' Berg, Norma Bland and Susan Smith. Straight cash donations at the event were close to $150.

Four Hurt in Crash

MARMORA — Two Marmora area youths are in fair condition at Belleville General Hospital today and two Scarborough youths were treated and released following a one-car accident late Sunday on Carlton Rd. about 15 miles north of Highway 7 between Ida village and Marmora.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc said Wayne Joseph Lajoie, 18, of RR1, Marmora was the driver of a 1973 Gremlin which was southbound, went out of control and struck a concrete bridge abutment.

Lajoie has possible neck injuries and abrasions and a passenger, Brian Hunter, 18, of RR 1, Marmora has back injuries.

Two passengers treated and released were John LaBerdes, 18, for a shoulder injury and bruises and Fred LaLefferton, 19, for lacerations.

Constable Don Crechan estimated damage at $3,000 in a virtual write-off in the 10:15 p.m. mishap. Damage estimate to the abutment was not available.

Ottawa Aid Sought For BGH 'O' Level

Belleville General Hospital (BGH) might receive federal support in its bid to extract funds from the provincial government for the proposed renovation of "O" level at BGH.

Gerry Joyce, chairman of the planning and property committee for the BGH Board of Governors, told the board last week the director of the institutional planning branch of the provincial ministry of health has indicated no funds are available for the renovation.

He added the director noted the funding request would be kept on file for future consideration on the project, estimated to cost $351,900.

The board has requested the ministry for approval in principle and grant assistance for the expansion of the department of nuclear medicine and relocation of the maintenance and engineering departments.

Philip Rickard, BGH executive director, pointed out federal support might be needed to bear pressure-wise due to "unsatisfactory conditions of radiation hazards."

Youth Hurt

TRENTON — A Trenton youth was admitted to Trenton hospital here on Sunday with possible back injuries after a high speed chase in a town police this weekend.

A hospital spokesman said Thomas Wilman, 14, of 26 College St., Trenton was in hospital in satisfactory condition Sunday.

After Chase

Police have charged the youth with dangerous driving following a chase late Sunday in which police clocked a car travelling at 90-miles-an-hour.

The chase began on Dundas St. East here and ended on Johnstown Rd., northeast of Trenton, when the vehicle missed a turn in the road, flipped a ditch and slipped onto its side.

Car Splits In Crash

MARMORA — A 19-year-old Marmora youth is in satisfactory condition with a neck injury at Quinte Memorial Hospital following a one-car accident early Sunday on Highway 7 about two miles west of this village.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc said Archie Cole was the driver of a 1967 Chevrolet which went out of control while eastbound, went sideways into the west ditch and struck a tree.

Police said one half of the car ended up in the east lane, another half flew into a field and the motor came to rest in the ditch.

Three passengers were treated and released from hospital for contusions. They are Glen Cole, 22, of RR 2, Havelock, William Cole, 21, of RR 2, Havelock and Allen Cole, 17, of Marmora.

Constables Don Creechan and Gerald Rollins estimated damage to the car at $1,00 — a virtual write-off — in the 12:05 a.m. mishap.

Mishap Brings Charge

TWEED — An 18-year-old Consecon youth was charged with careless driving and an 18-year-old Belleville area youth was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital Sunday for an injured right shoulder following a one-car accident on the Bethel Rd. about 10 miles south of this village.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc identified the Consecon youth as Gary Charles Adams. He escaped injury.

The injured passenger was identified as Brian Lee, of RR 7, Belleville.

Police said the westbound Astra went out of control and overturned in the ditch. Constable Walter Brown estimated damage to the car's front end and top at $800.

1057 Rides Again

With a train load of steam buffs, the 1920s vintage steam engine 1057 chugged through Belleville on the Canadian Pacific line Sunday morning to the fascination of a small group of city residents. The locomotive was bound for a steam show near Ottawa.

Two Dead, Eight Injured In Early Morning Mishap

Two Toronto people are dead following a single car crash on Highway 401 Sunday morning two miles west of Belleville.

Dead are four-year-old Michelle Samaroo and Kartoonn Khan, 6b, of Trinidad.

Police said a group of 19 relatives were heading to Montreal to make wedding arrangements for two of the car's occupants when a rear tire blew sending the vehicle careening out of the eastbound lanes, across the median and coming to rest broadside in the highway's westbound lanes. There was no other traffic on the roadway when the 7 a.m. accident occurred.

All of the car's occupants remain in hospital today including Raymond Ramnanan, 21, of Davenport Ave., Toronto. He was rushed immediately to Kingston General Hospital and is in critical condition, a hospital spokesman said. His fiance Sabena Khan, 19, remains in Belleville General Hospital in fair condition.

The two planned to be married next weekend.

Lisa Samaroo, 5, remains in the intensive care unit of BGH with head injuries.

Also in hospital are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Samaroo of 272 Montrose Ave., Toronto. Elaine Khan of Davenport Ave., and Zulika Singh of Manning Ave., Toronto.

Driver of the car, Lutchman Ramnanan, age not available, is in fair condition.

The incident marked the only serious accident on the 401 in the Quinte area this weekend, said the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Eight Charged In Madoc Brawl

MADOC — Eight persons have been charged by Ontario Provincial Police here in connection with a brawl which occurred on Mathew St. at the Elwanis Summerfest dance at about midnight Saturday.

Eight provincial police officers were called to quell the fight which resulted in five charges of causing a disturbance, three charges of obstructing a police officer and a charge of assault being laid.

Charged with causing a disturbance are Frank Smith and Arthur Smith, both of Gilmour, Harold Rasmhower of Crookston and Wayne Cassidy of Queensborough.

Charged with both causing a disturbance and obstructing a police officer are David William Asselstine of Belleville and David Scaife of Gilmour.

Allan Houston of Toronto, a native of Madoc, has been charged with obstructing a police officer and William Whales of Mississauga has been charged with assaulting a police officer.

Police said the eight men, all in their 20's, will appear in provincial court here Sept. 9 and explained the delay is due to a full court docket throughout the summer.

The brawl took place shortly after a group of men were arguing at the dance where alcoholic beverages were being consumed.

International Strike Enters Third Week

After more than two weeks of strike action there is still no sign of renewed negotiations between International Harvester and the International Union of Moulders and Allied Workers.

The 230-member local walked off the job in the early part of the month demanding a 75-per-cent increase in salary and unlimited cost of living benefits for each year of a two-year contract.

"The cost of living issue is the most important one," said Ray Ryan, strike captain and chairman of the union negotiating committee. "We went out on strike for cost of living benefits and we can't go back until we get them."

The company, in its last offer, gave a total package amounting in an increase of about 36 per cent. The offer includes a cost of living clause capped in the first year and unlimited in the second.

The company has repeatedly refused to comment on the strike action or whether it is offer.

Mr. Ryan said there is some discontentment among the workers but "generally everyone is in good spirits." "They knew we were going on strike and they had time to prepare," he said.

Most of the workers either have part time jobs or are satisfied for the time being with the $50-a-week strike pay, said Mr. Ryan.

Mr. Ryan predicted the strike would last until ej least the end of July, during an interview Sunday. He noted that the plant ordinarily closes down for two weeks in the summer and that the company would not likely make a move until after this regular shut down. He said the scheduled shut down this summer was dated for the last two weeks of July.

Pedestrian Hit by Car

MADOC — A 41-year-old Marmora woman is in satisfactory condition at Belleville General Hospital today with a broken shoulder and internal injuries after she was struck by a car on Mathew St. here late Sunday.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc said Rita Dayton of Main St. was walking backwards onto the street in front of the Elwanis Summerfest dance when she was struck by a car driven by Michael Reynolds, 22, of Toronto.

Constable Bill Haggerty estimated damage to Reynolds' 1974 Fiat at $400 to the front end, grill and windshield in the 9:30 p.m. mishap.

Unusual Sprinkler

With the extended dry period in this area Belleville residents have resorted to various ways of watering their lawns but the Hastings County Board of Education takes the cake. Board custodian Don Phieffer takes a closer look at the miniature tractor which doubles as a movable sprinkler. Don says it does a good job too.

Two Died Here

Two Toronto people were killed and eight other people sent to hospitals in Belleville and Kingston Sunday morning following a single-car crash two miles west of here on Highway 401. Police suspect the crash was caused by a blown rear tire which threw the Montreal-bound car out of control.

Area Rose and Violet Show Attracts 950 Entries

More than 1100 persons visited the eighth annual rose and African Violet show held Saturday and Sunday by the Belleville Garden Club at Centennial Secondary School.

They chose a John F. Kennedy rose grown by J. R. Laundry as Queen of the Show. Mr. Laundry also won the best red rose competition and Princess of the Show competition.

J.H. McLeod was winner of the sweepstakes for the most points in all classes. His Garden State rose was judged the best grandiflora rose.

Eileen Easton was sweepstakes winner.

Chairman of the show was Harry Lambourne. He was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCulloch, J.W. Gathercole, Audrey Adams, Harry Collins, Tom Murphy, Marg Hegle, Larry Johnson, Stuart Honeyman and Beulah Sills.

Repairs Costly

Belleville General Hospital (BGH) will have to shell out $6,344.80 for the repair of the crumbling rip-rap along the north parking lot in front of BGH along East Dundas St.

Gerry Joyce, planning and property committee chairman for the BGH Board of Governors, told the board last week a new contract must be laid and some stones of aesthetic value will required re-mortaring.

He commented the dilapidation is "another bad move on the part of our architect who I still like to throw stones at even though he's not here."

The committee also accepted a proposal from Gordon Ray Concrete Ltd. of RR 4, Belleville for the repair and also for the reinforcement of the area south of the Quinte Wing at a cost of $802.50.

Tapp Show Cancelled

TRENTON — The one-night show by Canadian television personality Gordie Tapp has been cancelled at Trenton High School tonight, the result of "very poor advance ticket sales."

A Elwanis Club spokesman said today the show was called off because sales were poor and the sponsoring club "couldn't take a chance at losing big money."

The spokesman blamed the long, holiday weekend for poor interest in the show.

Refunds to those who bought tickets may be obtained at the outlets from which they were purchased.

Assault Charge Laid

PICTON — A 34-year-old Napanee man, Richard Tydlunier was admitted to Prince Edward Memorial Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises following an assault near here Saturday.

Charged with two counts of assault causing bodily harm is 22-year-old Omer Peter Dias of Oshawa. The incident took place at Outlet Provincial Park, about 25 miles south of Belleville.

Driver Charged

A 28-year-old Belleville man has been charged with careless driving in connection with a one-car accident on Cannifton Rd. near East College St. early Saturday.

A city police spokesman said Robert Allan Chappell of 18 Third St. is scheduled for his first provincial court appearance on July 28.

The spokesman said a 1968 Chevrolet was northbound on Cannifton Rd. when it drove onto a mid-street excavation site and came to rest in the 20-foot deep hole.

Constable Dave Leavey estimated damage to warning lights and a snow fence at $250 and termed the car a write-off in the 12:15 a.m. mishap.

Budget Will Stimulate Demand for Housing but Where Is The Supply?

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The demand for new housing in Canada will be stimulated by Finance Minister John Turner's latest budget proposals.

The trouble, however, is that little or nothing is being done to increase the supply of new homes.

And that brings into play the most fundamental economic rules: When demand goes up and supply doesn't, the result is more inflation.

In recent years there has been no shortage of housing, offered either by federal or provincial governments, to lender people with the purchase of a home.

The latest gimmicks contained in the finance minister's budget speech of June 23, include 200-million in additional funds for subsidized housing programs.

Ottawa will double (until the end of 1976) the 600 subsidy it now pays to provide loans to lenders under the Assisted Home Ownership Program for owner-occupied homes, and raise it to 800 (until next March 31) in the case of rental units.

No doubt this will bring into the market some potential buyers who could not otherwise afford a house.

Empty up the supply of new houses, however, seems to be a much more urgent problem than finding people the money to buy.

In the first five months of this year, new housing starts were running at an annual rate of 178,000 units. That's about 23 per cent fewer than the 230,000 that are estimated to be needed to meet the requirements of newly formed households, and 34 per cent below the pace of January-May, 1974.

The house-building industry's failure to boost its output to the desired level could be blamed, in part at least, on its unique production methods.

Nearly three-quarters of the way through the twentieth century, when space travel is almost routine, the house-building trade is still operating much the same way as it was 200 years ago. If a craftsman of 1775 were re-incarnated today, he would find his skills to be in big demand on any housing project.

While technology may not be easily transferable from one industry to another, surely the government's numerous experts could investigate the chances of putting house-building on an industrial basis, using some of the techniques and the idle capacity of other industries—automotive, perhaps—that are in a slump.

Even without anything as radical as bringing house-building into the twentieth century, there's much that could be done at the federal level to encourage the residential-construction industry to boost its production.

One suggestion, put forward by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, is a program of direct unconditional grants to municipalities for development of serviced building lots.

Mr. Turner could usefully have extended to home-builders the five per cent investment credit that he has introduced as a stimulus to corporate spending on new plant, machinery and equipment.

Another incentive would be the withdrawal of the tax regulation that prohibits the tax deductibility of carrying charges on vacant land.

Hillcrest Feels Pinch

Adam Street? Know where it is?

It's the street across from Riverside park leading into Belleville's industrial complex and it is increasingly an area of handsome new plants and the promise of more to come.

Make a right turn and proceed past the transport company bases and into Hillcrest.

Like Foster ward and the waterfront area, Hillcrest has its air of past glory as well as outright decay.

There is junk — and there are flower gardens. Trim homes — and shacks.

Wealth . . . no; Poverty . . . maybe; People getting by, managing, like most in one way or another . . . yes.

Right now Hillcrest is engaged in a discourse with City Council over high costs resulting from sewer installations. And Council has decided to seek provincial government help to ease the burdens that have boosted some Hillside taxes five times as much as before to between $1,300 and $1,500 plus.

Hillcrest is not the most affluent part of town, and Council has done well to take this problem in hand and come up with a plan of action.

The word though from Ken Brooks, president of the area's ratepayers' association, is that he hopes a solution will not be long delayed. Clearly, those taxes are hurting.

The Forgotten Citizen

"Overlooked."

That was the caption under a picture accompanying a column by Globe and Mail columnist Scott Young.

The picture was of an anonymous citizen, his back to the camera, and the story had to do with a motel owner who was assaulted by a 16-year-old who was rifling the drawers of a workshop on his property.

The man had fallen on rainsoaked ground while trying to apprehend the boy and his latter kicked him in the head and then fled. As it turned out the boy had a police record. Arrested, he was sent to a correctional institution near Toronto, but was soon back and in trouble again, doing the same kind of thing.

Young, noting the man did not sound particularly bitter . . . just puzzled, went on: "And after all, he was the guy whose till was robbed, whose head was kicked, and whose family was endangered when the speeding car got away. What is he supposed to feel? Forgiving? Or forgotten?"

How indeed is John Q. Public so often the forgotten man where crime is concerned, supposed to feel?

A rather different, and happier, story — of a man who was not forgotten — came from the Peterborough area recently. It was as good an advertisement for the advantages and pleasures of rail travel as might be desired. A story with heart in a heartless world. And it was the farewell party thrown by the 200 regular commuters on the Toronto-Havelock daytliner for retiring engineer Alfie Moore.

There was a "Goodbye and Good luck — We will Miss You" plique bedecked with balloons hanging from the railway fittings, and pretty girls to give a farewell kiss to the man who had worked on the railroad for 50 years, and who had been known to back up his train for late commuters.

Now there's something that has gone from society — a sense of thoughtfulness and understanding and compassion, and a willingness to bend the rules a little bit, so that someone can be given a helping hand. There's not much of that left these days. Alfie Moore did not overlook his passengers — and they showed that they cared too.

It is sadly fitting that the most eye-catching feature of Finance Minister Turner's new budget is a steady increase in the price of gasoline by way of both a new tax and a higher basic price. This appropriateness is in spite of the fact that a 15-cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline prices will assist in meeting neither of the two main challenges facing this budget — to fight inflation and reduce unemployment. Indeed, it may help aggravate both in the short term.

Mrs. Gandhi's Action

Democracy in Sub-Continent Endangered by Crackdown

By GEORGE KITCHEN
UNITED NATIONS (CP) — These are desperate hours and days for Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India and for the many friends of the world's largest democracy.

Those friends have been stunned by her government's action in plunging her country into an extraordinary crisis by invoking state of emergency, imposing censorship and rounding up and jailing political critics by the hundreds.

In the past, Indian officials often have pointed with pride to the way in which political figures, following the British tradition, have been able to function without restraint in India in contrast to those in neighboring countries.

As an internal matter, the indian political upheaval is of no official concern to the United Nations but the developments are being watched closely by diplomats who have developed close working ties with Indian representatives over the years.

To Americans, Mrs. Gandhi's declaration that she herself is not important but that the institution of the prime minister is important to her preserved was painfully reminiscent of the embittered claims of a beleaguered United States president who professed to be defending the U.S. presidency in the Watergate political espionage affair.

U.S. state department officials, under orders from State Secretary Henry Kissinger, shied away from comment on the Indian developments, calling them strictly an "internal matter" for Indians.

In a broadcast to the Indian people, Mrs. Gandhi said the government had acted against a "deep and widespread conspiracy against the very functioning" of democracy in India.

The roundup of political figures, including some of Mrs. Gandhi's most powerful opponents, was without precedent in the 28-year history of the Indian republic. Its population of nearly 600 million is governed under the parliamentary system, a heritage of the many decades India spent under British rule.

The political crisis began June 12 when a court in Allahabad, Mrs. Gandhi's home city, found her guilty of two charges, laid by her political opponents, of illegally using administrative machinery for her successful election campaign in 1971. Sentence was suspended pending appeal.

Political tension was heightened three days ago when a Supreme Court judge suspended Mrs. Gandhi from her seat in Parliament while ruling that she could continue as prime minister until a decision has been reached on her appeal against the convention on corrupt election practices.

The government declaration of a state of internal emergency followed.

In the background are several other factors, including complaints in the Indian press of increasing corruption in the government and the recent loss by the governing Congress party of a key state election in which Mrs. Gandhi campaigned vigorously. She and her party face national elections early next year.

Family Planning Set-up

Editor
The Intelligencer:

Regarding the article, "Family Planning Stirs Motivation Says Councillor," in your June 26 issue, we feel that article was helpful and accurate; however, we would like to clarify a point.

Your reporter stated that Colie DePaoli plans "a joint effort among the health and social agency groups as Birthright and the Family Planning Volunteer Association, with herself as coordinator."

First, our name is the Family Planning Association of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

Secondly, Mrs. DePaoli's role is more one of cooperation that of co-ordination.

We, as an Association, are opening a Central Information Centre on Front Street in Belleville. Mrs. DePaoli has certainly been of great assistance to the City of Belleville, but we feel it is more in keeping with our role in our activities, not to limit them.

We hope to continue our close cooperation with Mrs. DePaoli, but wish to emphasize that rather of us is "co-ordinating" the other. We are all working together in the common goal of family planning and of unplanned pregnancies in the Quinte area.

LESLIE A. SHUTER,

Where's the Authority?

Editor
The Intelligencer:

Sometimes the actions of Belleville city council defy understanding.

A case in point is the erection of two signs at the Victoria Harbor prohibiting swimming. The signs state "No Swimming" by order of the Corporation of the City of Belleville. They are indeed imposing.

However, like the city dumping by-laws they have little relevance.

According to the city by-law enforcement officer, there is no by-law on the books that makes it an offence to swim in Victoria Harbor.

This being the case, one might be excused for asking why the taxpayer has been put to the expense of manufacturing and erection of signs that have no authority.

The city's "No Dumping" signs are in a somewhat similar category as they appear to make the recipient of the dumping the scapegoat rather than the person doing the dumping.

Perhaps more attention spent on the art of litter rather than on wine and cheese parties might be more to the point.

Grit Member's Assault on Commons Procedural Inefficiency Gets Results

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — A few weeks ago John Reid, parliamentary secretary to Privy Council President Mitchell Sharp, stood the Commons on its ear with a blistering blast at its inefficiencies. In no uncertain terms he said the operations of the House were breaking down.

It was an unusual outburst from the government side of the House, and it might have long-term implications. Had the speech come from the opposition benches it probably would have been regarded as routine frustration.

But not this time. Mr. Reid, MP for Kenora-Rainy River, found himself being congratulated by members from all sides of the House.

"And most said they agreed with me totally."

As a result there are new initiatives to bring in rule changes and other reforms to make the House more effective.

The procedures committee, under Mr. Sharp, was to begin preliminary discussions on the issue Thursday night. Apart from this, informal discussions have begun among inte ested MPs from all parties.

"I think there is a general feeling now that we should correct the situation," Mr. Reid said. "Perhaps we can finally begin to bring the operations of Parliament up to date."

What started this latest flurry of activity was a Commons motion by Ge ald Baldwin (PC-Peace River) calling for a strengthening of the powers of the auditor-general. With an increase in the executive powers of the government, he said, Parliament is not able to examine the government's massive spending.

The debate broadened as it went on.

Mr. Reid said Parliament was still at a 1900 efficiency level.

"We waste our time on trivia and do not focus upon the larger issues," and unless there was some agreement on time allocation there would be no end to the "merry situation that debate now raises for in the House of Commons."

Stanley Knowles, New Democratic House leader, declares himself a "traditionalist" when it comes to Parliament, but he says something must be done.

"What we have not come to grips with yet is the possibility of control over the decisions as to how money is spent."

Debating the spending estimates is no solution.

"The money is already committed and spent."

One of Mr. Reid's points was that members tend to use any debating topic to raise their favorite whipping horse and that the issue before them often is ignored. He was perhaps somewhat guilty of this himself when debating the motion on spending powers, he managed to bring in most facets of Parliament.

"The debates that take place in the House of Commons tend to be a farce," he said.

"We on this side are told to sit down, not say anything and try and get the money."

With the opposition applauding a remark like this, Mr. Reid raised a new complaint — communications. There seems to be a new determination among MPs to reorganize the system, including their personal workloads.

Mr. Knowles has suggested that Parliament consider sitting for three weeks and then taking a one-week recess.

He said the sessions without a break make it difficult for a member who must travel a great distance to his riding.

Mr. Reid says he works from about 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. and tries to spend four of every six weekends in his riding.

He says the system is "getting impossible" for ministers who spend so much time in caucus, committees, parliamentary committees and caucus meetings "that they're being control ed by departmental officials."

"We all agree that the system is inefficient and wasteful, but this time we can really tackle the problem."

Dief Praises Work Of Former Picton Mayor

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — The sanctuary of Prince Edward County Museum, completed this summer, was dedicated Saturday in memory of Picton's late mayor Harvey J. McFarland who headed the town's administration for more than two decades.

Hundreds of Picton and Prince Edward residents were seated on the lawn of Macaulay House to hear a memorial tribute to Mr. McFarland delivered by his longtime friend former prime minister John Diefenbaker.

Master of ceremonies for the services was Judge Willrid S. Lake of Picton who stressed the importance of preserving local heritage.

"In the preservation of that heritage we have sought to establish, throughout Prince Edward County, museums to show us what we have had and should remember," he said.

Chairman of the museum management board, James Musgrove told the crowd that more than 300 persons have contributed time, effort and artifacts to create the Prince Edward County Museum.

"We have Upper Canada Village at Morrisburg. We in Prince Edward with our five splendid museums could be considered to have Upper Canada County," he suggested.

Mr. Diefenbaker paid tribute to his friend H. J. McFarland in an address highlighted by the recollection of their association through the years.

"I think of Harvey McFarland as one who answered in his lifetime the question as to where his monument would stand," Mr. Diefenbaker told the crowd gathered on the lawn of Macaulay House.

He compared the late mayor's community service with the work of Christopher Wren in designing St. Paul's Cathedral in London. The only reference to the cathedral's creator is a plaque that reads "He lived not for himself alone but for the public good. If thou seekest his monument, look around you."

"That is so of Harvey McFarland here in Picton," observed Mr. Diefenbaker.

"In nestles where he went in all the world he produced his card that read 'mayor of Picton'," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

Chief Drops In

Picton resident Cynthia Robbins got a close look at former prime minister John Diefenbaker Saturday when she presented him with a gift. Mr. Diefenbaker received a cousing welcome when he attended the dedication services for the sanctuary at the Prince Edward County Museum.

Mobile Centre Clarifies Ontario's Home Policy

TRENTON — A housing ministry mobile information centre began a four-day stay in Trenton today with staff that is equipped to field questions on provincial housing policy and programs.

The centre, housed in a 45-foot trailer, is located on Front St. beside the Chamber of Commerce offices. Trenton is the second stop in a 15-community tour of eastern Ontario. It ends its swing in Ottawa with an 11-day stand during the Central Canada Exhibition (CCE) August 22-Sept. 1.

While in Trenton centre staff are dispensing first-hand information on ministry participation in various programs: Home Ownership Made Easy (HOME), rental housing for low-income and senior citizens, and the Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP).

Trenton has received $700,000 in NIP funds that will be spent improving older and deteriorated neighborhoods in town over the next five years. Funds have come jointly from both senior governments.

Centre staff will man the office noon to 6 p.m. today through Wednesday. Thursday, it will open at noon and close at 8 p.m.

Weekend Accidents Cause Heavy Damage

CARRYING PLACE — Picton OPP estimate damage at $1,500 in a three-vehicle accident on Highway 33, near here early Saturday evening.

Police said a car driven by 54-year-old Burton Osterhault of Belleville was attempting to enter a driveway when a car operated by 18-year-old Paul Eschback of Oshawa was in collision with the rear of the northbound vehicle. The impact caused the Osterhault vehicle to collide with a parked car owned by Peter Veenstra of R.R.1, Carrying Place.

A passenger in the Eschback vehicle, Evan Ferguson of Fort Lauderdale, Florida received minor injuries in the accident, but was not admitted to hospital.

In another weekend mishap, a 24-year-old Kingston man, Jack Connor escaped injuries Saturday afternoon when the car he was driving left County Road 8, one mile south of the Junction of County Road 25 (Kinley Crossroad). The vehicle hit a fence owned by Jack Wells of here and rolled over. The car received $2,000 damage and $175 to the fence. A passenger, Richard Cairncross of Picton was taken to Prince Edward Memorial Hospital and treated for minor injuries.

6-year-old Drowns

OUTLET PARK — A six-year-old Kingston girl drowned at Outlet Provincial Park Sunday afternoon while visiting the beach with relatives.

The child's name is being withheld pending notification of her parents.

OPP Picton said the youngster was playing in the water under the guidance of members of her family when she disappeared at about 3.30 p.m. Her body was found shortly afterwards floating in two feet of water.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was performed by an unidentified doctor who was on the beach but the child later was pronounced dead at the scene.

The incident is under investigation by Cpl. Bert Nea and Constable Doug Goodfey.

Lawyer Sees Press Slandering Justices

DIGBY, N.S. (CP) — The president of the Canadian Bar Association has accused people in the news media and in associations with the administration of justice in the case of Dr. Henry Morgentaler.

W. L. W. Seaman of Toronto said news reports on the case were "contemptuous and contemptible" and called for establishment of a journalism code of ethics that would be "binding on all its members in all the media wherein they function."

He criticized those in journalism who consider themselves "opinion makers."

"At any given time, it has appeared to me that this group becomes excessively attached to what is for them, for the time being, their conventional wisdom upon any issue exciting public interest and concern."

When that happens, a "good guys or bad guys" situation arises. The judges of the appeal court which overturned Dr. Morgentaler's acquittal by a jury on charges of performing an illegal abortion are the bad guys in this case, Mr. Somerville said.

He told the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Barristers Society that in such a situation, the news media considered they should make no effort to explain the reasons for the judges' decision—"but only misleading them for their alleged wrecking of the jury system."

Many people at this point consider the Morgentaler case involves a brave doctor sacrificing himself for the public good, acquitted by a jury and then "maleveolently convicted by a remote and unresponsive judiciary," he said.

But Dr. Morgentaler had "almost boasted" he had committed the offence. Court proceedings revealed he had, in years earlier, performed 5,000 to 7,000 abortions and on the same morning of the incident for which he was being prosecuted, had aborted six women in two hours.

"Not too long ago, it would have been simply and laconically stated that Dr. Morgentaler operated an abortion mill."

150 FBI Agents Hunt 16 in Dakota Hills

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — The FBI has no positive identification on the 16 persons sought in the shooting deaths of two agents on the Pine Ridge Indian reserve, but "we have a pretty good indication of who they are," a spokesman said.

Spokesman Thomas Coll said Sunday more than 150 agents were searching the rolling, rugged hills of the reserve, the second largest in the United States, for the 16 persons believed to have been involved in the deaths of agents Ronald Williams and Jack Coler.

Williams and Coler, both 28, were gunned down Thursday as they attempted to serve federal warrants on four men. One of the four, Teddy Paul Poutier, was arrested earlier Thursday at his home. Another, Herman Thunder Hawk, was arrested Saturday near Mitchell, about 190 miles from Pine Ridge.

Remaining at large were Robert Horse and James Eagle.

Coll said the two agents were shot when they attempted to serve the warrant on Eagle.

The body of an Indian, identified Sunday as Joseph Bedell Stunts, 24, of the Lapwai Agency in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, was found at the shooting site. Coll said Stunts was wearing a coat belonging to one of the slain agents.

Beach Crowd Quieter

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police at Sauble Beach, 15 miles west of Owen Sound, said Sunday that the crowd was quieter and better behaved this weekend than on the long Victoria Day weekend in May when campers clashed with police.

An extra 30 officers from nearby provincial police detachments helped police the Sauble Beach area which normally has 15 officers. On Sunday 20 of the extra men were sent back to their own detachments.

Camp site owners in Grey and Bruce counties said their camps were full but most people left Sunday for home because of the split holiday.

"Yankee Go Home" Pamphlets Considered Hate Literature

TORONTO (CP) — Police charged two persons with distributing hate literature after Yonge Street pedestrians, including visiting Shriners, were handed pamphlets stating "Yankee Go Home."

Some 65,000 Shriners and their families from across Canada, the United States, Mexico and the Panama canal zone are taking part in a seven-day convention in Toronto.

Charged were John Stewart Cromble, 20, and Susan Sharpe, both of Toronto.

Police said they do not know whether the literature was connected to any political group.

VITORIA, Brazil (AP) — More than 1,200 women, ages 11 to 17, have been found working as prostitutes. They were discovered after a two-months' series of raids on houses of prostitution.

Girl Abducted

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Robert, Donald Knight of Merlin, Ont., was charged Sunday with armed robbery and abduction in connection with the robbery of a service station Friday.

Provincial police said Shelly Eaton, 18, the station attendant, was abducted after the robbery. She was later released on a rural road about 15 miles from the station.

Knight is to appear for a bail hearing today.

To Your Good Health

Dry Eye Malady Plagues Writer

By G. C. THORNTON, MD

This is a condition in which the tear and salivary glands do not produce sufficient fluid, with resulting dry eyes and dry mouth. I can sympathize with your ten-year long ever it.

The syndrome was first described by Dr. Henrik Sjogren, a Swedish ophthalmologist, who, unfortunately, remains active in the field at 75.

It is seen most frequently in postmenopausal women. It can be associated with rheumatoid arthritis and dental decay. However, the precise cause of the condition has not been definitely established, and for that reason a cure is rather elusive. In a recent paper, Dr. Sjogren has speculated that it may be a circulatory disturbance associated with what is called an auto-immune response, meaning it may stem for the body's reaction to its own tissues.

It has also been speculated that it may result from a reaction to certain drugs, including atropine, belladonna, opium or morphine, or from a kidney disease, diabetes, or from nutritional deficiencies (of the vitamin B-complex group).

It may also develop as secondary to mumps, typhoid fever or diabetes. In elderly persons it can develop as a mild condition unrelated to any of the illnesses or other causes.

A variety of treatments have been tried with uneven results. Vitamin supplements have been used, as well as cortisone and hydrocortisone. There are also blood creams that can be applied to the eyes for temporary relief.

Since the disease occurs almost exclusively among women, it has also been suggested that some disturbance in the female sex hormone balance may be a cause. So in that sense an endocrinologist (glad specialist) could be helpful in advising you.

Dear Dr. Thornton: Please advise as to the cause and treatment of urine that is very odorous.

I am 79-years-old and in fairly good health. My blood pressure is good, and I am not a diabetic. I don't drink alcoholic beverages. I try to maintain an adequate diet.

I don't take any medication.—A.C.

If your strong urine odor is a recent and dramatically obvious symptom, a careful urinalysis is in order. Normal urine should have only a mild odor and be a clear amber color. If there is a strong ammonia smell, this can indicate bladder infection. If there is a new-known bay odor about it, this can be a symptom of diabetes.

If you are not getting sufficient liquid, the urine could become more concentrated on excretion, and this, too, would present a strong odor. The point is that any dramatic change in urine, in appearance or odor, should be investigated, especially if it persists and if, as in your case, no obvious cause can be assumed.

Dear Dr. Thornton: My sister is going to have surgery to remove that looks like small clumps of skin that have appeared around the area of her eyes. She has learned that these clumps are due to an excessive amount of cholesterol in her body. Does cholesterol cause such growths? Why isn't there any other way to get rid of them except surgery?—I.C.

Such clumps can appear as small, yellow areas, chiefly on the nose side of the eyelids. Yes, they contain cholesterol. The condition is called xanthoma, and it is not uncommon. Surgery is the only way to remove them, and this is done usually for cosmetic reasons. They may recur with time. She should have her cholesterol level checked.

Quinte Cuisine

Carolyn Taylor put together this tasty sandwich loaf as a response to two things: an excess of pork hocks in the bottom of the freezer and bad publicity about processed meat. She and the family — husband Floyd, daughter Carin and son Steven — liked the sandwich meat which Carolyn says tastes like the pressed chicken her mother used to can. The family lives in Hillier.

Sandwich Loaf

three large pork hocks
one onion salt pepper celery salt
paprika

Trim pork hocks of rind and fat. Chop onion and add, with pork hocks to water or chicken bouillon in a large kettle. (About two quarts of liquid should be sufficient.)

Boil for two to three hours.

Cool completely in the refrigerator and when cold, skim off fat which will have come to the top. Take meat from bones and put through meat grinder. Return meat to liquid which should be a thick gel.

Heat the mixture, adding seasoning listed above to taste, mixing well.

Press all into a greased loaf pan and cool thoroughly before slicing.

The Million Dollar Man.

Recognize him? He's a Ziebart Rustproofing dealer. And there's a million dollars that says he's unlike any other kind of rustproofing dealer in Canada. Or in the world, for that matter.

For starters, before he can even start being a Ziebart dealer, he has to finish an intensive course at the Ziebart Training School. It includes classroom instruction, theory, and individual "hands-on" training. Once he finishes that, he's still not finished. He comes back every year for a refresher course.

This training is exactly what his technicians go through. (So whenever he discusses the finer points of rustproofing with his men, he can talk to them like one of the boys.)

Every Ziebart dealer also has our exclusive Technical Manuals. No one else has them. They're constantly updated throughout every new model year by our own full-time engineering staff, at an annual cost of over $250,000! And contain over 2,000 pages of information compiled from manufacturer's new car drawings and interior blueprints.

In effect, they allow our men to precisely pinpoint where all the hidden, rust-prone sections are deep inside the inner structure of your new car's body. (It's almost like having X-ray vision).

Once we know where these places are, we can then use our nine patented spray tools and exclusive Ziebart sealant to reach and coat this vulnerable metal inside your new car.

To help insure that no Ziebart dealer anywhere, ever delivers less than the best rustproofing job, Ziebart employs a platoon of highly trained inspectors. At a yearly cost of over $400,000. They drop in expectedly, but mostly unexpectedly throughout the year, and grade the performance of each dealer. (Staying on top means staying on your toes.)

What does all this training and money mean to you?

Quite simply, that when you have your new car rustproofed at Ziebart, you can be sure that for years to come, it'll keep looking like a million bucks.

Ann Landers

School Principal Shocked at Lunchroom Waste

Dear Ann Landers: I read a news story recently worth sharing. An elementary school principal became distressed watching pupils toss most of their lunches into garbage cans.

The dramatic the waste, this principal gathered the pupils and teachers together and dumped the contents of the nearest trash can onto a table.

Among other items, out rolled large, unpeeled oranges, whole red apples with not a bite missing, an assortment of untouched sandwiches. A sixth-grader prepared the official inventory — sandwiches, two cartons of milk, two whole pieces of chicken, three bags of potato chips, 19 apples, 13 oranges, one piece of cake, an untouched carton of chocolate pudding, four whole carrots, two small boxes of raisins, 19 pieces of candy and 14 cookies.

After the demonstration, the principal sent a letter to the parents of his 430 pupils, listing what had been found in the trash can. Teachers included lessons on food waste and nutrition. The children were impressed with the experiment and learned from it.

Please print this, Ann. Perhaps when school opens in the fall, other teachers might want to try this experiment.—Coffee Breaker.

Dear Reader: What a splendid idea! I heartily recommend it—not only for schools, but also for homes. If they'd observe the eating habits of their families and check on what is thrown out daily, perhaps they would change their menus.

Dear Ann Landers: I've seen many letters in your column from people who complain about smokers vs. non smokers. I'm a smoker who makes every attempt to keep from bothering others and how I wish THEY would respect MY right not to be bothered by their dogs. Why is it that normally nice people seem to think their pets belong everywhere?

Why haven't you blasted those boors who insist on taking their dogs into beauty shops, supermarkets, restaurants, office buildings and public conveyances? Have you ever had to sit near and smell a wet, smelly mongrel on a train or a bus?

As a former member of the Harvard University student community, I was appalled at the number of dogs (and cats) allowed to roam the cafeterias! I have also found that people who take their dogs everywhere fail to give them proper grooming or training.

The only exception is seeing eye dogs—they are invariably beautifully-groomed and well-behaved. Please address your self to this problem, Ann. I mean—Bad It.

Dear Bad: According to the Chicago Public Health Dept., the state regulations say no pets are allowed where food is prepared, processed or stored. However, the managers of supermarkets and the proprietors of grocery stores are not obligated to post signs.

A Chicago Transit Authority spokesman said dogs are allowed on buses in our city if they are muzzled and on leashes. Lap dogs must be muzzled and held on laps.

The Greyhound Bus people said, "No dogs allowed except those leading the blind."

If you are bothered by dogs in places where the law says they should be, complain to the manager. If he fails to cooperate, report him to the district attorney.

'Have You Taken Your Pill?'

SALVADOR, Brazil (Reuter) — A Brazilian scientist has developed a capsule that eliminates menstruation, the physical process he considers both physically and mentally unhealthy for women.

Dr. Elsimar Coutinho, also known as Brazil's "Mr. Pill" for his pioneer work on male and unisex contraceptive pills, developed a one-inch capsule made of silastic—a type of permeable plastic—and containing nor-testosterone, a hormone that is neither male nor female. The capsule is inserted into the forearm or buttock.

Originally designed as a long-term contraceptive, the capsule gradually releases the hormone, impeding ovulation for up to three years until it is replaced by a new capsule or removed to allow pregnancy. Lack of menstruation was once considered a bad side-effect of the capsule. Dr. Coutinho no longer thinks so.

The 50-year-old father of three children who heads a team of research scientists working for the World Health Organization in this northeastern Brazilian city, was recently appointed professor of the newly created chair of human reproduction at Bahia State University.

"Menstruation is neither good, nor desirable, nor healthy, because of the loss of blood and the psychological and emotional effects it has on the woman," Coutinho said.

"Before, we thought that lack of menstruation was a bad side effect of the long-term contraceptive pill. Now I consider it the main good effect and the lack of pregnancy to be the side-effect."

Coutinho believes women will have to be re-educated since they were taught to believe that menstruation was good.

He has conducted extensive tests over 15 years, first with the continued use of the pill and then with the capsule.

More than 300 women who have been attending research experiments at the Clinica de Oliveira maternity clinic here have not menstruated for 10 years and do not want to return to menstruation, he said.

About 3,000 women in Brazil now use the capsule, he said.

If a woman wants to have a baby, the capsule is removed and 80 per cent of such women have become pregnant within one to three months, Coutinho said. With the others it has taken a little longer, he

Coutinho, who now is working on an implant that will last five years, said the capsule is safer than the pill because it contained the minimum hormone content necessary, he says.

It therefore had no side-effects, such as gastric disturbances and the tendency toward obesity, which occurred with the pill.

Among other current projects of Coutinho, whose research team is also linked with the Ford and Rockefeller foundations and the World Population Council, is a rejuvenation implant which contains estrogen as an ovary substitute.

It aims to keep women in the state they are in at menopause, the doctor said. They age less then they would do otherwise.

Yet another implant, containing male hormones to substitute for testicle deficiency, combats impotence and the so-called andropause (male menopause), he said.

One warning from Coutinho to the younger generation: marijuana, he says, definitely reduces fertility and even totally leads to impotence because it reduces the testosterone produced by the testicles.

One Little Mistake Makes a Big, Big Difference

By ALAN TEBWORTH
Sportswriter

In top-level softball, the slightest of mistakes anywhere on the field can cost a team a game faster than one can blink an eye.

In the First Belleville Yardmen Ladies' Softball Tournament, the mistake came one to make the slip, the one that cost not only the game but possibly the whole tournament for the Belleville Yardmen, was their third baseman, Carol McAvoy.

Preston made a mental error in the top of the fifth inning of what proved to be the final game of the tournament, allowing Oshawa to a score their only run in a 1 - 0 victory over Belleville.

The situation arose after a double play by the Yardmen, involving a fly ball out in the field, and an appeal play at third base.

With one runner loaded, Bonnie Janowski cracked a long fly to left field, with Judy Rappell making the grab for the Yardmen. Carol McAvoy, on third for the Oshawa team, broke for home before the ball was caught. The Yardmen made an appeal to third base umpire Vern Whaler, with Whaler signalling the out. Meanwhile, runners at second and first advanced, leaving runners on second and third after the appeal play.

The next batter for the Oshawa lineup, Cathy Fertile, then slapped a timer to Preston at third base. Donna, apparently thinking there were runners at first and second rather than second and third, went to the bag and stopped on it for the force out of the runner on second. However, Ellen Coe, on second, stayed there, with Kathy Bernier being the only run of the game.

Her play was not a physical error on the field of any sort, and could have happened to anyone, but in this case, it cost the Belleville crew, who had fought back from an early loss to the same Oshawa club to make it to the final of the double knockout tournament.

The Yardmen started out by dumping the Puritanettes 11-3 in the tournament opener Friday night, taking Oshawa 5 - 0 , Saturday morning. Oshawa handed them their first loss, 5-4, Saturday afternoon. BYBF then bounced back for three straight wins, all on Sunday, before the final game, loss. They squeaked past Oakville 1-0, in eight innings, edged Newmarket 4-3, also in eight frames, and whitewashed Elgin 5-0.

Oshawa made it through the tournament undefeated, rolling to four straight victories, starting out with a 9-5 decision over Newmarket. The Yardmen were their next victims, then Kingston, a 5-4 win as well. It was then to the final, with the 1-0 score good enough to take it all.

Helen Coe earned the victory in the finale, allowing six Belleville hits, striking out two, and not walking a batter. Sandra Glass was the losing hurler, giving up eight hits. She struck out two, and did not issue a free pass.

At the plate, Sandra Chase, Patty Colman and Kathy Bernier each had a brace of singles to lead the way. Louise Wilson doubled, with Nancy Calder and Joel finishing off with base hits.

Sheila Smith continued her torrid batting streak with a double to head the Yardmen attack, with Claus contributing two base hits. The other hits went to Nancy Birch and Sharon Alexander.

"We just put it all together here today" remarked Oshawa coach Don Calder, "there was much better competition than we expected, with certainly no easy games."

Yardmen coach Doug Lucas summed it up, saying, "somebody had to win it. With the effort my club put out, playing four games in one session, in 80 degree weather (30 degree Celcius), it's no disgrace that it wasn't us. We'll put it together next year. It'll be our tournament then."

Thanks to wide throw from Oshawa shortstop Cathy Fertile, Belleville's Sandra Alexander motors into first base in the final game of the Belleville Yardmen Ladies' Softball Tournament last night. Although first baseman Mary Calder made an all-out effort to catch the ball, it went astray, allowing Alexander to reach first. Alexander was chosen the Most Valuable Player of the tourney, won by Oshawa with a 1-0 win over the Yardmen in the final.

Down Hellenic in Final

Kingston Takes Molson's Cup

SHEILA SMITH

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

The Quinte Hellenic upset the Belleville Olympics red then went on to the finals of the Molson Cup Soccer Tournament, Sunday. The Hellenic were defeated against Kingston Italo in the final of the tourney's most prestigious soccer tournament, held at Sir James Whitney School. The outcome a 3-0 win and the title for Kingston.

Some of the best teams around the area competed, in the tourney with clubs from Peterborough, Kingston, Toronto and Belleville.

Both the Hellenic and the Kingston squads had to go through quite a bit to make it to the finals.

The day was not conducive to a lot of good, physical play, but all of the competitors in the tournament were through just fine.

Hellenic, playing in the "A" division, defeated Frenchy's 3-0 and Scarboro (4-2) to go into a game against the Belleville Olympics to see who would win the "A" division championship. The Hellenic put together a team effort and won 3-0. They then defeated Quinte Italo in a playoff round and defeated them 3-0.

Kingston Italo didn't have it easy either, as they met Toronto Ferma in "C" division play and were defeated 2-2. The Kingston team bounced back though, and defeated Toronto Citizens Finance 5-1 and last year's champions, Coburg Tony's 3-0, in the playoff round they met Peterboro Vimar and were victorious 2-0.

That set the stage for the final between Hellenic and Kingston.

The game, very close to begin with, neither team gaining the advantage until the nearly the end of the first half, when Goran Mehlianogic scored for Kingston.

Kingston proceeded to take control of the game, with Tommy Moran scoring two more goals in the second half to bring Kingston up to a 3-0 lead. The winners then played Yardmen with no chance of the Molson Cup.

The victors go the spoils and with the Molson Cup went Tony Ciccone, Kingston Player Trophy to Moran.

"It was a team effort. I think we got a lot into it," said the MVP after the game.

Tournament director Peter Crowle was surprised both teams could go "so all out" after the hard days work.

"I'm surprised they could keep up that kind of pace after so much play through this muggy day," he stated.

The third award of the tournament, in its fourth year, went to the Sam Mavety Youngster. The winner was Oscar Nespoli of Quinte Italo, who "played consistently well in all of his games.

"Fan support has been better" said Crowle, "but it is the first holiday weekend of the year and keeping this in mind we did quite well."

The tournament has been won previously by Coburg, Belleville and Ottawa.

Macs May Get Two Of Three

The Belleville McDonalds may be having financial troubles, but they will have sufficient opportunities to improve their playing record in their next three Ontario Fastball Association games.

On Tuesday night the Macs take on the Toronto Wesleyan Globals, whom they defeated twice in Toronto last week, before losing the second game of the doubleheader 1-0 in a tired ninth inning.

The Globals have been steadily improving all year, but the Macs haven't been sitting still either.

On Wednesday, back in Belleville, the Macs will meet the Oshawa Tonys, at the Admiral, in a doubleheader. The Tonys, as most people know, are last year's Canadian Champions.

Still, that hasn't let them intimidate the Belleville team so far this season, as the club defeated Oshawa 4-0 in the first game of a doubleheader here, and lost another close one 2-0.

Toronto can be beaten because they have no big ace to throw at the Macs this other OFL teams do. The loss of Pete Landers meant the near collapse of their pitching staff, and it is just now coming back.

Reg Martin and John Young are the Global pitchers and, while neither is to be taken lightly, the Macs at least know they can hit both. That showed in Toronto when Larry Mavety broke his hitting slump and Dale Duval swatted a homerun to spark a four run game for the Macs.

One hit the McDonald pitchers will have to beware of is that of John Barkowski, the big Toronto first baseman. He scored the only Toronto run on an out of the park homer the first time the Globals beat Belleville.

Barkowski has also been hitting the long shots off of other teams and is one of the league leaders in circuit blasts.

On the other hand, Toronto hurlers Young and Martin hurl better beware of the fact that Larry Mavety has come to life at the plate. His three homeruns have all come at important times and put him in the running for the homer championship. Terry Meagher leads the team in RBIs, but he comes through, usually in the seventh inning, when the team need a rally.

As for Oshawa, no one can belittle them, but the Macs have done well against them. Both in exhibition play and in the regular season.

The Tonys have excellent pitching in Wayne Colley, Barry Timbers and Paul Wannamaker. Timbers had 10 wins last year while Colley collected 8 and Wannamaker was the ace with 13.

Last season Jack Sneddon hit .366 for the Tonys and is a man to be watched carefully, as is Bob Nolan, a former member of the Richmond Hill Dynes Jewelers, and a versatile fielder.

If the Belleville squad can play like they did against Kitchener, last weekend, and forget any troubles they can definitely win two out of three games.

Going out on a limb for the Macs is not fashionable, as has not always been the best thing to do. Still, look for the Belleville team to take two wins out of the next three ballgames.

Parson's Pulls Disappearing Act

The Belleville Parsons of the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association aren't going to get any awards for being on time. For that matter they won't get any for playing either if they pull the same stunt in other tournaments as they did at the Molson Cup on Sunday.

What they did was wait until 7 p.m. Saturday evening to phone director Peter Crowle and inform him their services would not be available.

"They phoned me and said somehow they got not having enough players," said Crowle, "if they'd informed me earlier it could have gotten another team."

As it ended up, the tournament still went over well, and Parsons will probably regret their unthoughtfulness. Crowle said the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association would likely fine them for the act.

Yardmen Girls Capture Two Awards

Despite not winning the grand championship at the Yardmen tournament, the host Belleville Yardmen Ladies' team can draw consolation that they did win two of the four most valuable personnel trophies at the ten team event, including the Most Valuable Player and Top Hitter awards.

Sharon Alexander carted off the Red Barn Trophy as most Valuable Player, presented by Murph Warner. Alexander played at many different positions for the team-up coming up with many fine defensive plays, as well as showing prowess at the plate. She averaged .500 on home runs and no less than nine singles in the Yardmen's star contest.

But not to be outdone by the tournament's top hitter at the plate, Sheila Smith, the Yardmen second baseman, earned the Top Hitter of the Tournament trophy, donated by Howard and Robert Printing Trophy. Smith rapped out a pair of homers, two doubles, and five singles. Larry Mavety, a defenceman with the Toronto Toros, and a member of the Belleville Mc Donald's OFL team, presented the trophy.

Meanwhile, the Most Valuable Pitcher of the Tournament went to Sue Kester of Newmarket. She pitched in four of the tournament's five games, winning one, sharing a win, and losing two. Although her record was not that impressive on paper, she was clearly the outstanding pitcher at all the tourney. She posted eight strikeouts, while only walking one in four games, and allowing one three bitter. She won the Bob's Sport and Repair Trophy, with Jim Carson from the Ontario Amateur Softball Association on hand to present the hardware.

The winning Oshawa club was not to be denied a trophy however, with pitcher Helen Coe chosen as the tourney's Most Sportsmanlike Player. She was presented with the Ray's Signs Trophy by Jim Tebworth.

PICTON (SPECIAL) — You win a few, you lose a few. At the start of the year that might well have been the saying on the lips of the Belleville SACO softball team Sunday at the Picton Pewee Tournament.

The Belleville squad won their first game convincingly by a rather lopsided score of 28-7 over the home town Picton team.

John Munkittrick went the distance for the local team, giving up only two walks while striking two out.

Jim Keough and Don Jackson led the loss for the Picton squad, walking six and hitting six batters.

Leading the Belleville assault was Dave Gee with two homers and a double to count 4 rb's. Steve Lowry hit a homer, a triple and a single to add to the total runs and Jeff Soule smashed a grandslam homer and came up with 4 rb's.

Bob Young was Picton's threat at the plate. He had a homer.

SACO went on to play the Napanee Minor Softball team and ended up on the other side of the score in that game, losing 16-7.

Lloyd Olson and John Munkittrick took the loss giving up 10 hits and striking out two.

The winner was Jim Tripp of Napanee with help from reliever Jody Calzea. Combined they gave up eight hits and had an impressive 11 strikeout total.

Quinte Hellenic Sandy Duchart tries to head off Kingston Italo forward Tommy Moran (right) as the Kingston goal scorer goes in for another score. Moran scored two goals in the final game of the Molson Cup Soccer Tournament to give Kingston Italo the trophy. He was also named tournament MVP.

Queen's Plate in a Romp

L'Enjoleur and Hawley Silence the Critics

TORONTO CP — Jockey Sandy Hawley and L'Enjoleur silenced the critics Saturday in the 118th running of the Queen's Plate.

L'Enjoleur, winning the first leg in Ontario's Triple Crown series for 3-year-old thoroughbreds foaled in Canada, was the 2-to-1 favorite in cooling-off. He defeated Near The Bluff, first by 1½ lengths in the 1¼ mile race which attracted a field of 12.

The second leg is the 1½ mile Prince of Wales Stakes on turf, scheduled for Fort Erie in the summer. The third is the 1½ mile Breeders Stakes also on turf, to be held at Woodbine race track in the fall.

The winning time is Saturday's race at Woodbine, before a crowd of 31,186 which wagered a record of $2,517,753, was two minutes 1½ seconds. It was the fifthe, of a second off the race mark set by Victoria Park in 1960. The previous Plate and track record record for nine racers was $2,288,875 in last year's running but the attendance that day was a record 40,137.

It was the first Plate win for Montreal's Jean Louis Levesque, who breeds and races the horse owns L'Enjoleur, and the first time a breeder owner has won the race. Hawley leading rider in Canada since 1969, recorded Plate win No.3 and trainer John Vonsie Starr made it No. 4.

An experienced Greek sailor who broke from the No. 13 post position for the lead after two furlongs. He duelled with Countryman for the first half-mile and held a 2½ length over L'Enjoleur who was third. Hawley and L'Enjoleur then started their move hallway down the backstretch and quickly caught and passed the leaders before hitting the final turn.

"He was running really strong in the backstretch," Hawley said. "When we got into the turn, I tried to give him a bit of a breather in the stretch he was tiring a bit and drifting out.

Will History Repeat?

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Oshawa Tonys, defending Ontario Amateur Baseball Association champions, may be taking the championship trophy the same way they did last year — but not all the way — after losing 5-1 Sunday to Hamilton Waxmen.

The winner of the double knock-out tournament will represent Ontario in the all-Canada championship in Oshawa in late August. The four-day tournament continues with 13 games today and ends with the championship contest Tuesday afternoon. In the tournament, two losses and a team is eliminated.

Last season, Oshawa dropped the first game of the competition before working their way to the championship through the losers' side of the schedule.

An error by second baseman Dave Stewart Sunday proved costly as Ed Neudorf scored on Dave Jones' single to give the Waxmen the winnings edge in the top of the last inning.

The game was a pitching duel between Tonys' Pete Landers and Hamilton's Bill McNeiln. Landers was tagged with the loss giving up five hits and striking out seven. McNeiln struck out six and allowed just three hits in picking up the win.

Earlier in the day, the Tonys defeated Newmarket Royals 1-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Bill Lunney and Bob Domik. Tonys scored the only run in the fifth inning when winning pitcher Paul Wassmanaker singled, moved to second a sacrifice and scored on a pair of wild pitches.

In a 12-inning game, 1974 Ontario Senior League champions Niagara Falls McRaes defeated Cardinal Pats 8-7. McRaes took a 6-0 lead by the end of the third inning but Pats came back in the sixth with six runs on five hits and one McRaes error. McRaes took the lead for the final time in the 12th.

In other action Sunday, Woodstock defeated Toronto Globals 5-1; Ottawa Boythere downed Owen Sound 9-0; Toronto Winston Park Carriers edged Sarnia 3-2; St. Catharines beat Ottawa Falcons 3-1; Hamilton Waxmen nipped Burlington 5-4; London defeated Ottawa Turpin 4-2; Kitchener beat Brockville 4-0; Toronto Karaan defeated Toronto Weaverex 5-4; Ottawa Falcons downed Toronto John Oliver 7-0 and Goelph beat Brockville 5-3.

Exactor Record

TORONTO (CP) — Queen's Plate day started off slow for longshot bettors but picked up for the third race when a 65-to-1 shot set up an Ontario Jockey Club $2 exactor record.

Ab Initio, owned by Jim Leibel of Toronto and ridden by Bill McMahon, defeated Mister Royalty, a 9-to-1 shot, by a head in the first race of the competition before working their way to the championship through the losers' side of the schedule.

An error by second baseman Dave Stewart Sunday proved costly as Ed Neudorf scored on Dave Jones' single to give the Waxmen the winnings edge in the top of the last inning.

The game was a pitching duel between Tonys' Pete Landers and Hamilton's Bill McNeiln. Landers was tagged with the loss giving up five hits and striking out seven. McNeiln struck out six and allowed just three hits in picking up the win.

MONCTON CP — A poor showing on the uneven hars ruined, Lise Lamontagne of Saturday for the 1975 Canadian women's gymnastics championship.

Miss MacDonnell finished the two day competition with 71.50 points, while Lise Arsenault finished with 70.40 points.

FOYT FLYING

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — A. J. Foyt, in his Bryan Houston Coyote, Sunday won the Pocono 500 auto race, which was stopped by rain after 425 miles. His winning speed was 140.711 miles an hour. Foyt, 40, of Houston, who has won more than $1.5 million in his car r, had a 16-second lead over Wally Dallenbach when rain brought out the eighth yellow flag of the day on the 160th lap. Pocono officials stopped the $400,000 race. Foyt's share of the purse will be about $80,000.

Espada Lands Telling Blow

Close-in Tactic Out And So Is Clyde Gray

SAN JUAN, P.R. (CP-AP) — Clyde Gray of Toronto will have to stay out of the ring for at least two months to let his cuts heal after losing Saturday's welterweight title bout to Puerto Rican Angel Espada.

Dr. Herman F. Mendez said Sunday that Gray had two gashes over the right eyebrow, each 1½ inches long. A total of 14 stitches were required to close the two wounds, he said.

Mendez explained that the smaller wound had been opened up over Gray's left brow. That cut, he said, needed four stitches.

In addition, the physician said, Gray suffered a contusion on the eye in the fight for the World Boxing Association (WBA) title, a severe hematoma on the forehead and a badly swollen lower lip.

Mendez advised that Gray avoid all combat for at least two months.

After Saturday night's fight with Espada, Gray complained of his dressing room and in the infirmary at San Juan's Roberto Clemente Coliseum for two hours.

When he finally left the arena he paused briefly to talk with newspapermen.

"I concede that I lost the fight," Gray said. "But I don't think I lost it by such a wide margin."

Espada was the winner on a unanimous 15-round decision. Referee Isaac Herrera of Panama favored Espada 146-143. Judge Luis Saharan of Venezuela had it 148-144 and Judge Larry Rosenthal of Los Angeles voted for Espada 147-139.

Regarding the cut he received over the right brow in the fourth round, Gray said, "I felt the skin stretch when the punch landed."

"I couldn't see very good for a few rounds, but the referee wouldn't let us fight in close," he said. "If I could have fought in close, I think I could have knocked him out."

Meanwhile, Gray's manager, Irving Ungerman, said he was willing to guarantee Espada $100,000 for a rematch in Canada. Espada's manager, Martin Montano, is reported to have replied, "We may consider it."

Espada said, "I'd like my first title defense to be held in Puerto Rico, but my managers tell me I can win both of the fights and they have the right to say."

However, there is speculation that Espada might face Johnny Gant of Baltimore. Also being considered is Venezuelan Luis Lara Acosta.

Gray's second attempt at the title brought him a purse of $50,000. He lost to Jose Napoles in Toronto two years ago.

Saturday's bout was set up to produce a new WBA champion after Napoles was stripped of his title for refusing to fight Espada. The World Boxing Council still regards Napoles as the champion.

Gray, a native of Halifax, was striving to become the third Canadian world title holder in this century.

Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver held the welterweight title twice in the mid-1930s and Tommy Burns of Hanover, Ont., was the heavyweight champion ship from Phil O'Brien of Ont United States in 1908 and lost to Jack Johnson of the U.S. in 1908.

Joanne Carner Hitting Stride

TORONTO (CP) — Joanne Carner, the United States Ladies Professional Golf Association player of the year of 1974, is once again the hottest star on the tour.

Winner of six tournaments and $87,094 last year, she has come on in the last six weeks to win three more — two of them in playoffs — to move to within striking distance of money earning leader Sandra Palmer.

The 36-year-old Mrs. Carner rolled on her brilliant ending Sunday to defeat Carol Mann on the second extra hole in the playoff for the tournament at St. George's Golf and Country Club. One stroke off the pace after the second round of the 54-hole tournament, Mrs. Carner fired a one under par 72 on the final r to finish tied at 214, five under par, with Miss Mann, 34-year-old LPGA president.

Mrs. Carner had rounds of 73, 69, 72 while Miss Mann was 68, 76, 69, firing five birdies in her last round to charge from behind after being one stroke ahead of the car on the par four 375 yard 18th hole, the only hole of the day.

Mrs Mann appeared on her way toward winning on the first playoff hole, the 18th hole, a three 162s.

She hit her tee shot with a three iron to within nine feet of the pin while Mrs. Carner with a five iron, pulled her shot into the crowd to the left of the green.

After getting a free drop because the lie would have forced her to hit standing on a cart path, Mrs. Carner chipped brilliantly to within eight feet. That after watching Carol's putt slide by the hole, she calmly dropped hers to save par and stay alive.

The ladies were turned on the second playoff hole, the 400 yard, par four 17th. There Mrs Carner hit her drive down the middle after Miss Mann caught the trough. But Carol recovered with an iron shot within 14 feet of the pin while Joanne put her second shot 35 feet above the hole.

Mrs. Carner then curled her putt in for a birdie three and Miss Mann, who said she liked playoffs "nerve wracking," simply did hers by the hole to end the playoff.

This was the third playoff of the year for Mrs. Carner, a native of Kirkland, Wash., who lives now in Lake Worth, Fla. She lost in a three-way playoff to Jane Blalock, Sally Little in Astrologer, Judy Rankin, who was leading in the playoff, dropped out to Mrs. Carner two weeks later in the American Defender Classic.

The 12,000 she won here brought her earnings for 1975 to $21,000, less than $6,000 behind the leader, Sandra Palmer, with $26,279. Miss Palmer was one of four players tied for 22nd place here, picking up $567.

Angela Kondrak

She'll Try Again

TORONTO CP — Angela Kondrak, 15, who recently set swim across Lake Ontario last August with about a mile to go to be practicing for a second attempt July 19.

The Toronto girl has been swimming 40 miles a week since May and "seen 10 miles in a recent workout, swimming strokes per minute.

"I am more determined than ever to swim the lake," she said.

If she finished the 52 mile N.Y., she will try for Britain in August to swim the English Channel. She would be the first person to attempt both bodies of water in the same year.

In last year's try, she was blown off course and made little progress during the final six hours of the 34 hour swim.

Joe Predicts A 'Good Show'

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Defending heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali and British challenger Joe Bugner are today completed training for their outdoor title match.

Bugner shaken by illness and skipped rope at Negara Stadium and declared himself "fit and strong. I shall give a very good show tomorrow."

Bugner said he weighed 224 pounds and that he expected to shed about 14 pounds against Ali in the humid heat Tuesday.

Double Round Windup

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — George Johnson was just looking for an excuse to delay his scheduled Jerry Heard, fresh out of hospital bed, was waiting for the call going into today's weather delayed, double round, 36-hole windup to the $50,000 Illinois Open golf tournament.

But the excuses aren't right, Heard won't challenge.

"If I get tired in the first 18 holes, I won't play the second 18," Heard said Sunday after he had shot a 69 under ideal conditions.

"And," he continued with a smile, "if there's a cloud in the sky, if it's hot, if it's cool, if it's hilly cloudy, I probably won't even hit it of the first tee."

Heard, Trevino and Bobby Nichols were struck by lightning Friday as a violent thunderstorm swept over the 7,003-yard Butler National Golf Club course. All were sent to hospital for treatment and observation and were released Sunday after being given the delayed second round.

Trevino, the reigned kit of the three, and Nichols headed home immediately. Heard went to the clinic.

"We're all okay," Hears Said. "But the doctor said that if we weren't young, strong men and good condition, it would have killed us."

Hears suffered burns on the inside of his legs.

"I'll be walking like John Wayne for a few days, but other than that I'm fine," he said.

Nichols, one of the few blacks on the tour, has yet to take a title and hasn't even gained an exemption from qualifying.

"I've been in the top 70 money winners four times, but I've never made the top 60, the cut off spot for determining an exemption. That what I'd really pay 71 in his final round Sunday beginning an opening 68 Friday and a 69 Saturday for a total of the second round lead.

Heard, pocketing a $2,900 winner's share of the $15,000 second prize, had a cushion almost left town without collecting an extra $300 for holing his tee shot Friday on the par three 12th.

His 25 yard shot bounced once on the green and dropped into the cup.

The fight starts about 9:30 a.m. local time but, because of the international date line, will seen on closed circuit theatre television in North America in prime time Monday afternoon.

It's the first heavyweight title fight in this part of the world. It is to be screened as one-third of a championship triple bill involving light heavyweight champion Victor Galindez against challenger Jorge Ahumada and middleweight title-holder Carlos Monzon against Tony Licata. The latter two fights are being held in Madison Square Garden.

Ali was rated a 3-1 favorite by oddsmakers in his 16th title fight. At 33, he's eight years older than the European heavyweight champion.

The champion weighed 225 at the official weigh-in Saturday but was expected to enter the ring at about 210.

The champion collects $2 million for his share, Bugner gets $500,000.

The bomoh—Malaysian witch-doctor—has been assigned to the champion. Weather forecasters do not expect rain. The temperature was expected to be in the 80s.

A crowd of about 15,000 was expected to attend the contest in Merdeka Stadium, which holds more than 30,000. The bout was to be on home TV in Malaysia.

Bugner presumably was strict. Police combed the stadium today for bombs. Ali and Bugner have large contingents of bodyguards.

Bugner said he expected Ali to start fast.

"The first few rounds should really be hot," he said. "Ali has been training specially for dominate things."

Ali has declined to pick a round in which he would attempt to knock out the challenger. Bugner lost a 15-round decision to Ali in Vegas, Nev., in February 1973. In that fight, Ali predicted that he would end Bugner away in round seven.

Winner Wants Practice

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Bob Panasiuk headed for his Windsor, Ont., home Sunday to practise for his next tournament which is scheduled between the dozen other pros to win the 1975 Peter Jackson Atlantic Open golf title with a 54-hole score of 209 at Truro Golf Club.

Panasiuk, the 33-year-old star of the Canadian professional golf tour, battled the Truro Golf and Country Club course for a total par 71 in his final round Sunday beginning an opening 68 Friday and a 69 Saturday for a total of the second round lead.

Panasiuk, pocketing a $2,900 winner's share of the $15,000 second prize, had a cushion almost left town without collecting an extra $300 for holing his tee shot Friday on the par three 12th.

His 25 yard shot bounced once on the green and dropped into the cup.

HOWIE MEEKS

Meet in Golden Bat First Round

New Look for Thurlow, Trenton

Two of the teams scheduled for first round action in this weekend's seventh annual Golden Bat Bantam Baseball Tournament are entering through the pangs of major rebuilding projects. But it hasn't kept either squad from making its presence felt in the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association regular season play.

Cobourg, Belleville, Trenton, Thurlow entry, and Trenton Stars Farm meet head-on at 6 pm. Friday action at Centennial Park diamond No. 2. They're fresh off a closely matched home and home series played last week when Trenton swept both games but they were squashers.

Friday's confrontation as the Golden Bat gets off on another run, should be a duey. Trenton's wins last week were by 4-3 and 3-0 scores. So far, there's not much to choose between the teams rivals.

The only major difference in the two clubs will be in the wins-loss column where after games last week, Trenton was 7-3 and Thurlow, 3-4. But even that statistic can be misleading.

The Trenton entry has had to battle tooth and nail to pull out most of its wins and Thurlow has gone down grudgingly in its setbacks.

Not only are the teams breaking in new players (each has only six players back from last year's squad), there have been changes at the coaching and management level as well.

Leo Kent is the new manager of the Chiaotta's of Roslin nine while Ray Dorchester is in his first year as manager of the State Farm aggregation.

Howie Meeks has done a very creditable chore as coach of the Thurlow team and Trenton has Bill Mitts adding his years of experience to Trenton's coaching which is shared by Don Cole and Doug Walsh.

Mitts and Cole are no strangers to Belleville softball fans. Both played for several years with Trenton and RCAF-Trenton teams in the old Belleville and District Softball League.

Because of the reference to softball, there is no reference there men do not know their baseball. Mitts was pitching in the Central Ontario Baseball League when he was 15 years old! And his work with first-year players has already paid dividends.

Cole has taken to baseball readily and has a special way with handling the young players to the benefit of all concerned.

Rick Woodcock, who doubles as a catcher, Gary Sadgrey and David Blakely handle the pitching for Thurlow.

"Our pitching has been excellent," says team manager Kent.

But our big asset is all round team play and that is due to the work of coach Meeks."

Northern team spokesman was willing to tip his hand regarding his club's strengths and weaknesses. But it is been getting his share of wins and another holdover from the 1974 squad, Dennis Baril has developed into an excellent relief specialist and has the record to prove it.

The Pirate smooth fielding shortstop Brian Hanson is leading the Stale Farm charge. A left-hand swinger, the speed merchant will come through with the bat and beat out infield hits as well.

The Thurlow team is the kind of battler that is never out of it. They come to play. And they get the job done.

When these two teams help get the Golden Bat off the ground at 6 p.m., fans should be in for an excellent contest.

Other 6 p.m. games Friday have Belleville Legion so hooking up with Oshawa Legion at Centennial No. 3, and at Parkdale, Peterborough takes on North York.

Games continue Saturday and Sunday. A full schedule of games will appear later this week in The Intelligencer.

Other teams in the top notch tournament are Scarborough Village, Hamilton Mahoneys, Toronto Legion 32, Waterloo, Guelph, Hamilton Alexander Park, Dorchester and Lasalle.

Billets are still required for some players. City residents able to help out should contact Jean Reid at 968-7446.

Broadloom, Trenton Losers

Oshawa met Belleville Broadloom in Eastern Ontario Baseball Association Pewee play recently, with a tight game played.

Oshawa took the win 8-6, with their two winning runs being scored in the top of the seventh.

Rory McLeod and Glen McQuaid took the loss for Belleville, giving up four runs apiece, while allowing 10 hits, five walks and four strikeouts.

Oshawa used four pitchers, Sam Ashton, John Samanski, Bill Kirkpatrick and Chris Smith shared the pitching duties, combining to give up eight hits, four walks and gain six strikeouts.

Matt Whitley had three singles for Broadloom and Rick Mandeville also singled, but it wasn't enough to give the Belleville team a win.

Brian Legree had a double and a single to lead the visitors.

In EOBA action at Trenton, Sunday, Peterborough Bantam took the measure of Trenton State Farm 7-4.

Peter Walsh, with relief help from Joe Lantic, got the win. Kevin Patrick started for Trenton with Dennis Baril taking over in the third and finishing up.

The winners rattled out 11 base hits with Wayne Wells leading the way with a double and two singles.

Brian Hanson had a home-run and a single for Trenton.

Yardmen Midgets Bow Out

It wasn't the Belleville Yardmen Midgets on Sunday at the Willowdale Lorne Ford Midget Softball Tournament, as they dropped both of their games.

The first game was played against Toronto and the Belleville squad lost 5-3. In the second game Oshawa defeated the Yardmen 6-0 and Belleville was out.

John Dunning and Bill Gaffrey took the loss for the Yardmen, giving up six hits and four walks.

The win went to Bill Forbes, who struck out six and walked four batters.

Brad Rose led the Belleville hitters with a triple and Bill Forbes managed to reach base three times to aid Belleville.

In the second game Oshawa had no trouble with Yardmen, winning 6-0 with the shutout going to Kevin Boyce.

Dan Vance took the loss for Belleville, giving up seven hits and walking one while getting four strikeouts.

Brad Rose had two singles as the only Yardmen threat to Oshawa's shutout.

INCINERATORS BLAMED

The main cause of air pollution in Buenos Aires, Argentina, is apartment-house incinerators, says an environmental agency.

Oshawa Champ

COBOURG (Special) — The Belleville Broadloom Pewee Baseball team showed well in the Kool-Aid Baseball Tournament Saturday coming up with an impressive victory in their first game.

Tony Parks three a two-hitter at Thurlow and defeated them 11-4 in five innings.

Parks had six strikeouts and walked only one batter en route to his easy victory over the Thurlow Pewees.

Charlie Doran had a double and a single on the way to helping his team to the win, while Rory McLeod had two singles.

Belleville then met Oshawa in the second game of the Tournament and were in for a rude awakening, as they were defeated 8-4.

Glenn McQuaid took the loss for Belleville, giving up eight runs on five hits and one walk, while striking out 11, unfortunately he got no defensive help, as the Belleville squad made eight errors.

Matt Whitley had a double and Charlie Doran had a single for the only two Belleville hits.

Oshawa went on to win the title.

Sires Stakes Feature Holiday Card

Tuesday night at the Quinte Exhibition Raceway one of the highlights of the racing season will take place — namely, the Ontario Sires Stakes in the first, fifth and ninth events.

This is the first time the competition has been in Belleville this year and Raceway management expects a banner night for horse racing.

The purse in the fifth race alone is, $3,530.07, more than some horses win in an entire season.

Some of the better horses from all of Ontario will compete for the big money. Among the favorites to win in the fifth are Ruby Palen from Port Elgin, Ontario, which already has $8,114 in winnings for 1975. Also Enjoblow from Woodville and Mary Mo Jay from Smith Falls.

All of these horses are Ontario bred since it is the one of the rules for all entries in the Ontario Sires Stakes.

The first race will also be for $3,530.07, with Armbro Pana of Wheatley the favorite. It has already garnered three wins and $18,339 in 1975.

The third Sires Stakes will be in the ninth. Burnside is the top horse in that one with three wins and $18,346 already won this year.

Belleville Teams Split

In Minor Soccer All-star games held at Zeke's Island on Saturday Mosquito and Peewee teams from the Belleville Olympics and Toronto Spartans put on good shows for a sizeable crowd.

In the Mosquito game the Belleville team came up with a strong display and defeated Toronto 5-1. Jamie Cathcart and Mark Anglin came up with Belleville goals.

In the Peewee game however Toronto was victorious, as a strong squad defeated Belleville 4-1. Carsten Brookens came up with the only Belleville goal.

The Belleville team played well but lacks experience, which they will get more of in Smiths Falls on Saturday, as both All-star clubs hit the road.

Don't just paint your house. Draught-proof it.

Take time to seal off those little cracks and crannies where cold air finds its way into your home. Come winter, you'll enjoy the extra comfort...and you'll be conserving energy, too.

Valuable heat escapes around doors and windows, through narrow gaps where window and door frames are set into the wall, and where glass is loose in the frame. These conditions may account for 25% or more of the heat lost from an otherwise well-insulated home.

The remedies are simple. For doors and windows...well-fitting storms and weather-strip, and fresh putty for loose glass. For the cracks around door and window frames, a caulking gun, and the right caulking compound. Your local hardware store or builders' supply centre will advise you on the best type, and how to use it.

Take these energy-saving measures now.

If we each save a little, we'll all save a lot.

Foote Blast Lifts Expos

By GLENN COLE

MONTREAL CP — Barry Foote's batting average this season is an anemic looking .195 which could mean trouble for Montreal Expos catcher Ian Sutherland against opposition pitchers in baseball's National League.

Early in the season, he wasn't swinging very good, Expos manager Gene Mauch said Sunday. "In the last few days or so, however, he hasn't been very lucky."

Foote, who had six game winning runs batted in last season, got his first of the 1975 schedule Sunday afternoon, cracking a two run homer off John Curtis in a five run rally in the eighth inning that gave Montreal Expos a 7-3 win over St. Louis Cardinals.

Foote's homer, his third of the year, came after Bob Stinson walked and was replaced by Larry Lintz as the baserunner. Following Foote's blast, Tony Oliver, acquired earlier this month from Detroit Tigers of the American League, socked his first home run in a Montreal uniform.

Later in the inning, winning pitcher Steve Rogers collected his second RBI of the game with a single and Tim Foli drove in the fifth run with a bases loaded sacrifice fly.

"I thought I hit the ball well against Gaylord Perry and Steve Foote," said Foote. "But I seemed to be hitting it right at someone.

"When you hit home runs and you win, they're good. When you hit them and you lose, they're no good."

Foote also made a couple of good defensive plays in the game to cut down Cardinals runners.

In the second, he threw to first at one base to nab second baseman Lou Brock and then in the eighth, he caught Bake McBride trying to pilfer second.

"When I'm playing good, I throw pretty good," Foote explained.

Rookie now 25, scattered 10 hits to record his first complete game victory since last Sept. 28 against Philadelphia.

"He was struggling to get his control in the first inning," said Mauch, "once he got it, it started with him."

The Cards, who took three of the first games in the series, jumped to a two run lead in the first.

With one out, Ted Simmons walked and advanced to second on a single by Willie Davis. Reggie Smith's single to right scored Simmons and after Ted Sizemore fanned, McBride's base hit scored Davis.

The Expos closed the gap to 2-1 in the third when Rookie Rogers doubled and scored two outs later on a base hit by Gary Carter. St. Louis came back with a run in the fourth when McBride singled and went to second on an error by Tim Foli. Mangual and scored on Mike Tyson's double to left centre.

Conservative singles by Pete Mackanin, Larry Parrish and Rogers in the bottom of the fourth produced Montreal's second run, but Mangual filed to centre to end the inning.

Curtis was tagged with his seventh loss in 11 decisions for the Cards and his third loss in as many verdicts against Montreal.

Tonight, the Expos are at home to Pittsburgh Pirates while the Cards visit the Phillies in Philadelphia.

Power Failure For Nolan Ryan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Somebody turned the power off Sunday on football pitcher

NOLAN RYAN

Nolan Ryan of California Angels.

"When you have a power pitcher out there without much power, you don't have much going for you," a dejected Ryan said after losing 7-1 to Oakland A's in an American League baseball game.

Slowed by a lingering groin injury that has sidelined him since June 15, Ryan dropped down local as the A's took advantage of the change in pace for their eight straight victory.

"I slowed everything down because I couldn't get down thrust off my right leg," Ryan said after giving up 6 3-3 innings, in which he surrendered nine hits and four runs.

In Sunday's other American League games, Boston Red Sox edged New York Yankees 3-2, Chicago White Sox trimmed Kansas City Royals 3-1, Baltimore Orioles shaded Detroit Tigers 3-1, Milwaukee Brewers nipped Cleveland Indians 4-3, and Texas Rangers downed Minnesota Twins 9-7.

On Saturday, Oakland trounced the Angels 10-4, New York dropped the Red Sox 4-1, Chicago beat the Royals 5-2, Baltimore defeated the Tigers 7-4, Milwaukee outslugged the Indians 10- and Minnesota topped the Rangers 5-3.

After Ryan, 10-7, pitched his way to the top of his profession with a record-matching fourth no-hitter June 1 and a two-hitter in his next outing, he lost three successive games, injuring himself in the last loss almost two weeks ago.

Oakland starter Ken Holtzman, 5-7, and Rollie Fingers collaborated on a two-hitter, the only mistakes being first-inning doubles by Tommy Harper and Lee Stanton.

Clandell Washington drove in four runs for the A's with a sacrifice fly, a two-run single and a run-producing infield out, and Joe Rudi added a two-run triple.

Boston leapfrogged over the Yankees back into first place in the American League East, beating Catfish Hunter on eighth-inning doubles by Bernie Carbo and Rick Burleson.

With one out, Carbo lined a double to right-centre and Burleson chased him home with a ground-rule double down the right-field line, breaking a 2-2 tie and giving Boston three wins in a four-game weekend series with New York.

Chicago's Jim Kaat, rolling along to his 12th victory in 16 decisions, needed seventh-inning relief help and Bill Melton's two-run homer to beat the Royals.

Baltimore's Mike Cuellar, shelled by the Tigers on Thursday night, got his revenge Sunday with a five-hitter. Lee May's run-scoring single in the eighth inning snapped a 1-1 pitching duel between Cuellar, 6-5, and Ray Bare, 3-5.

Bobby Mitchell lofted a sacrifice fly in the ninth inning, sending George Scott home with the winning run in Milwaukee's victory over Cleveland.

Texas sent 13 players to the plate in its fourth inning en route to an eight-run rally, highlighted by Mike Cubbage's three-run homer and Roy Smalley's two-run single.

The Twins cooperated by sending 10 men to the plate in the fourth, scoring seven runs—four on pinch-hitter Tony Oliva's grand-slam homer.

CINCINNATI (CP) — Don Big Daddy Garlits turned in a 6.09 second clocking — 238.72 miles an hour for a quarter mile — in winning the top fuel eliminator title Sunday at the National (Hot Rod Association's world championship points meet. He outdueled Ted Wolfe of Pittsburgh, who posted a 6.23 clocking for a speed of 227.84. Defending top fuel national champion Gary Beck of Bloomington was knocked out of the competition by an engine malfunction.

Perfection the Key to Reds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's getting so you need a memory course to remember when the Cincinnati Reds last made an error, or Los Angeles Dodgers last won a baseball game.

The Reds set a major league record of 14 consecutive error-free games by splitting Sunday's National League doubleheader with San Diego Padres, winning the opener 4-1, then losing 4-3.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers' losing streak reached five games when they dropped the finale of a four-game series to San Francisco 5-2, giving the Giants their first four-game sweep over series since June, 1964.

The setback also pushed Los Angeles seven games behind first-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

In Sunday's other National League games, Pittsburgh Pirates won a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 4-3 and 7-0, Philadelphia Phillies swept New York Mets 2-0 and 4-3 in 12 innings, Montreal Expos beat St. Louis Cardinals 7-3 and Atlanta Braves turned back Houston Astros 5-1.

On Saturday, the Reds downed San Diego 6-4, the Giants edged Los Angeles 3-1, the Cubs stopped Pittsburgh 1-0, the Mets topped Philadelphia 5-2, the Cardinals shaded Montreal 3-2 and the Braves stopped Houston 6-3.

The last Cincinnati error was Johnny Bench's wild throw in Chicago on June 14—16 innings ago. The old mark of 12 errorless games was set by Detroit Tigers of the American League in 1968.

"The defence has made me, said pitcher Jack Billingham, who won his sixth successive game in the opener with lat-out help from Will McEnaney and home runs by George Foster, Joe Morgan and Merv Rettenmund.

JACK BILLINGHAM

The Reds had their six-game winning streak broken in the nightcap when San Diego's Brent Strom scattered seven hits for his third consecutive complete game victory.

Meanwhile, San Francisco's Tom Bradley pitched seven shutout innings for his first victory of the season. He needed relief from Randy Moffitt in the eighth, when Dave Lopes tagged hit a two-run homer.

The Giants also handed Los Angeles' Don Sutton his third loss in a row. Derrel Thomas drove in two runs with a single and homer while Dave Rader and Gary Thomasson had run-scoring singles.

The Pirates won their opener on Al Oliver's two-run homer off Rick Reuschel with two out in the ninth inning. Richie Hebner also homered for the Pirates, his fourth in six games and 16th in June.

Then, Jerry Reuss hurled an eight-hitter and Willie Stargell hit a two-run homer in the nightcap.

Major league home run leader Greg Luzinski hit 19th in the 12th inning for the Phillies' 11th game homer—in his their nightcap for Tug McGraw, one-time Mets relief ace, who also worked three perfect innings to save the opener. Ollie Brown homered for the Phils in the first game while Jay Johnstone connected in the nightcap.

White and Lambke Are in Top Form

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Vet-ans Ontario drivers David White of Brampton, and Paul Lambke of Cambridge, mounted the winner's podium Sunday at Mosport Park after winning their respective sections in the fourth round of the Bahova championships for Formula 100 and 2.5-litre sedans.

It was the second win of the year for the old White, 43, and he traversed the twisting Mosport track in 31 minutes, 18.25 seconds. White drove his Lola smoothly throughout the 20-lap Formula 100 feature, stretching out a three-second lead over the remainder of the field.

"There was no one out on the track who gave me any problems at all," said White, winner of the first Formula 100 race of the 1975 season. "I was extremely pleased with the car, the win can be attributed to excellent preparations by my crew."

Second place was hotly contested by Nigel Gough of Concord, Ont., in a Crusie and Burke Harrison of Scarborough, Ont., in his Dolon. The pair put on a spectacular display of throughout the final with Gough winning the battle for second place.

Lambke piloted his Datsun 510 over the 2.439 miles of Mosport pavement for his second win of the 1975 season in an elapsed time of 33 minutes, 4.16 secs.

Lambke, winner of the 1975 season opener plus five of seven events in 1974, ran second in runner-up Werner Von Engelbrechten of Toronto for 19 laps of the 20-lap feature. Von Engelbrechten experienced clutch problems with his BMW during the final circuit of the race and was forced to give up the lead.

"Von Engelbrechten was weaving around the corner so wide that I had very few opportunities to pass him prior to his clutch giving out," commented Lambke, the 1974 Sedan champion. "The racing today was a final treat, being extremely tight all the way through."

A 52-year-old veteran of sedan racing, Von Engelbrechten narrowly missed in his bid to capture his third consecutive event in the 1975 Bulova series.

Third place went to Toronto's George Comacchio in a Fiat. Peter Clare from Nashville, Ont., drove his Mini Cooper S to a third consecutive C-class sedan victory.

Baker Dominates Motorcycle Event

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Canadian road-racing champion Steve Baker of Bellingham, Wash., dominated motorcycle competition Saturday at Mosport Park, winning the 250 expert, unlimited expert and feature 500 expert motorcycle Grand Prix of Canada.

Baker had few problems during the second day of the Dominion to Independence Day sprints, sweeping three pole positions and breaking his own lap record in the unlimited expert final.

He shaved three-quarters of a second off the record he set earlier this year during the Mosport challenge. Baker's new record stands at 1:32.68.

"The only time I really had to push myself was during the 250 expert feature," said Baker, winner of four races in the 1974 motorcycle Grand Prix of Canada.

The only mishap occurred when Brian Henderson of Dorval, Que., hit the guardrail on one turn during the 250 expert final. He suffered three broken ribs and a broken shoulder.

The Real Tretiak Please Stand Up

DETROIT (AP) — A dashing foreigner with a flare for a beret, flowing cravat and velvet jacket has been having a big time in Detroit recently by posing as Soviet hockey star Vladislav Tretiak.

To the dismay of those who have wined and dined the impostor, the real Tretiak has not been in the country.

The phony has been making many new friends for more than a month with tales of supposed secret negotiations to join Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

A stockbroker said he put the bogus Tretiak up in his suburban Birmingham, Mich., home all last week.

"I hope he isn't a phony," said the man, who asked that his name be withheld. "He's a charming and believable."

He said the house guest supposedly was going to consult with New York Senator Jacob Javits and lawyer F. Lee Bailey about signing with the Wings.

But Javits' staff denied that the senator sponsored Tretiak's immigration and said the goaltender has not been in the United States.

The office of Red Wings general manager Alex Delvecchio said no negotiations have taken place with Tretiak although the Wings did put him on their tentative negotiations last year after his brilliant performance in the Team Canada Soviet series.

To those who contributed toward the gifts, but were unable to attend, please know that I am delighted with the gifts and I'll think of you each time I use them. To those who were there, but thank you all for your generosity — that covers to be interested in the big crest community and wish the shop-ping centre, and wish you their per-sonal best.
Sincerely, Merle Emerson

IN MEMORIAM

PARSONS — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Anne, who passed away June 1st, 1973.
Sadly missed by her son, Jack.
So dearly loved by one and all,
Her memory is as sweet today,
As in the hour she passed away.
Lovely — missed by son Barry, daughter-in-law Donna, and grandson, Jamie and Jeffrey.

ADAMS — In loving memory of a dear friend Edmund Adams, who passed away June 30, 1974.
We think of him in silence,
We miss him more and more,
We can see him in vision,
But still miss him at our door.
His memory we keep.
Lovely remembered by Hilda, Kay, Mack and family.

LATCHFORD — In loving memory of our dear son, Dale, who passed away June 30, 1973.
The years we shared together,
Those memories we hold dear.
The love and happiness you gave us
"Dale,"
Will always keep you near.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.
We miss your smile and your laugh, wish, the grave that holds dear Dale.
We would pray to God with all our hearts,
For those yesterday's with you.
Lovely — Dad, Mom, Sandra.
"Unheard remembered and sadly missed by Mom, Dad, Kary and Cheryl.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuban women have become emancipated faster under Fidel Castro than in any other developing country, but few women are in high places in the Castro government, says Cuba's chief delegate to the women's conference.

"In 16 years everything could not be completely changed," said Vilma Espin, head of the Federation of Cuban Women and Castro's sister-in-law.

Pink Floyd Packs Stadium As Hamilton Folks Protest

HAMILTON (CP) — Despite protests by Hamilton residents, a concert featuring British rock band Pink Floyd saw 50,000 persons pack Ivor Wynne Stadium on Saturday.

And the action did not end with the concert. About 45 minutes after it was finished, an explosion blew out sections out of the scoreboard, broke many windows in the area and sent two electricians to hospital overnight.

Police are investigating.

A police spokesman said that earlier in the week the Hamilton-Wentworth police commission tried unsuccessfully to have the concert moved outside the city and complaints by residents were still coming in after the show was over.

He said the crowd began liking up four hours before the concert started at 8 p.m. and many began drinking early when they learned they would be frisked upon entry.

Once inside, amid the roar of the band's $150,000 sound system, the crowd cheered, one man ran naked around the playing field and 150 persons were treated for drug or alcohol abuse.

Pink Floyd, famous for its use of audio-visual effects, launched a space craft suspended from a wire and projected slides and films on a tilting circular screen 20-feet across.

Robert Martin, Toronto Globe and Mail critic, said the band was not impressive and "the group members projected all the stage presence of mashed potatoes."

Mr. Martin said the band has not changed its style in 10 years and needed the audio-visual gimmicks because "their music has so little to offer."

Outside the stadium, usually the home of the Tiger Cats of the Canadian Football League, area residents kept an uneasy vigil.

Police said there were more than 300 complaints of noise and many protested that concert-goers had sat on their lawns drinking before the gates opened.

Albert Welsh, deputy chief of police, said a dozen arrests were made and he said he was pleased with the way police handled the concert.

Meanwhile, the battle over whether to stage more concerts in the stadium will continue next week.

Alderman Ken Edge said a public meeting will decide, on the basis of this concert, whether an entertaining Bob Hope and Glen Campbell should be presented in August.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, July 1

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your instincts are strong and creative today in dealing with associates, and will be very desirable. Try tact and charm instead.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are likely to have a few more responsibilities today than you can manage. Delegate them to others where possible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The next few days, be particularly careful with your expenses or the budget you've set up may wind up strained.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Early in the day, you'll be in income too easily irritated if things don't go your way. Later, a cohorts beat you talk.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If faced with a problem with no apparent immediate solution, you could get the answer by talking away from it for a while.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make it a point not to impose your friends today and tomorrow, for anything material. It's unlikely your requests will be granted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) In dealing with forceful individuals today, don't reply in kind. Use your head, not heated words.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Not a good day to try to get others to do things you should be doing. You're better off not asking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There could be some complications socially today if you're not selective regarding companions. Be careful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Domestic demands today may be a bit heavier than usual. Try to get other family members to pitch in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your temper is on an extremely short fuse, especially where persons are doing work for you. Don't provoke them unnecessarily.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your budget buttoned down the next few days. Buy only what you need, when you need it.

BRITISH VICTORY

The British navy under Sir Francis Drake destroyed the Spanish Armada off the shores of England in 1588.

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, July 2

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be lucky today with social contacts, but you could generate sparks with a business associate or on the home front.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Ideas others try to impose upon you today aren't necessarily in your best interests. Do things the way you feel they should be done.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Continue to treat your pals with respect today. Stay ahead of your current obligations. Avoid making new ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll fare better in commercial dealings today, if you bar those who have no business being there. Deal only with these involved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Though your motives will be honorable today, one who likes to make problems will try to distort your intent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you want others to share you'll first have to put on the line some of what you're holding back.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You'll be involved in a venture with two friends. Each will pull in a different direction. You may end up with a giraffe, instead of a horse.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If working with unfamiliar materials, be extra-careful. Test your procedures as you go. You could be very wasteful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually you can count on Lady Luck to hail you out of tight spots. Today, she isn't all that reliable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't neglect important home projects. If you invest them under the rug, they'll haunt you later at an embarrassing moment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be sure you're able to back any oral claims today. Someone is waiting to challenge you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll still have to resist temptation to spend frivolously. Pick up that new dress later, at a better bargain.

EXPAND NETWORK

Canada's 19 chartered banks continue to expand their branch network. They now have 6,816 branches in Canada and 300 abroad for a total of 7,119.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Good bidders should overbid when they are trying to score a game or slam. Thus, when your partner bids to game one trick of game you should go on to game with any excuse at all.

Jim: "Looking at in another way, two notrump may be the right stopping place, but it is never a good one. With good breaks you will make three; with bad breaks you may go down at two.

Oswald: "The same thing applies to contracts of three of a major suit or four of a minor. You want to continue on with any excuse at all."

Jim: "Dan followed this principle when he went to three no trump. His reason was that his ten-nine of hearts might just help build up his partner's heart suit."

Oswald: "Three notrump isn't a really sound contract, but after the spade lead South could count on five tricks outside the heart suit.

Jim: "It turned out that his ten-nine of hearts were there to give him four heart tricks in spite of the 4-3 break. The slight pushing bid paid off well.

Hope Candu Leaks Can Be Avoided

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro and Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. (AEC) have developed special equipment for the Bruce nuclear power plant to try to prevent leaks similar to ones which have plagued the nuclear generating station at Pickering, Ont.

A scientific paper by L. J. Ingilsrud, manager of engineering projects at AEC, says that with the equipment—developed at a cost of $250,000—Hydro hopes to save millions of dollars in repair work at the plant 40 miles southwest of Owen Sound.

Mr. Ingilsrud said faulty installation led to excess stress on the tubes which cracked during the cooling period of a shutdown.

More than 65,000 Shriners—Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine—and their families have arrived for a seven-day convention from centres in Canada, the United States, Mexico and the Panama Canal Zone.

Paul Ferguson, 29, who did not start school until he was eight, recently won a first prize for fiction from the United States branch of PEN, an international writers' group.

Only 22 U. S. Officials Still Remain in Laos

VIENTIANE (AP) — Only 22 United States government officials remained in Laos today as Communist-led demonstrators continued to harass Americans and to occupy U.S. facilities.

About 30 embassy staff members were flown out during the weekend after youths and police of the Communist Pathet Lao took over the compound of the U.S. embassy's support facility, which houses American housing units and the U.S. Information Service library and offices.

An embassy spokesman said the Americans were flown to Bangkok, Thailand. He said some would return during the next week and others might or might not come back.

Those who left included 10 marines of the embassy guard, three marine guards and the embassy's military attache, Lt.-Col. Leonard Wood, are the only American military personnel left.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Christian Chapman said he and the state department were waiting to "see what happens in the next few days before taking further action."

The occupation of the compound deprived the embassy of vital maintenance and other support services, and some observers said they thought this might force the embassy to close.

However, the purpose of the latest anti-U.S. moves was not clear. Since taking control over the coalition government in the last two months, the Pathet Lao has pressured the U.S. into terminating its secret aid program and sharply reducing the embassy staff. But, Pathet Lao spokesmen continue to say they want to maintain diplomatic relations with the U.S. and to get economic aid.

Canadians Win $860,000 from Irish Sweeps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians won about $860,000 from Saturday's Irish Sweepstake with Peter Cheng of Vancouver and Sarah Keller, Keith Cain and Terence Sepp, all of Toronto, bidding tickets on Grundy, winner of the derby at Curragh, Ireland.

The tickets were worth about $118,000 each based on the current rates of exchange for prizes of £50,000 for first, £20,000 for second and £10,000 for third.

Three Canadians identified as Roger Bourbonnais, Rosemere, Que., M. Woyatka, Calgary, and Fred Kolin, Toronto, also had tickets worth $47,200 on second-place King Pellinore.

Three others identified as Marie Boudreault, Halifax, John Super, Courtenay, B.C. and Norra W. Berry of Powell River, B.C., all held tickets worth $23,600 on third-place Anne's Pretender.

Mrs. Keller said in an interview she has not made any plans for spending the money but has assured her 18-year-old son he need not worry about financing his way through dental school.

Mr. Cheng, 25, a biologist said even though he sold a half interest in his ticket, he is happy with his $78,000. He won $58,000 from the sweepstakes and was paid $20,000 by the syndicate to which he sold a half interest.

Mr. Sepp, a salesman, was on a business trip to New Brunswick and a member of his family described him as "happy." Mr. Cain could not be reached for comment.

Grundy was the favorite and finished two lengths ahead of Pellinore. Anne's Pretender, a 30-to-1 shot, finished four lengths behind King Pellinore.

Crowd Stabs Sick Baby Whale

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A crowd stabbed a sick baby whale with an umbrella during the weekend and pulled the whale from the water before lifeguards were able to stop them, a lifeguard said. The whale later died.

City lifeguards said the 10-foot-long baby whale was sick and was sighted in shallow water trying to beach itself.
